WEDDINGS

SHEPPARD—HAGERMAN

On Wednesday, April 9th, at pretty, but quiet wedding ceremony took place at 2:30 p.m. in Holloway Street United Church parsonage, when the Reverend S. E. Larman, pastor of the church, united in marriage, Betty Dernier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hagerman, of Campbellford, to Howard Sheppard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sheppard, of Codrington, Ontario.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended attired in an Alice blue suit with navy blue accessories and corsage of red roses. She was attended by Mrs. Bob Sine, of Belleville, aunt of the bride, wearing navy blue with matching accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Bob Sine attended the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard are residing in Codrington.

VELDHORST—VEEN

On Easter Sunday evening, April 13th, at 8:00 p.m., a pretty wedding ceremony, the first to be performed in the new Ebenezer Christian Reformed Church, Trenton, was solemnized by the Rev. C. Witt, when Gertrude Veen, daughter of Mrs. D. Veen, of Leerdam, Holland, became the bride of Henry Veldhorst, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Veldhorst, of Leerman, Holland.

Miss Alida VaderVliet provided the wedding music.

The bride wore a graceful gown of embroidered ivory crepe, (sent from Holland for the occasion), which featured a chapel train. Her veil was held in place by a pleated halo of tulle and she carried a cascade of white and pink carnations.

Following the reception, which was held in the church parlors, the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Veldhorst will reside at Drayton, R.R. 2, Ontario.

B.C.-Styled Casual Fashions Appropriate for Outdoor Life

Vancouver. (CP)—British Columbia's growing garment industry is beginning to rely less on Paris or New York fashion designers and more on homemade patterns.

Some fashion experts here say that B.C. women may not always be as smartly dressed as women in Eastern Canada, but they will be casual—appropriate to the province's outdoor life.

B.C. women apparently believe that California styles are suitable for them and the province's garment industry does adopt and produce many of California's younger designs. New York and Paris designs are "toned down to fit the pace."

Thought eastern manufacturers cater to this trend, B.C.'s own industry is specializing in the kind of clothing west coast women want.

Expansion of B.C.'s clothing industry is shown by the latest government statistics, which list 68 active factories in 1949 compared to 36 in 1945.

A total of 2,417,409 in salaries was paid out to 1,371 employees in 1949 compared to $1,118,672 to 900 employees in 1946. Gross value of production rose from $3,799,504 to $8,373,781 in the same period.

B.C. manufacturers were encouraged by local buyers who began placing orders at home before going to eastern markets.

Eastern Business Up

Officials of the Vancouver Board of Trade report that west-coast garment makers are also increasing their business in the east.

Most original of all B.C. fashion products is the Cowichan sweater and cap sets made by Indians on Vancouver Island. Fashion experts say these hard-carded, hand-knit wools are perhaps better known than any other Canadian-made clothing product.

Another Vancouver Island fashion industry is operated by a company which produces hand-loomed woollen fabrics from raw yarns imported from Scotland.

American wool-hunting tourists have bought these fabrics since 1933. They now are made into suits and coats at the mill and are sold in B.C. cities and down the coast as far as San Francisco.

One of the biggest success stories in Canadian fashions began here 16 years ago. A young housewife, Rose Marie Reid, started making a new kind of custom bathing suit on a small manual sewing machine in her kitchen. After swimmers at a local pool began buying them, stores asked for them, too. Today there is a factory here, another in Los Angeles.

There are about a dozen more of these success stories in B.C.'s garment industry. Together, they add up to grudging recognition of B.C as one of the fashion centres of Canada.

Miss S. Hinman Tells of Baptist Work in India

The Vota-Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist church were recent hostesses to the senior circle and the B.Y.P.U.

Miss Margaret Hagerman, the president, opened the meeting, which was held in the church auditorium. The vice-president, Mrs. Helen Faires, read the 23th chapter of the gospel of St. Matthew.

Margaret then welcomed both the guests and the special entertainers. A lovely piano solo, variations of "Love to Tell the Story", was skillfully and beautifully played by Mrs. Kay Hamilton.

After the offering was received Miss Helen Cook, guest soloist, for the evening, sang, "The Lord is My Shepherd". Everyone joined in the singing of "Fling Out the Banner."

Shows Idols

Miss Hinman had brought some idols with her, which are used in India by the non-Christians. To the delight of all she sang a little hymn in the Telegu language, and told that there are 137,000 members of Baptist churches resulting from the Canadian Baptist work in India. Many interesting items pertaining to casts and cults were expounded also. The closing thought that Miss Hinman left was if one invests in missions, good interest will be obtained.

After the singing of "In Christ There is No East or West", those present gathered downstairs, in a gayly decorated room, for refreshments.

The monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. was held recently in the Officers' Mess in the Armouries, with the Regent, Mrs. E. S. Fairman, presiding.

Following the singing of God Save to the Queen, plans were made for two delegates to attend the provincial convention, and also for a fall tea.

Mrs. Vaughan invited the members to her home for a pot luck luncheon for the next meeting.

After the regular business had been completed, tea was served by Mrs. A. Cockburn.

Officers Elected

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: honorary regent, Mrs. P. H. Willis; honorary vice-regent, Mrs. G. W. MacGregor; regent, Mrs. E. S. Fairman; vice-regent, Mrs. F. Symons; secretary, Mrs. Wetrmier; assistant secretary, Mrs. N. Nicholson; treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Bird; assistant treasurer, Mrs. G. Milner; standard bearer, Mrs. H. Vaughan; flower convener, Mrs. A. Wilbur and Mrs. Fred Lazier.

Civil Defence Subject Of Talk to Auxiliary

The monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held at the nurses' residence on Tuesday, with Mrs. Buchan as chairman. The treasurer's report showed the fashion show this year was a financial success. A committee was formed to take charge of the activities in connection with National Hospital Day (in remembrance of Florence Nightingale) May 12th.

The guest speaker was Mr. George Wilman, deputy co-ordinator of Civil Defence for Belleville, who spoke on civil defence. He was introduced by Miss Potts, director of Nursing. Mr. Whitman dealt in an interesting and capable way with the many aspects of civil defence. He told of some of the steps the government had taken to further this program and also pointed out that the organization and training is as valuable in peace time emergencies as it would be should the country be attacked.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Buchan.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

St. Andrew's W.M.S., met for its Easter thank-offering on Tuesday afternoon. A most interesting meeting was arranged.

Several C.G.I.T. girls were in attendance and afterwards, in an impressive ceremony, were affiliated with the W.M.S.

After the business session, Mrs. Lumsden read a missionary letter from Formosa from Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. V. Weir took charge of the devotions and Beverley Downey gave a short reading. A "movie" was shown.

A mistake had been made and instead of "British Guiana", a film of "Panama", was sent. However, everyone enjoyed the trip to Panama. Albert Lennox and Paul Watson made good operators.

An accordion selection was given by Patsy Lock. A map of British Guiana which the C.G.I.T. girls had made, was shown working the missionary stations.

Mrs. Milton Shaw, who is the girls' work secretary, of Kingston Presbytery, took charge of this service and declared the girls to be affiliated with the W.M.S. She also addressed the girls.

Badges are to be presented at a later date. Mrs. Weir closed in prayer. The girls affiliated were Beverley Downey, Patsy Lock, Peggy Parks, Joan Parks, Nan Elvins, and Barbara Main.

The girls graciously served tea. The meeting was declared quite a highlight of the year by all.

Kinette Club Holds Little Fashion Show

The Kinette Club of Belleville held its monthly meeting Monday at St. Thomas' Parish House. Sergeant-at-arms was Margaret Bridge and the song leader, Molly Cushman.

Mr. George Zarfas, who assisted as song leader, also rendered a solo in his own inimitable style. Later, he gave the Kinettes a pep talk on the forthcoming Kinamen, "Hello Showplace", and asked for the support of one and all.

The president of the Trenton Kinette Club introduced some members of her club, who were guests for the evening. Also present was Kinsman Frank Laing, who is on the ticket committee of the coming show.

A lovely handbag was donated to the club and won, during the course of the evening, by Kinette, Ethel Knott. Rhea Holway was also presented with a lovely red rose, as she achieved the distinction of becoming the first grandmother of the club.

June Blood Clinic

There is another Blood Clinic in June and the Kinettes were asked for their continued support in this worthy endeavor.

At the end of the meeting, the entertainment committee under Kinette Eva Vanover and Helen Wilbur, presented a number of the Kinettes in a fashion show, wedding and all and it was most enthusiastically received.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

His girl's the "dog in the manger" type

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a girl with whom I once went steady and who used to be as fond of me as I was of her. She's five years younger than I. About five months ago she asked for her freedom so she could go with another boy, and in that time she has gone with eight different fellows.

I started dating myself then, but it seems that I cannot go with another girl without this first girl finding it out and managing in some way to break it up. Yet when I try to make up with her she shows no interest in me whatever.

I have tried to go with three different girls, and in every case this other one has succeeded in breaking us up. I would still marry my first girl if I had the chance, but since she chose to break off with me I swallowed my pride, smiled and started trying to forget her, only she won't let me.

What am I to do?—K. B.

Dear B.B.:

Your girl, of course, is what is known as the "dog in the manger" type. That is, she apparently doesn't want you herself, yet she doesn't want any other girl to have you, either.

Why do you stand for such nonsense? The reason you stand for it, no doubt, is because you're still really in love with this girl and you don't want to take any steps that you think might put her out of your good. You'd rather "swallow your pride, smile," submit to her jealousy and allow her satisfaction of showing how much power she still has over you, in the hope that such an attitude will eventually soften her up and bring her back. Isn't that about it, when you really face the thing honestly?

But you still want a girl so fickle that she goes out with eight men in five months, that's your headache, and if you succeed in getting her it's likely to be a continuous headache. You won't get her by letting her keep on making monkey of you, though. Your only chance, as I see it, is to assert yourself and use a little "caveman" stuff on her. Approach her. Instead of standing off at the side and letting other kick you around, march right up to her and tell her you'll give her the choice of coming back to you and staying with you or letting you alone. If you take a stand like this, it may give her some respect for you, which she evidently doesn't have for you at the whole middle right now. In any event, it would give you the satisfaction of having done for you, and they might not allow her to break up their friendships with you.

"I'm sorry; I have to baby-sit again"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My problem is different from any of the others I have read about in your column. It is that most of the time when a boy asks me to go out in the evening I have to say "No, I'm sorry, I have to baby-sit for my sister again."

My friends and I have talked to my parents about this but it doesn't do any good. They insist that if the occasion happen to pop out that same night, I must stay with my sister. They will not even get a friend or someone else to baby-sit.

Now when I'm asked out, the one who asks me always says: "Can you go, or do you have to sit again?"

How can I convince my parents that it would be better to get a sitter, or shouldn't I even try? —T.

Dear T.:

It does seem to me rather unreasonable for your parents not to be willing to hire a baby-sitter now and then, unless they feel unable to afford this. Do you think this could be the reason?

If you have any idea this might be so, why don't you try the scheme of earning a few dollars yourself, perhaps by baby-sitting for others occasionally, and then sometime when you specially want to make a date for some evening when your parents are going out, too, ask them if they would let you pay for a sitter.

If this didn't work, perhaps your parents would be willing to let you have some of your friends come to the house on dates when you have to stay home with your sister. Certainly they can't mean to keep you away from your friends entirely.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

Please print in your very interesting column tasty Fruit Salad dressing. How to go about making fruit salads. . . am so anxious to get ice-box cookie you printed . . . one of your readers referred to it as one of your delicious recipes in the $100 group. Thanks.— (No name.)

ANSWER:

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING NO. 1

In top of double boiler mix 3 tablespoons sugar and 2 tablespoons flour, and beat into them 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons vinegar, juice and grated rind from 1 large lemon and 1 cup juice from canned pineapple. Cook and stir over gently boiling water until thick. Chill. Just before serving fold in 1 cup heavy cream whipped. Another variation is to add also 1-2 cup chopped marshmallows and 1-3 cup shredded blanched almonds.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING NO. 2

In top of double boiler mix 1-3 cup orange juice, 1 to 2 tablespoons lemon juice, then beat in 1 egg and 1 cup sugar. Cook over boiling water until thick. Cool and fold into it 1 cup heavy cream whipped and a shake of salt.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR FRUIT SALADS

Of course there are "fruit salad" mixtures but these are too moist for fruit salads on lettuce.

As a rule serve fruits in separate groups—they are more palatable than when mixed and much more attractive. You will usually have a citrus fruit in a fruit salad and the juice from this should be used to prevent and cover cut surface of apples or banana to prevent them from turning. Choose your fruit combinations for their color and flavor contrast.

FRUIT SALAD SUGGESTIONS

1. Drained canned pineapple ring on well-cupped leaf lettuce, top this with two each sections of orange and grapefruit. In centre place cheese-stuffed cherry or prune or fig. Flank these with lengthwise quarters of banana dipped in mayonnaise then in chopped walnuts.

2. Centre a lettuce-covered salad plate with choice Bing cherries, or fresh strawberries; surround with slices from honeydew melon radiating like flower petals. When available balls of watermelon makes a pretty border at outside edge. Serve with French Dressing.

$100 COOKIES (Icebox Cookies)

One cup shortening (butter, margarine or best quality regular shortening), 1 cup white sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons cream of tartar, 3-4 teaspoon soda, 3-4 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream the shortening and cream the sugar into it then beat in the egg and vanilla. Stir in remaining ingredients. Make into 2 rolls 2 inches in diameter, and roll these in chopped walnuts (it takes about 1 cup); roll up in wax paper and chill. When needed slice thin and bake in hot oven at 350 degrees Fahr. about 12 minutes.

Fashion Flashes

AN IMPORTANT twosome for Spring is the petticoat with its own camisole, no matter if the petticoat be slim or very full. Silk crepe, trimmed with ecru, hand-run Alencon-type lace, is used for a slim petticoat with a reclosed slit at the hem. With it is a camisole made entirely of the ecru lace.

CABANA or at-home lounging —either would be right for a one-piece lounging pajama of white terry cloth, with lime, turquoise or coral polka dot trim at the mandarin collar, cuffs on the short sleeves, and the sash tie. Fly front opening and long, tapered legs.

A FRESH APPROACH marks the new season's fashions, making them the best in many a year. A handsome cape coat for town wear is of checked wool—in navy, sea blue and lavender. Cuffed sleeves are cut to fall from the elbow. The back is very full and flared and there is a high-buttoned collar.

PIN MONEY suedes will be found in this Spring—youthful little coats of suede, many of them with a wafer-repellent finish .A neat number is a Spencer jacket with rounded shoulders and sleeves in a modified raglan effect. Neat with tweed skirts for town or country.

GETTING THE APPLAUSE in every show we have attended, was the big hat. But whether used or not for them to any extent remains to be seen. Pale pink straw makes a wagon wheel affair with undulating brim held away from the crown by organdy-flowers edge the crown above and covered spokes and insects. Pink under the brim.

IN DEMAND already is the bag of black patent leather. Patent appears in all types of bags, and in the summer bags gets a bit of contrast detail. Black patent is used for a pouch bag with a top handle trimmed with calf piping and stitching, as well as a triangular closing tab of white calf.

EDIBLE CASSINGS

Oslo — (CP) — A new type of sausage casing made from Norwegian seaweed will be produced in a new factory in Germany. Result of two years of experiments, the new sausage-rkin is edible and much lighter than cellophane.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Seating the bride's table, and the parents' table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance is a corporal in the Air Force, and we are to have a formal wedding next month. Is it correct for the bride and groom there will be 14 members in the wedding party. My problems concerns the seating-arrangements of the head table. Don't the mothers usually sit there? If not, where? If I were to have the entire wedding party of 14, plus both mothers and both fathers, and two priests, that would make 20. Would this be too many at the head table? There are three grandmothers we would also like to honor by special seating. Also the groom's young brother is the only member of both families who will not be a member of the wedding party, and I would like to know where he should be seated. Please give us your suggestions about this. —Miss Jean M. F. D.

Taking a gift, and thanking for a gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it customary to take a gift for a home warming to the housewarming . . it is not even especially customary. It depends, as does any present at any time, on one's preference and inclination.

2. It isn't "strictly necessary" to write a thank-you note after you have expressed thanks for the present that was handed to you. . .but it is just one of those

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

The eyes have it!

Beautiful eyes remain beautiful all through life. Faces and figures may change, especially when a woman is edging along toward her fifties; Time's fingers may frosts the hair, etch tiny creases in the complexion, make the waistline do a disappearing act; but as far as her eyes are concerned, a woman has her fingers crossed.

Beautiful eyes remain beautiful all through life.

The eyes alone can make a woman lovely and attractive. If other features do not strictly qualify, it doesn't matter. Smiling, friendly eyes stir your emotions. You will remember them because they are expressive and impressive.

Take good care of these vital assets. They are wonderful mechanisms that operate little more other than consideration for their long working hours. They are on the job every waking minute. You should bathe them twice a day, first with warm water, then with cold—a practice that will prove refreshing and revitalizing. The morning facing is especially important to remove secretions that may have appeared during sleep.

Keep an eye lotion at hand. Your druggist will supply you with a reliable product. Use it when your eyes are tired, or when the day has been dusty. If the lids are inflamed, seek professional attention. The presence of pus is a danger signal.

The majority of women in their forties are in need of glasses. The sensible ones have an examination as soon as they realize that vision has weakened. They put on specs without grumbling or lamenting. Others postpone the day, because of vanity. Besides poor eyesight they will then have other troubles—lurkeyr tracks, caused by the squinting habit they will assume; nearsightedness, possibly headaches, and exposure to all kinds of accidents. It is crazy!

No doubt you have heard a lot about eye exercises. Perhaps your next door neighbor puts hers through a routine at breakfast. Medical men have a lot to say on that subject. Eye exercises are recommended only under certain circumstances, and then they should be done under the supervision of a specialist, one of whom tells your reporter that most eyes need less work and more rest. Sounds sensible.

The eye is like a gem, glorified by its setting. The surrounding flesh should be firm and smooth. A woman cannot start too soon to make an effort to avoid the wrinkles that may come from poor eating habits, loss of sleep, worry or a sour disposition. A heavy cream should be applied every night to clear skin surface, and the flesh about the eyes should be tapped lightly.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

The Jews Had A Secret

By ROY L. SMITH

Antiquity never produced another race like the Hebrews—not in any line or on a moral level other people ever attained. The spirit of democracy, the ideals of world peace, in spite of their numerical inferiority they managed to endure every pressure laid upon them to more than survive—they multiplied. And in the end they have influenced civilization more profoundly than any nation the world has thus far produced.

The Law of Moses

When Moses managed to get the Hebrews out of Egypt they were as ignorant a horde as could have been assembled anywhere in that ancient world. To the great lawgiver must go the exclusive credit for molding them into a strong and disciplined body of people in the short space of 40 years. There were few who could give him any help and no one who could relieve him. He built the life of the people about 10 simple laws which have come down to us as the Ten Commandments. Most of them were observed, in a degree, by other ancients but no other nation of the time had such a code—so comprehensive, so moral, and so enlightened. There is nothing in that ancient world to explain them; they were most certainly an inspired revelation.

The Law Grew

Almost from the first day Moses found himself under the necessity of interpreting these simple laws. Terms had to be defined. As new situations arose the law had to be adjusted to the new conditions. The law had to be kept abreast of life.

Following Moses' death the law had to undergo numerous revisions, to serve the changed conditions. In the desert no man owned land and the command "thou shalt not covet" did not mention any fields. In the Land of Promise, in the United States, where men owned land, the word "field" had to be added to the list of those things not to be coveted. The code in Deuteronomy, as contrasted with the one in Exodus, Numbers, Leviticus, Levitical precepts—all had a part in enlarging and adapting "the Law."

The Exile Traumatic Much

When the little nation was led off into Babylonian Exile a difficult problem arose. "Why has the nation been deserted by God?" the people asked, and the priests and scribes had to answer.

Driven back upon their ancient writings, laws, and prophetic messages, they became convinced that sin was responsible for all their woes. Therefore, they had to devise a code of law which—if fully observed—would restore them as a nation to their ancestral lands.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 20: "Jesus and the Law," Mark 5:17-20; Mark 10:17-22; Luke 16:16-17; John 1:17.

The great "Book of the Law" (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy) were the result, being the product of the best scholarship the exiled people could produce.

The Law Included Everything

In the Exile the Jews became convinced that there was a right way to do everything and also a wrong way. They did not settle on broad principles. Every situation was an isolated case, and the "right" way had to be described.

The result was tens of thousands of precise regulations designed to govern every action and decision.

And strange to say, this vast and cumbersome body of law produced the moral, the most spiritually enlightened, and the most unique people of ancient times.

The secret was in their law. It was something too precious to be cast easily aside.

Army Lifts Ban On Restaurants In Barrie Area

Barrie, Ont., April 18 — (CP)— Army officials at Camp Borden Thursday lifted a ban which placed all eating and beverage rooms here and in several nearby towns out of bounds to army personnel.

The ban was imposed Wednesday after a case of typhoid was reported at the camp. However, Maj. William Leitch said after a conference with Simcoe county medical officers Thursday that it was "deemed unnecessary to extend the ban."

Theatres were not included in the order which affects Barrie, Collingwood, Midland, Orillia and Penetanguishene.

One officer from the camp has typhoid and now is in isolation in Toronto General. The wife of another soldier is under observation here.

It also was reported that no meat or vegetables were being sold in Camp Borden.

Meanwhile, all army men must have typhoid inoculations before leaving the camp area.

MADOC

Local Clergy Preside at Opening Of St. John's New Parish Hall

Madoc—Tuesday of this week was a big day in the life of the parish of St. John, Madoc.

It was the day of the official opening of the new Parish Hall. It was also the occasion of their first venture for many years in putting on a parish dinner. Almost 200 sat down to dinner following the hall opening.

A Great Day

Preceding the opening which was conducted by Venerable Archdeacon Arthur Smith, of Belleville, the rector, Rev. T. H. Good extended a hearty welcome to the Archdeacon, to the Rural Dean, Rev. A. S. McConnell, Trenton, to the visiting clergy and others present.

Mr. Good said that the parish was proud of their new hall and that this was really a great day for him and for his people. He said everyone was so pleased to have the Archdeacon with them, and that personally he himself was extremely pleased as the Archdeacon has been to him a good counsellor in the past, especially when he was new in the diocese and country.

Mr. Good then invited the Rural Dean to take charge of the meeting. Mr. McConnell accepting, said he did so with the greatest pleasure because he was proud of the progress that this parish of St. John was making and hoped that it would continue to go from strength to strength in the years ahead.

Welcomes Visiting Clergy

The town reeve Mr. Jack Kincaid, on behalf of the citizens, extended to the Archdeacon and visiting clergy a hearty welcome to the town.

He stated that he was indeed glad to see the vigorous part that the activity of the church of St. John in Madoc, there could be no doubt about the swing of its influence on the community. He knew that for a longtime the parish needed a hall and now that they achieved their ambition he wished the parishioners much joy and blessing in the years ahead.

In declaring the hall open, Archdeacon Smith said it gave him the greatest pleasure to come to Madoc and perform this ceremony. He complimented Mr. Good on his leadership in the parish and the people on their loyalty to their rector. He said those in other parts of the diocese watched with much satisfaction the great work that was being done in and by St. John's Church in Madoc.

Appreciation Tendered

A vote of thanks to the Archdeacon was proposed and supported by Messrs E. M. Naylor, Harry Tufts and Joe Miles.

This Wednesday evening about 50 young people of the parish are celebrating the opening of their hall by another supper.

Star of Show, Gov. Stevenson Will Not Run

New York, April 18 (AP)—Democrats trotted out their presidential aspirants at a $100-a-plate dinner last night and found the star of their show was a man who said he couldn't take the nomination — Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

This left New York organization leaders in a political swivel. They called county chairmen together today for a meeting designed to endorse W. Averell Harriman as the state's favorite son.

The expected Harriman endorsement would make the mutual security administrator a holding candidate who would keep New York's 94-vote convention delegation intact for the July Chicago convention.

Beyond that, there was little expectation that the 60-year-old scion of a wealthy railroad family would go anywhere on a national scale.

Confusion into which the party had been plunged by President Truman's announcement he would not seek renomination nor accept a draft may have emphasized the finesse with which Stevenson gave it. The Democrats a chuckling— but probably final—turndown.

In contrast with the unsuccessful attempts of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee to arouse the party faithful, Stevenson had the banqueters holding their sides from the moment he began by saying he was making a fraudulent appearance, since he was running only for Governor of Illinois, and not for president.

Barkley Dark Horse

Vice-president Alben Barkley, the 74-year-old youngster of the party, appears to be the chief dark horse candidate in a campaign where there now is no dominant personality in pre-convention speculation.

Harriman, for whom the dinner was held, fared off on the Republicans with the charge that if "the voices of hesitation prevail, they will undermine what we have built and destroy the leadership of the United States."

This was a good Democratic doctrine, but the faithful came to hear a new post-Truman political message and seemed not to find him.

The upshot was talk — though mostly in whispers—that the president would be drafted to run again, even though he says he won't respond to such a move. As some Democrats put it, "why don't we just nominate him and then see what happens."

Kefauver, the top man in the number of delegates pledged thus far and winner in five primaries, seemed somewhat unimpressive in a speech he read haltingly.

Niagara Falls Favored to Win Cage Tourney

Kingston, April 18 — (CP) — Campbellford Collegiate and Regiopolis College of Kingston were the two latest schools to bow out of the Queen's Easter invitation basketball tournament.

Copper Cliff gained the finals of "C" section by downing Port Hope 39-26. In the second game of evening play, Linwell dropped Ottawa Nepean into the consolation series with a 44-32 win in "B" section.

Further games will be played in the consolation series today for the right to meet Copper Cliff, Linwell and Niagara Falls in their respective sections.

Players Fined Under New Rule

Chicago, April 18 — (AP) — Seven members of the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians yesterday drew automatic fines of $5 each invoked by Umpire Bill Summers for fraternizing.

None of the players was identified. Summers said the incidents took place before yesterday's game at Comiskey Park. He said the action was taken under the new rule set up by the American League this year which President Will Harridge has ordered to be enforced.

Farmers Asking $5.75 for Bag Blezard Potatoes

Sudbury, April 18 (CP)— Farmers at city market here are asking $5.75 for a 75 pound bag of Blezard Valley potatoes, the highest price level for district potatoes in recent years.

Exceptionally rainy weather last fall during the harvest resulted in thousands of bags of potatoes being left in the ground.

At the co-operative potato grading station at Hanmer, in the valley, the retail price was $3.50 for 50-pound bags and 70 cents for 10 pounds. Officials at the potato grading station said current potato prices are the highest they can remember since 1917 when 90 pound bags sold for $7.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

IT WON'T BE LONG . . .!

There is a strong possibility that a junior softball team will operate in this city this season. Reports state the beardless buckaroos of the smaller diamond will wear the colors of the Glen Roy Creamery under the sponsorship of the ever-present-in-sports Alderman Don McNevin.

Further, it is stated, the team will have a nucleus of pitchers, Bobby Hunter and Bobby Green with Lisle Wannamaker and Peter Green chucked in for good measure aided and abetted by other promising youngsters.

The junior squad will be the first to represent the city since a team of that classification won the Ontario title from a Hamilton club in two straight games a few years ago. The Hamilton manager and several players were suspended by the OASA a few weeks after the season ended for using a player under an assumed name. Not that it made any difference to the Belleville championship, but it cleared up something of a feudal nature that existed between rival softball organizations in the Ambitious City at the time.

The Belleville Softball Association (the boys should use that term, and drop "Intermercial League" since it has taken junior and minor softball under its wing) appears to be headed for another successful season. Not so extensive perhaps but it will be a more compact affair which should be better for all concerned.

Talking with association officials the other day we learned that two or three entries in the Intermediate "A" section are assured. The CNRAA will enter one "A" squad and one Intermediate "AA" squad. The Belleville Motor Car, last-year's "AA" champions have entered. The teams will play an interlocking schedule and play is expected to start on or about May 24th.

Secretary Cy Barriage states that a meeting of the league executive will be called in the near future at which entries and other necessary pre-season wrinkles will be ironed out.

This city was singularly honored at the recent Ontario Amateur Softball Association banquet held in London when Harry Knott, a softball stalwart of the old days, was appointed to the association executive by President Doug Smith. The honor is the greater as this year is only the second season of affiliation with the OASA since the city dropped out of the game several years ago. Knott has had years of experience in softball and its administration, and the OASA couldn't have selected a better man to handle its affairs in this neck of the woods.

Knott with President Don Lee, Secretary Cy Barriage and Alderman Harry Rollins represented the city's softball interests at the OASA conclave, and returned well-pleased with the reception accorded them and of the convention in general.

It appears the OASA took a leaf from the baseball book (Hope Doug Campbell is listening) and gave the boys permission to wear gloves, since it seems softball "aint softball any more" as far as the name describes the ball. However, it is pointed out that sponsors of softball teams will not be asked to supply the gloves since the use is optional.

The powers-that-be also endorsed a smaller ball for the use of bantam and peewee teams. The reason for the change is to give the kids "a chance to get their hands on the ball. It shall be not less than ten, seven-eighths inches nor more than eleven, one-eighth inches in circumference."

"The present ball is much too big for bantams and peewees," on prominent Toronto OASA official said. "The smaller ball will tend to speed the game because the batter will be able to hold the ball and high-scoring games which are so prevalent will be cut down."

Another OASA move was the creation of a "D" class for communities of 500 population and under. The city association here will study possibilities of organizing softball in a number of outlying places that come under this classification.

Another feather in Belleville's softball cap was planted when the OASA paid tribute to the fine work being done in minor ranks by Fire Chief Gerald Vance and his merry men. In fact, limitation being the sincerest form of flattery, the Belleville delegation more or less tossed out its collective chest when a delegate from the western part of the province said the fire department in his town was emulating the efforts of the Belleville smoke-eaters.

Speaking of minor softball, association officials expressed the hope that the service club and other sponsors of teams of last year will again "take over". Their efforts in 1951 were greatly appreciated and it is hoped they will be on hand again this season.

Getting back to the proposed junior team for the moment, it is said that Bill Spafford, infield star of last year's Glen Roys squad, will handle the coaching duties. Bill, also a sixnotch baseball coach, was injured during a game last year, and forced out of action. Jim Ethier, it is understood will coach one of the C. N. R. R. A. teams.

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"There's only one place to finish and that's first."

Rogers Hornsby committed this sage comment before the season opened. His precocious St. Louis Browns act like he meant it. Running neck and neck with Cleveland for the American League lead, they sound like the big noise of the early season.

The long-abused Brownie fans float in a purple haze of contentment after three straight wins.

Let Cleveland and Brooklyn, the pre-season favorites, terrify the opposition with 17-hit lingo. The spunky little Brownies make five hits do the same work.

First Ned Garver, then Tommy Byrne. And now Bob Cain, going the route against Detroit for a club that got only one complete game in three full innings last season.

Cain, acquired from Detroit in a spring trade, rubbed it in yesterday by whipping his old Tiger mates, 3-1. He allowed nine hits but most were harmless singles. His mates gave Hal Newhouser's comeback hopes. Prince Hal, making his first start since last July 31, spoiled an efficient job by throwing home run balls to Lee Mice and Bob Nieman in the last two innings.

Tribe Wins

Cleveland wasted many of its 17 hits in running over Chicago for a third straight triumph, 5-3. Despite the heavy barrage that included a 425-foot homer by Luke Easter in the fifth, the Tribe gave Mike Garcia only a one-run lead going to the ninth.

Bobby Shantz, smallest pitcher in the league, beat the world champion New York Yankees with his left arm and bat to give Philadelphia a 9-1 decision over Eddie Lopat. The five-foot-six pitcher scattered nine hits and gave his team the lead run with a leaping single in the fourth, breaking a 1-1 tie. The Boston "rookie" Sox turned the heat on Washington for a 9-2 romp with freshman Ray Thornberry hitting a bases-loaded home run off Don Johnson in the six-run sixth.

Furillo had four singles, Andy Pafko a homer and double and Robinson three singles a walk and one hit by pitcher. No wonder Johnny Schmitz who used to be easy for the Braves had an 8-2 victory.

Conde Ryan, an ex-Giant and mostly-used relief pitcher, slashed a two run homer in the 11th inning to give his new Philadelphia Phillies a 5-3 victory over New York Giants.

St. Louis was dumped from the unbeaten class by Pittsburgh's rookie-studded Pirates 5-3. Three Cardinal errors and Peanuts Lowrey's bases-loaded triple ruined a promising rally helped Jetty Joe Muir register his first big league win. Ralph Kiner had three of the six Pirate hits.

Kenny Raffensberger, who always fared Chicago as easy marks, shut out the Cubs with five hits for Cincinnati's 3-0 edge. Raffy's life-time record against the Cubs now 12-9. Grady Hatton and Bobby Adams hit home runs off loser Bob Kelly.

Regina Swamps Fort William By 6-1 Score

Regina, April 18 (CP) —Regina Pats, favored at 3 to 1, broke the series have justified the faith of their backers by going ahead for the first time in the best-of-seven Western Canada Memorial Cup hockey final.

Sparked by Gordon Cowan and Eddie Litzenberger, the Pats last night waltzed to a 6-1 victory over Fort William Hurricanes to take a 3-2 lead in games.

Pats twice came from behind to take the series lead after going out in front. They won the middle game of three played in Fort William, then won the fourth played in Regina. The sixth will be played on here tomorrow.

Last night's game was a close tussle for two periods before Pats broke loose for a trio of third period goals.

Litzenberger scored the only goal of the first period with only 37 seconds left to play. It was Pats' 20th shot on goal in the period. They had forced the play in the Hurricanes' defensive zone throughout.

Then Eddie Kachur tied it up for Hurricanes halfway through the second period with two Pats in the penalty box. He broke through the middle and slid the puck under Bob Tyler.

About five minutes later, Litzenberger came up with the winning goal when he grabbed a rebound by Johnny Reeve and fired home a low shot. Cowan took Litzenberger's smart relay near the end of the period, then held back his shot momentarily and beat Gathercum in the Hurricane net.

C.N.R. Bowlers Hold Enjoyable Annual Banquet

The Canadian National Railway Night Bowling League tucked away another highly successful bowling season on Wednesday night.

And they tucked away something with it. That was a delicious dinner served by the ladies of the CNRAA Ladies' Auxiliary under the supervision of Mrs. Graydon Rogers, its president.

Highlight of the enjoyable banquet was the presentation of the McMillan trophy to the league champion Stores team. The presentation was made by Mr. A. R. Wilson, superintendent, Belleville Division to Harry Ridley of the Combines team, who accepted it on behalf of the winners.

Individual prizes went to Jack Fitzgerald, high average; George Hallis, high triple and Sam Halbert, high single.

Brief congratulatory remarks were made by Mr. Wilson, C. E. Shaver, assistant superintendent of the division, Jim White, locomotive foreman, and Bill Bateman, secretary of the Bowl-O-Drome Alleys.

Answering a vote of thanks, Mrs. Rogers said it was a pleasure to be able to cater to such a large crowd. Nearly seventy bowlers were in attendance.

At the election of officers Harry Robinson was named league president for the coming year; vice president, C. J. Alexander, treasurer, Ken. Thompson and secretary Cy Young.

Guelph Can Wrap It Up With Win Tonight

Toronto, April 18 (CP) —Guelph Biltmores and Montreal Junior Canadiens meet at Maple Leaf Gardens tonight for the sixth game of their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals and judging by the ticket rush it might be a Stanley Cup final.

Leading the series 3-2, Guelph can wrap it up tonight with a victory over the Habs. If the Montrealers win, the clubs return to Toronto Ice for the seven game.

With Guelph holding a 3-1 series lead, Canadiens came through with a 1-0 win Tuesday at Montreal to take a new lease on life. The victory reminded many of the Hab fans that their team had emerged from just such a series with Guelph two years ago, going on to win the Memorial Cup.

Canadiens coach Sammy Pollock admitted last night that the Guelph defence is stronger than his but thought the goaltending would decide it from here on in.

Alfie Pike, coach of the Guelph crew, is confident his club can win tonight. He is already planning the venue of games in the cup finals and asking that at least two of them be played at Guelph.

Now Begorra, It Can be Told; Even Top Golfers 'Crib' a Little

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, April 17. (AP)— Many a seven-put golfer must have cribbed a few strokes, it's disclosed that two such top professional golfers as Sammy Snead and Art Wall had their problems after breaking one of the oldest rules in the game.

Snead, who won the Greensboro, N.C., open by sinking the fateful stammer, having given into a natural urge to "improve" a fresh ball closer to the green than the point where the original ball had finished. And the resultant two-strike foul cost him a tie for first money—if only by a few strokes—as professionals would have made such mistakes. They would be, to at least attempt an explanation and, in a way, to leaven any criticism of the two players involved.

Make Own Rules

Let us begin by saying that for a period of 15 years or more, and, in fact, right up until 1951, those who played the big winter money golf circuit made their own rules as they went along. The local sponsors and the fans wanted low scores, and they got them on the playing conditions, and they got 'em.

Large money was at stake, and a golfer didn't get his share by sitting on a penalty stroke for rules.

Some newcomers to the trail were shocked by what they saw. We recall a night in Clearwater, Fla., a dozen years ago when Lloyd Mangrum, just turned pro after having won the U.S. amateur title in eight, demanded that we tell the world the noted figure he had played around with that day was a flagrant cheater.

"If I have to play with fellows like that I'll get out of this game right now," Lawson stormed.

Refretfully we passed up the story, because it sounded slightly libelous.

Many stories have gone the rounds of the locker rooms, some of them really funny. One player was asked please to keep his wife off the course after a round of his wayward drives had wound up in spectacularly favorable positions.

Another was asked by his playing companion not to lift and mark his ball on the green, but just to let him putt around it.

Now that the PGA boys have agreed to play by the book, it will be some time before the effects of their old carefree ways wear off. Snead and Wall will not be the last to get their fingers rapped.

Sugar Ray Robinson, who threatened his world's middleweight championship Seattle Wednesday night by knocking out Rocky Graziano in the third round, was being pursued today by signs a match with Jersey Maxim, world's light-heavyweight champion.

But Robinson balked on signing for the fight at a meeting yesterday with Jack Kearns, Maxim's manager. He said Kearns wanted "all the money" but added he might take the match if he could get the right terms. He went to his Chicago hotel to think it over.

Robinson collected $78,631 for his bout with Graziano. Rocky pocketed $67,192. The total crowd was 23,561, a world's indoor record for boxing here.

A controversy over the amount of the gate receipts was settled yesterday with the Illinois State Boxing Commission announcing the total receipts was $257,188 and the net $197,625.

A Vancouver report that the Dominion Football Association is considering abandoning Soccer playoffs this year was denied in Winnipeg by George Anderson, secretary of the Manitoba Soccer Association. "There has been no such talk," he said.

Chuck McCullough, Saskatoon Quakers centre ice and captain, will be lost to his team for the balance of the Western Canada Hockey League championship series with Victoria Cougars. He suffered a shoulder separation. X-rays have showed yesterday. On Wednesday night's third game of the series, Saskatoon leads 2-1.

Tillsonburg Livingstons, Canadian Senior Basketball Champions, have accepted a challenge from Kitchener-Waterloo Blues, Dominion Intermediate titleholders, for an all-Canadian series. Livvies said they have scheduled a full slate of exhibition games prior to their May playoff series with the Canadian Intercollegiate winners. The playoff is for the right to have the bulk of the winning team on the Canadian Olympic squad. The University of Alberta meet the University of Toronto champions for the National Intercollegiate Crown next month.

Yugoslavia's two star tennis players, Dragutin Mitic and Milan Branovic, 26, said yesterday at Rome they have decided not to return to their homeland. "We are not in accord with the Yugoslav government," Branovic said.

Tom Casagrande, $40,000 bonus pitcher assigned to Baltimore Orioles of the International League by Philadelphia Phillies, was "absent-without-leave" yesterday because of a "misunderstanding". He disappeared from the team over a disagreement with the Phils, he said in a telephone conversation from his home.

Big Jim Thorpe was made Big Chief Powerful Man by British Columbia Indians when he arrived in Vancouver yesterday. The greatest all-round athlete of the first half of the century is to be a guest at the British Columbia Buckskin Gloves Amateur Boxing competitions.

Turko Jockey Rides 'Tom Fool' In Rich Stakes

By JOHN CHANDLEE

New York, April 18—(AP) —"You bet I'd like to win the Kentucky Derby. Who doesn't," said wiry Tex Atchison rather curtly. "But don't put the whammy on me."

The contract rider for the famous Greentree Stable of John Hay "Jock" Whitney and his sister, Mrs. Charles S. Payson, had just hopped off a horse after an early morning workout at Belmont Park.

The Toronto-born jockey will ride Greentree's three-year-old filly, Tom Fool, in the $50,000-added Wood Memorial tomorrow and Saturday, in the last big eastern test before the Derby May 3 at Louisville. Tom Fool was voted the No. 1 three-year-old in 1951.

Atkinson rode Jill Gall, the Calumet Farm big three-year-old, in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby last winter. He just missed the 1949 Kentucky Derby on Capot, finishing second to Calumet's surprising powder after Capot had run down Olympia and taken a brief lead in the stretch.

Then they went on to grab the Preakness and Belmont stakes, the Arlington Classic, Washington, the Pimlico special and finished as the three-year-old champion and "horse of the year."

Tom Fool has started only once this year, a five-length victory over Primate, Cousin and other Derby contenders in a stirring furlong dash at Jamaica April 7.

"In my opinion Jill Gall, at the present time, is the best horse. But I don't think he is as good a colt as Tom Fool."

Atkinson, who has yet to finish first in the run for the roses, rode Jet Pilot in the Derby attempt in 1943 —when he was eighth with Mrs. Wm. S. Bragg's Gold Shower, a 12-1 shot. He finished fifth with Gen. Maine Chance Farm's Perfect Balance in 1946, and had another ninth last year with Greentree's Hall of Fame.

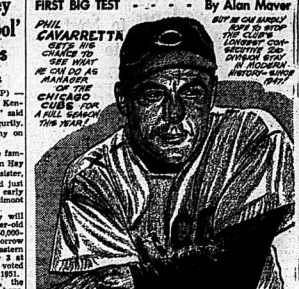
Quebec Aces Trim Beavers

Saint John, N.B., April 18—CP —Quebec Aces, Quebec Senior Hockey League champions, took a 2-0 lead in their Alexander Cup here last night when they defeated Saint John Beavers 4-1 before 4,500 fans.

The victory gave the Aces a two-point lead in the eight-point Alexander Trophy finals. With two points awarded for a win and one for a tie, the first club to pile up eight points wins the trophy, a handsome piece of sterling major hockey title.

With the second game scheduled here tomorrow night and the third in Quebec Monday, the Aces are established favorites following last night's easy win. They led 2-0 at the end of the first period and lengthened it to 3-0 by the finish of the minister session before going on to their 4-1 final.

Jean Beliveau, the Quebec Aces star centre, scored, potted a goal in each period while Yogi Kaleigh added the other with the winners' other marker. Ron Hurst saved Saint John from a shutout late in the final period.



It was a heavy-hitting game. No fewer than 18 penalties were handed out, all of them minors except a misconduct sentence to Marcel Bonin of Quebec.

Quebec goalie Jack Gelineau had a big hand in turning back the Maritime League champions. He turned aside 31 shots to the 11 pucks handled by Hal Gordon in the Beaver nets.

(By The Canadian Press)

Providence Reds are still in the thick of the fight for the American League championship and the Calder Cup.

Sixth game will be played at Providence Sunday night.

Harvey Bennett, Providence goalie, turned in one of his best performances of the year. He was credited with 45 saves.

The Hornets' lone goal came in the second period when Rudy Migay scored to give his team a short-lived 1-1 tie. Pete Kapusta and Ken Ullyot, Providence pair at 13:43 of the opening stanza.

Fort Frances, Ont., April 18 (CP)—Fort Frances Canadians stand a single point away from a berth in the Allan Cup hockey final after last night's convincing 7-1 victory over Edmonton Pats in the fifth game of the Western Canada final.

Pats tie in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series Saturday can finish off Pats and send the Thunder Bay champions against the eastern Canada winner. Canadians lead the series 3-1 with one game tied.

Vern O'Donnell paced Fort Frances with a goal-a-period performance. Walt Christiansen scored two with singles going to Frank Eizenoph and Art Johnson.

Four of the Fort Frances goals came in the first period. Christiansen counted the first when he flicked in Mike Hupchuk's rebound, followed by O'Donnell, Eizenoph and Johnson.

O'Donnell and Allan traded goals in the second period. Christiansen was injured when caught by a stick but appeared again in the third period to add his second marker. O'Donnell completed his hat trick after outskating Pats' Jack Pringle and firing the puck from 10 feet out.

Wilbur Delaney in the Edmonton net had to make 25 stops. Bill Cleaveley at the other end stopped 19.

Major 'A' Bowlers Honor Champions At Banquet

Last night, following a delectable chicken dinner served as only the management of the Golden Arms Inn can serve it, the boys got down to paying various tributes to champion Bellevue and their ranks.

One of the finest tributes paid other than of the tangible kind was the re-election of the entire 1951-52 slate of officers headed by perey Bennett. Jack himself is serving his third term as boss-man of the loop and the league could not have paid finer tribute to a hard-working administrator than the amiable Jack. Also returned to office was Les Lennox vice-president, Tommy Caton, treasurer, and Cec. Hardwick, secretary.

Grand Party

It was a grand party. The camaraderie that features this group of bowlers throughout the season was plainly evident. There was no sign of jealousy when the various winners, both champions and individual were announced and presented with their tokens of title, rather the other way. Each one received the collective pat on the back from his fellow mates. That's the way it should be.

Over 40 of the "Bennett Bunch" were present. The perennial champion Belleville Golf team celebrated its sixth straight championship and was presented with the Labatt Trophy and the "lettuce" that was won in the playoffs. Secretary Joe Legault modestly accepted the honors for the champions. Team skipper Lennox, Les Lennox, Harry Ridley, Ed Markwood, Ron Saylor, Evan Barlow and Ray Lennox.

Proudly it was announced that a youngster from Corbies a former pinboy had won the high average trophy with a mark of 241, last year's champ Jim McKenzie who finished the season with an average of 241.34. Jim was a rookie in the league.

Ted Wilf, McLaughlin went the high triple honors with a score of 987. Second was "Toots" Holway with his high single champion with Harry Ridley with a 375 and the runner up was Vic Sellihan with 368.

Special prizes also were awarded to Wilf, McLaughlin, Jim Corbies and Harry Ridley.

Bennett presided in a brief address paid tribute to the various champions and to the league as a whole. He expressed special appreciation of the work of his executive secretary Secretary Cec. Hardwick and presented miniature trophies to the league champions.

The teams finished the playoff in the following order, Bellevue Golf, Moira Chevrolet, Sawers Bowlers, CNR, City Cleaners, Kinsmen, Callaghan's Ice, Schwab's.

(By The Associated Press)

Don Richmond, 22-year-old third baseman of Rochester Red Wings, is off to a fine start in his bid to become the first batter in International League history to lead the circuit in hitting three straight years.

Richmond collected three hits last night as the Wings posted their first victory of the infant season with a 5-2 decision over Springfield Cubs. Richmond has banged out five hit in 10 trip so far. He led the league last year with a .350 mark and topped the loop in 1950 with a .333 average.

Syracuse Chiefs and Baltimore Orioles also posted their first triumphs of the season. The Chiefs edged Montreal Royals, 4-3 and the Orioles turned back Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-2.

Former Royal Johnny Welaj banged out three hits including a game winning single in the ninth and stole two bases to feature Syracuse's triumph over Montreal.

Paul Stuffel, one-time Lea, limited Toronto to five hits while Baltimore jumped three Toronto pitchers for seven.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Where there is double talk, a bridge player needs to know all the answers. Because doubler's partner is expected to use signals that show whether his hand is weak or strong.

After a double, suppose there is an intervening bid. Partner of doubler simply passes to show his hand is not strong; bids or doubles to show a hand that is not weak.

In such a situation, which of these two kinds of responses will show the stronger hand; a bid or redouble? In such cases, a double will show a stronger hand than would a responding bid.

Take a case where south opens with a diamond, west doubles for takeout, and north bids one heart. East has enough for a bid of one spade or a double of one heart with this hand:

♠ Q J 7
♥ A 9 8 7 6 2
♦ 9
♣ 8 7 6

With such a choice, which should east select? The one that is likely to give partner the most encouragement. And such a one here is double; a penalty double becomes partner has not passed.

If east bids one spade it would merely announce some strength. How much strength. About the same kind of strength that a player would show in answer to an opening bid of one.

But if east doubles it will tell more. Much more. It will say: "In answer to your takeout double, partner, my hand is strong enough to make a bid. But I also have stuff enough to beat opponents."

Is there any advantage in choosing to double? Yes, a favorable advantage. It gives partner a wide choice. He can bid more. Or he can help keep opponents doubled if it promises more gravy.

Remember that your side is always playing for the most points. If more points can be made by doubling opponents it is not making the most of your opportunities if you become the contractor.

Try not to scoff at making more profit.

The schnoz has entertained such noted figures as Ethel Barrymore, Margaret Truman, Sophie Tucker, Gloria Swanson and Helen Traubel on his show, most of them making their TV debut with him This called for some investigation.

"What is this strange power on you have over these women?" I asked him.

"It is my own natural ability, coupled with a rare adeptitude and knowin' what to do at the right time," answered Durante, blushing modestly.

Miss Davis more or less confirmed this statement when I asked her why she was making the plunge into TV. Tomorrow night's show will be her first appearance on the new medium.

He's Marvelous

"They asked me to do the show and I wanted to do it," she replied in her famed brittle manner. "It's as simple as that. Besides, I love working with Jimmy. He's marvelous."

At the rehearsal, everyone was amazed at how Miss Davis showed up early and co-operated with any directions. They were expecting her to toss a tizzy on the hour every hour. She even had all her lines memorized.

"It's not easy for me," she confessed. "It has been 20 years since I learned a part for the stage. In pictures, we only have to learn a few pages every day. That's why television is going to be tough for picture actors."

Does she have any future plans for TV?

Would she do a live show?

"No. I think most of TV will be on film eventually. That's the only way you can ensure quality. But I don't think shows like Jimmy's should be anything but live. They lose their spontaneity on film."

"She's Great"

"Bett and I did a pitchuh together once — The Man Who Came to Dinner.' She's great. We wanted to give her a chance to do a little drama on this show, but she didn't want it. She wants to play it strictly for laughs. She's doin' a song numbuh with me, too."

He added that all his leading ladies have been co-operative and hinted the reason is because of his irresistible charm.

Growing Evidence Worst is Over In Flooded Areas

Regina, April 18 — (CP) Growing evidence today indicates that the worst is over for flooded areas of southwest Saskatchewan.

And in swamped Kasted, 200 miles southeast, the rate of waters that forced evacuation of most of the 1,500 residents still still sliding back into the Frenchman Creek.

The evacuees, quartered in Shaunavon, 28 miles east, will be kept out of the town until cleanup work is completed.

Dr. L. B. Thompson, director of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration, returned to Regina last night after a tour of P. F. R. A. dams at Duncairn, Kasted and Val Marie, focal points in the flood area.

He said there was a "general easing" of the situation. All P. F. R. A. dams were in good shape.

Water in the Dunlop Dam, earlier reported rushing in so quickly that a safety margin in the dam was rapidly disappearing, had only risen 1½ inches yesterday.

Dr. Thompson said the Duncairn reservoir had a freeboard of six feet from water level to the top of the dam. A flight over the west current watershed in the afternoon had shown a drop in the water intake.

Emergency Spillway Built

He said an emergency spillway was being constructed at the east end of the dam as additional insurance against a storm or flash floods possible in the next few weeks.

Meanwhile, floods on the Frenchman Creek, which claimed the life of a young cowpuncher, Wallington Welz, also were easing Welz's body was found in a slough after his horse returned to its stable.

A flood crest causing concern proved not dangerous. It is moving down the valley and will reach the Val Marie reservoir tonight.

But the crest is not accompanied by large rains and is slowing up as it spreads out where the Frenchman valley widens. Spillway capacity at the Val Marie dam has been increased to meet the crest. Some families were evacuated from low-lying areas in the town earlier in the week.

Gen. Vandenburg Says Controversy Tempest in Teapot

El Paso, Tex., April 18—(AP) Spreading controversy marked the case of the balky United States Air Force pilots today, although Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg called it a "tempest in a teapot."

Relatives of Lieut. Verne Goodwin, air force co-pilot sentenced to prison for refusal to fly, said they planned to carry his case to the President if necessary.

Goodwin was sentenced to two years in prison for refusing to fly in a C-124 transport plane to England last December. He said he feared it would have caused his wife to lose their unborn child.

But at Birmingham, Adjutant Gen. Walter J. (Crack) Hanna of Alabama said Goodwin's sentence was too light, "If those old, worn-out, gold-brick pilots in Texas had the proper leadership," he said, "they would never have pulled their so-called sit-down strike."

Vandenberg, ala force chief of staff, commented on the more general situation. He said a "small" number of airmen "is not indicative of anything as great as it seems to appear on the surface." Nervous Wreck

The mother of another air force officer charged with refusing to obey orders to fly, said in Dallas that her son is "a nervous wreck" and very sick," because he is afraid to fly.

In Mercedes, Calif., Frank C. Hilton of Reading, Pa., national commander of the veterans of foreign wars said punishment of such men was tragic.

Hilton blamed the country's state of unpreparedness after the Second World War and told a public meeting:

"We have had to call back men who flew and served their country and were just getting themselves established in normal civilian life.

"It is those men who are objecting to flying duty and its hazards for a second time."

Vandenberg listed three causes for the "stay-down" strikes:

1. Rising death rate in military flights.
2. Insufficient "hazard" pay for airmen.
3. Claims of reservists recalled that they are doing more than their share.

WILL EXPRESS OPINION

Owen Sound, April 18 (CP) — Electors in Owen Sound on June 23 will express their opinion on the establishment of a brewer's warehouse and a liquor store in the city.

The vote comes three years and two days after the last local option vote here.

On that occasion, five questions were put to the people and all were defeated. Men's and women's beverage rooms and dining lounges were included with the retail stores.

The June 21 date was announced here yesterday on confirmation from the Liquor Licence Board.

The Peacock Path

By Edwin Rutt

The place was crammed with stuff of all kinds, evidently the discarded possessions of many generations of Cravaths. Here, doubtless was where Grandmother's white elephants were buried.

Trying to work methodically, I had started operations near the door and moved slowly down one wall of the big attic or cluttered room. This brought me at last, laboriously to the far end of the attic. Here, under a small window facing almost due east, there was a carved oak chest.

I flopped down on it, thinking fleetingly that the thing was large enough and old enough to contain the fabled treasure of Captain Kid. That thought made me get up and lift the lid.

The chest contained treasure, certainly, but not what I was looking for. It was packed with old pewter, though I had to tear the tissue paper around several of the pieces to ascertain that. Every time I engaged in this minor vandalism, I found more pewter. Presumably there was nothing else in the chest. I closed the lid and sat down on it again.

The fingers of my right hand were restless, because they could not hold the accustomed cigaret, I suppose. They moved around the top of the chest, first flat on it, then drumming and then involuntarily gripping it where it should have been flush to the wall. I sprang up suddenly. Flush to the wall! Well, why wasn't the chest just that way? The normal logical way for a chest to be? Why was there a good foot of space between chest and wall? Why this manifest waste of storage room?

I didn't stop to try and answer my own questions. I just grabbed one end of the chest and swung it outwards.

There they were, three of them. Dark, smooth, unfrightening— never intended as instruments of death. But, for all that, capable of being converted to lethal purposes. Under proper conditions, and in the hands of a murderer who was also an expert.

The next instant-I stifled a shout. One; a fourth and missing member might have been so converted.

Mrs. Ring's assumed vigilance had not extended this far. One of her cleaner-uppers had obviously gotten away with something. The little approximately-foot-wide region behind the chest had been neither swept nor dusted. The chest itself, when in accustomed position, concealed this delinquency.

I could practically feel my eyes pop, at a little vacant round space, clean and mundified, on the dusty floor in back of the chest.

The fact that I had expected to find them there didn't help. It did not seem to lessen the shock of the actual discovery. I left the attic in a kind of daze, retaining only enough sense to get myself down out of the attic unobserved.

Above all things, just then, I needed fresh air. So, I kept on going downstairs and out of the house entirely. The rain had not deterred me. A mist and sprays of it, soft needles prickling my face, brought me partially back to normal.

But the feeling of stupefaction was instantly replaced by one of dread of what I had to do next. Unless I was miles off the track, my list of suspects was now narrowed to two. And no matter which of my choices eventually turned out to be the prime movers here, it was going to be pretty difficult for the House of Windover.

Which was Sally's home, lovely blond Sally who—whether she knew it or not—had set Orth completely panicky about her.

I walked aimlessly about the place, moving softly at the irony of the situation. Very much in love with Sally, it still fell to my unhappy lot to be the agency through which a cherished illusion of hers would be blasted, finally and terribly. For a while, a little weakly, I even toyed with the idea of throwing up my hands in professed bafflement and signing off of the case. But of course I could not stop now.

I met Dick Harrison that night at the prearranged hour. I slipped away after dinner without offering any explanation to anybody. The Ferret arrived a few minutes after I'd entrenched myself in the Madison House bar.

I spread an impersonal greeting and an affirmative to my offer of a drink, he said nothing. He simply threw out a sheath of papers and let them do the talking.

I read through them, drawing relieved breaths as I went along.

"You," said The Ferret, "seem to have done some pretty fair thinking. I didn't know you had it in you."

Shamelessly, I basked in his backhanded praise, omitting to remark that what I had done was a lot of guesswork.

"Here,". The Ferret tendered still another paper, "is my bill. I left footprints on every sidewalk in New York."

Later I parked the car and went slowly toward the house.

I found Windover ablaze with illumination. It looked precisely what it should have been, a big gracious opulent house geared up to fight off the encroachment of shadows and darkness, with brilliance and gaiety and talk and laughter.

I made myself snap out of it. I hadn't time for fancies and reflections. I was a hired dick with a most distasteful job staring him in the face.

I was figuring to expose a murderer, probably send the murderer to the chair.

Late that night, I reversed the accustomed procedure. I knocked softly on Cravath's door.

He was sitting in a chair and he wore a brocade dressing gown that must have cost quite a packet, and slippers. He didn't lose any dignity in that get up, though it's a costume in which many men look plain silly.

He waited with a surprised look on his face, until I had closed the door. Then he asked, in a quick low voice: "Anything wrong, Orth?"

"If-no." I said hesitantly. "But I'm afraid we've got to have another talk. You'll remember that you okayed an investigation. I wanted to make? Well, it's been made. And the results don't make very pleasant telling."

He closed his book, deliberately. "I wouldn't have expected pleasantness. Well, sit down and let's have it."

I drew a straightbacked chair close to him, so that I could keep my voice down. "First," I began, "I might as well as well say that I'm 99 percent sure of who killed James Warburton and how it was done."

Cravath was not the man to look preambles. He jerked erect. "Well, who?" he demanded impatiently.

"But there's one percent of doubt in my mind. So I have to ask you a pretty embarrassing question. You won't take it-"

He was standing up me, blue eyes bulging. "Well ask it man."

"Okay," I said, and let him have it. "Mr. Cravath, did you fake two attempts on your life and then kill James Warburton because he discovered that you'd taken 50 thousand dollars of trust funds and he'd be safe?"

He came out of his chair like a bull, from the tutti. "Why—why, you-you . . ." The sputtering syllables blew over themselves and stopped because Marston Cravath was essentially speechless. But I got my answer.

To tell the truth, I was a little afraid of that answer as it came. I thought that Cravath might take a swing at me.

"Look here," he roared. "Are you crazy? Or is this your idea of a joke?"

I smiled. I had my answer in his outraged face, his quivering lips his big fists clenching and unclenching. This was, unquestionably, the righteous rage of an honest and guiltless man. I was quite sure that Marmy Cravath was not the murderer of the Peacock Path.

Cravath's rage mounted. "I will answer you and I will fire you. No, I didn't kill Ames. Any more than I took those bonds."

I managed to stop him by waving both hands furiously.

"I'll apologize right now, Mr. Cravath" I said. "But I had to ask that question. Because frankly, you could have done it-as well, you could have done it-as well, perhaps even better, than anyone else. I never seriously believed you did."

He calmed down. But his breath continued to come in short little gusts. "All right, Orth. I suppose you were within your rights in suspecting everybody . . . Me pinch bonds from my own company!"

He sat down, seemingly exhausted, but exploded again almost instantly. "Well, who took them? I can't stand any more of this shilly-shally."

I spoke very carefully. "Ames Warburton took the bonds himself, of course. And another very ambitious young man, who probably put Ames up to it in the first place, killed Ames. For a simple reason. He decided not to split the proceeds with Ames."

"Okay," I said, and let him have it. "Mr. Cravath, did you fake two attempts on your life and then kill James Warburton because he discovered that you'd taken 50 thousand dollars of trust funds and he'd be safe?"

He came out of his chair like a bull, from the tutti. "Why—why, you-you . . ." The sputtering syllables blew over themselves and stopped because Marston Cravath was essentially speechless. But I got my answer.

To tell the truth, I was a little afraid of that answer as it came. I thought that Cravath might take a swing at me.

"Look here," he roared. "Are you crazy? Or is this your idea of a joke?"

I smiled. I had my answer in his outraged face, his quivering lips his big fists clenching and unclenching. This was, unquestionably, the righteous rage of an honest and guiltless man. I was quite sure that Marmy Cravath was not the murderer of the Peacock Path.

Cravath's rage mounted. "I will answer you and I will fire you. No, I didn't kill Ames. Any more than "I am." I looked at him hard. "There is only one other involved." Cravath got it. Fully. Once more, he sprang to his feet. "We'll finish this here and now. I'm going to his room and choke the truth out of him." He started for the door.

Misgivings which had to be stopped or he'd tear everything down, I grabbed his arm. "That's the last thing to do." I said. "You could choke him all night and you would not get a thing out of him. He knows that as things stand now, nobody can get an iota or proof connecting him to the murder. And we'd make a mistake to even give him a glimmer that we suspect him."

He hesitated—Impressed, I think, in spite of himself. "But, a murderer! Under my roof!"

"All right." I said. "But put him on his guard and he'll be scot free under other roofs for the rest of his natural life. And none of them will be the roof of a jailhouse, either."

He saw the reason in this. He went back to his chair, sat heavily. "Well, what do we do? Let him go on murdering people at his own convenience?" All at once he started up again. "That's what Dave Sladen who—who tried to kill me!"

It didn't seem necessary to answer that.

"But why?" Cravath's face was a puzzled mask and his voice slightly plaintive. "I gave him the best job he's ever had."

I nodded. "Yes. But there's something else that he never could get from you. Sally."

"You mean he wants to marry her?"

I was in it now, to the point of no return. "Sladen is wild about Sally. But he's sure you wouldn't give your consent in a million years."

U.S. Govt. Lifts Restrictions On Use of Rubber

Synthetic Plants Will Be Kept Ready for Emergencies

Washington, April 19 (AP)—The government today announced the removal of almost all controls on the use of natural and synthetic rubber, effective April 21.

Provision also was made to guarantee that government-built synthetic rubber plants are kept operating at a peak so they can quickly swing into emergency production if necessary.

The national production authority in announcing the end of the 10-year-old restriction on how much rubber may be used in each product, said this removes the last General World War allocation control.

The government's action "will provide relatively free competition between natural and synthetic rubber," said Manly Fleischmann, N.P.A. administrator, in a statement.

Raccoon Uses Attic For Maternity Ward

Oakville, April 19 — (CP)— A mother raccoon yesterday chose the attic of Mrs. Agnes Beatty's farmhouse as a maternity ward. She entered by a cellar window during the night, climbed sixteen flights of stairs and gave birth to five baby raccoons in a game warden took the mother raccoon away, placed the babies in a cardboard box and left them outside the cellar window. Several hours later the box was empty. Mother raccoon had claimed her own.

Car Will be Given Away Daily at C.N.E.

Toronto, April 19 — (CP) — A new car will be given away every night at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand show this year after a lucky draw of admission tickets, the executive committee decided yesterday, in the hope it may curb petty larceny by ticket takers. Customers will wait to keep their tickets for the draw and unscrupulous ticket-takers will have no opportunity to resell tickets.

Slemon to Place Memorial Wreath

London, April 19. (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal Roy Slemon, R.C.A.F. officer commanding the R.C.A.F. Training Command, will place a wreath at the cenotaph in Whitehall Sunday at an annual Vimy Memorial service.

Five hundred Canadian veterans, representing the 40,000 who live in the United Kingdom, will parade in a drum head service and then march past Whitehall Square, where Air Vice-Marshal Slemon will take the salute on the steps of Canada House.

Air Vice-Marshal Slemon, whose headquarters are at Trenton, Ont., is in the United Kingdom on liaison duties.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 19—(CP)—It looks like a cool weekend for Ontario. Warm air still covers the prairies and southern Ontario.

Wednesday and Friday was nearly matched by Hamilton's 78 which tied the record for the province. Slightly cooler air is pressing the warming sections and will reach the Lake Ontario region by Sunday morning. The west result is this region will be cooling lake breezes during the day so that temperatures will be in the 60s which, however, is still warm for this time of year.

Throughout the remainder of the province there's high pressure and will be from 60 to 65 in most of the country as well as the central and eastern portions, and from 70 to 75 in the extreme southwestern sections.

There will be some cloudiness at times particularly in the southern regions on Sunday morning but no rain of any account is expected.

COAST-TO-COAST CHECK OF CAMPS TO FOLLOW THEFTS

Stated Loss Will Not Be Near $1,000,000

Ottawa, April 19 — (CP)— The large-scale Petawawa thefts are also to touch off a coast-to-coast check by the defence department to try to see whether they are being emulated in other camps of the services.

With an inquisitive parliament due to resume Monday, Defence Minister Claxton returned to his desk yesterday and started bringing himself up to date on the Petawawa probe which already has resulted in the arrest of one army captain and four civilians engaged in the junk business.

The arrest of those men on charges of theft, fraud and conspiracy and their arraignment at Pembroke, Ont., yesterday means the one major phase is starting to unfold publicly. Authorities say more arrests and more phases are coming up but have now got out [illegible] reports that the loss involved comes anywhere near $1,000,000.

Mr. Claxton pointed out to C. M. P. last night for two more days to look for more clues in the investigation. Their names were withheld pending their arrest and arraignment.

Authorities say, too, that an extensive check in other military camps, not only army but navy and air force bases, is going to be made in an effort to smoke out any parallels of the incidents at Petawawa, 118 miles northwest of here.

May Take Inventory

The R.C.M.P. may be asked to participate. The initial stroke may be an order for an inventory of stocks of equipment in camps across the country but the exact nature of the probe is not yet known.

Mr. Claxton, apparently in anticipation of parliamentary clamor, has asked his department to prepare an estimate of the loss involved in the Petawawa thefts of articles like kerosene electric stoves and refrigerators, C.P.R. rails, scrap metals, sinks and other articles.

The probe also involves alleged collusion in the construction of buildings at Petawawa. It may eventually embrace the construction of the wartime officers training centre at Brockville, now being largely unused, along with a caretaker staff stationed there.

Three of the five men charged in Pembroke yesterday are from Brockville. They are Jack Johnson, about 34, who runs a junk business there, and Lloyd Mawhinney, about 30, and Amos Durant, 25, who work for him.

Toronto Surgeon Describes Use Of Monkey Lung in Operations

BY FRANK CAREY
(Associated Press Science Writer)

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 19 —(AP)—First use of a monkey lung to provide an external substitute for tahe lungs of a human being during surgery was announced today by a Toronto surgeon who said the technique saved several babies alive for a time—one of them for three hours.

The lungs, freshly removed from monkeys were used in conjunction with "artificial heart" and were employed specifically to supply oxygen to the blood of the patients whose own heart and lung systems were cut off.

One monkey lung was used for each of five babies whose hearts constituted their only chance for survival.

None of the babies survived, but the surgeon who described the technique said there is encouragement in the fact that life was maintained—even though temporarily—with the aid of a "substitute" heart and lung system outside the patients' own bodies.

Dr. Robert Janes, head of the department of surgery at the University of Toronto, said the technique was developed by Dr. W. T. Mustard of the university staff. Although the work has not yet been described in scientific literature, Dr. Janes mentioned it briefly at a meeting of the American Surgical Association here. He had been commenting on his scientific paper by Dr. Willis J. Potts of Chicago, describing successful animal experiments with "substitute" lungs.

Dr. Janes said the Canadian monkey lung technique contributes significantly toward the objective of perfecting artificial heart and lung systems for use in cases where temporary stoppage of the patient's own heart and lungs gives the only chance for successful surgery.

He stressed that the technique work and that of other investigators in this "substitute" system is still in the experimental stage.

Several investigators have kept animals alive for long periods with such systems, and there have been three cases where humans have been kept alive for short periods with the aid of purely mechanical systems.

The Canadian work is the first in which the lung of an animal has been used as an experimental substitute for the lungs of a human.

Rahway, N. J., April 19—(AP) —Sixty-nine week end guests must remain locked out of the print shop at the Trenton state prison yesterday, ending a 77-hour revolt but a sympathy mutiny of 231 inmates continued at Rahway prison farm 40 miles away.

Dr. Lovell Blake, deputy commissioner of institutions and agencies, said the department would ask the Defense Association, a foundation interested in prison problems, to make a survey at the prison.

In a statement issued through Warden William H. Carty, Dr. Blake said the association would be requested to "advise officials as to the needs and requirements of the ancient institution. Buildings in the state prison used originally were built in 1835.

As the Trenton mutineers surrendered three prison employees they held hostage were whisked away in the warden's automobile to their homes. They were reported in good condition.

The convicts were taken to the prison hospital, searched for weapons, given baths and locked in their cells.

At Rahway, R. William Lagay, superintendent of the prison farm, said he believed the mutineers "will be ready to negotiate or surrender before long."

Holding Nine Guards

The Rahway disorders started Thursday night in a dormitory wing where the convicts holed themselves up with nine guards as hostages.

"I think we can settle this matter just as we settled it in Trenton," Lagay said.

In both revolts the mutineers smashed windows and destroyed furniture.

The Rahway group hung bed sheets from the windows on which were lettered their demands. They were now ripped and one bore the legend "stop beating cons."

At both prisons, authorities declined to use force to rout the rebellious inmates, both to avoid bloodshed and because they held prison employees hostage. They preferred to wait for lack of food to force surrender.

The Rahway mutiny was the fifth prison disorder in New Jersey in three weeks.

American Newspaper Editors Given Advice On Avoiding Inaccurate Election Forecasts

Washington, April 19 (AP)—Still smarting from bad political forecasts in 1948, U.S. newspaper editors took advice today on how to avoid red faces next November.

Two anti-error prescriptions were offered to the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors:

1. Use "more legwork and headwork and less guesswork."

2. Find out what the people are thinking, not what politicians say.

Basil L. Walters, executive editor of the Knight newspapers, told 400 editors on the closing day of the convention that "in the last four years ago that "a good legman is still the backbone of a good newspaper."

"In 1948 some newspaper men whose legs were tired were so convinced that they knew the final outcome that they spent considerable time at fellow newspaper men and not the people.

"Mr. Truman, no matter what his sins may be, is a good leg man and a hard worker. That is more what we as newspaper people fall-ed to give credit for in comparing the man candidate he won the election."

Reston said: "The professional politicians are no longer a reliable source of information on what the voters are going to do on election day. They have always naturally been biased, but they are also remarkably ill-informed."

Major Reason for their unreliability was that politicians no longer really controlled big city machines and voters no longer voted in blocs.

"Let's be honest, we really don't know who is going to win these elections. We can, however, probe more deeply in the changes that are taking place in America — changes that really affect the outcome of elections.

Airplanes and campaign trains have become substitute blocks to accurate political reporting, Reston said, adding:

"Airplanes pass over too many voters too fast; the automobile is a far better way of life for a reporter.

"Campaign trains give a one-sided picture of what's happening and encourage that most pleasant but misleading habit whereby reporters interview each other rather than interview the voters."

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Searsport, Me., April 19 (AP) —The loading trestle and coal pockets of C. H. Sprague Fuel Company's Penobscot, Division were destroyed yesterday by a fire which spread from the company's waterfront. Plant superintendent James Nickerson estimated loss in excess of $200,000.

Chief Newspaper To Stay Closed For Few Days

La Paz, Bolivia, April 19 (AP)—Propaganda Minister Hugo Roberts said last night that La Razon, chief newspaper opposing the new Bolivian government, will have to stay closed for a few days until the anger of the hot-tempered armed populace dies down.

But he said the government still sticks to its promise of freedom of the press. He said popular anger will cool and La Razon will be able to resume publication without danger of threatened mob raids. Such a threat kept it from publishing yesterday.

La Razon is owned by Victor Carlos Aramayo, one of Bolivia's big tin mine owners. It is the last newspaper in Bolivia and has frequently criticized the National revolutionary party, which won power in last week's brief but bloody revolution.

Federal Court Jury Unable To Reach Verdict

New York, April 19—(AP)— The trial of an Ibrandsen ship's master who shot a seaman to death ended early today with a federal court jury unable to reach a verdict.

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld dismissed the jury and ordered Capt. Franklin B. Weaver, 31, of Greenport, N.Y., continued in $25,000 bail for a new trial.

Weaver was charged with manslaughter in the killing of William Harvey, 24-year-old Negro messman, during their voyage on the Flying Trader, en route to Japan from Manila last Oct. 25.

The jury had been out just 13 hours when the judge discharged it.

Weaver admitted killing Harvey but said he shot him in the messman advanced threateningly. The prosecution charged Weaver, unhandcuffed at the time, but the defense said the handcuffs were defective.

The shooting followed a quarrel between the two over Weaver's charges that Harvey was "malingering."

Harvey's mother, Mrs. Rebecca Pratt, of New York, is suing the shipping line for $25,000 because of the death of her son.

SWIFT CURRENT FACING NEW FLOOD THREAT

Posed by Erosion At Duncairn Dam

Swift Current, Sask., April 19—(CP)—A new flood threat to Swift Current — earlier believed out of danger—is posed by erosion at Duncairn Dam, 25 miles upstream on the Swift Current creek.

A concrete spillway at the dam began to disintegrate late yesterday. Complete disintegration would release thousands of tons of water from the reservoir to cause serious flooding here.

Dr. L. B. Thompson, Prairie farm rehabilitation administration director, said the situation was "very serious" at the dam. But he said he did not expect complete destruction of the spillway.

The picture was brightened last night with the discovery of a small hard clay and shale dam lining the construction of an emergency spillway. The gravel-impregnated seam is expected to withstand water erosion for some time.

Water was being let out of the reserved basin by a controlled outlet last night.

Steve Sokolik, of the Swift Current P.F.R.A. office said water released through the emergency spillway and through the concrete pipe in the bottom of the reservoir equalled the inflow of water behind the dam. He said the water level in the dam did not increase yesterday.

The increased water outflow was expected to raise the level of the creek below the dam. Serious flooding was not anticipated however unless crested by the opening of the emergency outlet.

Prepare For Worse

Meanwhile residents of low-lying areas in Swift Current prepared for the worst. Many families moved possessions to higher ground.

Merchants in the city did increased business in canned goods, water containers and kerosene stoves.

Emergency equipment dispatched to Swift Current by army headquarters in Regina arrived yesterday. Officials were confident that any emergency could be met.

Elsewhere, the flood problem was improved in evacuated East-W.A. president Joseph Bernier, in a statement in Washington this morning that unless and until the other Western Electric negotiations in a hurry and reach an agreement with the northern California-Nevada. The Ohio, Michigan and New Jersey-Pennsylvania areas of Western Electric employees still on strike include salesmen who say they will maintain picket lines until a settlement is reached in 28 cities where Western Electric is distributor in houses.

Statement Issued—

Hopes for quick settlement of the remaining issues was expressed by C.W.A. president Joseph Bernier, in a statement in Washington this morning that unless and until the other Western Electric negotiations in a hurry and reach an agreement with the northern California. That will end the strike.

Meanwhile negotiations for the remaining Western Union strikers were scheduled for later today.

Meanwhile, the strike of 21,000 AFL commercial telegraphers underscored the demands of the Western Union Telegraphy Company entered its 17th day. No settlement in sight.

The 28,000-ton vessel, 11 of 16 being built here for the Esso Shipping Company, has a capacity of 230,000 barrels. It will be ready for delivery July 18.

Floating Hotel for Lumberjacks Nears End of Sea Trip from Frisco

Victoria, B.C., April 19 — (CP) — The 26-year-old sternwheeler Delta Queen, which will be used as a floating hotel for lumberjacks and construction workers, arrived here under tow of the tug Sea Lion Monday afternoon from San Francisco.

The 300-foot sternwheeler, in tow of the Victoria tug Island Navigator, is scheduled to reach Vancouver Tuesday where it will be converted into a hotel for Almunium Company of Canada and then towed to the company's new construction site at Kitimat, 450 miles north of here.

The Delta King, no lady of the high seas — she was lumbering steadily in a relatively calm Pacific today — was originally built to provide feeding and sleeping accommodation for 400 men, a library and a theatre. At Kitimat, she will be beached high and dry.

The company spokesman said the vessel and refit will cost only half what it would take to build a new passenger ship of similar size.

Two of the 12-man crew of the ship are riding the paddle-wheel hook after the tow lines.

The Delta Queen, sister ship, the Delta Queen, were shipped in parts from Glasgow to San Francisco in 1927. When assembled, they plied between San Francisco and Sacramento with passengers and freight. Both paddleboats were used during the war in the San Francisco Bay area to convey troops to and from ocean-going ships.

In 1947, the Delta Queen was bought by the present owners for price: $675,000 — and towed 5,261 miles to Cincinnati on the Mississippi, where she now is operating as an excursion vessel.

10,000 Equipment Installers Agree On Wage Increases

Agreement Expected to Set Pattern For All Strikers

New York, April 19 (CP) — The strike of Western Electric employees is 43 states moved closer to settlement today when agreement was reached on wage increases for 10,000 equipment installers.

The agreement does not cover 6,000 other Western Electric employees but it is expected to set a pattern for early settlement with workers still on strike. It may also provide a basis for settling a strike of 500 employees against the Bell Telephone system in northern California and Nevada.

A spokesman for the U.S. federal mediation service announced the settlement between the Communication Workers of America (CIO) and Western Electric provides a basic hourly increase of 14.3 cents an hour fringe benefits are estimated at 17 cents an hour.

When the strike started 12 days ago, the union's wage demand was 15 cents an hour. Before yesterday's long negotiating session, the company had made offers from 12 to 13 cents. Present wages average $1.64 to $1.77.

Picketing Never General

The strike against Western Electric had threatened telephone communications in 43 states and Washington, D.C. The union said its 300,000 members would honor Western Electric picket lines, however, picketing never became general as the union resorted to "hit-and-run" tactics.

The Western Electric walkout came simultaneously with strikes by C. W. A. members against Bell in Ohio, Michigan, New Jersey and Northern California-Nevada. The Ohio, Michigan and New Jersey-Pennsylvania areas of Western Electric employees still on strike include salesmen who say they will maintain picket lines until a settlement is reached in 28 cities where Western Electric is distributor in houses.

Statement Issued—

Document Shows Mother Agreed To Sell Twins

Montreal, April 19—(CP)— A document purporting to show that an unmarried mother agreed to the removal of her new-born twins was introduced yesterday at the preliminary hearing of Herman Buller, 32-year-old lawyer charged with unlawfully depriving the mother of the twins and detaining them without her consent.

Buller is one of three persons charged jointly with the same offence, which police some weeks ago claimed was part of a $50,000 baby-selling racket.

Dr. Leon Arcuiay is awaiting trial and William Dutka, a construction foreman, will appear for preliminary hearing April 22.

The mother, who said she is a hairdresser, said Dr. Azoulay offered her $100 for the twins. She insisted on $150 and he agreed on that amount.

Police Officers, Doctor, Called On Wild Goose Chase

Provincial police officers from Belleville and Napanee and a Deseronto doctor were called out on a wild goose chase Friday night when following the report of a "serious" accident on No. 2 highway two miles west of Deseronto.

When they arrived at the scene of the reported accident there were no twisted autos on the road or in the ditch and no mangled bodies could be found.

Instead, all they could find that could seemingly resemble an accident was an old model auto tipped on its side in a farmer's yard. The old car had been hauled there in preparation for wrecking.

The "serious" accident there was reported by the driver of a dry cleaner truck, whose lights picked up the overturned car in the farmer's yard as he rounded a curve on the highway. Instead of stopping to investigate he drove on in to Deseronto and stopping at a garage reported a serious accident.

One police car was despatched from Napanee and another from Belleville, while a Deseronto doctor was called out to tend the expected injured.

"It was just a phony," reported police at Belleville.

Ray Grant, Belleville, was elected president of the Hastings South Conservative Association at the annual meeting of that organization, which was held at the Kiwanis Centre, Friday night.

Other officers elected were: Trevor Graham, Tyendinaga, vice-president; Mrs. Douglas Atkins, Thurlow, second vice-president; Lottie Wareham, Belleville, third vice-president; Mrs. Kenneth Vincent, Shannonville, fourth vice-president; Ray Gunsolus, Belleville, secretary; Harry Moore, Stirling, treasurer; C. H. Ketcheson, Sidney and Bruce Forti, Tyendinaga, auditors.

President of Associations

The following are the presidents of the municipal associations, each of whom is elected by his own association: Gerald Hyde, Belleville; D. Sutherland, Trenton; Georges Lemaigre, Frankford; Harry Francis, Stirling; S. A. McCarey, Tweed; C. H. Hadill, Deseronto; Russell West, Stirling; E. V. Clark, Tweed; Sidney Brown, Deseronto; Graham Mouck, Hungerford; L. Weese, Deseronto; Edgar Ray, Sidney and Kenneth Wensley, Thurlow.

No Special Speakers

There was no special speaker, but each of the following made a few remarks after the election of officers was completed: President elect Grant; Fred Biddle, member of the Ontario legislature for Hastings East, also a member of the Hastings County; Elmer Sandercock, member of the Ontario legislature for Prince Edward; Mrs. Gladys Hyde, a Belleville alderman; Mrs. G. W. Dickson, Sidney; Mrs. Charles Atkins, Thurlow, Mrs. Morley Tugnett Belleville, Claude Graham Trenton, Samuel Curry, editor of the Tweed News, and Harry Rollins, a Belleville alderman.

Sharp criticism of the way in which Premier Frost has conducted was expressed by Mr. Rollins, who alone of those given an opportunity to speak said more than a few sentences.

"After I read the details of Mr. Rollins' speech in the paper, I just threw the paper on the floor," said Mr. Rollins. "The government has no right to collect these huge surpluses—it is your money, not theirs."

Predicts an Election

Next year, Mr. Rollins predicted there would be an election. Before then, he said, the government would spend the huge surplus and try to hoodwink the people again.

Mr. Rollins expressed admiration for those who prepare the publicity for the Liberals, "whoever they are," he said, "they should get a raise in pay. They certainly know how to use it. Whoever is to present what the government is doing in the best possible light, and make things look good for the party in power."

Mr. Rollins expressed a belief that Frank Follwell had been elected not by Liberal support, but by a lot of weak-kneed Tories. "The Liberals are united, why are we not?" he asked. "We can beat Frank Follwell by 2,000 votes if we only try."

At another point, he said: "We have a great opportunity to take over in the next election. The Liberals are drunk with power." Mr. Rollins praised Leslie Frost, Drew, the federal leader of the Progressive Party. "There is a great leader," he said. "There is no better citizen."

"If there is dissatisfaction with Mr. Drew's leadership," said Mr. Rollins, "a new leadership convention should be called. If such a convention were called, he said, Mr. Drew would be elected national leader of the party.

Tweed Editor Heard

Mr. Curry, the Tweed editor, declared that no election was likely to be held this year because of additional tax burdens that had been loaded upon the people in the relationship agreement. About $25,000 But there would be tax reductions next year, immediately followed by an election, he predicted.

Mr. Grant also expressed a belief that the election would be next year, because the government was unlikely to call an election after imposing heavy increases in taxation. Like others, he said that some of the unnecessary taxes would be removed immediately before the election.

Mill Owners of Trenton $10,000 Damage Result of Fire In Chemical Plant

Trenton — (Special) — Damage estimated at approximately $10,000 resulted yesterday at the Dominion Tar and Chemical Company plant in Trenton when fire broke out in the sifting mill of the plant.

Members of the Trenton Fire Department called by close to 60 plant workers fought the blaze and succeeded to confine the flames after forty minutes.

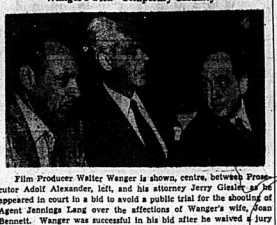
The fire was discovered by a worker named Paul who shortly after 3:30 happened to see flames shooting through the floor boards. Another workman, Johnnie Shonier was enveloped in a sheet of flames but managed to escape.

The plant is situated on the bank of the Trent River about a half mile north of the town. The mill contains roughly $100,000 worth of machinery and for a time it was thought the fire would envelope the building and spread to the piles of creosoted lumber nearby.

Driver Blows Two Front Tires, Does Not Leave Road

Bancroft—When Gerald C. Ward of Bancroft blew his two front tires at the same time and successfully stopped his car without going off the road he had an experience that comes only once in hundreds of thousands of miles of driving. Wednesday afternoon Mr. Ward was driving from Bancroft to Madoc. Just before the Gilmour turn his right tire blew and he reserved his car towards the ditch. As he was stopping and pulling the car toward the road the left tire blew, and he stopped easily on the right shoulder.

Having one spare, like the average driver, he caught a ride back to Bancroft where he obtained a second tire. An examination showed that there was a nail in the right tire and the left tire, a smooth one, just blew when the car reserved.



Car Found Smashed

Frank Douglas Bull of Kingston, a representative of an insurance company, parked his car in front of a local hotel on the night of the 14th but could not find it the next morning. At 9.30 a.m. he reported it as stolen to the local office of the provincial police and at 10.15 a.m. it was found rolled over, smashed and abandoned on Highway No. 62, mile south of Maynooth.

By this time the unknown and uninvited driver had departed for parts unknown and he or she is still being sought by the investigating officer, Constable J. C. Hawking, OPP, and the other members of the detachment.

Arson Squad Called Out To Probe Cause

Toronto, April 19—(CP)—The arson squad was called out last night to investigate the cause of a fire which caused $50,000 damage to a three-storey building in midtown Toronto.

Two of the residents had narrow escapes. Five others were out of the building at the time.

Charles Camroux, 11, was in bed in his third-floor room when he heard something like a line fall in front of the flat and smelled smoke. He went out into the hall and saw flames billowing out of the living room.

Across the hall, Thomas Noble, 58, who is deaf and dumb, was preparing to go to bed. He did not hear any commotion as residents rushed up and down the stairs. A friend who was passing by and saw the flames went in and told him by sign language the building was on fire.

Firemen said the flames had a good hold of the front of building when the firemen arrived. They estimated it had a half-hour headway on them. Fire officials said the fire may have been caused by careless smoking. They said the fire apparently started in a chesterfield.

Mrs. George Camroux, who was out when the fire broke out, told police someone had been threatening to "burn-down the building."

LANTERN AGAIN LIT

Boston, April 19 — (AP) — A lantern shone from the Old North Church last night just as it did 177 years ago to warn Paul Revere and William Dawes that the British were coming by land. Shortly after dusk, on the eve of Massachusetts' annual patriots day holiday, Warren Revere, 7, of St. Albans, N.Y., a descendant of the famed silver smith, climbed the steps of the church belfry and lit the signal.

2,000 EJECTED

Tokyo, April 19 — (AP) About 300 steel helmeted Japanese police wielding clubs, yesterday ejected 2,000 communist-led Koreans demonstrating before the Japanese foreign office building. The shouting, struggling crowd demanded that negotiations for a peace treaty between Japan and South Korea be ended. They said only 90,000 of the 600,000 Koreans in Japan recognize the South Korean government.

Boil the Food

New York, April 19—(AP)—A tip for people with food allergies—boil the food.

Boiling hardens or coagulates the albumin in the food. The hardened albumin doesn't get into the bloodstream to induce the allergy, Dr. Bret Ratner, of New York Medical College, told the Federation of American Societies for experimental biology today.

He reported tests showing that proper boiling does the trick, avoiding allergies such as asthma, hives and eczema.

Allergic people can drink milk if it has been evaporated and can eat eggs if they're hard-boiled for 20 to 30 hours, boiled meats or well-boiled vegetables, fruits and cereals.

SET UP EMBASSIES

Bonn, Germany, April 19 (Reuters) — West Germany and Japan have decided to re-establish diplomatic relations after the Japanese peace treaty comes into effect April 28, the foreign minister announced today. It was agreed upon that embassies would be set up in Bonn and Tokyo.

29 Killed in Crash

Los Angeles, April 19 — (AP) — Twenty-nine persons died yesterday when an airliner crashed into a suburban hillside, a scant six feet apparently the difference between life and death.

The plane evidently snagged the top of one hill, rising perhaps 400 feet from the floor of Happy Valley, then plunged 300 yards into the side of a hill just beyond.

It was a non-scheduled flight operated by North Continent Airlines, Burbank, Calif. The Civil Aeronautics Administration grounded the airline for 30 days.

The same company operated a Chicago — to — Hawk plane which crash-landed last Dec. 20 near Cobourg, Ont. There were no fatalities in that crash.

Berchtesgaden Is Beauty Spot

(Article 65)

Berchtesgaden, Germany (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — Probably one of the best known places in Germany is the little village of Berchtesgaden, which is tucked off in the Bavarian Alps right in the southeast corner of the country. It is here that Hitler had a hideout built to which he could retire from time to time in order to rest or to think up new schemes for world domination.

I had heard so much about this place that it went on my list of musts. As soon as the semester was finished I set out, travelling along on one of the four-lane highways for which Germany is famous. Everything went fine although I found out along the route that there is a law against people hitch-hiking, but it seems that it doesn't apply to foreigners, at least of all to Canadians. When the highway patrol did pick me up they not only forgot about any charge they might have been ready to lay but gave me a ride to the nearest American filling station where I soon got a ride all the way to Berchtesgaden in an insect control truck, and I arrived in the town riding in the back with all the insects. But then, one can't be too choosy.

Great Beauty Spot

As soon as one sees the village it is not hard to realize why Hitler picked such a spot. Rare indeed is the person who fails to be struck instantly with its beauty. The village is built partly in a valley and partly on the side of a hill. Right through the centre runs a rapid-flowing stream and to the south rises the Watzmann, the second largest peak in Germany. Also standing out among other things are the very modern railway station and post office which Hitler had built there.

And of course there is the Berghof, or rather what remains of it, for during the last days of the war the Americans bombarded it heavily and destroyed it almost completely. To my mind this was a bad mistake, for if they had left it intact, and after the war had taken it over, putting a Swiss in charge of it, they could have had one of the most exclusive hotels in all Europe. One only has to look at the plans of the building to realize that.

The history of the town dates from the year 460 A.D., when the Roman army came in and subjugated territory of what is now Salzburg. During the next few hundred years many legends arose about the place, among the most well known being the story of the Watzmann which rises almost 9,000 feet above sea level. According to this legend the mountain was inhabited by a king of the Watze, who so oppressed the people that it came to the attention of the mighty Charlemagne. These monks attempted to stir up the people against the king, and for this purpose met with the farmers on the top of a small mountain, "Der todte Mann" which rises right in the middle of the district. This was unnecessary, however, for the anger of God made itself known just at that moment and rocks from the Watzmann came falling down upon the king's castle, killing not only the king but also

by HORACE B. POWELL

I Was a Wand'ring Sheep

I was a wand'ring sheep,
I did not love my Shepherd's voice
I would not be controlled;
I was a wayward child,
I did not love my Father's voice,
I loved the way of sin.

The Shepherd sought His sheep,
The Father sought His child;
He followed me o'er vale and hill,
O'er desert wide and wild;
He gave His life to win me,
Ransomed and faint and lone;
He bound me with the bands of love
He saved the wand'ring child.

Jesus my Shepherd is,
'Twas He that loved my soul,
'Twas He that washed me in His blood,
'Twas He that made me whole;
'Twas He that sought the lost,
That found the wand'ring sheep,
'Twas He that brought me to the fold
'Tis He that still doth keep.

No more a wand'ring sheep,
I love to be controlled,
I love my tender Shepherd's voice,
I love His precepts true,
I love my Father's voice,
I love, I love His home!

Nearly every lover of the Bible has read, at one time or another, the fourteenth verse of the tenth chapter of the Gospel of St. John, where Jesus says:

"I am the good Shepherd and know
My sheep, and am known of Mine."

That verse, it is said, inspired Dr. Horatius Bonar's hymn, "I Was A Wandering Sheep," which tells so beautifully the story of Christian salvation.

The salvation hymn was but one of many which Dr. Bonar wrote during a distinguished career as a Presbyterian minister on its Scotland. He served first, after graduating from the University of Edinburgh and winning ordination in 1837, as a minister of the Established Church of Scotland. In 1843 he and several of his associates founded the Free Church of Scotland. Twenty-three years later he became minister of the Chalmers Memorial Church in Edinburgh.

There is an anecdote telling of how Bonar's salvation hymn was sung during a revival at a meeting for girls in Massachusetts. Most of the girls in the school who had not previously professed Christ, so the story goes, did so one by one as the evangelistic meetings hymn, from first to last.

went along, but there was one young woman who laughed at the meetings and the soul-winning and refused to attend.

But one night when the revival was all but over she did come out — under most impressive circumstances. The other girls had started the service of the evening with prayer. Then, each girl in turn was quoting the verses of her favorite hymn. In the midst of this part of the worship, the girl who had scoffed at religion entered the meeting hall and, as she walked down the aisle to a seat near the front of the prayer room, she told the story of her own salvation by reciting Bonar's hymn, from first to last.

Shalom from Israel

By Leo H. Marcus

(Article 33)

Ein Iturim, Israel — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — This is one of the best times of the year to visit the agricultural areas of Israel, especially those areas which grow citrus crops. During this season the air is full of the heavy, intoxicating scent of freshly-plucked Jaffa oranges and grapefruit. Formerly Palestine and now Israel is becoming well known in European markets because of the famous Jaffa oranges that are grown in this country. It is interesting to watch the orchard sheds in Haifa port during the citrus season. By day and night lorries and trucks laden with oranges come to the sheds and muscular porters will lug the tightly packed cases and stack them neatly in their thousands, until the cargo ships are moved at the main quay outside and the cases are hoisted aboard and down into the holds of the vessels, then transported to all parts of the world.

Seventy Years of Exporting

The story of the citrus export business, the country's biggest foreign currency earner, is almost seventy years old. The oranges received the name "Jaffa" because at the beginning the oranges were principally exported from the port of Jaffa — an old Arab city situated immediately next to the modern Jewish city of Tel Aviv. The quickly rising demand for Jaffa oranges first stimulated the cultivation and groves expanded rapidly. The groves were mostly owned by rich Arabs and worked by cheap Arab labor.

The lucrative export trade, however, was left in the hands of Greek merchants, who for a long time managed to conceal the destination of their sales to prevent the Arab growers from doing the export selling. To this end, they sent the fruit from Jaffa to Marseilles (Emily) in Turkey, then one of the largest transit ports in the Eastern Mediterranean. There, they were transshipped and taken to Europe. In the course of time, the Arabs shed their commercial naivete and established direct contact with the buyers.

In 1900, Jewish citrus growers got together and formed a marketing organization of their own, the Pardess Syndicate, in the teeth of Arab opposition. After three years of struggle, Pardess attained the agency of a British shipping line, and in 1903 their oranges, grapefruit and lemons reached European markets.

Trade Declines

With growing popularity of Jaffa in Europe, export figures climbed steadily, reaching a record of 15,000,000 cases in 1938-39. World War Two brought a serious decline. The end of the war, the lingering shortage of shipping space, the growing political tension in this country and the unrest which culminated in the war of independence brought no relief.

Israel, its manpower harnessed to the war effort, lost valuable time in holding after abandoned groves — an omission that has proven very costly to the young state. Since then, energetic effort has been made to restore the plantations to their former fruit-bearing capacity.

Last year's export of oranges, his six sons and mad dogs. The blood of the family spilled over into the valley and formed the Koenigsee. Just to be sure that the family did not come back to life, friendly dwarfs from the mountain came and rolled stones upon the dead family. These stones increased in size as they rolled along and thus the Watzmann came to be the second largest mountain in Germany. When one looks at the main peak, called the King Watzmann, it is easily visible between it and the peak to the left the "Frau Watzmann" and the seven Watzmann children, one of which is the "Watzmann Virgin" the king's only daughter.

About the middle of the 12th century, Berchtesgaden was placed by Friedrich Barbarossa directly under the rule of the local bishop. With this rule of the bishops began a seven hundred year struggle among the rulers to retain the ownership and mining rights to the salt mines. During this period the mines were handed around so frequently that it is doubtful if anyone could be sure at any one time to whom the salt belonged. Toward the end of the century the bishops began a new building program which increased the wealth of the city. It became the major source of income for the district. In spite of all the foreign visitors who find their way to Berchtesgaden the people seem to be little affected by them and go about their business as if they were not there. Right now the whole place is filled with American soldiers who have come there to take it easy or to work at the army camp which is situated about two miles from the village proper.

grapefruit and lemons totalled 4,500,000 cases and the government hopes to exceed this figure by at least 500,000 cases this year, if all goes well. In Haifa port, which handles 80 per cent of the citrus export, fruit-carrying vessels are given top priority in berthage on the main quay, so that the perishable cargo can be shipped without delay. In the packing sheds all consignments are spot-checked by government inspectors to make sure that the fruit conforms to the high reputation which Jaffa enjoys today. Badly packed cases are ordered to be repacked to ensure the arrival of the fruit in good condition. One bad case is a danger to hundreds of others.

Israeli Ships Carrying Citrus

For the first time a substantial quantity of this season's export will be carried to Europe in Israeli ships. The ships of the Zim Navigation Company, a fruit-carrying squadron, all equipped with electrical ventilation in their holds, will maintain a shuttle service between Haifa and European ports. They are expected to carry about 20 per cent of this year's export, charging for the country the charges which in the past used to be collected by foreign ships.

Another successful export business which has been built up in recent years is that of citrus concentrates, oils, juices, marmalades, and, beginning recently, drinks peel for processing into various chemical substances. Israeli's ministry of agriculture has set aside considerable sums as loans to growers to renovate their plantations and introduce mechanization, all with a view to lowering production costs and keeping high quality Jaffas at competitive prices in the European market.

STARTING A ROW

For a great many years the Winnipeg Free Press has campaigned against freight rate increases, although there must be just as many people in Winnipeg as elsewhere who depend on railway employment, and naturally would like to see the railway companies given a fair deal.

This Free Press campaign has gradually spread across the Prairies, until for some years past the Western Provinces have been very active in sending highly-paid lawyers to Ottawa to argue against freight rate increases, both before the Board of Transport Commissioners and the recent Royal Commission on Transportation.

One of the great arguments has been that freight rates are fixed so that some parts of the country are at a disadvantage compared to others, and Alberta interests seized upon this to argue that it was wrong that Edmonton and Calgary should pay higher freight rates for goods from Eastern Canada than the water competitive rates charged to people in Vancouver.

The railways' answer is, of course, that they simply have to meet water competition where it exists, and that they can scarcely be expected to meet water competition where it does not exist.

The recent Royal Commission recommended that this problem should be dealt with by a law that rates from the East to Edmonton and Calgary must not be more than five-third the rates charged to Vancouver. This is now accepted railway policy, and part of the law of the land.

Now, it seems to have occurred belatedly to the Winnipeg Free Press and to Winnipeg in general that this deprives Winnipeg of its natural advantage as a market centre for the Prairies. It means that, in the case of many commodities, the rates to Winnipeg will be just as high as the rates to many farther West.

The Winnipeg Free Press still goes on with its freight rate arguments, but it is understood that they are not as popular now in Manitoba as they used to be. Probably a lot of Manitoba people, including the Provincial politicians, would be only too glad to see the control of freight rates passed back to the Board of Transport Commissioners, where it would have been well to have left it all the time.

HE DESERVES RECOGNITION

It is to be hoped that the Canadian military authorities will promote or otherwise suitably reward that vigilant sentry who perhaps at some risk to himself, thwarted that attempted burglary at Vimy Barracks, near Kingston, last Saturday night.

The sentry, whose name for some reason or other was not given in the Kingston Whig Standard story on the occurrence, spotted two men trying to break into the single storey building where small arms and ammunition are stored. When the sentry challenged them and advanced upon them, the three would-be burglars fled, abandoning the axe with which one of them had been trying to chop down a door.

The sentry later told the provincial police that the three men had been wearing army uniforms. A subsequent examination of the premises indicated that nothing had been taken, as the looters had been surprised before effecting an entry to the building.

FORESEES JAPANESE INFLUX

Senator Thomas Reid of New Westminster says that 1,500 British Columbia-born Japanese who left Canada to fight for Japan during the Second World War have applied for re-admission to this country. He says also that an additional 1,500 Japanese have applied for permission to come to Canada.

None of these Japanese is eligible for entry to Canada at present, and will not be until after ratification of a Japanese peace treaty.

Senator Reid, like nearly all the people of British Columbia, views the entry of Japanese to Canada with a hostile eye. But he seems to think that the Japanese soon will be coming again to British Columbia.

He said, the other day: "I am willing to hazard a guess that the 3,000 will settle in British Columbia." An odd remark that, for a Liberal senator. He doesn't seem to think the government is going to pay much attention to the wishes of the people of British Columbia.

TOUCH OF HUMOR

It is not necessary to have a highly developed sense of humour to enjoy that remark, attributed to Colonel Duncan Douglas, camp commandant at Petawawa, that he had posted an order that all personnel leaving the camp would be searched.

Colonel Douglas was referring to the investigation under way at Petawawa into the disappearance of stacks of steel rails, thousands of stoves and huge quantities of other material.

Colonel Douglas certainly deserves to be commended on issuing that order. A dishonest soldier, if there are any such, might easily carry off a couple of stoves hidden under his tunic, or even, absently-mindedly, stick a half dozen steel rails in his pocket for use as tooth picks.

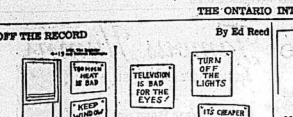
OLD ADAM; YOUNG EVE



"The woman tempted," Adam said,
"And I did eat."
And that excuse till all are dead
Men will repeat.

A smiling Eve, just seven years old
And fair to see,
Led me where ice cream cones are sold
And tempted me.

I knew her mother had denied
The sweet she sought.
But I am weak. I stepped inside.
The cone I bought.

Then when he mother shook her head
At such a treat,
"The woman tempted me," I said,
"And she did eat."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
April 19th., 1932.

Nine awnings have been placed over windows in the city hall and they look very smart.

The city's lodge for transients is now closed. During the fall and winter hundreds of wanderers have been housed and fed; last night sixty men were taken care of. From now on no wanderers will be taken in and the lodge will be used entirely for local unemployed single men, who will also receive three meals a day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Learmont will spend the weekend in Toronto.

Fire Chief William Lynch and the members of the fire department are making the annual inspection of the fire fighting apparatus in the public schools. Fire drills will be called for in each school.

30 YEARS AGO

Lieut. Col. E. D. O'Flynn of this city will preside over the proceedings of the Great War Veterans' Association which will open in Ottawa tomorrow.

Dr. J. M. Wilson and Mr. G. B. Lancaster of this city will attend the G.W.V.A. convention in Ottawa tomorrow.

There will be a baseball practice at the Fair Grounds for the Intermediate team tomorrow and the following re requested to be present: F. Goyer, G. Langdon, G. Clapper, P. Cornell, F. A citizen informed us today that he visited all the boot and shoe stores here in search of a pair of tan boots and was told that tan boots have gone out of style. It is astonishing when you think of the thousands of pairs of tan boots that used to be worn.

Mr. R. H. M. Anson-Cartwright has arrived home from Queen's University, Kingston, on vacation.

Mr. H. Freeman Ketcheson went to Stirling this morning.

Mr. Leat G. Crozier of the Bank of Commerce, Toronto, and formerly of Belleville, is here on a short vacation. He is a grandson of the late Dr. Crozier, William Street North.

ARE THEY WORTH WHILE?

The words "bigger" and "better" characterize our age. We throw out our cheats considerably when we as a nation, a community, or an industry produce something bigger than anybody has produced before, and according to our estimation—better.

The philosopher William James, Harvard seer of fifty years ago, has written this about bigness and greatness: "As for me, my bed is made: I am against bigness and greatness in all their forms . . . The bigger the unit you deal with, the hollower, the more brutal, the more mendacious is the life displayed. So I am against all big organizations as such . . . and in favor of the eternal forces of truth which always work in the individual and immediately unintelligible way—underdogs always, until history comes, after they are long dead, and puts them on top."

A good way to measure the quantity and quality of your Christian faith is to ask yourself whether or not you believe what William James has said. Or do you still put your faith in bigness? The attitude of William James reflects basic principles of the Christian gospel.

Jesus, and His little band of disciples—starting out to change the world, and changing it—constitute the classical refutation of the value of bigness.

OUR TOWN
BY JACK - SCOTT

MINK, ANYONE?

My neighbor, Bob Testar, has discovered oil on his property. The mink coats and steam turbine cars should be getting to be heard around here is a caution.

So far the oil hasn't been a gusher, and he is well up at the back of his place. Like the minks and yachts, the oil remains all in the mind. Indeed, the expert opinion on the matter is by anyone who cares to make a noise like an authority—seems to be that this stuff is a liquid type of fool's gold. Pretty, they say, but worthless.

Still, most every day, Bob and I go up to "the well" and gaze gweltie at the sheen, our faces contorted by greed, bank-notes fluttering crisply before our eyes.

It's made quite a difference in my relationship with Bob. Bob is a carpenter, plays a bit on the dance orchestra that serves our neck of the woods (big gingham-and-denim dance April 23rd, by the way), but I keep picturing him in my mind's eye as being back when the royalties are rolling in.

I see him in a vivid shirt and sun glasses, with a big Stetson white flannel at Cap D'Antibes. My flawless play on the hat at a New York first night.

I'm acquainted with several men of great wealth, but I never saw any of them carry it off so well. Bob looks like a million in last winter's coveralls sitting before a patch of probably worthless oil.

* * *

Naturally enough, this has touched off a good deal of high-octane talk around our place. Bob per capita or dreamers is on the upgrade. Our daughter is going around paraphrasing the lyrics of an old song and crooning, "I'm gonna be rich as Rockefeller, not a million than a poor man with a million dollars."

It may be true that the best things in life are free, but the one who's looked at this puddle of oil and contemplated its giddy possibilities has acquired a gleam of a candlepower many times that. I picture the way we are watching, say, a sunset.

There are, of course, some things money can't buy, what, Bob says, they don't come in bottles or two-dollar bills.

The only man I've met so far who hasn't got a little bug about this is the Irish old age pensioner who lives about a mile down the road. I picked him up on the way into the village the other day, told him about the oil, and wondered what he'd do if he found a bonanza on his land. "What would you do with a million dollars, Pop?" I asked him.

The old man thought about it very seriously and replied in that lilting brogue that makes Barry Fitzgerald seem Tibetan.

"Well, now," he said, "I'd buy me a 16-foot oilsaker-built boat with a fine little motor in her and I'd always have a jug of whisky in the shack."

* * *

I have only once met anyone who actually sprang overnight from rags to riches, relatively speaking, and it was pretty disappointing.

That was the case of Paw and Maw Mulligan and 11 assorted Mulligans of the hamlet of Bon Accord, Alberta, who suddenly found themselves with an oil well in their back yard, about 50,000 clams in the bank and an income of $1,000 a month.

Did they rush to Bermuda or Miami? Did Maw hurry to the style centres? Not on your life. They decided they liked Bon Accord. Why didn't even buy herself a new hat.

Paw had dreamed about striking it rich, of course as everyone has, and the dream had always included a house with an inside toilet and plenty of pantries. That was his ambition.

It's all a matter of relativity, I guess. One man's need is another man's inside plumbing.

Myself, barring discovery of oil or a sweepstake ticket or the will of an uncle who went to Australia 50 years ago and never heard from again, I see no hope of ever being a rich man. I'm going to be poor.

I think it would be nice to be rich, very rich—at least for a little while. I have a hunch I'd be like a sweepstake winner I once interviewed. My husband was ill for years, who had just received the biggest cheque he'd ever had—about $100,000-odd writing for her.

"I'm going to be completely foolish with the money," the woman told me happily, filling my glass with six inches of champagne, "I'm going to get dressed up so that traffic will stop in the street when I go out. I'm going to have the longest, blackest car they make and a speaking tube to the chauffeur. I'm going to play No. 7 on the wheel at Monte Carlo. Boy, I'm going to live."

I don't know what ever happened to the lady. Perhaps Bob will invest in oil. Perhaps the way when our yacht touches there. Perhaps we'll stop and buy a flower from her.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When you see a robin singing on your hoosetop, he is not singing for fun or joy. He is declaring a territory.

He is warning other robins that this is his place. Here his wife will build the nest; and off this acre or so, he and his mate will take their chief interest in his nestlings.

If other robins attempt to define a territory too near his, he will fight them and drive them away. This process of territorial definition is one of the most fascinating features of bird life, and biologists have in recent years done some remarkable research in the subject.

All birds, except the community nesting species such as gulls, terns, herons and others that prefer colonies, go through this serious business of locating and declaring a territory. Their singing is a warning, and a warning to others of their own kind that the immediate area is pre-empted. One acre of ground will of course support several species of birds. But there is fierce competing for the same foods for their young. The bird that we have had to apportioned off amongst the birds. Rarely do the biologists find real conflict between birds of the same species nesting too close to one another.

The robin on your hoosetop may be the same one that nested with you last year. Or he may be one that was hatched last year. If he has had to experience whatever to teach him what to do. He flew away, an infant last fall. But there on your rooftop he sits, going through the ancient and instinctive rites of his race. What a wonderful instrument his tiny brain must be! An instrument of absolute and steely instinct, but ruling it, how flabby and insecure are human instincts in comparison.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HUMAN VALUES

Ever hovering about us are things of value. We ourselves tag these values as though they were mercantile. It is in our own personal appraisement of these values that our worth and character may be appraised. The highest of all values, however, we must designate as human values.

Material values are forever changing, according to the mood or circumstance of the time, but human values do not change. Honesty is honesty under all circumstances. We can tie to this, as we can tie to a multitude of like fundamentals, for there is a permanence to them.

To the human values of a friend are we most attracted, perhaps without our perceiving the fact that it is what holds us to that friend. It is because of the human values of the world that we have our hospitals, our churches, our boys' and girls' clubs, our scientific research efforts, and every form of organization that has for its objective the creation of a healthier and happier world. Without consideration for these human values the whole world would be thrown into chaos.

The tragic thing about war is that it seeks to destroy all human values. It bargains off the future, leaving generation after generation to pay the price exacted. No human soul is beyond an appraisement for it is God's most precious creation. And if the worst of us pay tribute to Him we should give first consideration to human values.

None of us can safely tie to material values. They can vanish overnight. Besides they have no quality to stir the imagination that is the mark of the immortal. Only that which is immortal can stir a price upon it? Wealth stored in others is genuine wealth!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

SHAME ON SUCH DOCTORS

My husband and I were surprised and pleased to read your article "Husband Should Witness Baby's Birth." We were surprised at such words coming from a doctor and pleased to realize we are not alone in our belief . . .

(Signed)

I must have been away off my rocker if I wrote such a title. The very idea of a husband witnessing, seeing, watching or looking on at the birth of his own baby, like a typical Yankee by-stander, hands in pockets, gawking at an injured or dying person in the street, infuriates me. And your letter, Ma'am, like so many others received by the long-suffering editor of this column, is properly signed, for which I thank you, but not dated and not identified with any particular city. Therefore I can't even guess what article of mine surprised and pleased you and your husband.

But let me tell you this, Ma'am. What's the matter with young married people anyway? Is marriage just a legitimate arrangement . . . or is it a union for the propagation of human life?

Some nineteenth century lying-in institutions or the trick specialists, experimenters or other representatives of such institutions have increasingly contained to the public why husbands are excluded: it would be unsanitary to have a husband to remain in the same room, and the doctors or nurses are too busy to stop to take care of fainting husbands.

As for husbands who faint in such circumstances, if there isn't a brave little nurse to rub their wrists and cool their brows, if any, let 'em lie there. Who cares?

But this phony claim that presence of a husband is unsanitary is one for the birds. For one instance, here is the very "sanitary" institution works:

Dear Dr. Brady:

. . . I had a baby in . . . hospital. My husband was tossed around from place to place and even sent home, although I wanted him with me. I was kept for hours in the labor room and more hours in the delivery room alone, except for a moment from time to time when a strange nurse would look in and tell me not to worry . . . Last of all of nurses was brought in to study my case, and each of the dozen pupils was allowed to examine me and make her own observations . . .

(Signed)

That's the "sanitary" atmosphere nineteenth century institutions would maintain in the twentieth century and probably will continue to maintain as long as the education of nurses and girls and prospective parents is so thoroughly neglected as it is today.

Answer—Thank you, I'm glad there are numerous reports from twin sisters, both of whom have children, but till now none of boy-girl twin combination both of whom have children.

Napalm Drives Out Friend, Foe

Top, a French soldier watches a big blossom of fire rise in the sky, left from the explosion of a napalm bomb on a Viet Min position in the rice-rich Tongking delta of Indo-China where the war against communist expansion is still being bitterly fought. The French are making an all-out drive to clear the rebels from this area. Above, a refugee from one of the villages that had been communist hands carries his children in a basket-scale arrangement, generally used in this country for toting heavy burdens. Other refugees in background are carrying belongings and driving their livestock before them. — Central Press Canadian.

Proposed Increases for Night School Instructors Referred Back for More Consideration

Rural members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board took a dim view last night of a proposed increase in salaries for night school instructors from $2.25 to $3 per hour. Increases were also proposed for the night school shop director and for the night school principal.

There was considerable discussion on the matter with result that the recommendation for pay increases from the special committee was turned back to the advisory-vocational committee for further consideration.

Mr. Brooks Allen, chairman of the advisory - vocational committee, brought the matter up for discussion by pointing out that rural taxpayers would take a very dim view of pay increases for day school instructional staff when their own incomes were dropping.

Wanted to Know Reason

Roy Sills of Thurlow township wanted to know the reason for the raise. "Is it just because we are in a position to demand more money?" he asked.

School principal G. E. Currie noted that it was very difficult to secure night school instructors with the regular day school teachers not always willing to work in the extra work.

As result shop instructors were secured mostly from industry. It had been felt by the committee that this procedure, however, would bring remuneration in line with pay received in this trade by industrialists if called upon to do overtime work.

But Mr. Allen disagreed. Motor mechanics were making nothing like $3 per hour for overtime work, he claimed. "There has got to be a limit for salary increases," he said. "We owe to account to our township council for education costs and increased salaries will not sit too well with farmers when their own income is dropping."

At the request of the rural municipalities the High School Board will borrow the necessary funds to carry on the school and make requisitions to the municipalities in the fall following collection of taxes.

It was pointed out that when the municipalities were forced to borrow money to meet high school expenses the municipalities themselves had to bear the interest charges. Such being the case municipalities purchasing education from the board escaped bearing their share of interest costs.

It was decided the board would commence borrowing under the new policy starting May 1st.

The board agreed to co-operate with city council if the latter body decided to inaugurate its proposed principle of setting the tax rate in October. Mr. A. C. Campbell pointed out that if the school board was asked to set its budget early it would have to budget for a surplus.

Will Offer Contract

The board voted to offer a contract to Miss Muriel Gibson of Sudbury as commercial teacher for the high school starting next September.

Although tenders were called for re-finishing gymnasium floors, the board decided the janitors could do the work with school owned equipment.

National Election Will be Held In S.A. Next Year

Capetown, South Africa, Apr. 19 (Reuters)—Prime Minister Daniel Malan said Fri., South Africa will have a national election next year.

He told the assembly he will place his fight with the country's supreme court before the voters within 10 or 12 months from the end of the current session, due in a month or so.

He is not required to call an election until the end of next year. But he has been under constant pressure from the opposition for an earlier poll.

Malan made his announcement during a House debate on the constitutional deadlock which has gripped South Africa since the Supreme Court ruled last month that one of Malan's color bar laws—one placing mixed-blood voters on a special list to vote for certain candidates—was unconstitutional and therefore invalid.

The Prime Minister has defied the ruling and is contending the court should have supremacy over parliament. He plans a bill to obtain this view.

Malan told the House today he will put the bill to this issue.

If the opposition wins, his administration will resign itself to the result, he said.

Challenges Foes To Make Plan Campaign Issue

Capetown, South Africa, April 19—(AP)—Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's nationalist government announced it will introduce next week a bill to restrict court powers over its legislation, bringing to a head an issue which has led to threats of violence.

Primary purpose of the bill is to destroy the power of the supreme court which last month ruled out a key act in Malan's white supremacy policy. The act would have stripped the 150-year-old constitution voting rights of 50,000 persons of mixed blood in Cape Province.

Malan has said the bill would bar the courts from overruling acts of parliament—in which his party now has a majority—and would make court decisions subject to parliamentary approval.

The united party, the labor party, and the torch commandos—a recently-formed group which opposes Malan—formed a united front this week against the court bill.

The united front demanded Malan resign and call a general election now, a year before his term expires. Malan told parliament yesterday he would not do that and challenged his foes to make the court plan a campaign issue in the 1953 election.

HAD TO WAIT

Brantford, Ont. — (CP) — A provincial inspector, spotting a newly-painted sign reading "gaol" on the Brant county jail, said that the proper way to spell it is "jail." Attending were Chairman Harold Seldon and members Miss Josephine Tickell, Mrs. R. Morden, George Wishart, Jack Sproule, William Baldwin, A. C. Campbell, Brooke Allen, William McMeekin, Clifford Barber, Archie Greatrix and Roy Sills.

Charge of Selling Milk in Area Is Dismissed

Chatham, Ont., April 19— (CP) —Magistrate Ivan B. Craig today dismissed a charge against the Kent Dairy Limited that the firm sold milk in an area in which it was licensed.

In a written judgment—the first of its kind under the Milk Control Act—he held that the Ontario Milk Control Board had not established the area in which the firm could distribute milk.

The charge was laid Feb. 14 by R. E. Randall, a milk board inspector, after he stopped a Kent Dairy truck in Harwich township and purchased a quart of milk.

Randall produced in court a certified copy of the 1952 licence issued in the dairy's name. On the licence was typed the distribution area, one section being in Erie View Heights, summer resort in Harwich township.

Magistrate Craig asked: "Just where is the dividing line of Erie Beach and Harwich township? There is no evidence before me from the milk control board except the notation on the licence showing that the board designated this area as being restricted to the Kent Dairy."

There was nothing to show that the board received approval from the Lieutenant - Governor in Council, as required by the act, for the distribution area given for the dairy.

Speaking of Mr. Randall's direct evidence, he said: "None of the milk was consumed by Mr. Randall, therefore, under the act, could he be called a consumer?"

Any legislation having the effect of a statute which encroach upon the rights of a subject must be strictly construed in favor of his common-law rights.

Spruce Umbrellas For April Showers

Paris. (Reuters)—Dame Fashion is all set to look pert and chic this year despite the rainy season.

Fashion designers have given the usually mundane umbrella a feminine, elegant and gaiety touch "must" accessory to provide the finishing touch to the smart ensemble making a fashion comeback.

New motifs and blurred prints are offered as are small flowered and tie-silk designs.

Solid shaded effects lend gay touches to sombre outfits. One cover is a brilliant flame color at the centre, shading out to a deep violet.

For those who prefer less fantasy, there are solid-toned models, often featured with a contrasting colored lining. Vivid tangerine lines the underside of one white shantung model. Chartreuse and purple offer another spicy combination.

There is more in handles and shapes, too. The most popular new style features a slim, straight-lined handle. This style has generally replaced the crooked handle of the Edwardian models of the past seasons.

Bone, glass, ivory and even china lend new effects. One model, in ivory, has the top carved like a miniature totem pole.

Animal heads provide a popular motif on many handles. A whole vineyard full of dogs, cranes, and even scaley snakes appear in carved wood, bone or leather, complete with glass or jewelled eyes.

The feminine parasol, reminiscent of the gay '90's, also reappears on the scene. Lace, ruffles and embroidery cast a flattering shadow on the modern Misses' face.

Killbank read a short story, the theme of which was "Good Living Forevermore". Mrs. Charles Walters read a poem entitled "Legend of the Three Bells", which Mrs. Leonard Reid read the story, an Easter message, "Accepting Christ as Master".

The members were delighted with the vocal solo by Audrey Elgie and the piano solo by Ronald McBride.

After the meeting was closed, Mrs. H. Quinsey invited the ladies to stay for a cup of tea.

Publish Details Of Prince's Togs

Ilfracombe, Devon, England — (CP)— British mothers now can obtain knitting details of high-necked sweaters, gloves and cap, similar to those worn by Prince Charles in the gardens of Clarence House.

Ever since the three-year-old prince was photographed in a white sweater trimmed in red and set off with ships and sailors, knitting mothers began worrying the fashion journals for a pattern.

Now, Margaret Youings, designer of the royal sweater, has produced a number with scarlet-coated Guardsmen marching across the front and instructions on how it can be knitted have been published.

Mrs. Youings, who started these designs as a hobby, now has a staff of 20 knitters supplying firms in North America. A "Royal Tour" number issued for Montreal is patterned by the royal train that took the Queen and her husband across Canada. It is, in fact, Canadian in every detail.

Missionary's Needs Dazzle Storekeeper

Ottawa (CP) —Hardware merchants are used to all sorts of odd requests but petite Pat Styran, 23, threw a curve the other day that startled one dealer.

Pat ordered a galvanized bath tub, 12 padlocks and a police whistle. And that was just the start of her list of household necessities for a four-year stay in Africa as a missionary. She has this month for Nigeria with financial support from Calvary Baptist Church here.

She will be out of touch with a store for some time so her stock of cooking includes a dozen pair of shoes, 24 dresses, eight nightgowns, 18 pairs of stockings and a pair of mosquito nets.

Pat will take along some household goods too, among them a folding bed and deck chair, and, of course the galvanized bathtub.

A use for the padlocks isn't too hard to imagine. But the police whistle stumped everyone. She says that is to summon the natives by the time they will help operate a small hand grist mill which rounds out her list of essentials.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By

WINIFRED J. WILSON
MAKE HIM WORK

In Birdland it all depends on the species whether or not the male bird shares in the duties of housekeeping with the female. It is happily the case in Drake, he definitely does nothing. Neither does Mr. Hummingbird, but goes off to enjoy himself. Mocking Bird Mrs. Hummer to take entire charge of the eggs and then the twins. Rightly, Mr. Redstart absents himself, because he is too conspicuous, and would draw attention to the nest. Mr. Baltimore Oriole does not even assist in weaving the hanging basket home. His wife is the expert.

Robins are interesting to watch, for they build in places that are visible, and the parents can easily be differentiated. His head is darker, his breast redder than hers. Both help construct the nest. They take turns incubating the eggs, later brooding the small nestlings and feeding them. The majority of our small birds thus divide household duties between them, and so do other species. Crows, jays, magpies, and pullins take turns covering the eggs to keep them warm, and the male shearwaters and marsh hawks both help to feed the youngsters.

Some wifes are very clever about making their husbands work. While they sit tight on the nest to keep very young children from catching cold, the males do the marketing. You may have seen a male southern winter quarters some time before the males. Their wives must have long been puzzled, but now are inclined to think that they have found an explanation: the males have to stay behind to look after the children until they are old enough to travel. It is definitely known that, after the eggs are laid, male phalaropes, which are smaller and dress more modestly than the females, do absolutely all the work. Probably other shore birds have this same habit, at least to a certain extent.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

They say it's wonderful, this bacon and egg pie, and so easy to make. Cover a pie tin with pie pastry. Into it, drop six eggs separately from a saucer to prevent breaking them. In among the eggs place six or eight pieces of back bacon and a half a dozen slices of raw tomato (or a few spoonfuls of canned tomatoes.)

Cover with pastry as with any other pie. Bake in 350 oven for half an hour . . . This makes a good supper dish hot, or is even tastier if served cold. Those who have tried out the pie caution against using side bacon instead of back bacon because the side is too greasy.

Car Key Tags

Not long ago, we wrote a piece wondering about how the Ontario licence stickers this year (which make use of the previous plates) would affect the key tag business of the War Amputations organization.

A letter has come in from A. J. Parsons, manager of the national War Amps Assoc., to say that the use of stickers was a blow to their organization. "It was not only impractical, but too costly for us to reproduce the windshield sticker in miniature form," Mr. Parsons says.

"In order to renew key tags for Ontario for 1952, we have produced a tag which bears the same number as the previous year, but reads 'Ontario 1952,' Mr. Parsons explains. He points out that under the present law, the sticker is expected to be good.

During 1951, the Amps were mailed out 1,709 sets of lost car keys by their tag service.

Atomic Suits

Everybody remembers when fashion designers startled the world with their new Bikini swim suits, so named because they reacted like atomic bombs on the beaches startling everybody by their sheer scantiness.

Archaeologists now digging in Sicily have just uncovered a beautiful mosaic dating from the 4th century A.D. It shows a bathing beauty of the Roman empire wearing a two-piece scanty which is identical with the 1946 Bikini swim suit. Is there anything really new in this old world of ours?

Uncle Frontenac says he has never understood the mentality of the people who produce all these printed forms which leave a whole line in which to state your age, and only one inch in which to write the full names of both your parents.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's older, but she trusts him!

By and large, I would say that it a choice had to be made between love and trust as the basis of a marriage, the venture would have a far greater chance of success if it were founded on the latter without the former, than the other way around. If two people trust each other, it establishes a sense of security between them that may well develop into the warmth of love and devotion.

On the other hand, if perfect trust is missing from the feeling either of two people has for the other, there is a basic insecurity in their relationship which bodes ill for the future.

All this is by way of introducing a young woman of 26 whose desire to marry a man of 34 appears to be largely inspired by the fact that she trusts him more than she trusts anyone else.

So far, so good.

She also thinks she loves him. Hence, she supposes that those two fundamental requirements for a happy marriage. Can she then go ahead confidently on the basis that all will be well?

Not necessarily, I think. For in this particular case, there are special circumstances which need very careful analysis and consideration.

The man this girl thinks of marrying is separated from his wife and has a divorce under way. Under the terms of the separation, he has custody of a son, 11, and adopted son, 16.

"I've been going with this man for a year," the girl writes, "but all the time my folks and my friends keep nagging at me, saying he's too old for me, and that if I married him I would have to care for someone else's children. They don't want me to be with younger fellows, but I don't want to. You see, every time I've ever been out with a fellow my own age, something would happen to spoil the evening and I was left walking home. Now I can't seem to trust anyone but this one man."

Undecided

"He has asked me several times if I would marry him when his divorce is final, and once I said yes. But people and the friends who keep talking to me have got me now so I don't know whether I want to or not. He and I enjoy each other's company and have never had an argument. I get along fine, too, with his 11-year-old son, but not so well with the adopted one, who is older and girl-crazy, and who even acts toward me as though I were a years old like himself.

"Do you think I should marry this man or give him up?"

While she tells little about the man, there are a few facts from which it seems fair to draw certain additional conclusions.

Prominent among these, of course, is the fact that his personality and behavior have served to give the girl complete confidence in him. Presumably, if he were not a trustworthy person, it would have shown up at some time during the year of their friendship.

Another point in his favor is that it was to him that custody of the two boys was given. Had he been otherwise than a thoroughly fit person, that would hardly have happened.

A third reason to believe that he is a man of commendable character is that the girl says they get along well—and have never had an argument. This would appear to indicate that he is thoughtful and considerate.

If these two individuals were the only ones concerned in the situation, and if they gave themselves at least some attempt to make sure they had not mistaken their feelings, I should think there might be a very good chance that a marriage would turn out successfully. But—and it's a big but—they are far from being the only ones concerned.

Between the man's young son and herself there is a difference of only nine years; between herself and the adopted boy, only four. While the 11-year-old would probably accept her as a stepmother, it is all too possible that she might have real trouble with the 16-year-old. Already, he treats her as though she were his own age.

In my opinion, it would put a very heavy load indeed on very young shoulders for a girl of 20 to acquire simultaneously a husband 14 years older than herself, a young stepson, and another stepson who conceivably might become a serious problem in more ways than one. I would be inclined to advise her to keep clear of a marriage that would require so many difficult adjustments.

PLAN NEW PROGRAM

Petropolis, Brazil, April 19 — (AP)— President Getulio Vargas said yesterday his government is planning a vast agricultural reform program that will free many Brazilian farm workers from virtual serfdom. The project called for distribution of public land, elimination of backward farming methods and establishing farmers on new rich soil. He said a government commission is studying the project and would make a detailed announcement soon.

May Be Good, But It Hurts!

One of 1,383 mid-western U.S. citizens inoculated against typhoid in flood-menaced Council Bluffs, Ia., Janette Anderson, 2, loudly protests as she gets a hypodermic injection in one of three emergency stations that have been set up. Reassuring Janette is her mother, Mrs. Max Anderson (centre). President Truman, flying over the flood area, said it was "worse than could be imagined."—Central Press Canadian.

Food for Thought

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION:

I read your cooking chats regularly and enjoy them very much especially when you tell about your family and friends. I love your comments on Marianne in training as I'm a nurse and I can just see her. . . I wanted to ask you for information on using the skim milk powder in baking and cooking. I've been using it for over a year now—soon after you told us about it. I find when using it in regular recipes that I have to use more shortening and I'm not too certain how much. I made the applesauce cake you gave us. . . with the powdered milk and we like it very much . . . we have our meat in a locker and we put the side pork in fresh. We find it is very fat but I tried cooking it slowly in the oven with a barbeque sauce over it and we liked it very much. . . . give my best to as always just like a breath of fresh air filled with sunshine. The nursing training is beginning to "take". Yesterday I was given tooth brush drill. It seems I slant my toothbrush wrong when I clean my teeth! She also threw out a cracked cup—"just a breeding place for germs, Mother." I was admonished about having a big 500-bottle of aspirin in the bathroom. I'm going to be brought up yet!

The amount of fat to be added to products containing skim milk powder when you want to bring the fat content up to whole milk strength is 3-100. Extremely hard to measure, but roughly it would be 1 teaspoon butter (or other fat) to each 1 cup dry skim milk added when you reconstitute. . . hope she continues enthusiastic—she'll make a good nurse if she does.—May D.

ANSWER:

Marianne was home yesterday powder. So you see if you were making a butter cake calling for 1-2 cup butter or shortening you would need to add 1-2 teaspoon extra of butter or shortening. If you fancy the cakes need more shortening than I suggest—add more—it won't hurt the cake—that is, up to 2 or 3 additional tablespoonfuls.

Your suggestion about the barbecue sauce over thick slices of baked side pork is excellent, I hope some of the readers who slaughter their own hogs see this.

I was glad to hear about Billy's first tooth—and bet by now has another.

QUESTION:

Would like to know where you get those pastry wheels you mentioned in a recipe, that pastry could be cut with. You said it could be cut with sharp knife or pastry wheel. I have asked in all of the places here but none has them. I had one and it had a design on one side for decorating a cake.—Mrs. (W.) MacD.

ANSWER:

The T. Eaton has pastry wheels in stock in their hardware departments at all times and they cost 20 cents. If you will write to them they'll send you what you want. A metal-pastry-wheel for trimming the pastry from the edge of a pie, etc, they will send it to you.

QUESTION:

Just wondering how many raw apples and oranges a person on a diet can eat each day. I like them to fill in between meals. Sometimes I eat three or four apples and an orange or two each day. I do not eat any sweets, starch or greasy foods.—B.B.

ANSWER:

I am assuming it is a reducing diet you are on. Oranges and apples are excellent but count their calories in your total daily calorie count. Oranges have 56, apples 72—both medium-sized fruit. Four apples and two oranges contain 400 calories.

WOUNDS SEVEN

Rome, April 19—(Reuters)—Luigi Bocino, tax office employee, yesterday ran amok brandishing a knife and chisel and severely wounded the small town of Latino, near here, for more than an hour. He wounded seven persons before police grabbed him. Four policemen were among the injured.

FILM BANNED

Beirut, Lebanon, April 19—AP Ninotchka, the 1936 Greta Garbo-Melvyn Douglas film satire on Sovietism, was banned by the government today because of reported pressure from the Russian legation. The film has played in Lebanon's movie houses for years.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Jewel-expressions set in our daily life

"Thank you". . . "Please". . . "I am so sorry". . . "How very kind of you". . . "Do you mind if I——" "I beg your pardon."

These and similar expressions that show consideration for others, are shining jewels in the setting of daily life. And what a joy it is, what an inspiration it is, to hear charming people say them with such grace that they radiate their kindly inclination to others . . . to friends, to relatives, to co-workers, to acquaintances, to strangers. We think, "Someone very kind, very pleasant, has just passed by!"

Opening the presents at the golden wedding celebration

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our parents' golden wedding celebration is to be held soon, an Open House for about 300 guests. Should Mother and Dad open the gifts themselves, or should one of us daughters attend to this?—L.A.

I like best having the wife, the golden wedding "bride" . . . with the courtly assistance of her husband, the "groom" . . . open the presents that are brought to them on this great occasion. With so many guests arriving, and probably so many of them "bearing gifts", it would undoubtedly be inconvenient to open the presents during the receiving of the guests. But at the most convenient time after all the guests have arrived, there could be scheduled the charming festivity of the opening-of-the-presents.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How old should a Junior bridesmaid be?

A Junior bridesmaid is a girl of that in-between age, too old for a flower girl and too young for a bridesmaid . . . from, say, ten years old to fourteen or fifteen years old. (It's difficult to give the exact age, for it does somewhat depend on the young lady's height.)

"Himself" follows his wife and the usher up the aisle

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When husband and wife are guests at a church wedding, and the wife takes the usher's arm, does her husband always follow directly behind them?—B.G.

This is the customary procedure. However, if the church aisle is wide, the husband may, if he wishes, walk on the other side of his wife (that is, on her right side, she always walking on the usher's right).

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been going steady with a boy for ten months. We plan to marry a couple of years after we graduate from high school next June. Would it be correct for me to buy him a jacket for his birthday? I know he needs a lightweight jacket that he could wear in the summer or in the fall, but not a sports coat.—R. M.

Don't consider giving this young man wearing apparel, please. . . . this would be entirely inappropriate. And I imagine your giving such an inappropriate present to this boy would cause a lot of raised eyebrows! I'm fairly sure that your parents . . . if they knew of your bad-taste plan . . . would certainly be embarrassed by such a well-bred young man! He would certainly be embarrassed by such ill-considered "attention". (You carefully failed to mention if the boy had ever given you a present.) And he would, I'm sure, be the first to think, not be too thrilled to have you call attention to his birthday and give him this important present. Better curb your too-generous impulses, my girl . . . and think of a more appropriate present to give this boy for his birthday.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Dramatize your flaws

Katharine Cornell has full, wide lips. Do you suppose she uses lipstick in such a way as to make her mouth look smaller? Being intelligent, she accents her mouth, using a magenta shade that glorifies her complexion and her interesting face. Some pretty young girls, lamenting that their mouths are wide, should stop their bawling. The rosebud pattern or Cupid's bow is distinctly out of date, doesn't suit today's girl, who is capable and independent.

Prematurely grey hair may be considered a flaw, but not by the girl whose brain clicks. With a young face, beautiful skin and a trim figure, grey hair looks distinguished. It need not make a girl look older than her years if she dyes it, she is in for a lifelong sentence of retouching. In due course of time, the hair will lose its lovely lights and shadows. It is better to accept the coloring that consider it an asset.

Small girls deplore the fact that they're only half a man-sized hug. All put on! Nothing to it! They know they're cute. They can wear kid clothes. The gulp thing they must guard against is gaining weight. A short, fat woman is just too much of dumpling.

A girl may not have perfect features; in that event she should forget them. She can make herself vivid in various ways — by using make-up cleverly, by putting her mind on becoming clothes, by learning to appreciate line and color—and so stand among the ladies of fashion. It isn't money that makes a woman well dressed; it is good taste, distinction of bearing, grace of movement.

Some women who know what's what do not always follow fashion's lead. Some, having fairly heavy eyebrows, have done no tweezing, preferring the natural line and growth to the mere shadow that has become a worldwide fringe. The emaciated pattern is not becoming to all faces.

Many tall girls consider those extra inches a handicap. They aren't if a young woman has a beautiful body and carries herself like a queen. They are a flaw only when one tries to camouflage them by stooping, eventually losing fine posture. The tall figure should be regal, dignified. Only the cuties are entitled to be cutups.

Mrs. Norwood Reid and his mother, of Glen Ross, were being towed to their truck across the Frankford bridge on Mill Street, when the truck apparently ran over the slack chain with which it was being towed. A sudden jerk of the truck caused the latter to throw the truck out of control, and it jumped through the guard rail on the north side of the bridge. The truck dropped into shallow water and Mr. Reid and his mother were able to reach the bank free of the front River without difficulty. The truck was only slightly damaged.

Mr. Ray Young was appointed to succeed Mr. Hubble as president of the club. Mr. Young acted as toastmaster during the banquet, handled the task very capably.

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Ewing and Mary Dorland of Wooler, as they rendered vocal solos and duets accompanied by Mrs. Austin at the piano.

Dr. Fraser Williams of Clermont, New York, was presented with a club trophy for the largest white shooting last year. An enjoyable social hour completed a fine evening.

The Legion has announced that entry forms for the "Barrel Derby" will be out this week. The object of the contest is to guess the correct number of raw spillway over which the barrel will pass at No. 2 dam and to estimate the time it will take for the barrel to travel from the bridge in Frankford to the dam. The spillways (13 of them) will be numbered from the west side of the river to the east. The barrel will be placed in the river from the Frankford bridge at 2.00 p.m. on May 24th.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"IT'S T'COOP FINAL LUDS".

They're calling it the "dream match" of the century over 'ome, lads. And the 'Arrys and 'Arriets of 'Ampstead 'Eath are already shaking out their pearlies for the rare do.

That takes place on Saturday May 3rd when the Arsenal, London's soccer darling tangle with the idols of the north country, Newcastle United in what promises to be the most thrilling "Coop Final" of them all.

The game, according to the experts brings together two of the more colorful and crowd-pleasing clubs in the game. They are rated the genuine cream of the crop and are the survivors of the more than 500 eager teams who launched on the cup chase this season.

And over 100,000 excited Englishmen and others will be on hand at Wembley Stadium on the big day.

Both teams have a proud record of past achievement but victory at Wembley will give either a chance to share the limelight of sports history. A triumph for Arsenal will put the Woolwich gunners in line for the most difficult and elusive prize in old country soccer — the Cup and First Division championship double.

According to a British writer, the feat has been accomplished only twice before. In the season of 1888-89, Preston North End waded through all opposition to win the league title without losing a match. That team, he says, went on to take the cup without conceding a single goal in the knockout competition.

He adds "the tough assignment was duplicated in 1897 by Aston Villa which shakers with Blackburn Rovers the record of six cup victories. But the ordeal of the draw is tougher today in both eyesta."

Of equal interest are the record-challenging prospects of Newcastle, this season dubbed "the wonder team." When United defeated second division Blackburn Rovers by a late-game penalty goal in a thrilling semi-final replay, it marked the ninth time the team had qualified for the cup final, once more than any other club. Arsenal has made the grade on six occasions.

But more important still, a victory for Newcastle on May 3 would give the Tynesiders the distinction of being the first club in 50 years to win the cup in successive seasons. Ironically, the last team to gain that honor was Blackburn Rovers. Newcastle came close to the target in 1910, winning the cup that year and finishing as runner-up the following season.

Although Newcastle has won the cup four times against three for Arsenal, the Londoners have been slightly favored in the betting odds throughout the earlier stages of the competition. They enter the final game however, as an even-money take-your-choice proposition.

Feller Wins 4th for Tribe; Senators Drub Yankees 3-1 While Brooklyn Nips Giants

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

The giddy St. Louis Browns are beginning to remind folks of the 1944 team that set a league record by winning its first nine games. In case it slips your memory, that wartime collection copped the only American League pennant in Brownie history.

Nobody was stunned by the way Brooklyn and Cleveland broke out of the gate. After all, they were the "experts" picks to meet in the world series. But four straight by the Browns—well, that was a different matter.

Who thought the first four Brown starting pitchers would go the route? Ned Garver, yes. But Bob Cain, Tommy Byrne and Duane Pillette? Never.

Tosses Five-Hitter

Pillette became the fourth starter to go all the way yesterday when the retread Browns played before the home folks. The former Yankee sniffed a five-hitter down the throats of Chicago White Sox in a 7-1 job.

Last year the White Sox were running wild, startling the dignitaries league with their daring running. Now they're left at the post, beaten by a run.

Five in the eighth nailed down the St. Louis decision when Pillette, former Yankee batsmates, triple doing the most damage. Moe Mc Clure Chubbs for Ozzie a homer in the fifth to tie the score and Jack Graybeal doubled home a run in the sixth for a 2-1 edge. Then came the eighth-inning assault.

Bob Feller, the last of Cleveland's "big four" to take the mound before a crowd of 56,068 by winning the Tribe's fourth straight, 5-0, over Detroit. Feller, now 31, lost his control with one out in the ninth and walked three. Bob Lemon came in to make pinchhitter Steve Souchock ground into a game-ending double play. It was Feller's seventh win in 10 opening games.

Chunky Connie Marrero made the world champion New York Yankees pop his slow stuff into the air to spoil the Yankee Stadium debut of the 1-1 Washington victory.

A fiareup between Phil Rizzuto and catcher Mickey Grasso of Washington added a little fire to the game. Phil played before 45,-240. Next time up Rizzuto ducked away from a fast ball. Grasso was on the deck the next time he faced Allie Reynolds.

Reynolds gave the winning runs in the fourth when he hit Eddie Yost with the bases full to force in one run and then walked Gil Coan on four pitches.

Brooklyn Takes 6th

Clyde Vollmer got into the game as a pinch hitter to deliver two key hits in Boston's 5-4 win over the Braves in the 10 innings. Vollmer's pinch single followed by Jim Piersall's double off rookie Tex Hoyle touched off a three-run uprising in the ninth. Vollmer's second hit in the 10th scored Faye Throneberry with the winning run.

Brooklyn rolled to its fourth straight on Andy Pafko's second home run of the day to nip the New York Giants 7-6 in 12 innings.

Brooklyn chased Jim Hearn and Hoyt Wilhelm to score four runs in the first two innings, finally tied the score at 6-6 on Jackie Robinson's homer in the eighth and won it when Ralph Lobes his first big-league victory on Pafko's smash. Handy Andy hit his first homer in the seventh.

Sid Gordon and Willard Marshall smashed successive homers in the ninth after Russ Meyer pitched two-hit shutout ball for 8 1/3 innings to give Boston a 2-2 edge over the Phillies. Jim Wilson, and relief winner Lew Burdette set down the Phils with only three hits.

The Chicago Cubs climbed into second place by chasing their old nemesis, Harry Brecheen, to score four in the ninth and shade the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-5. Bill Serena, batting for winner Bob Schultz, drove home the tying and winning runs with a double. Del Rice hit a two-run homer for the Cards in the first game. Bob Rush in the sixth.

Pittsburgh blanked Cincinnati 2-0, on the five-hit pitching of 21-year-old Bob Friend. Home town boy Bobby Del Greco, making his debut before 29,874 Pirate fans, scored a smash hit with a triple and two singles off Ewell Blackwell and Frank Smith.

The eight secondary openers attracted 223,432 as compared to 143,079 on Tuesday when sweepsix openers on Tuesday.

Ottawa Athletics, still looking for their first international League victory, will be glad to get away from Bubba Phillips for a while.

The 22-year-old outfielder, described as the "most promising player in the Detroit farm system" played a major part in Buffalo's 8-5 victory over the Athletics yesterday.

He pounded out a double, two singles, stole home and drove in three runs.

Rookie Paul Foytake and Ralph Poole limited Ottawa to eight hits while the undefeated Bisons collected 10 off Ed Hrabcsak.

The pennant favored Montreal Royals amassed 17 hits and breezed to a 11-4 triumph over Syracuse Chiefs. Junior Gilliam and Charlie Thompson led the assault with two hits, including home runs by Dick Ay Rhawn, Lew Morton and Charlie Grant.

Albert College Wins 'C' Championship In Queens U. Basketball Tourney

Kingston, April 19 —Albert College cagers carried off the first championship decided in the Queen's University invitation tournament here Friday, defeating Copper Cliff, 23-17, in the Section "C" final.

It was Albert's fourth tournament title in six years.

The Albert College quintet forcer Section "C" action into an extra game before annexing the crown, knocking over previously undefeated Copper Cliff, 39-30, in the last scheduled match of the tournament. Thus Albert and the Copper Cliff ended elimination play with two wins each and were forced to play off for the championship.

Albert came from behind a 9-3 Copper Cliff lead in forging their title-game victory. Faulkner fired eight points and Neil Burke six for the winners.

Central qualified for the final, which started at 9 o'clock last night, by eliminating Sudbury. Sudbury and Hamilton each had lost a game, while Niagara is undefeated and seeking its fourth championship of the season. Previously, Raiders won the Ontario, Niagara District, and Central Ontario crowns.

In the semi round Wednesday, Niagara defeated Hamilton, 70-35, and so, under local tournament rules, Hamilton received a 35-point handicap for Friday's game. This morning, Hamilton edged Peterborough, 34-29. Sudbury, in the other Section "A" game, beat Belleville, 39-26.

Brockville Collegiate qualified for the Section "B" final, Friday night, by polishing off Ottawa Nepean, 35-31, in the morning, and Pembroke, 38-34, in the afternoon.

Albert College from Belleville entered last night's showdown in Section "C" with a 40-28 win over Port Hope in the morning and a 40-34 triumph over Athens in the afternoon.

Like Hamilton, Brockville benefited from the handicap rule, having lost a 49-20 game to Lindsay earlier this week. Copper Cliff and Albert, "C" Section finalists, had not met until last night.

They'll Do It Every Time

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Nineteen Canadians are scheduled to run in today's famed Boston Marathon but none of them is favored.

Seeded to finish high up in the 26-mile, 385-yard grind are United States champion Jesse Van Zant, his Boston Athletic Association teammate, Johnny Lafferty and Luis Valequez of Guatemala. Last year the race was won by Shigeki Tanaka of Japan.

Canadians, however, have figured prominently in the annual classic in years gone by. Quebec's Gerald Cote won four times but he will be among the missing here.

Most of the 19 Canadians in a field of 198 are from Toronto and Montreal, including the veteran Lloyd Evans. He finished fifth in 1946 and has dropped back to seventh in 1946 and 1948 and was 11th in 1947.

But Canadians in the Marathon—this is the 56th sponsored by the Boston A.A.—are always a threat and the experts look to the Canadian entrants for darkhorses who may finish high up in the finish.

Roland La Starza scored a technical knockout last night at New York's St. Nicolas Arena over Joe McFadden at 2:07 of the fifth round of their heavyweight battle. La Starza opened an old gash over McFadden's eye and kept pounding until referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the contest.

Chico Vejar continued on his hunt for the lightweight boxing crown last night when he punched out a unanimous decision over hard hitting Johnny DeFaria in 10 rounds at the Cleveland arena. Vejar handed Defazio a the verge of a knockout in the fourth round.

New York Yankees yesterday retired Joe DiMaggio's No. 5 uniform to the Hall of Fame. It goes along with Babe Ruth's No. 3 and Lou Gehrig's No. 4. The Olympic flame will be flown from Athens to Ashborg, Denmark. The 1952 Olympic Games in Helsinki. At Aalborg, runners will pick up the flame and carry it thrrough TAOIN OINRFW to through Denmark, Sweden, around the Gulf of Bothnia, through Finland to Helsinki.

Halfback George Festerga has decided to stay in western Canada for another year. Manager Al Anderson of Edmonton Eskimos announced the Canadian star has signed his 1952 contract. Edmonton will also try out two Vancouver Meralomas when spring training begins May 12.

The Florida Racing Commission has announced the life suspension of jockey Nunzio Pariso for attempting to use an electric buzzer on his mount at Gulfstream Park, Miami. He had been a jockey for 25 years.

Stratford Defeats Pembroke For Eastern Canada Title

Stratford, Ont., April 19—(CP)—Stratford Indians are the new eastern Canada senior hockey champions.

Ron Aitken, an unassuming guy with a yen for scoring goals, last night paced the Indians to a 6-4 win over Pembroke Lumby Kings and moved them right into the thick of a fight that would not end the club, like Allan Cup.

The flashy right winger potted three goals, enough to give the Ontario Hockey Association senior A champions their margin of victory. With it went the eastern Canada title and the right to advance into the Allan Cup finals.

Although the eastern Canada hockey league champions, Pembroke club fought hard, there was little doubt of the winners from the opening minutes. Stratford led 1-0 in the first period and 4-2 in the second. Aitken's victory gave them the best-of-seven series 4-1.

Wait For West

Now the Indians are forced to await the western titleholders. Port Arthur Bear Kings currently lead the best-of-seven final series 3-1 and could conceivably meet Edmonton Pats in their fifth game tonight.

With the Allan Cup finals scheduled on western ice, Stratford officials hinted last night they still were ready to fly to Edmonton should the Pats win or entrain for Fort Frances if the Canadians come through.

However, if the Canucks win the western title, there is a chance they will play Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Sault Ste. Marie Memorial Gardens instead of at home. The Sault is some 500 miles southeast of Fort Frances.

Aitken had a field day, attack with his trio of goals while Billy Flick came through with a pair and Don Hall added the other. Jim Maxwell potted a pair for the Kings with the others going to Johnny Choyce and Thain Simon.

The game was a rugged affair, but only six penalties were handed out. Five of them came in the first period and the other in the second.

Pembroke gave the Stratford fans a scare in the final period by deadlocking the issue at four-all through the 20 minutes of play. The Indians had a 4-3 edge going into the session but Choyce and Simon tallied within three minutes of each other to knot the count.

Seven minutes later, Billy Flick caught the top corner to put the Indians in front for the second and with Murphy out of the nets in favor of an extra forward in the dying minutes, Aitken filled the empty net from 60 feet out.

Dark Of The Moon Ideal For Fishing

RECORD BONEFISH

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

This is being written on Key Largo, down among the Florida Keys. Things have not been going so well here, weatherwise, and the Keys Chamber of Commerce doesn't know quite what to do about it. Old Mother Nature is throwing one of her periodical stubborn fits.

When we arrived a few days ago things did not look too good. The weather was warm and sultry; thunder-heads were all about; there was no wind and the water was liable and gusty, and we had occasional showers. Definitely not good fishing weather.

This sort of thing went on for a few days and then came February 25, the time of new moon or dark of the moon. It was reasonably warm and fairly clear—not ideal fishing conditions but good enough. Those who had engaged guides for that day went out to try their luck.

Uses Ordinary Rod

One of the active fishermen was Mr. W. B. Powell, Jr., of Devon, Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. He was guided by Capt. Cecil Green of Green Cove, Matacumbe Key.

Instead of cruising the popular flats to the west of Long Key, they sailed out on the Atlantic side and slowly worked along the edge of the outer flats. Powell was using an ordinary casting rod, a medium Supreme reel, a nylon casting line and a spoon for bait.

They had not gone far until Powell had a strike. He hooked the fish and discovered that it had a real war on his hands. This was not one of the ordinary run of fish for those waters; it was heavy and active and strong.

The first desperate run, for freedom used up most of the line on Powell's reel. However, he managed to stop the fish before the backing point was reached. After a determined fight which lasted about 25 minutes, Green gaffed the fish, a fine bonefish, a beautiful big bonefish.

Green knew the fish, at least ten or fifteen minutes before it was landed, he felt quite sure that it was of record proportions. Then he began to worry for fear a shark might come along and ruin the trophy. Sharks are nasty; no fish pull in its appearance and the fish was boated unmarred.

Breaks Record

At once they started the motor and headed for the dock to have the fish weighed before it lost any more from evaporation. It and was well that they lost no time. The official weight was 13 pounds, 15 ounces—one ounce over the Atlantic bonefish record that has stood for several years.

The record has not been cleared by the International Game Fish Association, so that it is not yet established and official but the propobalities are that it will stand.

Meanwhile, another record fish showed up on Pier 5, Miami, this one a tarpon and cleared. It is not the vital statistics on this one; merely a radio report that the fish had been caught and was a record breaker. That makes two records broken in one day—the first day of the dark of the moon, February, 1952!

Fishing during the dark of the moon has been discussed in this column several times. However, I think it is time for more important to stand a little additional comment.

What there is about this particular time of the month that puts big fish on the feed is something which is not completely understood. The fact remains however, that for those three days large fish are active and feeding.

Has Assembled Data

During the past years I have made it a point to assemble the data surrounding the taking of record catches. In this collection are some catches of record breakers of fish but also the number of fish that have been taken under the same conditions with individual fish, record breakers. In all I suppose I have assembled data on not less than 200 such catches.

A very high percentage of these records—95 per cent—follow a definite pattern. They have three points in common. As a rule, they are taken on the three days of the dark of the moon. They are taken usually around midday. And they are taken during the major Solunar Period for that day.

Big fish, as you no doubt know, on the other hand, if require only a part of natural food to support and keep healthy a pound of fish—that is a period of ten or twelve months.

Youngsters Eat More

Thus, it is not difficult to understand why large fish are so fussy as to feed as often as do their smaller brothers. Youngsters, like young things the world over, have insatiable appetites and feed most of the time. Adult fish confine their feeding to the times when they are hungry.

There are a great many things which affect the feeding habits of fish—barometric conditions, water conditions, temperatures, and so on. All conditions are favorable. The dark of the moon seems to be the general choice and at this time of the lunar month Solunar conditions, as we know them, are at their maximum.

So keep that established fact in mind this season. Most fishermen will knock off during the heat of the day during the summer months, confining their fishing to early morning and late evening, thereby often missing the best fishing, not only of that but something of the balance of the season.

Make it a point this year to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods, particularly those of the three days during the dark of the moon. The records show that it pays.

Oshawa Mayor Chosen Candidate For Conservatives

Whitby, April 19 — (CP) — Mayor Michael Starr of Oshawa last night was chosen Progressive-Conservative candidate in the federal by-election May 26 for the riding of Ontario.

The by-election was called to fill a vacancy caused when Walter Thomson resigned to become provincial Liberal leader.

Mayor Starr and Mr. Thomson both were defeated by Tommy Thomas, C.C.F., in the provincial general election last fall.

It was the first Progressive-Conservative nomination in six federal ridings where by-elections will be held May 26.

"It is significant that the government delayed the calling of the by-elections until the budget was introduced.

"We have said the 1951 budget was the worst in history. It appears the 1952 budget, is even worse."

All is Forgiven

The redhaired dancer had just met her mothers-in-law, embraced and kissed her. All was forgiven.

With her was her husband, Sheppard (Admiral) Strudwick, III, Mrs. King threatened to disinherit her son at the time of his marriage to Miss Gamal, five months ago. Two nights ago, in a long distance call to Las Vegas, Mrs. King told Samia: "I am your mother."

"Nevertheless, Egypt's curvaceous beauty said, "I've been nervous for five months. Now it's all over."

Mrs. King said:

"I think she's charming, if that's what you want to know."

CHANGED COLOR

Peterborough, April 19—(CP) —City police changed the lights going into the red—paint, that is. They have started painting the benches in city parks a bright red instead of the usual dull green.

Resignations Accepted

Hawkesbury, April 19 — (CP) — The separate school board last night accepted the resignation of 23 lay teachers, members of the Hawkesbury Separate School Teachers' Association.

The association tendered the resignations after the teachers said they failed to receive notice from the board of consideration of their salary proposals.

The association said that last December it asked raises in minimum salaries to $1,800 and $1,500 and in maximum salaries from $2,800 to $2,300.

André L. Sabourin, chairman of the board said however the first the board heard of it was a letter April 8 demanding an answer by April 9.

He said the association's answer to a request for a meeting to discuss the matter was a notice saying all 23 lay teachers would resign effective June 28.

"We will now seek new teachers to replace them when school reopens in the fall," he said.

Thoughtful Boy

Wiggling through a detail of policemen at Democratic Senator Estes Kefauver alighted from a plane at Logan airport yesterday, Jimmie thrust an autograph pad at the presidential aspirant.

CALL 24-HOUR STRIKE

Rome, April 19—(Reuters) — The Italian National Press Federation has called a 24-hour presidency of elder statesman Vittorio Emanuelle Orlando, last night called a 24-hour strike for higher pay April 23. Communist and non-communist unions joined in the action to ensure that no morning or evening papers will be published in Italy April 23. A printers' strike is called for the same day.

Biltmores Take East Junior Title Defeating Montreal Canadiens 5-2

Toronto, April 19 — (CP) — The east's standard bearers in the Memorial Cup junior hockey final will be the Guelph Biltmores— a team which when it puts its mind to it can play good ice hockey.

That's what they did last night in winning the eastern championship against Montreal Canadiens, wrapping it up with a 5-2 win that gave them the best-of-seven series four games to two. The Biltis now meet the western champs, either Regina Pats or Fort William Hurricanes, in the Dominion junior final to be played in the next this year.

The Biltmores didn't leave any doubt in anybody's mind just how much better they were than the Canadiens. The wonder of it all is that they took so many games to do it considering how they finished off the Quebec champions.

Turns in First

They scored three goals in the first period without a reply, and added another in the second period before the Canadiens in two quick scoring thrusts by Dave McCready put them briefly back into the game.

That was the best period and early in the third frame they confirmed their win when the Bilts got their fifth goal, there was little spark left to the Canadiens.

Ken Laufman, the Bilt's leading point-getter during the regular season, and Dean Prentice both tallied twice while their other goal went to Ron Murphy.

Only the fact that Charlie Hodge played another outstanding game in the Montreal net kept the score as close as it was. He didn't have much chance on the first three Bilt goals but in all the games except the fifth which Montreal won 1-0, got little help from his defence.

The Bilt forwards gifted throughout, had little effort and kept buzzing around the Montreal cage with their pointy pat to pat passing plays which bewildered the Canadiens at times.

All nine Guelph lines were dangerous. The Canadiens were forced to rely on the line of Don Marshall, McCready and Les Lilley for their main attacking power and it held its own when ever it was on the ice.

Prentice on his first goal bulldozed his way from behind the Montreal net to get his first tally. He broke away from a Montreal power play all alone to score his second after Lilley made a vain attempt to catch him or throw him off balance.

Laufman's first goal came when he pivoted in front of the Montreal net and potted a shot past Hodge He snared his second after Hodge made great saves on previous shots by him. Murphy then celebrated the puck into the net when Murphy's rebound landed right where he was standing with no Canadien in sight.

BOYS, START BLAZE

Brantford, April 19—(CP) — Three boys, 6 7-2, 7 and 8 years old, started a fire here which resulted in $10,000 fire loss at the Jones Transport warehouse Monday, Fire Chief G. Ruff said today.

The boys were playing with matches on the premises and tried to extinguish the fire which they started.

Brooklyn Stronger Minus Newcombe Says Robinson

By JOE REICHLER

Brooklyn, April 19 (AP) — Jackie Robinson, brilliant Brooklyn second baseman, says "insentive" is the difference between the current Dodger team and one that lost the 1951 pennant after holding a 13-game lead in August.

"The Bums don't talk much about it," Robby said, "but blowing last year's big lead still weighs heavy in the minds. Although we lost more because of the Giants' amazing finish than because of our own failures, the fellows feel that they've let the fans down.

"We're determined to win this season. More than any other year. We've never lost and got to do it. We owe something to the fans. You can tell the difference in the clubhouse. There is a feeling around. No horseplay. Everything is strictly business. We're out to win every game."

Stronger Club

Jackie rates the '52 Dodgers a stronger club despite the loss of 20-game winner Don Newcombe to the army.

"We've got some fine looking young pitchers on the club," he said. "That Ben Wade looks good. So does Carl Rutherford. Those two plus Clem Labine ought to make up for the 20 wins we lost when Newcombe went into the army."

"Anything to remember is this. We've got two players who are much better than last year—Billy Cox and Roy Campanella. Cox is the greatest fielding third baseman I've ever seen. And he's going to be one of our best hitters this season;

"It sounds funny to say that Camocnella is improved. But he is. I'm glad I'm batting third this year instead of fifth. I'm going to make me the league's leading run-getter."

Fort Frances Edmonton Pats Play Tonight

Fort Frances, Ont., April 19 — (CP) — Fort Frances Canadians and Edmonton Pats meet here tonight in what may be the final game in the Allan Cup senior series to decide who meets Stratford Indians in the Sound Mercurys hockey final.

Edmonton stands on the brink of elimination from the Western Canada final, led by Canadians 3-1 with one game tied.

A victory or a tie tonight will pit Canadians against Indians. Canadians represented the west in the Dominion final last year but lost out to Sudbury Wolves.

Following Canadians' convincing 7-1 win over Pats Thursday, Edmonton coach Jimmy Gratton said: "We're playing right in to their mitts."

Graham has lots of respect for any club that can score for Canadians. He hasn't said what changes he will make for tonight's crucial game.

Coach Joe Balzac of Fort Frances was more emphatic.

"Don't thing we'll be playing for any tie Saturday," he said. "We're out to win it by as many goals as we can."

is this the new to you?

The Indian founded a great Canadian industry!

In Canada, the Indians were the first people to make use of maple syrup to make maple sugar. In this way they founded what is now a prosperous and traditional Canadian industry.

CURLING WINNERS

Guelph, April 19— (CP) — E. Underhill's Brampton rink led a field of 24 entries after two rounds of play in the Pedagogues' bonspiel here yesterday. Hamilton, Oshawa and Toronto rinks also remained undefeated at the half-way mark in the event which attracted educationists from many parts of the province.

HEAVY LOOT

Victoria, B. C. — (CP) Thieves stole a cast-iron heating installation here weighing 800 pounds, the plant's vault built in four sections, each weighing 200 pounds and disappearing without a clue.

Canadiens Coach Not Happy Over Defeat

Toronto, April 19 — (CP) — Sammy Pollock, coach for the Montreal Canadiens, wasn't happy about the 5-2 defeat handed his Quebec Junior Hockey Association champions last night by Guelph Biltmores.

In fact, he declined to congratulate the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions on their victory which earned them the right to meet the western Canada representative in the Memorial Cup.

Pollock said bluntly: "I think the Guelph Management pulled a fast one, but I'm not saying so. I'm not going to be a liar. I'm not going to congratulate them when I don't mean it."

He added: "I give full credit to most of the Guelph kids."

Alf Pike, the Guelph coach, said Pollock was a "sore baby." He said: "He's been moaning so much about Stewart that he forgot the series was going on."

Ron Stewart, centre of the controversy, came to Guelph from the Barrie Flyers with the blessing of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. A second C.A.H.A. ruling on the case yesterday accepted the deal.

Pollock charged that Guelph "put over an illegal deal" in signing defenceman Stewart and threatened: "the west will protest the use of Stewart."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A partner we sometimes cuss is Close-to-the-Button Davey. He sticks to the obvious and over-looks all the gravy.

Where doubles and redoubles are concerned, most players fail to make the most of their chances. Particularly do they overlook many of the latent advantages offered by a redouble.

On the other hand, some are too promiscuous with the re-doubles. These think mostly in terms of long gambles, neglecting to consider partners loss of confidence, as a result.

I am fully aware of what pal-ookas and other inexpert part-ners are up against. Them my advice is to ignore all but the normal means of redoubles. At least until they have more knowledge.

But players who think well of their bridge ability can get out of a redouble much more than its original purpose intends. They can use it as a game-force signal as well as threat against oppon-ents.

♠K J 9 4
♥A 9 7 3
♦J 10 4 3
♣5 4

North should be elated over the choice of calls he has in his spot. But he should not choose to bid a suit of his own, or assist partner's suit, or bid no-trump. He should redouble.

The normal meaning of a re-double is that the doubled bid can be made despite what oppon-ents may claim. But to use it for that purpose alone is a waste of breath.

Do you know why? Because partner of doubler is required to bid after a redouble. Even with nothing. Consequently, the use of the redouble must offer some additional purpose.

What purpose? It says: "Part-ner, not only can we make our bid but we can also make a game. Meantime, we have the oppon-ents in a trap. Which will pay us the most!" Sounds cruel. But we love it.

AT THE CAPITOL — Two world-famous ballerinas, Ludmilla Tcherina and Moira Shearer (left) of the Sadler's Wells Ballet have important roles in the London Films' production of "The Tales of Hoffmann," in color by Technicolor, will open the new Capitol at 8.30 Spring Series Wednesday and Thursday, April 23-24, at the Capitol Theatre. Co-starring with Tcherina and Shearer are Robert Helpmann, Leonide Massine, Robert Rounsville, Pamela Brown, Ann Ayers and Sir Thomas Beecham, Bart., conducting the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. The reserved seat plan is now open at the box office from 1.30 to 2.30 and 6.30 to 10.00 p.m.

Fabulous 'Great Show' Dazzling Treat for Both Young and Old

If there were ever any doubt that Cecil B. DeMille is Holly-wood's master showman, "The Greatest Show on Earth," a Para-mount picture now on the Belle Theatre screen should dispel them for all time.

In this massive Technicolor circus epic, producer-director DeMille has packed a whirlwind two and a half hours of thrills, chills, melodrama and laughter—every minute of it stamped un-mistakingly with his special gen-ius.

With an investment of three years' work and more than $4,-000,000, the greatest maker of film spectacles has earned a rich dividend resplendent with all the vivid color of the circus, spark-ling with the tinseled excitement of its fabulous arena displays, and pulsing with the vigor and movement of the human mach-ine that keeps the Big Top go-ing.

But "The Greatest Show on Earth" is more than a compelling portrait of the bold and strange and joyous things on view be-neath the circus' canvas roof. It is a sensitive and revealing rec-ord of the lives of circus per-formers and workers — their strength, their pride, their cour-age, their passions, their failures and their triumphs.

To stage this immense drama, DeMille used the full facilities of the Ringling Bros.—Barnum and Bailey Circus and the ser-vices of some of Hollywood's most talented players. Among the stars, Betty Hutton is seen as a daring aerialist; Cornel Wilde plays a romantic trapeze artist; Charles Heston portrays the iron-willed circus boss; Dorothy La-mour takes over the role of a sultry hula girl; Gloria Grahame is cast as a come-hither ele-phant girl; and James Stewart appears as a bulk-nosed clown.

"The Greatest Show on Earth," is a truly amazing screen achievement. It is DeMille's lar-gest spectacle; it is also his best. Both young and old will be en-chanted with its bright pageant-ry, lavish splendor, soaring dra-ma and warm-hearted laughter. It is a thing of power and beau-ty. Here is a picture that clearly deserves to be called great.

The film is continuing at the Belle Theatre until Thursday, with continuous shows daily.

The Peacock Path

By Edwin Rutt

"You're right there, I wouldn't," I agreed with a handa. I'd gotten this distasteful job over. But I didn't like myself any better for having taken it. "Only there It is. Oh, sure, Sally's free, white and 21. Theoretically, we can do as we pleases. But even I, practically a stranger here knows that Sally would never marry without your approval. And if I know it, Sladen knows it. You're the stumbling block, that's keeping him from competing his plans. So he's tried twice, to . . ." I let my voice trail.

Cravath drew a soft lingering breath. "I—see. To remove me, eh?" His fists, raised, were like great gnarled hammers — "Sally means everything to me. And she'd marry that fellow only over my dead body. Because he isn't good enough for her."

"That," I muttered, "is what we're going to prove."

One of the poised fists came down on one knee. "Dave Sladen's been a smart, efficient secretary. He does his work well, earns his salary, and that's why I keep him. But I don't like him as a man. He's warped and biased and — ah, twisted. I don't know what's the matter with him. But if I had my way we'd have Sally in here right now and Sladen out and get to the bottom of this business."

"Do that," I said, "and Dave Sladen gets my wife one of the neatest murders on record. Only it isn't already on the record as a murder. He won't get Sally, but he'll have $50,000 and his freedom to go after some other rich girl."

He leaned back in his chair, "All right, all right." he said wearily. "What do you want me to do?"

This was the vital moment. "I want you," I said, "to do just as I say. And it may mean risking your life."

There was a momentary silence. Then: "Very well, Orth." Marston Cravath shot me a queer look from under thick bushy brows. "I've never ducked anything let. And I don't propose to begin at my age. Now what the devil have you got in mind?"

I told him.

The next day rolled in on a tide of sunshine. A day upon which such a thing as tension should have been a million miles away. It was not. At least three people at Windover walked in separate auras of fear and anxiety. I was one of the three and therefore I wasn't sorry I had to go into Port Liston that morning.

When I returned Sally was pottering around amongst autumnal flowers. "Come here a minute Jim," she called.

Nothing loath, I ambled over. The sun was painting her hair in gilt wash and her cheeks were the lovely blend of coral and suntan.

The passed back understatement to ask abruptly "where have you been?"

"Oh, round and about."

Her eyes narrowed, gave me a searching look. "Fibs. You seem to have been round and about a lot lately. Is there anything going on, Jim?"

"Not that I know of," I said casually.

"Well" impatience edged her tone, "what are you doing, now?"

That annoyed her. She stamped a slim foot. "Oh, you make me so darn mad I could sock you. And don't think for a minute that I don't know what the score is. You're stymied in this business Jim Orth. Licked. You've gotten as far as you're going. Sometimes I think you aren't even trying to. But you're sort of dog-in-the-manger about it. You won't call in help yourself and whenever I want to do it, you stall me. Well, I'm sick of it. You've got me off and put me off, but this is the end. So I'm giving you the rest of the day, to get something accomplished. If you can't I'm going to the police. The very first thing tomorrow."

"Holy-ioly," I said weakly.

But I drew a superlitious breath of relief. Tomorrow was okay. I'd been fearful, at the start of the tirade, that she might kick over Dolly Dumont come downstairs that room for the first official time since her trouble. She was subdued a trifle sheepish, and cold sober. But everyone, particularly Eve Wheeler, did his best to put her at ease. And Eve, looking steady high with me, climbed a couple more points.

The sight of Cravath, mingling on occasion with his prospective executioner, didn't help either. In fact, during one especially weak moment, I even found myself trying to call the whole dangerous scheme off.

I drew Cravath aside around 4 o'clock. "I'm getting cold feet," I said. "After all who am I to suggest that you risk your life?"

He shook his head emphatically. "None of that now! Last night you sold me on the idea that it's the only way to get that fellow. and I'm still buying it. Everything's set. I spoke to Jack this morning, told him what you told me to tell him, and he understands what he's to do."

I did a little arguing, but it was half-hearted.

But I had two more jobs to do before the zero hour. One was simple. I went to look over the ground. I got away after my little talk with Cravath and confirmed it. The evergreen I'd remembered — was there, all right, square, thick-bodied. It would give me cover.

The other job? I went back to the house by a circuitous route, trying to look like a man with nothing on his mind. Actually, my brain whirled and I had to make an effort to keep from breaking into a run.

I had tried to foresee how the murderer would act, now that he had learned about the plans for tonight. Sometime during the day, he would have to visit the attic. It was dangerous, with a good chance that he might be caught in a position which would have been highly difficult for him to explain. But that chance he would have to run.

For the last 50 yards of my walk back to the house, on the way to confirm an absolutely vital point, I was afraid that I didn't look much like a man with nothing on his mind.

Providentially, I did not encounter any interference. I slipped up to the third floor unobserved; went past the servants' quarters. I twisted an unresisting knob and entered the attic.

My heart sounded like something gone crazy as I hurried down that long cluttered loft-like room. Then I was yanking the chest out from under the eaves, falling over it in a belly-flop. Another was gone.

Windover's killer was set to strike again.

Marston Cravath must have had steel fibres for nerves and he might have made an actor. You would never suspect from his deportment that evening, that around midnight he was scheduled to put his life on the spot.

At 11 o'clock he yawned behind a hand steady as Gibraltar and announced that he was ready for bed.

Dumont and Sladen had spent the evening playing billiards, up to the 10 o'clock drink. They'd joined the rest of us then in the living room, where I'd tried to concentrate on a novel while the Cravats went on. My efforts had been lamentable.

I certainly envied Cravath and there was awe in the envy. Maybe, I thought, being to the manor born made some guys magnificent. Put them above the rack; in a class by themselves.

But, however, he'd been born, Marney Cravath was on top this night. A great lump was on my side, every time out.

And so we went through the motions, of the occupants of a great house about to retire. We drifted upstairs, leisurely, quietly — just seven supposedly nice people calling it a day.

I timed my ascent of the stairs with Cravath's. Despite his superb acting, I was still leery. The man must have had qualms, doubts.

The best I could do was watch his ear, as we parted to go to our respective rooms. Marston Cravath grinned at me, before turning away. He was actually enjoying this.

In my own room I wasted no time. I peeled off my fancy dinner clothes, got into the darkest slacks I owned and a black-sweater, I slipped a balmeslike .32 pistol, understandably.

But, to gain the line of evergreens across from where I was concealed he had to whisk across a cleared space.

Reassurance swept over me. This was all proceeding according to plan, and Hoyle.

After that, however, I moved cautiously around the tree on the side facing the end of the Peacock Path, the white posts, the chains and the South. I edged on until I could see up the path as well as down, though I had to look up it through a tracery of branches.

Then, suddenly, I stiffened.

Very clearly, in the livid light, I saw Marston Cravath appear where the path began. There was no mistaking his tall broad-shouldered figure—a little gone to fat now, but still athletic, agile-looking.

Cravath didn't hesitate. He started down that narrow moonlight avenue with swift confident strides.

Cravath had about reached the point of the Peacock Path when a second figure glided into the moon-drenched open. I saw Cravath stop short, fling up a hand to shield his eyes.

"Oh!" he ejaculated and his voice, soft yet carrying in the practically windless night, had a note of relief in it.

Somehow, I welcomed that veiled half-hidden note. He had seemed a little composed; a little too reckless or careless.

I guessed now that he'd been frightened — hence human — all along, though he'd disguised it admirably.

"Well," he was saying now, in a kind of strong whisper, "you timed it very nicely."

"I did just what you told me to," said the dark figure beside him. "I . . . an indrew breath came to me—"always do."

In a wavering moocbeam, I saw Cravath nod. "Good. Well, come on! This'll only take a minute or two. But I wanted you to see how I figured it out."

They walked on down the Peacock Path, Marston Cravath and his potential killer, elbows practically touching.

They passed so close to me that I could have reached out and intercepted them. I had an impulse to do just that.

I had to control myself and watch the killer.

I was about 15 feet away, hidden by the dark bulk of the evergreen. I could see them plainly. They stood silhouetted in moonglow, both on the safe side of the chains as yet.

"Mostly lucky guesswork," Cravath replied. "But it's really a question of measurement. I'm going to do some measuring now. And you can help me."

With that he half-stepped, half-vaulted over into the no-man's land beyond the chains.

Cravath took an object from his pocket. I knew that it was a steel tape measure coiled inside a circular leather case. The tape made a rasping sound as he pulled out a short length of it. Then Cravath passed the end of the tape under the murderer's hand, handed it to his companion.

Cravath was crouching heedlessly, dangerously, in the centre of the ground-space between chains and cliff edge. Not five feet behind him the cliff ended in a gray-black void.

"All right," he said. "Start walking back up the path. I'll tell you when to stop."

The dark form nearest to me moved slowly away, unreeling a thin ribbon of steel from the tape measure case held by Cravath's lengthened steadily as he walked. The figure passed my foxhole slowly, trailing that fluttering ribbon. Slowly, I imagined, because there was no need to hurry.

Just another sitting duck at the path's end, sitting on the brink of nothingness. And the murderer was gambling that the duck would wait. Well, I'd known for a long time that we had to deal with a gambler—a reckless, even heady, operator.

The tape strung past me, a runner of brightness from Cravath's hands to the point that methodically-walking outline had reached, 30 feet away.

I darted wait no longer. I bent swiftly, grabbed up the six-foot length of light green pipe I'd brought from my car.

The two moved suddenly to the opposite side, part of it seeming to break around the other row of evergreens, I craned my neck.

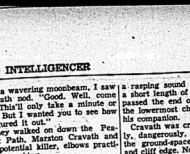
I practically flung the length of pipe across the path. It made a slight rattling sug as it hit the earth. I'd managed to place it without touching the tape.

The next instant I had my gun out.

"You're off the line," Cravath was calling.



I heard the answer came, thick and hoarse, over a short-lived sound of underbrush being trampled. It had to be trampled while an innocent-yet-deadly object was pulled from the cache.

The tape began straightening as the Windover murderer stepped again onto the Peacock Path.

Sen. Vandenberg Papers Disclose U.S. Atomic Policy

New Partnership Opposed By Republican Leaders

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 21—(AP)—Britain held veto power over United States use of the atomic bomb for several years during and after the Second World War, but lost it with the ending of the atomic partnership of Canada, the United States and Britain.

In proposing to create a new partnership, a year ago, former President Truman told congressional leaders in secrecy that he wanted to share the "vital" weapon secrets with Canada and Britain, Republican leaders strongly objected.

This information on U.S. atomic policy has been brought to light with the release of "the private papers of Senator Arthur Vandenberg", a volume of personal and official records of the late Republican foreign affairs leader in the Senate.

The 568-page book edited by the Senator's son and long-time assistant, Arthur Vandenberg, Jr., covers the whole range of U.S. foreign policy from Pearl Harbor to the Senator's death one year ago. The perspective is that a man who first coined the phrase "bipartisan foreign policy" and helped to translate it into reality advised the Truman administration on foreign affairs and even shared in some of its secrets.

Might Be Repercussions

There was some speculation here that the book might touch off repercussions in Britain from the disclosure that London had and lost a voice in one of the A-bombs.

The essence of the information respecting the veto is that during the late President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill entered into secret agreements, one signed at Hyde Park, N.Y., in the war years for joint development and control of atomic energy.

Vandenberg (Mich.) Republican-ed that along with providing for the sharing of facts on atomic development, for the barring of uranium ore from the Belgian Congo and for the prohibition of the atomic program, agreement had been made that neither the U.S., U.K. or Britain would use the A-bomb unless both agreed.

Ended in 1946

Vandenberg and Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (Rep.-Iowa) brought considerable pressure on the administration to change this, the book shows, and in January, 1946 this agreement was finally ended in a new understanding which left Britain with a free hand ultimate decision on using the A-bomb with the U.S. president.

Under this new understanding, Britain could obtain little information about the A-bomb projects and undertook to develop its own weapons.

The president argued in 1949 for a new agreement to cut Britain out. But there were no developments. He said this would do no harm to the program as it will have independent programs, and would give the U.S. the benefit of British skill and experience.

Vandenberg opposed the sharing.

Observers Hope Missouri Floods Nearing End

By LARRY HALL

Kansas City, April 21—(AP)—Tricky Missouri Valley weather today posed new problems on 700 miles of the flooded Missouri River.

What worried flood-fighters was: How much will it rain and where?

All the experts would say was that a chance of heavy rain existed. But they couldn't tell yet whether it will hit the Missouri basin, especially the overinundated area from St. Joseph, Mo., to Kansas City.

Even if it rained a full inch in the Kaw (Kansas) basin, they said, it will mean the Missouri at Kansas City only about a foot. That would still be well below the crest.

The Kaw was what gave Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kas., their worst flood when it poured into the Missouri here last July. It is at a low level now.

Racing Car Spins Out of Control 4 Persons Killed

Dayton, O., April 21 (AP)—A racing car spun out of control into the Dayton Speedway grandstand yesterday, killing four persons—including the driver, Gordon Reid, 26, of Burbank, Calif.

At least 50 spectators were hurt.

The crash lopped off Reid's head. It also decapitated Mrs. Ruby Ellen Shaffer, 43, Springfield, O. The victims were Robert Thatcher, 22, a track guard, and Gene Lawson, 19, of Dayton.

About 14,000 attended the spring car program.

Reid had planned to drive the car in the 500-mile speed classic at Indianapolis May 30.

Brighter Outlook Against Cancer, Discoveries Might Come Unexpectedly

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

These are impressions after a two-week tour of cancer centres of nine cities, meeting with nearly 200 specialists. The tour was sponsored by the American Cancer Society, to help tell the public what research dollars are doing.

I saw some people well and happy, for a time at least, who would have been dead months ago. New treatments had brought new life.

These treatments, surgical and chemical, work only in early stages of cancer and then only for some cases.

The best good news is more cures from X-rays and surgery, when two old weapons are being used more effectively.

They work best when cancers are detected early; and early detection is improving.

There are improved tests for cancer of the cervix and prostate gland; better X-ray methods; promise of early detection of tiny lung cancers; an electrical skin test for cancer is being developed; cancer detection clinics are spreading.

Surgery cures by cutting out cancerous tissue. But surgeons now are doing far more. One man is living well, well five months after surgeons removed his pituitary gland, the body's master gland.

Cancers from artery banks are making possible operations on blood vessels damaged or involved by cancer, must be cut out. Plastic windpipes and gullets which can be implanted by animal experiments.

Much is being fought by brain surgery that cuts nerve fibers.

Dogs are being trained to enter cancer cells and kill them, without harming healthy cells.

Hormones are being used more efficiently for temporary benefit in treatment of cancer. In a few women, the male sex hormone has altered cancer cells so they become vulnerable to X-rays.

Specialists are learning more about chemical tests to normal, healthy cell tick, how cancer cells differ from normal cells and how from biologic controls to grow wild.

This kind of search is bringing unexpected dividends.

Example: Recent test dividends are the possibility of giving hormones to expectant mothers to bronic glands from unborn babies lost by miscarriage, to help babies lost by miscarriage. The other is the growing hopes for medicines that will cure or prevent radiation sickness. Such medicines would mean that cancer patients could get bigger doses of X-rays to cure their cancers. They also could mean the saving of hundreds or thousands of people hit by deadly X-ray radiation from atom bombs.

A government floor price of 36 cents f.o.b. factory was asked for cheese in a recommendation passed at a general meeting of Hastings county cheese producers held at the Collegiate Auditorium Saturday night.

Called on short notice by the county cheese producers' association, the meeting was held to impress on local members of parliament the seriousness of the present condition in the cheese industry. Slightly over 100 farmers attended the meeting.

The consensus of farmers was that the suggested floor price of 28 or 30 cents for cheese would be useless when cost of production was 32 cents or more.

W. E. Beteman, president of the county cheese producers, reviewed recent developments in the cheese industry and said the meeting had been called to advise the government of what farmers felt would be a "fair" price to keep cheese factories operating.

No Cheese Contract

He pointed out that this year there was no cheese contract with Great Britain, while the embargo on Canadian cattle entering the United States would result in increased milk production much of which would be made into cheese.

Charles N. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers, declared the industry had fallen on serious days through no fault of its own. He noted that if something was wrong with one branch of the dairy industry the whole industry was affected.

The reason given for cheese was established he felt the bottom would fall out of the cheese market.

He assured that the marketing board had done everything possible to secure a market for surplus cheese at a fair price but all efforts to secure a contract with Britain had failed.

Grim Situation

"We are facing up to a grim situation," he said. "Unless a floor price is established farmers face a 30 to 35 cent cut from the price of last year."

The floor price will be broken and the question is what are we going to do about it?" he asked.

Duncairn Dam Still Holds Despite Increasing Pressure, Situation Described as Critical

The 5,000-foot earth-and-concrete structure holds back 15 miles long, three-quarters of a mile wide and roughly 35 feet deep. The crest of 7,500 populace-lion is 25 miles downstream from the weakened dam.

Officials in charge expressed hope last night that the dam would hold.

Water is still rising in the reservoir behind the dam. Intake is estimated at 1,400 cubic feet per second, while only 600 can get a second escapes from two outlets.

But at the focal point of the danger, a $200,000 concrete spillway underpinned with steel piling, perimeter by soil erosion, water is also escaping.

Engineers worked hurriedly to construct a buffer dam behind the dilapidated spillway to help relieve the pressure. Also under consideration were plans to construct a wooden flume, a U-shaped trough to extend over the length of the dam. The flume or passage of water through two outlets and over the spillway to the spillway began to break up.

All organizations have co-operated splendidly in the emergency. Three Regina construction firms have volunteered earth-moving equipment. Two dragline power shovels have come from power centres. Several caterpillar tractor operators have stayed on the job till two in the morning.

Prepare for Emergency

This city is preparing to meet any emergency. Citizens to low-lying areas have been placed on an alert. An emergency two-way radio communication system has been maintained between the dam and the city. Plus citizens with telephones are warned of any dam break.

Further evacuation of the 490 families who have been moved by the dam fails to hold continued. A number have vacated their homes of their own accord. Evacuees are being quartered in the city auditorium and some in the incompleted union hospital.

Army units have been on civil defence organization. Two thousand blankets, 400 double-decker beds and 1,000 mattresses, five portable cookers, 150 lanterns, 1,000 pairs of high rubber boots, two assault boats and six stretchers are on hand.

Elsewhere in flooded southwest Saskatchewan the situation improved generally over the week end. At Eastend, where Frenchman Creek last week forced mass evacuation of the town, clean-up operations continued as flood waters receded. Only a few more stone before residents will be allowed to return to their homes.

Stafford Cripps Slowly Sinking In Switzerland

Zurich, Switzerland, April 21—(AP) — Sir Stafford Cripps, so-called architect of Britain's post-war austerity, was reported "slowly sinking" today.

"He has now drifted into a state of coma and painless unconsciousness," said a bulletin issued by his physician, Dr. Dagmar Kaiser-Eichholz.

The former Chancellor of the Exchequer, who will be 63 on Thursday, is suffering from Hodgkin's disease, a form of lymphadenitis. Since the war he has fought a losing battle with the ailment and returned here in January after suffering a relapse.

His nurse the worse was first reported Saturday night, when Sir Stafford was said to be in an "extremely-serious" condition.

Warehouse Swept By Thirteen-Hour $500,000 Fire

Ten of them were overcome by smoke while trying to subdue the flames, which chewed through piles of lumber, linoleum and bedroom suites and a variety of other stored household articles.

Insurance adjusters estimated damage in excess of $500,000. In addition, those who will be affected are those inflicted on four industrial firms near the warehouse: Canada Paint Co., Kelly Douglas and Carriage Ltd.

Cause of the three-alarm fire first sighted about 3 a.m. — has not been determined. Some firemen were overcome by blinding smoke while fighting the blaze in the debris.

Firefighter 11 trucks answered the three alarms to what was Vancouver's biggest industrial fire in years. An estimated 14,000 feet of hose were used and the Vancouver Waterworks Dept. made your work a most unpleasant and tedious business.

The device, patented in Canada and with patents pending in other countries, consists of a "jet of gas."

Not intended to kill or injure permanently, it operates on a pressure principle. A tiny dyed smoke bomb explodes shot from a tiny nozzle under 2,000 pounds pressure, and the idea is that:

A bank teller, under threat of a revolver, has no chance to call for help or ring the burglar alarm. But, quite unnoticed, the teller by a simple movement can trip the gas gun apparatus on the floor.

'MYSTERY' PLANE IDENTIFIED AS U.K. JET BOMBER

Estimates of Speed High Say Officials

Toronto, April 21—(CP)—The "mystery" aircraft which streaked over Toronto and district skies yesterday leaving a vapor trail from bottom to bottom was a British-made Canberra jet bomber travelling from Montreal to Omaha, Neb., the Telegram says today in a newspaper story.

The vapor trail was sighted above Toronto by airport officials about noon and caused considerable excitement. Out. The jet bomber, one of the fastest planes in the sky, flew at a height of about 20,000 feet and it was going so fast that it took only seconds before its flight plan reached air traffic control officials, the story says.

A London, Ontario, aircraft from No. 420 Squadron attempted to intercept the plane but immediately left them behind. The Mustang fighter pilots reported they failed to speed of 450 miles an hour in the futile chase.

Trying to Explain

R.C.A.F. officials at Ottawa told the Telegram that Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Lloyd, head of the R.A.F. Bomber Command, arrived at Montreal International from Canberra and took off yesterday in the same plane for Omaha. It was expected that the ultimate destination is Baltimore, Md., where the Canberra is being built in production.

After sighting the trail, Toronto airport men called London city airport but by that time the Canberra had passed that city headed west.

Within a reported 12 minutes, the Telegram story says, Detroit airport control tower reported that the trail was visible north of that city.

Ottawa — (CP) — Southern Ontario "mystery" aircraft may as well have been just a British cousin of the Canberra.

Reports that some sort of craft zoomed across Ontario yesterday, leaving R.C.A.F. planes and public speculation in its wake raised that possibility here.

A twin-jet British Canberra can seat six people. They include Sir Hugh Lloyd, head of the R.A.F. Bomber Command, took from Montreal to Omaha, Neb., to Omaha, Neb., and would be over Toronto on the return trip time the mystery object emerged.

But the reports that it was going 1,000 miles an hour stump him. The Canberra can do between 500 and 600. But 1,00—no.

Beats Wife to Death

Lunenberg, Germany, April 21 —(AP) — A 30-year-old ex-paratrooper was charged today with his young wife to death today in the two-room home they shared. Her love affair with a Canadian soldier, German police reported.

Police said the man found his wife and the unidentified soldier in bed together. The husband killed a witness. The soldier attacked him with a beer bottle and fled, the report said.

Canadian military police have been asked to search for the soldier.

Canadian troops have been holding training exercises near the camp.

Device Will Make Work of Bank Robbers Unpleasant, Unprofitable

Even if he does escape from the police he will be easy to spot and will be for several days until the dye wears off. The dye will never come off the currency so he can never get rid of it.

Accidental firing of the gun is impossible as 75 pounds pressure is required to release the compressed air which operates it.

Mr. Pride worked with the idea of impregnating the gas with a repulsive odor but the problem of clearing a building of the smell after its use was too great.

The inventor says that not only banks but trust and bond companies, post offices and other places of business where cash is handled open can be protected by the de-

Six More Guards Seized As Hostages By Mutineers

Rioting Prisoners Still Hold Control of Portion of Prison

Jackson, Mich., April 21 (AP) —Six more guards were seized as hostages by mutineers at the State prison of southern Michigan today.

This brought to 10 the number of hostages held by the prisoners.

Four other guards had been seized by prisoners' custody since last night.

State police fired four shots when rioters were said to have threatened guards at a work party inside the grounds. The police said the shots were "warning shots" and were fired over the heads of the convicts.

The shots came as rioting prisoners still held control of a portion of the mammoth prison in a continuation of an outbreak that began Sunday night.

A night-long melting of some of the prison's toughest criminals touched off a series of new disturbances after the daybreak.

Four prison guards were held as hostages after the mutineers led by the notorious "Crazy Jack" Hyatt, who, if released, is to be given custody of parolees as an undesirable alien.

At least two prison blocks, including a mental ward, and the mess hall were in control of the rioters.

In wrecked block 13, the isolated block where the most dangerous criminals are confined, the hostages were held prisoners.

Hyatt's group sent out word this morning that they would release four other hostages if life ammunition is used against them, prison officials said.

World's Largest

Southern Michigan prison is reputed to be the world's largest. It has 5,400 inmates, of whom 4,678 are within the walls. The others are trusties or work-camp prisoners.

At the height of the rioting, officials said that 1,500 prisoners were involved.

Hyatt, 32, is serving 2½ to 30 years for armed robbery, having been sent up from Detroit Sept 18, 1945. He has served two other prison terms and a deportation warrant awaits him if he is ever released, as an undesirable alien from Canada.

Hyatt and his associates claim a brutality case as the incentive. They want publicity, and even forced authorities to call newspapermen to talk with them. They asked for hostage guard, with a knife at his throat, Warden Ellis attempted to a barred cell window.

Hyatt, whose real name is Jack Pollard, a knife and gun attempted to use Governor G. Mennen Williams as a shield in an escape attempt at Michigan's Marquette State Prison on May 8, 1950. A guard overpowered him.

About 15 Pomeriners

There are 179 convicts in the 5-tier cell block where the 15 pomeriners are held for various rules of discipline. Guards reported however, that a group of 15 or so seemed to be pomeriners of the uprising.

Warden Julian N. Frisbie reported state troopers and deputies were armed: "Everything is under control. It's a matter of awaiting developments. The building is surrounded and there is plenty of

One Fireman Reported Dead At Montreal

Montreal, April 21 — (CP) — Seven firemen — one reported dead and the others overcome by smoke — were carried from a burning building in suburban Verdun today when a paint shop fire flared up again after being brought under control.

Firemen of Verdun and two neighboring municipalities of Ville LaSalle and Lachine fought the blaze for four hours and most of the equipment had left the scene when it broke out again.

The firemen were reported trapped on the roof and in sheds at the rear of the building.

Three ambulances and inhalator equipment were sent to Church Avenue and Newmarch. Albert, scene of the outbreak. Firemen and nearby residents for coats and blankets to cover the victims, as they awaited medical treatment.

The blaze was overcome by smoke when a gust of wind fanned the smouldering fire and sent black smoke billowing outward. The men were on the roof making the shack of the building and pouring water in the already waterlogged, blackened structure.

Equipment was rushed back to the scene.

HONEYMOON COUPLE HURT

Cobourg, Ont., April 21 — (CP) — A Kingston couple on their honeymoon received minor injuries yesterday when their car was in collision with a cut-down hot rod about 2 1-2 miles east of here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Temple, who were married Saturday, escaped with minor bruises and cuts of the other car, Robert Payne of Cobourg, was not injured.

He denied any brutality.

The convicts claimed there was any connection between their mutiny and riots in Detroit's Jackson prison where barricaded convicts have been demanding an end of brutality charges, an outside investigation and better food. Curiously, it was in the third day of a mutiny at Rahway. Another such mutiny ended Friday at Trenton.

Jamieson Bone, president of the Property Owners Association of Ontario, was the guest speaker at the inaugural meeting of the Quinte Property Association of Sunday last week.

Mr. Bone delivered a scathing attack on governmental action in continuing control on rents, when all other controls had disappeared.

BANKERS CLAIM SHORTAGE OF U.S. MONEY

Foreign exchange on the money market continues to hold many unanswered gimmicks for the man on the street as local banks complain there is no shortage of American currency for those who wish to invest holiday junkets to United States points while businessmen and bankers admit that a large percentage of their trading is done with U.S. money.

Many visitors to Belleville admitted that a call had to be sent to Toronto was found necessary before weekend for a supply of American money to fill the needs of Belleville travellers to border points.

"Perhaps," it was suggested, "many people held some American money when the exchange can money when the exchange can money at a premium. Now, with Canadian money at a premium, holding it no longer profitable and they are getting rid of their American money even though it means a loss."

Start Pipe Line Near Belleville Around May 15

Ditching for a 10-inch pipe which will carry oil between Montreal and Toronto along the north shore of the St. Lawrence river is expected to commence in the Belleville area by May 15, it learned here today. It is expected the 300-odd miles of pipeline will be installed before the freeze-up.

S. Hurlbut, managing director of the St. Lawrence Construction Company at Belleville, whose firm is among the bidders for nine meter shelters and three pumping stations along the route, expressed the view that should Belleville be served by the line, the oil would be pumped from Brighton, where one of the largest meter and pumping installations will be located. Present plans call for the main line to skirt Belleville, passing through farm areas one mile north of the city limits.

Besides installations at Brighton, meter shelters will also be located at Port Hope, Belleville, Kingston, Kilburnie, Maitland, Prescott and Cornwall. Pump and sump stations, complete with auxiliary and utility buildings, will be spotted at Brighton, Kilburnie and Farran's Point.

Will Use Line

The pipe line is being constructed by the Trans-Northern Pipe Line Company and already the British American Oil Company together with the Shell Oil Company of Canada and McColl-Frontenac Oil Company have indicated they will use the line to move an estimated 40,000 barrels of oil daily between Montreal and Toronto, it was learned. If so planned, the daily capacity of the line will be boosted to 90,000 barrels with the addition of added pumping stations.

Servicing of Belleville area will be the Sparling-Davis Company Limited, Toronto, who also hold the contract for construction of one-third of the line between Toronto and Belleville. It was learned that the Sparling and Davis Company expects to shift its headquarters from Brighton to a point just east of Belleville within the next few weeks to supervise construction of the line which will be excavated to a point of three feet.

'Showboat' Seat Sale Opens Wed.

The committee in charge of the forthcoming musical comedy, "Showboat" to be presented by the Belleville Kinsmen and Kinsette Clubs April 30th, May 1 and 2, report that the advance sale of tickets has been encouraging and it is anticipated that a capacity audience will be on hand for each performance.

The reserved seat sale opens on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock at Bill Cook's Cigar Store, where the seating plan may be seen. Persons who plan on attending the show are advised to secure their reserved seat tickets as soon as possible. Those opening night will have the best choice of seats.

Complete rehearsals for the show have been progressing favorably and from all indications "Showboat" will be one of the best productions ever presented locally. Members of the large cast are showing considerable enthusiasm and the remaining week of rehearsals will see the chorus reach their peak for the nightly presentation of the show.

What promises to be an evening of excellent entertainment is scheduled for the Collegiate Auditorium on Friday night when the Legion Boys' and Girls' Choir of 99 Canadian Legion presents a two-hour variety concert.

The choir will be under the direction of Walter Denny.

A variable program has been arranged which will bring out the versatility of the boy choristers in individual, ensemble and comedy work. Many old favorites will be heard, while a number of brand new numbers will be presented.

Augmenting the boys will be several girl soloists including Glenda Doxtator and the Misses Whitehead and Lloyd. Boy soloists will include Larry Dunlop, Ray Rinkle and others.

Students Council B.C.I. Purchases New Stage Drapes

Thanks to the efforts of the Students' Council, the Belleville Collegiate Institute will get a new blossoming out in brand new curtains that will considerably enhance the appearance of the building.

Early in the school year officials and members of the collegiate Students' Council decided that the auditorium stage and windows needed new curtains. They made it their project for the year and since have been busy with various projects raising money to meet the purchase price. Cost of the new curtains is slightly over $3,000.

The contract for supplying and installation of the drapes and curtains was let to the T. Eaton Company and during the Easter holidays work of hanging the curtains got underway.

The main stage curtain is of fine quality blue velour with the backdrops and wings of a gray material. When in place the entire the auditium windows will be covered in the same color as the main stage curtain.

Over $2,000 Raised

Already the Student Council has over $2,000 raised to go toward the cost of the new curtains and members expect to increase that amount considerably before the end of the school year.

One of the main money raising ventures of the year was the sale of magazine subscriptions particularly successful during the year. Other school clubs not to be outdone are also raising money for the venture and hardly a week goes by that some school organization is not in possession of money to the Student Council treasurer, Miss Joan Walden.

School principal G. E. Currie is particularly proud of the Student Council for taking on their project and states they deserve a great deal of credit "in purchasing new curtains and the auditorium they are doing a fine community work." he stated.

Tabernacle Congregation Honors Retired Organist-Choir Leader

The Fireside Hour last evening was one of the unique events that Tabernacle United Church congregation enjoys in which Mrs. M. P. Duff, retired church organist was presented with a beautiful black Morocco hand bag with a substantial cheque enclosed, the gift of the congregation and former members of the choir in recognition of her faithful service for many years.

Pays High Tribute

Mr. H. R. Moorman's sincere commendation brought many memories to mind of happenings during his own years of choir work under Mrs. Duff's direction. He paid high tribute to Mrs. Duff and stated that she had been personally a most accomplished musician in this area. Always she gave her singers fullest assurance and confidence of doing his best. As a choir leader, she was one of the most capable personalities ever known. Never had he heard Mrs. Duff utter many words of reproach to anyone, and one, rather she was giving the cheerful word of encouragement and she has been always willing to give of her beautiful talents to the women's work of the church.

Mrs. P. Nicholson, Napanee, was in attendance and in solemn pledgement of her introduction she explained that a friend known to her the Duffs had moved to Belleville from Barrie, she advised Rev. Mr. Greer, the minister of Tabernacle Church at that time, who immediately contacted Mrs. Duff and she became organist and choir leader. Mrs. Nicholson, herself the leading Alto, enjoyed over 30 years' association with Mrs. Duff and it was a real honor to the church when she was forced to relinquish her duties at the age of 80 owing to breaking health.

Appreciated Musical Numbers

Mr. Alfred Evans, a former member of Tabernacle choir brought his Quintette, Mrs. R. Brittingham, D. Kaye and P. Girard, and they gave many numbers for the evening's pleasure. Also Miss Beverley Buck, a more recent choir member, sang two numbers accompanied by Mrs. Alfred Milton.

Miss Helen Sulman, friend of the congregation, delighted her audience with two readings and the climax of the evening was Mr. Moorman's solo, "Were you there when they crucified My Lord!" copy of which, beautifully autographed by the author (Greenlaw) and given personally to him. Mrs. Duff accompanied Mr. Moorman.

CIVIL DEFENCE

Moncton, N. B. — (CP) — F.V. Nixon, resigning as Maritime coordinator of civil defence, said there was not enough activity in the field at present to justify holding the position as a part-time job. He suggested that if and when work developed, the post be held by a retired man.

Time Flies Fast For a Woman On Shopping Trip

But by the same token it drags along pretty slow for a small girl who has waited for more than two hours for a belated auntie to show up.

Saturday a nine-year-old Trenton girl came to Belleville with her aunt and took in a show while her aunt did a bit of shopping. It was all arranged for the two to meet outside the show shortly before five o'clock.

But five o'clock came and went; then 5:30 and 6:00 o'clock went by, and at 7:00 o'clock the aunt was still missing.

Finally one of the police officers on his beat noticed the little girl and after learning of her trouble took her to the police station. A call to her parents in Trenton brought the father to Belleville in a hurry.

Some time later the little girl's auntie admitted that she had lost all track of time while shopping.

Soviet Union Said Making Big Effort to Increase Production of Cotton

By EDDY GILMOUR

Moscow, April 21—(AP)—Cotton production is being pushed hard in the Soviet Union and indications show efforts are underway to develop it into a major industry.

The chief cotton areas of the U. S. S. R. are in the warm, sunny climes of central Asia.

By use of excellent farming methods the productivity per acre is very high, so the total acreage under cotton, about 44 per cent is located in Uzbekistan, which contributes about 60 per cent of the total cotton production.

Cotton is rapidly being developed in the Kirghiz and the Tadjik republics, and to some extent in regions of the Kazakh republic. But Uzbekistan is still the "deep south," the big cottonland of the Soviet Union.

Reports on the cotton situation in the U. S. S. R. have been revealed by two deputies of the Supreme Soviet.

"In the last three years," said S. Ibragimov, "cotton cultivation in Turkmenia has been doubled."

Ibragimov is chief of the government to build the main Turkmen Canal expressed the gratitude of the Turkmen people for water, for new flourishing fields and pastures on the Karu-Kuma desert.

This construction will fundamentally change the appearance of Turkmenia.

According to Babaev's estimations the main Turkmen canal will enable 1,300,000 hectares of new land to be irrigated and developed, chiefly for the development of cotton growing.

(Russia's total cotton output in 1951 was 2,700,000 bales, according to the New York cotton exchange, as compared with United States production of 15,123,000 bales.

Deputy A. Alimov, in a Moscow speech, discussed the situation in Uzbekistan.

"The agriculture of the Uzbek republic," he said, "is on the upgrade. The small-scale and the collective farms, their organizational-economic strengthening ensured substantial development of all branches of agriculture."

The Soviet Union has a program of combining small collective farms into larger ones. This is to what Alimov referred when he spoke of amalgamating. "At the same time," he said, "there have been serious shortcomings in the directive-making culture.

He said in the central Fergana Valley alone there are about 150,000 hectares that have not been fenced and which are suitable for irrigation.

Aussies Push Plans to Rebuild Wartime U.S. Base at Manus

By BRIAN CROZIER

Melbourne, April 21—(Reuters)—Australia is pushing ahead with long-term plans to turn Manus Island into a bastion guarding the northern approaches to the Australian continent.

In 1944 the United States built a $224,000,000 naval and air base on Manus, one of the main islands in the Admiralty Islands mandated administrally group about 200 miles north of New Guinea.

After the war ended in the Pacific, the then Labor government refused U.S. forces the use as a base. One of the arguments was that Australia could not operate any alienation of her territory.

The U.S. then shifted its Pacific defence interests further north, by-passing Manus.

Today Australian defence officials believe that should the U.S. and Australia ever again be involved in war in the Pacific, Manus would be used as a joint base for operations.

October William McMahon, air and navy minister, announced that the government was pushing ahead as quickly as possible to develop the air and naval base on Manus and would do her utmost to encourage the U.S. to use them.

Junk Heap

A party of members of parliament plans to fly there this month to see how much the island is being put back into "operational efficiency."

Ships could not even tie up because the wharves at Lorengau, the port area, were rotten. All stores were empty junk heaps up to 30 feet high. Disused hangars and the wreckage of cranes and other machinery completed the picture.

The little that Australia found was of restricted value, even as salvage. In addition to leaving many Chinese nationalists, New Zealanders and Indonesians had taken their pick of what the Americans left behind.

L. Ontario Near Record Height

Toronto, April 21—(CP)—Lake Ontario today was barely half an inch below its record height in June, 1947, of 246 feet, three inches above sea level.

Should the lake follow the pattern of recent years it was believed it might rise another five or six inches within the next 60 days when the water begins to pour in from melting northern lakes and rivers.

Meanwhile, Dr. G. B. Langford, head of the Department of Geological Sciences at the University of Toronto, said today that the best information from engineers in the United States and Canada showed the level of the lake may reach 250 feet this summer. This level, he said, would mean abandonment of "a good part" of the island in Toronto Bay where some 3,000 people live during the summer.

Dr. Langford said the prediction of 250 feet was made unofficially to him by officials of the Corps of Engineers of the U. S. army.

Wealthy Canadians Said Seeking Control of Hudson's Bay Company

London, April 21 —(CP)—The Financial Times, noting what it called a determined effort by "some powerful Canadians" to obtain a controlling interest in Hudson's Bay Company, expressed hope today that control will remain in London.

A columnist wrote in the Conservative newspaper that the men believed trying to gain control were "able and reputable," had profited greatly out of Alberta oil, and "see a good prospect of securing a sufficiently large holding in this ancient and magnificent company to enable them to transfer its headquarters to Canada."

The columnist said it would be a "great pity" if this were to happen.

Reports circulated here six months ago that Canadian groups were maneouvring for control. A statement was issued then by the governor, Sir Patrick Ashley Cooper, denying that company headquarters might be transferred.

A STRANGE ARGUMENT

Retirement allowances (or pensions) for federal and provincial cabinet ministers were advocated in Dunbarton last Tuesday night by Gordon Conant, a former Liberal premier of Ontario.

It was not "reasonable or fair" to ask an able man to serve in a cabinet post for some years without providing for him when he is forced to leave the post, Mr. Conant contended.

Mr. Conant also stated: "Furthermore, and what is more important, such a provision for cabinet ministers would conduce to their integrity in office by making them less likely to yield to temptations, because they would know that some future security was assured."

Whether cabinet ministers should or should not receive pensions after having held relatively highly paid positions for a comparatively few years is a point which we are not prepared to argue.

Since we have pensions for the aged, allowances for children and pensions for many other classes of people, and since many of the people receiving these pensions are in no need of them, it would not be difficult to make out a case for giving pensions to defeated cabinet ministers.

But Mr. Conant's remarks about "such a provision for cabinet ministers would conduce to their integrity in office by making them less likely to yield to temptation" have a strange ring.

If Mr. Conant's words mean what we think they mean, he was telling his audience that cabinet ministers will remain honest if they are promised some special reward for honesty, but that, if they are given no special reward for honesty, they are likely to help themselves to whatever they can pick up while in office.

Surely Mr. Conant is taking an altogether too cynical view of his fellow politicians. Even those who take an extremely dim view of the way things have been going in this country would scarcely agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Conant.

What kind of integrity is it, we wonder, which operates only when its owner is given a special reward for remaining honest? Is it "integrity" at all? Is it not rather integrity to withstand temptation honest because of the fear of getting caught?

SHORTAGES FOLLOW PLANNERS

Argentina has facilities for producing beef unsurpassed elsewhere in the world. Great Britain has vast depths of coal. Argentina is trying to import coal. Britain is trying to import beef. Argentina needs the coal badly and Britain needs the beef badly.

In these circumstances, the Argentines and the British should be able to work out a mutually profitable trade agreement. But they have not been able to do so.

And why not? Because Britain has no surplus coal to export, and even has been forced in recent years to import some. Similarly, Argentina has no beef, or very little beef, for export.

In days gone by, the British produced all the coal they needed and much more for export. Also in days gone by, the Argentines had the highest per capita meat consumption in the world, but exported enormous quantities of beef, hides, leather and other such products.

And what brought about these changes? Well, it's like this: In days gone by, when the British were digging all the coal they could use and more, they had no government planning and no government experts to direct their coal mining operations. Similarly, in days of old days, the Argentine ranchers and their gauchos were a rough and ready lot, who probably had never even heard of government planning or government experts.

Nowadays, the British have to concern themselves for their lack of coal by the realization that they have a surplus of government planning, production boards and assorted experts. The Argentines, although they were much later than the British in adopting the planned economy, have acquired it, along with all its advantages. They even have meat rationing and two meatless days a week. The Argentines console themselves for this lack of beef by the thought that their government controls, directs and supervises everything for them.

We have no first hand knowledge of whether the peoples of these two countries are happier under this planned economy than they were in times past, but we are satisfied that both the British and the Argentines would like to get rid of their planners, experts and economic advisers.

If we are mistaken about this, it is high time that the Argentines think they would do even better than at present if they had more planning. Canada, which has an expert surplus of both experts and planners, might help out by shipping a few boatloads of each to both countries.

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MISTAKES IN HUMAN RELATIONS

Mr. Charles Garside, who is serving as acting president of the University of Toronto, while Sir Robert Falconer is in Europe, was recently asked what he considered the greatest challenge facing higher education. Mr. Garside, an attorney and business-man, declined to say right to be considered an authority on educational matters, but volunteered a statement which challenges the consideration of all thoughtful people.

Said Mr. Garside: "I think the greatest challenge facing higher education today is the overemphasis on scientific and technical training with consequent neglect of the humanities. We are producing more and more trained men highly efficient in their specialized men. All of our twentieth-century problems are based in the field of human relations. We seem to know a lot about molecules but little about men. Progress in science may be deemed essential to our material welfare, but what will there be left to preserve if we continue to commit blunders that grow out of our failure to understand human values and things, upon which we are founded?"

Ponder especially Mr. Garside's statement: "All our twentieth-century problems are based in the field of human relations." This is undoubtedly true, and the key to most of our present difficulties.

Since little Oliver has been photographed from the adult's level he appears to have a head of unbelievable size and, because of the lighting, a complexion of deep mahogany hue.

This terrifying object will stare dully from the screen, occasionally breaking into tears, and there are moves into rages, snuffing and stamping at the camera, and then the whole picture will suddenly be tilted on end, indicating that the operator has been struck with a heart seizure.

It frequently happens, too, that the child will not only have a head like a watermelon, but will, in fact, have two heads. This is known as double exposure and is very popular.

Such technical defects never discourage the amateur movie-maker for long. Take for example, a great deal of "panning", in which the camera is swung briskly from one object to another, so that the scenery careens by at a dizzy rate, frequently causing you to fall heavily to the floor.

There is, moreover, a curious effect of all we achieved by a friend whose cameraman had a habit of turning runs slightly longer than "Gone With the Wind." In one memorable picture the fellow stood in a rowboat in his attempt to adequately picture the seaside resort of his choice.

There appears to have been a considerable skirmish in the lobby of the theatre when the picture of the physician, the landscape rocks and tills between sky and sea the hardiest member of the audience was observed to quick shot of Mothersill's remedy.

Unfortunately, from a technical standpoint, the most alarming thing in the picture was that the lifer figures moved across the screen, from time to time there was introduced a shot which was a green crawling thing (caterpillar, I have since learned, is the correct name) and in one sequence a dog barks at the camera for approximately 400 seconds.

As it happens however, I myself, appear in this picture, and I am a curious color and my complexion has the hues of a rather lurid whipper. Somehow the top of my head appears to be have silvery hair above the eyes.

But it is me, and that is all that the home movie-maker needs to have a hit on his hands.

Republican-Led Group Will Try To Block Funds

Washington, April 21 — (AP)—A Republican-led Senate group claimed it had a good chance today of stalling through a two-pronged drive to block President Truman from enforcing his seizure of the steel mills.

Members of the group said they had growing Democratic support in a fight to amend the railway anti-strike seizure; introduced by Senator Homer Ferguson, Republican.

2. Deny use of any federal funds for attempting to operate or seize or operate any plant without specific consent from Congress. The latter proposal yesterday was proposed by Senator William Kenyon, Republican, of Iowa, a leader in the anti-seizure manoeuvering.

The Ferguson measure would be tacked onto a $980,000,000 bill to finance operations of the government's railroads until June 30. Among them is the committee's operation, operating the seized steel mills under Truman's orders.

Knowland's Senate forces contend Truman had no legal right to seize the plants and say the government has no authority now to grant steel workers any pay raise while it is operating the mills.

Meanwhile, there was no major development on the steel front today, mills continuing to operate under nominal government management as it was known, as the Pittsburgh district union talks were scheduled.

Reports of a showdown on the wage issue today or tomorrow failed to materialize. Secretary of Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer that nothing had been decided yet.

Sawyer was reported earlier to have delivered an ultimatum from Truman to the steel companies to sign an agreement with the C. I. O. steelworkers by tomorrow night or the government would raise wages.

However, Sawyer told reporters during an television program (NBC's "Meet the Press") that this was not correct. He said there would "certainly be some wage increase" but he did not say how much, or when it would be granted.

Building Inspector's Role Important

(Daily Commercial News)

Many thousands of persons throughout the country owe the safety and security of their new homes to an individual they have never seen or, possibly, never even heard about. He is the unseen, invisible servant—the building inspector.

To guard against the erection of unsafe buildings, to prevent unsound or unsanitary, most communities have set up building codes—a set of rules covering what materials may be used and how. The job of administering the code falls to the building inspector.

Often he is your only protection against an unscrupulous builder. For example, will you make certain that the concrete footings for the walls of your home will rest are placed on solid earth, and that the foundations will be strong enough to carry the weight that will be placed upon them?

He also examines such structural features as the roof, joists and floors; and how they are nailed; the electrical wiring, to see that it is installed with the safety standards; the interior walls, ceiling (whether lath or plaster-board) to see that it is properly fire retardant.

Without the service of the building inspector, disease problems would run rampant in modern cities. For example, he guarantees against pollution of the water supply and checks against sewage which may contaminate. In houses he makes sure that the plumbing fixtures are properly installed, vented, so that they will not cause possible disease-breeding backflows.

Most building codes specify that the inspector must also be notified at the time a new sewage or plan major repairs. To cut cherners, some home repairmen decide to do the thing in a way the inspector would not approve and thus avoid his agreement to their plans. This is unwise. The inspector's seal of approval on your almost certain guarantee that you have a home that is safe and sound.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment Will Be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

SO CHILDBIRTH IS NOT QUITE PROPER

A year ago a girl of the golden west, who evidently has something which too many of her sister lack, told us how she had her baby in the family car, attended only by her husband. They were forty miles from the doctor. "The doctor couldn't come to take care of me at home because a ranch house lacks necessary facilities . . . We never better off than when the doctor charged his flat rate, $150, just as though he delivered me." Evidently the doctor called after a decent interval to collect.

The idea of a ranch house lacking necessary facilities irks me as much as the local specialists' excuse for excluding the prospective father from sharing the great miracle with his wife. They say he might bring infection into the delivery room. Rubbish! Such ideas are without foundation—in fact, as any physician knows, are a menace to the hospital and in private practice known.

As I have said repeatedly, the place for a man is at his wife's side when their baby is being born. But I hope no nincompoop will make a nuisance of himself by fainting or otherwise when or if doctors, nurses, or hospital authorities refuse to let him be present at the delivery room. The time to decide whether the prospective father shall attend the birth should be or she chooses is when you engage the physician. The physician is anything less than frank about it, have no dealings with him or her. That's my advice.

I am irked by reports of the similar behavior of doctors and hospital managers toward the peasants who come bowing and scraping, but I am saddened when I get a letter from a prospective mother or grandmother to the effect that it isn't quite proper for a husband to witness childbirth. That I'm an old fogy, that it is "unfitness," and that provokes me. Childbirth is not a pretty show. It's a miracle, and in my opinion there's something seriously wrong with a marriage when one partner thinks it is not "proper" for the other to share in the miracle. By the same token I contend that such a dreary affair as childbirth is a large factor of diverse in Yankeeland.

The wholesome, the happy, the sensible and, believe me, the solemnly impressive, are the potential or prospective parents to prepare for the great miracle at hand in hand, together, from the first glimmering that they may be blessed through the joys, and sorrows, the worries, fears and anxieties to the moment when they hear the sweetest music in the world, the first cry of their own baby. The man who has missed that thrill hasn't lived. The woman who doesn't want her husband to share the miracle with her hasn't lived.

The expectant father should know as much as his wife does about prenatal care. In order to encourage young married people to approach the great adventure with a hand I'll send any married woman a complimentary copy of the booklet Preparing for Maternity if she provides stamped, self-addressed envelope and asks for the booklet within this month. If the couple will study the booklet together they will get at least a good start towards a happy life.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Magnified Prospective Mother

Read of researches suggesting that oxygen deficit might have something to do with mongolism. Can your instructive articles about the effects of acetanilid and phenacetin on the unborn, on the oxygen-carrying function of the red corpuscles, and on anything whether use of such pain-killers by an expectant mother might not affect the heart and . . . Mrs. P. C. M.)

Answer — Your reasoning is sound enough. I don't know what may cause or predispose to mongolism (mongolism idiocy.) But I do know that the use of even occasional doses of such drugs is especially dangerous for the prospective mother and her unborn child. Read the chapter on the abuse of analgesic (ache or pain killing) drugs in the booklet on heart and artery troubles—C V D. Or the section in the pamphlet on Headaches? About Acetanilid addiction. For the pamphlet send a stamped self-addressed envelope. If you want the booklet also, inclose 10c for it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

START ALL OVER AGAIN

There is nothing definite about temporary failure. Failure is only a state of mind. Many a notable career until he was past forty. And inventors died and artists were not heard of until he had passed middle life. I keep thinking of the words that the poet Margaret once wrote in which he stated that a failure is but a challenge to begin again.

Far more important than the mere winning of a contest or the perfective is the attitude to the world that we put the last ounce of energy into, whether we win, lose or draw! Strife is the thing that conditions the mind and spirit. Without it none of us would ever achieve the desire of our hearts.

There is a favorite line from Emerson that keeps ringing in me again, again, again. Here it is: "I am defeated all the time, yet to myself I am hopeful. What debt I took darkest and most discouraging why not brush myself and start all over again. I was dead a waste, and start all over again!

(Editor's note: William L. Ryan, AP foreign news analyst, has travelled from Belgrade to Helzinki in a two-month tour of Europe tapping sources of information at the edges of the iron curtain. In this article he appraises the current status of the cold war in Europe and brings out how the Soviet Union is pushing its campaign).

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Berlin (AP) — "After all," said the diplomat, "here is what the cold war is all about."

He pointed to the map of Germany in the heart of Europe.

"If and when the Russians are ready for war, we will know it here first," he said. "But it will not be in 1952. The Russians aren't ready. And Stalin can wait.

"We will know a year in advance. Right now we know that their communications and transport are in no shape to start a war. We know they lack faith in their satellite armies and populations. We know they would need large numbers of troops to hold what they have now. We know they lack the technical and economic resources on a scale permitting war."

Many western diplomats agree with this assessment. The consensus here appears to be that Russia is intent now upon holding whatever it can in the west, protecting its western flank, while consolidating and pushing forward in the Orient.

Neutralize Europe

Thus, goes the reasoning, Russia's entire program in Europe today appears to be aimed at paralyzing the western Europeans' will to resist — to render western Europe impotent and neutral.

In the drive to neutralize western Europe, the prime target is Germany. Competent observers speculate that Stalin would even be prepared to dump the whole east German Communist party if he could achieve the goal of a German vacuum.

Stalin now says the time is ripe for talks on unification of Germany. He has let it be known he is willing for Germany to be unified with its own party, sufficient to defend itself. This was a shock to the Communists, long playing on the fear of a re-armed Germany.

In May the three western powers meet with western Germany to sign a peace contract. This would finalize the split of Germany into two parts. It would presage a western Germany, able to flourish economically, lifted into the western defence scheme.

This is the last thing Moscow wants. But Moscow remembers other times when the Germans were willing to make deals at the moments when they thought Germany would reap the most benefit, and the devil take the hindmost. Possibly Moscow banks on the theory that the Germans haven't changed.

Expectant Mother Killed by Accidental Discharge of Rifle

Cobalt, Ont., April 21 (CP) — Mrs. Doris Monk, 21-year-old expectant mother, was killed Saturday by the accidental discharge of her husband's rifle.

The husband, Kenneth Monk, popular young Cobalt hockey player, ran from his home crying: "I've shot her, I've killed Doris." He collapsed inside the home of a neighbor. Nearby residents found the body of his wife lying on her back in the kitchen in a pool of blood.

The two were married last year and were expecting a baby next month. Neighbors said Monk had taught himself to knit and just see day before had finished a pair of white booties for the infant.

Monk told police he was sitting on the floor polishing the stock of the rifle when it suddenly fired. The bullet hit Mrs. Monk about six feet away.

Monk said the gun hadn't been out of its case all winter.

"I wish to God I had never touched it," he said.

WEDDINGS

SMITH—RADNOR

Bridge Street United Church was the setting on Saturday, April 19th at high noon for a very pretty wedding ceremony, when, before a floral arrangement of tall standards of pink roses, white sweetpeas, and white hyacinth bells and ferns, the Reverend Duncan McTavish, pastor of the church, united in marriage Margaret Frances Radnor, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector R. Radnor, of Crookston, Ontario, to Desmond William Smith, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Smith, of Marathon, Ontario.

Mr. Alec Gordon, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Jean McDougall, who sang before the ceremony, "Through the Years", and during the signing of the register, "Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of exquisite French white Chantilly lace, fashioned in full-length redingote style, fitted strapless bodice of nylon tulle with Queen Anne collar and neckline, buttoned to the waistline. The gracefully full skirt featured a short chapel train. Her three-quarter veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap of matching French Chantilly lace, and she carried a semi-cascade of pink roses, white sweetpeas and white hyacinth bells interspersed with tricoline loops and maiden - hair fern.

Miss Irma Carman of Toronto, attended the bride, wearing a gown of waltz blue net and shadow lace over taffeta, fashioned with strapless bodice edged with pleated ruching, and topped with revered jacket. The full skirt flared from the molded bodice, featuring a deep scalloped band of matching lace to which the net was gathered. She carried a hand bouquet of mauve sweetpeas, pink hyacinth bells, blue cornflowers, with maiden hair fern and tricoline loops.

Mr. Ed. Wende, of Kapuskasing, Ontario, attended the bridegroom. The ushers were Mr. Douglas Radnor, brother of the bride, of Peterborough, and Eric Mecloy of Toronto.

The reception was held at Maple Haven, Trent Road where the bride's mother, attired in navy crepe with white accessories and corsage of white gardenias received the guests. Owing to illness the bridegroom's mother was unable to be present. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Radnor, of Orillia, assisted in the receiving line, wearing mauve crepe with corsage of purple and white stocks.

The bride's table was tastefully arranged with white damask cloth and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by tiny spring flowers, the base swathed in white tulle upon which were scattered tiny sprays of white sweetpeas.

Toasts to the bride were proposed by the Reverend Duncan McTavish and Mr. W. L. Langlois to which the bridegroom replied, while the toast to the bridesmaids proposed by the bridegroom was replied to by the groomsman.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo and points south, the bride chose a navy ensemble with shrimp topcoat, white and navy accessories and circular corsage of purple stocks. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in Belleville.

10,000 Arrive in City To See 'Easter Parade'

"Easter Parade," an unrehearsed drama, ushered official Spring into Belleville on Sunday in a performance that was more or less a disappointment.

The "stage setting" was perfect. A brilliant April sun shone down from cloudless sky. The temperature hovered around 71.2 the second warmest day of the year. It is estimated that nearly 10,000 people from all parts of the district formed the "actors" and spectators in a milling jostling crowd that packed Front Street to capacity.

For nearly two hours from 2 p.m. on the city's main thoroughfare was jam-packed with the curious. Three lines of automobiles, trucks and motorcycles crawled at a snail's pace up and down the street. On the pavement people stood three and four deep waiting for the "parade."

Parking Lots Filled

Parking lots were filled. Streets leading into Front Street were jammed with cars and even as were parallel throughfares.

Unfortunately the greater part of the crowd had taken the meaning of the word "parade" too literally. The big question that was on a lot of lips was "Where is the parade?" Nobody knew.

From the northern part of the county came two decorated cars filled with costumed occupants ready for the parade. A horse and sulky with decorated wheels were ready.

Hundreds of people expected to see and hear bands, floats, troops, not knowing or understanding that an "Easter Parade" consisted merely of milady and her male counterpart parading up and down the thoroughfare dressed in the seasonal best under the discerning eyes of judges.

Unfortunately Belleville has no "Atlantic City Boardwalk," or a "Sunnyside." The "stage was Front Street and the contestants were supposed to parade before a duo of judges and were stationed at a table situated in the Front Street entrance of the Royal Bank branch.

Traffic at Full Stop

Placing of this table, the arrival of the judges and the setting up of radio broadcasting equipment, pulled the slowly moving traffic to a full stop.

Immediately the Campbell-Front Street corner was jammed with pedestrians. Nobody wanted to move. It was later understood that contestants were supposed to register at the judges table, to take part in a radio interview and thus become eligible for prizes. Unfortunately, the greater majority of potential contestants were unaware of this.

Meanwhile the beauty of Belleville and district gathered in multi-colored finery, with the male of the species, too, turning out in goodly numbers in "What's fashionable for men" mingled with the crowd in a good natured parade.

It is too bad the greater part of the well-dressed men and women, boys and girls did not have the opportunity of being judged. As it was the work of judges George Fryer, Kingston and Mrs. E. Buchanan, Belleville was reduced to a minimum since only a few reported to them at the stand.

But apart from all this, milady of Belleville and her male friend, showed that they could take set back seat from their counterparts in other places when it comes to taste and selection of new spring toggery.

Beautiful Creations

Even "Pancho" a tiny furry-haired puppy paraded with his neck ribbon.

And by no means least were the 1952 creations in automobile models. Many beautiful cars were seen airing themselves for the first time in the endless parade that crawled up and down the main thoroughfare.

In any event, the afternoon proved something. And that is that an Easter Parade is an extremely popular event with fine weather conditions prevailing. The sponsors were more or less overwhelmed with the response by the public and as one gentleman remarked, "We learned a lot today. Next year we'll iron out several wrinkles seen here today and make a huge success of the parade."

The winners as announced today were, Theresa Lorimer, 323 Charles Street; Phyllis Grady, 44 Highland Avenue, Belleville, and Mrs. Dorothy Kiser, Consecon. Winners in the men's division were David Kane, 12 Holloway Street, and Edgar McCreary, 26 Boswell Street, Belleville and Frank Weaver, Trenton.

Comrade Club Presents Thrilling Marionette Show

Marjerie's Marionettes sponsored by the Comrade Club of Tabernacle United Church, were much appreciated by both children and adults on Friday afternoon and evening.

In a miniature theatre the Marionettes skate, dance and perform admirably. The stage settings were pretty and realistic. Tony, the clown, acted as master of ceremonies and talked to the children. The black cat that plays the xylophone and the judge were good. The Snowball, white educated horse, performed most admirably and the lady who came to buy her new Easter bonnet was clever.

Aquarium Act

There was an act that represented an aquarium and the beautifully fluorescent fish swimming around were colorful.

There was a teddy bear on roller skates, also a beautiful doll that skated to the music of "Skater's Waltz" and an Oriental dancer, dancing twins.

Miss Taylor is to be congratulated on the making of her Marionettes and stage settings and lighting effects. The children who attended were thrillingly entertained.

Good Companions Present Fashions Of 'Gay Nineties'

"In Your Easter Bonnet" was the theme song of the Good Companions' meeting on Tuesday evening when male members of the club displayed the fashions of that era known as the "Gay Nineties."

Harold McNish as the commentator, was fittingly garbed in a pale blue evening gown, which contrasted nicely with his beautiful golden curls. In a witty manner, Harold introduced the models.

Fashionable Habit

The first on the stage was Albert Mulvey, alias Alberta Coal. He modelled the fashionable riding habit of 1900. "Lewlu" Andrews, the second model, was on his way to afternoon tea, dressed in a stylish black silk gown with bustle.

Others taking part in the parade were D. Boulton, R. Bowley, G. Williams and W. Mifflin.

Due to the skillful application of make-up by Helen Salman and her assistants, it was difficult to recognize the men as she stepped daintily across the stage in their finery.

Johnston, accompanied by Bessie Mifflin. Following the parade, the remainder of the evening was spent in games.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"My difficulty is not so much to know what to do, but how to do it tactfully, so that I can get results without being offensive or antagonizing the person in question."

This is the opening sentence of a letter from a woman who is distressed because her cousin is an irresponsible gossip with no inhibitions against confiding her intimate personal business to anyone who will listen.

"This cousin is a girl who is constantly complaining — about her health, her finances or what a job it is to prepare meals for herself and her family," the letter goes on to say. "Her husband is a hard-working man who tries very hard to make things go right, yet my cousin is full of suspicions that he has not been faithful to her and she even upset herself so greatly about this that she has had what a psychiatrist calls hysteria. She was constantly telling me about her suspicions until I myself became so upset I had to tell her that I didn't want to hear any more about her marital problems. After this, I heard no more about these suspicions, and apparently, when she had no one to listen to her, her health improved and things seemed to run smoothly again."

Neurotic Woman

Having dropped her talk about her suspicions, however, this neurotic woman had to have something else to dwell upon in public so, her cousin says, she now "is constantly relating the most intimate details of her marital life. I feel that a wife should share her marital secrets with no one, and I find this most embarrassing. I dislike having to tell her this, and I usually try to change the subject, but she seems to want to speak of nothing else. I am not the only one who hears these things, either, as she does not hesitate to tell any neighbor who will listen.

"I feel embarrassed for her husband, too, as he knows nothing of her talking outside the home, and yet the tongues of all the neighbors are wagging about all of them.

"Where is her sense of loyalty to her husband, who works so hard to provide for his family that he has no time for idle gossip? How can I smarten her up without getting myself in the middle?"

If the woman who writes this letter is really so concerned about the harm her cousin is doing her family that she wants to try and make her realize it, I'm afraid she is going to have to speak out plainly, whether it gets her "in the middle" or not. For when a person is so psychologically askew, or so insensitive and lacking in insight, that she has no hesitation in making public confidential family matters, any attempt to set her straight delicately will go right over her head. Nothing is likely to penetrate into that type of mind but the sharpness of direct and blunt speaking, with no punches pulled.

Needs Psychiatrist

I am not at all sure, however, that even complete frankness will do any good. For if this woman has to get her emotional satisfaction in such a distorted way, something must be radically wrong with her. Apparently she has already had to have the attention of a psychiatrist, and I would say that further treatment of the same kind was definitely indicated as a means of locating and eradicating the cause of her behavior.

It seems to me that someone should inform the woman's husband about what is going on, and suggest to him that he consult the psychiatrist who is familiar with his wife's case as to the best way of handling the situation. It is certainly not fair to the husband that such things should be allowed to go on, nor is it fair to the woman herself to have no one take a definite and intelligent interest in trying to adjust her basic difficulties, whatever they may be.

Food for Thought

By Mary Moore

Reducing—Here's Hope—On Three Meals a Day Too

Read the following quote, readiuers, and weep, then dry your tears, for there is still hope.

"... under no circumstances should a person on a reducing regime be allowed to eat his calorie requirements in less than 3 meals a day .. (he may) grow fat on 1 meal per days; (can) grow thin on 3 or 4 meals per day. These measures are effective in managing (obese) patients."

I quote from an address given to the Dietetic Section of the Ontario Hospital Association by a doctor specializing in internal medicine whom many of you know personally.

Have you been vainly martyrizing yourself by skimping on breakfast and lunch then wading into dinner like a thresher? — with the hope that the scales would go down. This eminent doctor says it sounds good but won't work.

In a nutshell here is what he says you should do if you seriously want to lose weight: Eat 3 meals — medium-sized and bulky (see below) per day, high in protein (meat, eggs, cheese, fish, fowl— see below) and eat them slowly.

The "bulk" referred to will come from fruit and vegetable, most of them raw, and whole wheat bread, 4½-inch slices of which provide 300 calories per day, but are essential for whole wheat bread contains minerals and vitamins and bulk that are difficult to assemble in small form in any other food. But it is not your salvation. Your hunger can be appeased with raw fruits and vegetables.

High in Protein: Protein foods produce an acid ash. By a complicated chemical process in the body, protein helps eliminate the sodium. Sodium (salt) is retained in the tissues, and it must have large amounts of water to hold it. So to overcome this mysterious weight-increasing factor (1) eat meats or eggs or cheese or fish at every one of your 3 medium-sized meals per day. (2) reduce your salt consumption to a minimum; (3) increase water consumption to augment elimination of sodium. Drink at least 1 pint of skim or buttermilk per day.

Breakfast—1 grapefruit, 160 cal.; 1 egg (soft-cooked in butter or fat) 66 cal.; 2½-inch slices whole wheat bread; 1 teaspoon butter, 160 cal.; 8 oz. cafe au lait (4 oz. hot milk, 4 oz. strong coffee) 42 cal. (468 cal.)

Lunch—Homemade cream tomato soup, 8 oz., 160 cal.; salmon sandwich on whole wheat, leaf lettuce, 1 teaspoon mayonnaise, 233 cal.; 1 ripe banana, 100 ca.; 8-oz. glass skim milk, 84 cal.; (577 cal.)

Dinner — 4-oz. slice broiled steak or roast beef, 300 cal.; ½ cup steamed spinach, sliced beets, 20 and 50 cal.; 1 teaspoon butter, 33 cal.; ¼ head lettuce, 2 tablespoons cottage cheese, 45 cal.; 1 orange, 56 cal.; 1 cup clear coffee, 0 cal.; (604 cal.)

Those meals add up to 1524 calories. So you may have a glass of tomato juice and a rye wafer with butter on, or an orange or an apple and a glass of skim or buttermilk at 4 p.m. or before bedtime, to bring your total calories for the day around 1700.

But please do not adopt this strict diet without first consulting your doctor about it.

Fashion Flashes

ALWAYS A GOOD WELCOME for crisp black and white. Silk taffeta, in tiny black and white checks, makes up into a pretty dress with white linen collar and cuffs. The figure-defining, long basque waist breaks into pleats, and there is a huge black taffeta bow at the neck.

THE SUMMER MOON will shine down on clothes of diaphanous beauty. Silk gauze makes an evening dress of mid-calf length, the strapless top marked by a broad, embroidered band of pearls, crystals and rhinestones. Dress is covered by a bead embroidered, silk gauze stole.

IT'S THE SURFACE that tells the new sailor story. A narrow, brimmed little sailor is completely covered with an applique of white lace daisies on straw, with several of the appliques placed so that the edges are raised for a dimensional effect. Velvet band and soft veil.

YOU'LL NOTE, when the time comes, that this year's summer costumes are more covered up than in years. When a bodice is strapless, a little cover-up is worn as an integral part of the costume, but in many dresses there are sleeves, and usually very interesting detail. Anyway, the topless street dress isn't going to be a bit smart this year —if it ever was—and not nearly so prevalent as in former years.

THE BIG THING in the casual and general wear coat field looks like the cashmere coat done in beautiful pastels, with plenty of yardage, self stitching and other accents for a luxury look. Rather than several coats, many a girl is going to put all her money into one of the impressive beauties, good for travel, for general wear, and over evening things.

ANYTHING GOES for rainwear, too, what with fitted and very full coats both gaining consumer acceptance. A handsome coat, very full, is of woven check pin dot taffeta, in silver grey and black. It has umbrella sleeves and a high, johnny collar.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Teacher Should Be Paid Professional Fee for Her Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am writing a book on a special phase of music study and I very much need some help and advice about the text and the editing. So I am planning to ask a woman who used to give me lessons to give me this help. She too is particularly interested in this idea of music study. Would it be proper for me to offer to pay her for this service, or might she regard such an offer as insulting?—Andrea R.

Would you really have any right to ask her to give you her time and effort and special skill without any remuneration? This would be unthinkable. Of course, be professional about asking for this so-important help and service — and make it entirely clear to this professional woman that, if she will be so kind as to help you, naturally you want to pay her her customary fee.

There Should be Ushers to Seat Wedding Guests

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My plans to have a simple wedding; matron of honor and best man; no bridesmaids. I intend to wear the traditional bridal gown with train. Is it permissible for the groom and best man to wear tuxedos?

2. I have been told that where there are no bridesmaids, there should be no ushers. True?

3. Would it be preferable for me to have a flower girl, even though there are not to be bridesmaids? —L.

1. Yes, it is permissible for the groom and best man to wear tuxedos; (a) If you keep all your plans on the side of more informality than formality; and (b) If the wedding is to be in the evening, any time after six o'clock, at the earliest. (Of course, to be strictly correct the groom and his attendants would wear formal evening attire — "tails" — when the bride wears a formal wedding gown with train. But when the formality isn't too much stressed, the men in the wedding party may wear tuxedos.)

2. This is not true. Whether or not you have ushers doesn't at all depend on whether or not you have bridesmaids. You should have ushers if you are to have a considerable number of guests — one or two ushers for every fifty guests. It is extremely bad wedding-planning, extremely awkward for the ushers, not to provide ushers to escort guests to seats.

3. Yes; you may have a flower girl. Your Processional (not an unusual plan): first, the ushers, two by two; next, the matron of honor, alone; next, the flower girl, alone; last, you and your father. Recessional: bride and groom; flower girl; matron of honor, either alone or with the best man; last, the ushers, two by two, as in the processional.

She Has the Right Point of View About Bridal Showers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have always understood that it is not the right thing for a member of the bride's or groom's family to give a shower for the bride-to-be — that this shower should be given by friends. But some friends have told me that I am wrong about this. Am I right or wrong?—A. A.

You are right.

BEAUTY

FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY FREE

While walking along the good-looks road, you must watch a firm footing. It isn't enough to treasure and nurse your complexion, to part the chic hairdo, to lay the carnation gloss on your fingertips. You must remember your feet now and then. If you don't do that little thing, they will remind you of your neglect and, instead of walking in beauty like the night, you will shuffle or hobble, and nobody will hand you any compliments on your appearance. Aching feet will eventually ruin posture, and without perfect posture the silhouette will not quality.

Civilization has brought us blessings; it has also brought us troubles, among which are ill-fitting shoes. Were we to go barefoot, chiropodists would go out of business. Since we can't and don't want to, let us give the feet a break and house them properly and comfortably.

You don't have to sacrifice style for ease; you can have both. Shoe designers do not overlook hygiene is needs these days. They know that extremely high heels are no help, but women will have them and so the designers provide them.

It stands to reason that the weight of the body can be supported on a fairly broad heel with less expenditure of energy than on a small base, such as the spike heel, which often equals the size of a quarter. You can totter through the merry evening on spikes, but limit them to social affairs.

The leather of a shoe for ordinary wear should be soft and pliable, the leather of the sole flexible so that movements are free.

For times of extra strain, such as a long hike or a game of golf, a stronger leather is preferable.

For the housewife who travels over the domestic route from dawn to long past dusk, an oxford is the best bet. It is better than the pump because it not only supports the arch but allows freedom of the ankle. Of course one style of shoe cannot be recommended for everyone, as the variations in foot patterns are too great. But there is one rule to be kept in mind; the feet should be allowed to remain in their natural position. Narrow shoes will send toes into a huddle. Corns and ingrowing nails will form.

If you can't wiggle your toes, your shoes are not large enough. If your heels slip, they are too large. Don't insist upon a certain size. Have your feet measured when shoe-shopping.

PLAY BALL!

Something of a definite nature along baseball lines should develop tonight when the Central Ontario Baseball League once more tries to get organization for the coming season under way. Vice President Jack Devine says that representatives of teams from Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough, Bailieboro, Picton, Napanee and Trenton ECAF have definitely promised to be on deck at the city hall meeting which gets under way at eight o'clock.

Commenting on the situation, the Peterborough scribe writes that "the Quinte crew is already on the prowl for players. They have Ralph (Lefty) McCabe as playing manager and also Sonny Mulholland from Kingston."

He goes on to say that the Petes, Kingston, Belleville and the Flyers should be okay but the others are of unknown quality. The Lakeshore loop, he adds, refused 'em entry on the grounds they were too strong.

Peterborough baseball officials held a meeting the other night and expect a strong executive to line up behind the club. Ex-Mayor Max Swanson and Tom Holyman, former COB Eilers will act as will Cy Whatley and Lloyd Grose. Whatley, Grose and Jack MacNamara will represent the Petes at tonight's pow-wow.

Tis reported George Brabin starry Oshawa ball-hawk who played for the Petes last year will toss away his professional baseball ideas and return to the Petes fold. George "Red" Sullivan pro hockey star is also said to be interested while Doug Loucks may desert the Lindsay intermediates to flip 'em for the Petes. Several junior players will try out with the club.

Nothing apparently has been heard from the three northern New York state teams said to be interested in playing in the Central Ontario loop. Smiths Falls may hop to travel to Peterborough so the overall picture looks like a renewal of the old Bay of Quinte League with the Petes and Kingston tossed in for good measure. It should be a lively league with Kingston and Petes having the longest hauls.

GALS SOFTBALL

—It looks like girl's softball has taken a shot-in-the-arm with the diamondeers headed for a healthy season. A meeting in Peterborough the other night revealed seven or eight teams will form the Lakeshore Ladies League with entries from Bellville, Trenton, Colborne, Lindsay, Oshawa and three teams from Peterborough. It is likely Jerry Mahoney's Northern Electric lassies will form the Belleville entry.

* * *

STRANGE HAPPENINGS

Before shaking the hockey dust from the typewriter, it was interesting to note a report from up west the other day which stated that some changes are being mooted in the senior "B" set-up. Kingston is said to be definitely out having hooked up with an eastern loop, but there is a strong possibility of Oshawa interests will enter a team next year. Woodstock-ville Clippers, too, are to be interested, Lindsay Muskies say they are interested too, but would not be ready for the senior jump until 1953. Whether Peterborough will operate two clubs again next year, is uncertain at the moment.

OBA CONCLAVE

It will be interesting to note what happens at the annual conclave of the Ontario Baseball Association which gets under way at St. Catharines next Friday and Saturday. Twill be our fourth in a row and attendance of delegates has dwindled steadily during that period. This year, we understand the strong Toronto Baseball League has taken a "holiday" from OBA jurisdiction and apart from the powerful International which is rank professional throughout, the Niagara District, Western Ont. loops there can't be very much left. Should be some lusty doings at the open session next Saturday morning in the Hotel Queens-way. Executives of major and minor divisions get together Friday afternoon. Understand one bone of contention will be the election of a secretary.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

In spring a football fan's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of fall.

Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union revealed during the week-end that they are not standing still while Calgary Stampeders sign up stars like Johnny Bright of Drake University. Manager Al Anderson said he has approached Notre Dame's famed Johnny Lujack, outstanding quarterback who quit Chicago Bears.

But Anderson said he was "in no hurry to close a deal" because Lujack is reported to have a bad shoulder. He said he didn't want any high-salaried American stars around with injuries.

Lujack, who signed to become assistant coach to Frank Leahy at Notre Dame, is reported anxious to get back into active playing. He decided to hang up his cleats earlier when Chicago offered him a salary cut.

Anderson said it could be assumed that Rod Pantages, Montreal Alouettes kicker, would be in the Eskimos backfield when the season rolls around.

George Raiterman, who returned to the football New York Yankees after a dismissal last fall for gambling, has been sold to Cleveland Browns of the National League.

The University of Michigan's mighty relay team, with three Canadians and one American, set a world record Saturday in the distance medley event at the Penn relays in Philadelphia. The runners, including Jack Carroll of Montreal, John Ross of Oakville and Don McEwen of Ottawa, flashed home in 9:56.3 for the two-mile run.

Waterloo won the third annual young Canada peewee hockey championship of the Goderich Lions Club Saturday, defeating Brooklyn 5-4. Goderich edged Fort Hope 2-1 in the consolation event.

Two intercollegiate wrestling champions won titles Saturday night at the provincial wrestling tournament at Toronto. Bob Cassidy of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, beat Charles Bowyer of Toronto in the 191-pound final. John Driesman of the University of Western Ontario won over Jim Stolar of Toronto in the 125-pound class.

Harold Johnston, a top contender for the world light-heavyweight boxing crown who called off a scheduled bout with heavyweight Clarence Henry, was fined $1,000 during the weekend and suspended indefinitely. The fine and suspension were imposed by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission.

Frank Sedgman of Australia, top seeded, and Jaroslav Drobny, ex-patriate Czech star, entered the finals of the international tennis tournament at Rome yesterday. Sedgman defeated Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, 8-1, 6-2, 6-4 while Drobny ousted Budge Patty of the United States, 6-1, 6-0 and 7-5.

Regina, April 21 (CJ)—Regina Pats are the western Canada Memorial Cup champions for the second time in three years.

Pats applied the clincher in their best-of-seven series with Fort William Hurricanes for the title Saturday. They came from behind before 4,500 fans to gain a narrow 2-1 victory and take the series four games to two.

Pats now meet Guelph Biltmores in the best-of-seven Memorial Cup final. The first game will be played in Guelph, Ont., April 25, with the remainder of the series in Toronto.

Team captain Eddie Litzenberger won the spark-plug Saturday. He triggered both Regina goals, one in the second period to tie up the game, and the winner in the third period.

Came From Behind

Coming from behind is old-stuff for the Pats. Like their opening threesome played in Fort William, they only managed a single goal in the first game at home and a tying one in the second.

Regina was favored to take the series. They had lost like fashion Saturday, pumping 48 shots at Hurricane goalie Bob Tyler only to have Tyler—Bob Tyler only handle1 20.

Gatherum was sensational in keeping his team in conienton for most of the game. He stopped every effort the second period got by Litzenberger while both teams were a man short.

Gord Cowan of Pats and Don Polle of Hurricanes traded blows at the Hurricane goal-mouth for the penalties they had to serve. A minute later, Bernie Grebinsky fired the puck into the Hurricane corner, and Litzenberger worked it into scoring position.

Pats forced Gatherum to his best in the third period as they peppered him with 18 shots. The game-winner came after Bill Popp fired a blistering shot Gatherum kicked the puck out but Litzenberger came in fast to smash the loose rebound past the netminder.

Fort William pulled Gatherum with a minute and 10 seconds to go in an effort to tie the game. But Pats forced the play into the Hurricane end and Gatherum had to turn to his task with 40 seconds to go.

Senior Lacrosse To Stage Titular Series

Toronto, April 21 (CP)—There will be a Dominion championship series in senior lacrosse this year after all.

Gene Dopp, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, said at the annual meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association here Saturday that differences between the British Columbia Intercity League and the C.J.A. have been patched. The B.C. group had threatened to withdraw over complaints of the handling of the 1951 Mann Cup series in B.C.

This year's east-west senior lacrosse final will be played in Toronto, starting Oct. 5.

There will be at least seven teams in Ontario senior competition this season with the return of Owen Sound Crescents, 1951 Mann Cup winners. But Brampton Excelsiors, one of the strongest in the league, may drop out because of rising costs.

Other teams in the senior loop will be: Hamilton,St. Catharines, Peterborough, Mimico, Fergus and Toronto West Yorks.

A. E. (Art) Brown of St. Catharines is the new president of the O.L.A., succeeding Geoffrey Hipkin of Brampton. Other officials are Wallace Catlel, Dundas, first vice-president; Jack Worthy, Brampton, second vice-president; Ken Kingston, Peterborough, third vice-president. Executive council; Joseph Baker, Port Dalhousie; James Brock, Sarnia; Sam Vitlet, Mimico; Jack White, Fergus and William McGill, Orillia.

Chuck Rowan of Mimico was returned as secretary-treasurer.

New teams entered this year in O.L.A. leagues are: Intermediate, Holmes and Acton; Junior, Fergus, Brampton, Dundas and Orillia; Juvenile, Orillia and Owen Sound.

An amendment to O.A. rules will permit sudden death overtime in playoff games.

Another change will require a minor league player to obtain a release from a parent club to play for another team unless he changes his permanent residence.

Softball Meeting Tuesday Night

A meeting of the Belleville Commercial Softball League will be held Tuesday night at the City Hall at 7.30 p.m. Purpose of the meeting is the acceptance of entries for the new season. All club representatives are requested to be present.

This class was only recently inaugurated by the O.A.S.A. and will include representatives of city municipalities with a population under 500. Representatives from these districts are also asked to be present.

Sawchuk Faces Arm Operation

Detroit, April 21 (AP)— Terry Sawchuk, Detroit Red Wings' star goalie will undergo an operation on his right elbow this morning.

Sawchuk entered Detroit Osteopathic hospital after X-ray examinations had shown bone chips which needed immediate removal. It will be the third time he has had such an operation.

Sawchuk disclosed he had been in constant pain for about a month with a recurrence of an old ailment.

"But I didn't say anything about it," he said. "I didn't want people to think I was alibi-ing in case I didn't play well in the playoffs."

Sawchuk had four shutouts in Detroit's eight game sweep to the Stanley Cup.

HARSH CRY

'Talkative Ben' Tells Press Boys All About His Great Little Horse

New York, April 21—(CP) — Within a few days racing writers will gather in a little room in the stable area at Churchill downs and go through, with the annual task known as interviewing Ben Jones.

This always is one of the highlights of the pre-derby program, rivaling the trainers' dinner and the sightseeing tour through one of Louisville's more famous distilleries. Ben is the only one of the set-piece trainer, the winner of five Kentucky Derbies, so you may well imagine the sharp sparks which fly when he meets the sharpest minds of the press box.

This year Ben, known to some as "Forthright Ben," has another almost certain Derby winner in a magnificent racer named Hill Gail.

What we have in mind is to supply a preview of the approaching dialogue between Hill Gail's manager and his alert inquisitors. It follows:

Good Little Horse

"Well, Ben, you old chicken thief, it's great to see you again. Now what the boys out west say this must be quite a horse you got this time. Think he'll win it?"

"Well, I'll tell you, he's a pretty good little old horse, all right but don't go betting any money on him. I wouldn't risk a cent on him myself. I'll be mighty pleased if we get just a little piece of that prize money."

"But Ben, he was going away from them when he won the Santa Anita Derby, wasn't he? That's a pretty good horse race."

"Didn't have much to beat in that one, boys. You had all the big horses back in the east and down south."

"Well, look, Ben, that was what you told us two years ago about Ponder but when the race was over you were the fellow who was running around out there on the track waving his hat."

"Boys, that was the greatest surprise of my life, honest. When I saw Ponder coming up there in the stretch and taking the lead I couldn't believe my eyes. But don't go thinking this horse is any Ponder. You'll just lose your money."

"Well, thanks, Ben, it's been good talking to you, anyway. You do intend to start him, don't you?"

"Oh, sure, I guess I'll start him, but don't let him cost you any money. Go talk to some of them other trainers. Come back any time and old Ben will tell you all he can. Always glad to help you press boys."

Cleveland Heads For Unbeaten Record With 6th And 7th Straight Wins

Trim Toothless Tigers Twice; Giants Break Dodger Streak With Reds Crowding Top Spot

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland's rampaging Indians, baseball's only unbeaten team, are closing in on the major league record for consecutive victories at the start of the season.

At the same time, Detroit's Tigers are on their way to a record in reverse—that of losing the most games from opening day.

Combining brilliant pitching with long-range hitting, Al Lopez' win-happy Tribe yesterday swept a doubleheader from the toothless Tigers, 3-2 and 7-3, for their sixth and seventh triumphs in succession.

Cleveland needs two more wins to equal the record of nine set by the 1904 St. Louis Browns, 1916 New York Giants and 1940 Brooklyn Dodgers reeled off right from the start.

Detroit, without a victory in its first seven games, is more than halfway to the all-time major league record of 13 successive losses at the start of the 1909 campaign.

Luke Easter's homer in the ninth, his first with the Indians, broke up a pitching duel between Bob Lemon and Art Houtteman in the opener. The Indians unloaded four round-trippers in the nightcap. Al Rosen, Dale Mitchell, Pete Reiser and Ray Boone one each.

Dodgers String Snapped

The Brooklyn Dodgers had their unbeaten skein snapped at seven straight as Harvey (Hi Harber) Haddix pitched the New York Giants to a 6-0 victory. Haddix limited the hard-hitting Brooklyn to two singles as he became the first pitcher to shut out the Dodgers at Ebbets' Field since Johnny Schmitz did it when with Chicago, did the trick Aug. 25, 1949. That was 178 games ago.

Cincinnati advanced to within one game of the National League leading Braves by winning a pair in Pittsburgh, 8-6, and 13-2. Ted Kluszewski, slugging Cincinnati first baseman, had a field day at bat. He smashed a homer in each game and drove in nine runs. Besides hitting a "grand-slammer" in the nightcap, Kluszewski also banged two triples to account for seven batted in. Joe Adcock also homered twice for the Reds in the nightcap.

Ned Garver hurled his second shutout in two starts for the St. Louis Browns, who split a twin bill with the Chicago White Sox. Garver held the Sox to two safeties as the Browns won the first game, 5-0. Chicago bats awoke in the second game to pound out a 10-2 win.

Jim Rivera drove in four Brownie runs in the opener with three hits including an inside-the-park homer. Nelson Fox paced Chicago's 13-hit attack in the nightcap with a double, triple, two singles and four RBI's.

A home run by pinch hitter Billy Goodman with two on in the seventh gave the Boston Red Sox a 6-5 victory over Washington.

Yanks Win

Manager Casey Stengel shook up his lineup and the New York Yankees responded by beating the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-6, to halt a three-game losing streak and extend the Athletics' losing skein to four.

Steve Bilko hit a home run with Enos Slaughter on base in the fifth inning to give the St. Louis Browns a 3-2 victory over the Cubs in Chicago.

Boston's Braves took a 2-1 decision from Philadelphia after the Phillies had eked out a 4-3 victory in 10 innings of the opener.

Three successive eighth-inning singles and a wild throw by outfielder Del Rice gave the Braves their second game win.

Ennis was the hero of the first game, however. He tripled in the 10th to score Willie Jones with the winning run. A ninth-inning homer with two out and one on by catcher Forrest Burgess had tied the game at 3-3.

Pittsburgh Wins American Hockey League Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets are the new holders of the American Hockey League crown but it took a sudden-death overtime goal to turn the trick.

It was Ray Hannigan's goal at 16:06 that gave the Hornets a 7-6 decision over Providence Reds and the best-of-seven series 4-2.

More than 6,100 fans—the largest crowd here in three years—watched unday night as Hannigan fired the goal that brought Pittsburgh its first championship. Chuck Blair set up the deciding tally.

It was the second sudden-death overtime won by the Hornets in the keenly-contested series. The Hornets also took the fourth game after 28:40 of overtime but the Reds bounced back to win the fifth game in Pittsburgh and remain in contention.

The Reds rallied twice to overcome difficits. After Andy Barbe had given the Hornets a 1-0 edge in the first 69 seconds, Barry Sullivan tied it up for the Reds while Pittsburgh was shorthanded at 16 seconds of the second period.

Defenceman Tim Horton regained the lead for Pittsburgh on an unassisted tally at 9:07 in the middle session, but Kenny Smith tied it up for Providence with an 18:46 goal.

That set the stage for overtime and Hannigan's goal.

Syracuse Trims Ottawa Twice; Toronto Splits

Joe Page, former star relief pitcher for New York Yankees, is off to a fine start in his latest comeback bid. The 34-year-old lefthander came up with a three-hitter yesterday as Syracuse Chiefs swept a doubleheader from Ottawa Athletics, 8-1 and 8-3.

Page went the distance in the seven-inning nightcap. He held the As scoreless on one hit until the sixth inning, when Lou Limmer crashed a two-run homer. Page walked five and fanned four. His opponent, Joe Coleman, walked nine in four innings.

Bob Keegan, who got a tryout with the Yanks this spring, scattered seven hits in winning the first game. Loren Babe led the Syracuse attack, driving in three runs on a homer and single. Babe collected four hits in the nightcap.

The sweep enabled the Chiefs to tie Montreal Royals for the lead. Royals split a doubleheader with Buffalo Bisons, winning the first game 13-5, but losing the second 7-2.

Hump Coleman and Bob Alexander blanked the Bisons on four hits. Royals collected 18 safeties, including a pair of home runs by Carm Mauro.

Guatemalan Wins Boston Marathon; Canucks Nowhere

Boston, April 21 — (AP) — Guatemalan runner Guillermo Rojas was recuperating today from an emergency appendectomy performed 12 hours after he finished 27th in the famed Boston Athletic Association marathon last Saturday.

The illness cast a little gloom over the victory of Rojas' countryman, Doroteo Flores, and the fine third-place finish of teammate Luis Velasquez.

Rojas, a 30-year-old policeman, fell across the finish line after covering the 26-mile, 385-yard course. It was thought he had stomach cramps.

Dr. J. Chaves, a Guatemalan studying advanced medicine at Harvard, diagnosed the ailment and had him taken to Massachusetts general hospital.

Fifteen Canadians started the race, but only six finished. George Gallant of Shediac, N. B., made the best showing, placing 25th.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ekibitzer

A redouble is often used as a request for an obligatory pass alternative. This sounds like a jumble of meaningless oratory. But there is plenty of know-how therein.

When a player redoubles, he tells partner he can help make the bid that has been doubled. In some spots, the redouble has another meaning. It promises to help make a game, if more profitable.

This combination of meanings develops a third proposition. It tells partner: "If opponents crawl out of their redouble with another bid, you must not bid. If unable to double, leave it to me."

♠ A Q J 9 7
♥ A K 6
♣ 9

West doubled for takeout. North redoubled. East bid two clubs. What should south do now? Knowing from the north redouble that game is in their pair, south is tempted to bid his spades again.

But he should not. Nor should he double two clubs when unsure of defeating such a bid. He should pass and let north have a crack at it, knowing north will take some direct action.

The north redouble was this multiple signal: "Partner we can make this bid; we can make game in something; if you are unable to double their next bid, wait to see what I can do about it."

Thus, it is an obligatory pass alternative, pass and see if the redoubler can do so.

In case of an obligatory pass, the redoubler promises not to let the bidding die. If he does not double two clubs, he promises to bid something that gives partner another chance to bid.

The signal thus takes the pressure off partner who does not double for penalty on hopes; and he needs not bid again for fear the bidding may end.

A real decisive promise relieves a doubling Thomas.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

That was the plaintive remark of Maureen O'Sullivan, back before the movie cameras after a lengthy absence. In the 1930s, she spent nine years as the mate of Tarzan and numerous Cheetah the Chimp and other beasts.

Now, after mothering seven children, she is appearing with the educated monkey in "Bonzo Goes to College".

"I don't mind the monkeys so much," she said. "This one—her real name is Peggy—seems quite gentle and affectionate. The ones we had on the Tarzan pictures were all right until they grew older."

Miss O'Sullivan's last film work was five years ago, when she appeared in "The Big Clock". She indicated she will be doing more movies in the future.

"My children range from 13 to eight months," she said, "so now the older ones are beginning to be able to take care of the younger ones. That allows me more time off, and I think I will use it in acting.

The actress is also going in for television and has a story-telling series for children, a field in which she should be an expert. Despite her heavy maternity schedule, she still looks as trim and pretty as a starlet.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

"Royal Wedding"

Fred Astaire and Jane Powell are a brother-sister musical comedy team. Enroute to star in a London show during the exciting season of the royal wedding Jane meets a popular playboy and nobleman, Peter Lawford. In London Astaire makes a one-sided acquaintance with Sarah Churchill, who later turns up to audition for a spot in the show and is promptly signed. Lawford, having broken too many social engagements already for Jane miss es the opening night, and Sarah, anticipating a trans-Atlantic call from a faithless fiance, misses the after-theatre party. Next day, in the contagion of the royal wedding ceremonies, Astaire and Jane, who have avoided marriage to insure their careers, shake their glumness with a change of heart and head for a double wedding.

GOVERNMENT

Throwing out a suggestion Mr. Heath pointed out that cancer was spending two billions in defence preparation; he asked if it would not be better to take the price of a few bombers and buy up as much powder of cheese and thereby maintain the price and create a goodwill for agriculture.

Many members of parliament, Frank S. Follwell, Hastings South, and George S. White, Hastings-Peterborough, attended the meeting and listened attentively to the talks and discussion. Also attending the meeting were Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. Hastings West, and Roscoe Robson, M.P.P., Hastings East.

Too Steep Is Claim

One farmer wanted to know if the cheese marketing board would continue to operate if the government set the price at 30 cents. He thought that the three cents per pound increase as charged by the board was "a little steep."

Mr. Heath pointed out that if the amount charged by the board had not been three cents, the price would have to be raised long before the end of last year. After last year's operation the marketing board had a deficit of $178,000 which was now being used to hold the price at the end of the dairy year.

There was considerable discussion on the possibility of pooling milk and thereby even out the price returns for the various branches of the dairy industry. Mr. Heath noted that this was being considered by the negotiating committee but it was too early to make any announcement on the matter.

Operating Costs Higher

Another farmer pointed out that the fancy price of cheese in the United States had been set at 34½ cents. Canadian farmers should not aim too low in a figure especially when operating costs were higher than in the United States.

"The government should realize there will be dissatisfaction and that the young fellows will get discouraged," he said. "We are spending millions to fight communism in other countries, if it comes to the point that farmers cannot meet their obligations, we will have a fight in Canada."

He went on to point out that tradesmen's wages were increasing. If cheese producers were forced to take $1.75 for milk it would take the production of 24 cows to equal the pay of a bricklayer who works only with a trowel.

"The government should take the facts and consider the situation," he said.

Must Get Together

Referring again to a possible milk marketing scheme Mr. Heath declared that milk producers anything other than the branches of the industry must get together. "The cattle industry cannot continue and just will not work, he pointed out.

Pooling of milk was not a new thing but had been in operation in other countries for years.

Greater emphasis should be placed on advertising to increase the domestic consumption of cheese. But cheese producers would have to contribute their fair share in advertising funds.

George Hees, M.P., K.C.A. P., warned that the embargo on cattle entering the U.S.A. would not be lifted for a long time. He felt it was the duty of the government to support the dairy price as it had done for wheat and fish.

Fat Floor Price Would Be Set

Frank Follwell, M.P. for Hastings South, also felt the government would set a floor price and also that it seemed that the present condition of the cheese industry as a whole was fairly fair. Mr. White promised he would take the story to Ottawa.

Elmer Sandercock felt the 90-lb cheese was out of date and suggested that a smaller consumption could be increased by making a more practical package.

Roscoe Robson paid tribute to the marketing board for its job of last year. He declared that 38 or 30 cents was "no good" for cheese this year when production costs as well as taxes were up.

Lower prices for farmers would reflect on merchants and farm machinery dealers.

Lee Grills, Hastings warden, and Belleville whole milk distributor, did not think that the whole milk producers had caused all the trouble and could not cure it. It did not matter much what per cent pooled if there was not sufficient market, he said.

He thought that the government would pay more attention to the farmer as in the other opinion. country people were being shoved into the background.

Urges More Co-operation

Harold Varty, president of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture, urged for more cooperation that farmers throughout the world should be working together. One of the aims of the federation was a world food pool but that was far from being a reality. Getting away from the main topic of the evening Mr. Varty felt the time was ripe for more assistance to the butter producers.

Henry Montgomery, president of the Prince Edward cheese producers, declared that farm price had lagged far behind. He felt it was the duty of the government to set a cheese price that would enable farmers to the same standard of living enjoyed by other labor.

Earl Whiteman, Shannonville, felt a floor price was the wrong attitude to take. He said the government should be unable to take the surplus cheese off the market and then the trade would automatically be protected.

The 77-year-old prime minister and his wife scrapped plans to visit the Queen at Windsor this weekend. The spokesman said "the Queen has excused them from attending."

Russian Document Explains How Reds Use Nationalism To Create Hatred, Warfare

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington, April 21 — (AP) — A document said to have been found on a dead Russian policeman and which has just been published in the United States details communist methods of weakening opponents through terror before a shot is fired.

The committee says it was found on a dead N. K. V. D. (Russian secret police) officer in Poland in 1946 and smuggled into Germany where a refugee Ukrainian made a shorthand copy.

The document indicates the major problem is to get segments of the anti-communist world to fight each other, and thereby weaken themselves without any loss to the communist world.

The document cites as a "classic example" the struggle between Poles and Ukrainians in 1942. Both were supposed to be fighting Germany.

This document reveals that the communists decided to strike two groups at once — Germans, Poles and Ukrainians.

The communists formed small groups acting as Poles and Ukrainians. They started to fight each other. Says the document:—

"The action was particularly effective.

Almost immediately true Poles and Ukrainians got into the fight. The communist conspirators got out and let the Poles and Ukrainians do killing each other.

The document says this action prevented co-operation between Poles and Ukrainians, weakened Poland's position before the world when it came to ask for its old eastern border and revealed which Poles and Ukrainians had strong national feelings. Such people were later "liquidated."

This document says that there are two types of terror to use, direct and "enlightened."

"Direct terror," it says, "are the executions, arrests carried out against the entire population, and are aimed at the complete subjugation over the will of the people."

The document warns it is best not to use direct terror all at once. Otherwise fear is likely to turn into hatred and resistance.

"Enlightened terror" is the type of action through which segments of the free world are needled into fighting each other.

The document warns that the communist terrorist must "camouflage" his action so that the blame falls on the enemy and meanwhile appears before the world as an advocate of peace.

Paper Says Prince Philip To Eliminate Caste System From Buckingham Palace

London, April 21—(AP)— The Sunday Pictorial says the Duke of Edinburgh plans to abolish the upstairs-downstairs caste system in Buckingham Palace and to cut costs and ease the Royal Household court life.

The servant problem was reported to be a case of servants serving servants—holding on to a system of gentleman's gentleman and lady's lady—and eating too much, the Duke says.

The London tabloid says the Queen welcomes her husband's tactful advice on the reforms. "He wants to bring her closer to her people," the Pictorial says.

The reported reforms apparently would arise from investigations by the administrative chief of the staff of Clarence House, home of the Queen and the Duke. He is Lt.-Gen. Sir Frederick A. M. Browning, an old crony of the Duke's uncle and boyhood guardian, Earl Mountbatten.

Browning served as Admiral Mountbatten's military chief of staff in the Second World War when Mountbatten was Supreme Allied Commander, Southeast Asia. Browning is the husband of novelist Daphne du Maurier.

"Things are due for a big change about June when the Royal couple moves into Buckingham Palace, the newspaper says. It adds that the navy-trained young Duke was surprised to find that only two doctors, a household staff of 230 actually look after the Royal family.

"Most of the remainder," it says, "wait on other members of the household, minor officials—and the senior servants themselves. Upper servants served by those of middle rank; those of middle rank by lower grades.

"Soon you see the class distinctions", the Pictorial adds, "that five separate dining rooms are maintained so that various ranks do not mix at mealtime."

At Windsor Castle, the Royal family's hereditary home, the Duke was "surprised" to find 120 minor officials and servants hired to look after the Royal family of six, the Pictorial says.

"Already," it says, "he has called for exact reports on the duties of all officials and servants. He is already studying details of court procedure to see if he inroads into the private life of the Royal family. In any way he can."

The Pictorial says "Philip realizes the importance of removing the artificial barriers between the Queen and her people. He believes it essential that red tape and archaic protocol . . . should be slashed. . ."

Doctor Sets Out To Prove Feeble Minds Curable

By SIDNEY FEINGOLD

Columbus, O., April 21 (AP) — Dr. Lise Gellner, a pleasant-faced woman doctor from London, is convinced feeble-mindedness can be cured. She's been given the chance to work out her ideas in the United States.

The English doctor, awarded a fellowship for an indefinite appointment at the Columbus State School, began her studies of mentally handicapped children at the institution in February.

Dr. Gellner's theory is that a defect of the brain need not produce a defect of the mind. She says she already has been successful in teaching "hopeless" mental defi-cients to read and write.

"I know that my son, in spite of many limitations, had also a number of abilities," Dr. Gellner explained.

Specialists insisted that in feeble minded children "the potentialities of mental growth have been stunted or destroyed . . . and it is no use to attempt the impossible."

But Dr. Gellner said she found the impossible possible.

Taught Son

"My son, despite his handicaps, made very definite advancements" she explained. "I taught him in a manner in which one would teach a blind child, I based my teaching on my theory.

"Now he can type and do all the things that his personal well-being requires."

The assumption made in all previous medical views on the cause of mental deficiency has been that the trouble, or "lesion," was in the cerebral cortex. The generally accepted interpretation has been that this is due to some inborn failure to develop.

Dr. Gellner says that the cortex like other parts of the human body, develops only when it is stimulated to develop; that the capacity for higher mental activities is intact in mentally retarded persons, but the messages necessary for these functions can't get through. The cortex fails to develop because of long disuse.

The London specialist stresses that usually it is not the simple individual who is classified as retarded and seeing, that the block interferes with, but the tying together of these senses that is lost.

Careful testing of a mentally retarded child may reveal the presence of some particular trouble in tying together several impulses, Dr. Gellner adds, and further testing will almost always reveal some normally unused pathway to the main centre of the brain which still is open. By teaching the child through such senses she hopes to develop intelligence which otherwise would never appear.

The Peacock Path

By Edwin Rutt

There was no excitement, no trace of tremor in the muffled reply: "Okay now"! Just the confident assurance of the supreme but thwarted—egotist. I wanted to look at Cravath, but I didn't dare. I could only hope that he was alerted, ready and on his toes.

Then the murderer made his supreme bid.

He moved without haste, leisurely, even to the exact middle of that little moonlit strip. But suddenly the glistening tape he held slackened and fell to the ground.

Slowly he brought both hands up in front of him. And though I'd known what to expect I had to force back a gasp. The dark thing clinging to his right hand looked in this strange light, like a hideous and unnatural growth.

A few short swift steps down the path . . an arm drawn back . . . then swung powerfully forward.

A silver of moonlight caught the dark object, splattered off it like sparks of ocyra. Once again, Death started down the Peacock Path.

With a half-choked cry Cravath sprang up from his crouch behind the chalice. A burst of light exploded in the opposite row of evergreens. And the hollow clank sounded, the clank of hard material smashing against metal.

The streaking black object bounced off the piping, rose half a foot into the air and went on. It slowed deflected, sharply harmless, and disappeared into the shadow of a tree.

The killer, stood, his head poised like a snake's, a statue painted by moonbeams. Amazement, frustration and rage swept his face as a torch from the evergreens flared and lit his back in light.

The killer was caught in a three-way trap. The light behind him; Cravath coming up from the cliff; myself moving into the open.

He glanced around, swiftly, fearfully, like a cornered animal. I could see his eyes, luminous and darting.

I walked slowly forward, the gun in plain sight. His own weapon had failed, and he had reached for no other. But even unarmed, he was a dangerous and deadly man.

I said, over the padding sound of Cravath's approaching feet and as the torch converged, "Don't try tricks. This is ready to go off. And, believe me, I'm not fooling."

I will never forget the look Marston Cravath game me. I had tricked him, robbed him of one of his last illusions. But I had seen no other way.

I took a backward step and spoke to the killer: "You tried to kill Marston Cravath because his death would have given you virtual control of the business and you wanted something else, even more than you wanted money. And for these reasons, you hated him—he's always been the man you wanted to be."

Jack Dumont started to spring but stopped as I whipped up the gun. I went on:

"Two attempts failed and before you could dream up another trick Ames Warburton found out about the bonds. He went to you first, being your protege. He thought Cravath himself had taken them."

Cravath gave a harsh laugh. "Pure supposition."

"Yes," I admitted, "but pretty close, I'll bet. You probably stalled Ames, suggesting that you meet at the end of this path to talk it over."

"I suppose I picked up Ames and flung him over the cliff!"

"You were more subtle. Perhaps you planned to pin the theft on Ames and you saw a way to get rid of him and if murder were ever proved, Cravath would be suspected. Or if suicide were suspected, it would be because he'd turned thief.

"You may have seen the possibilities of the Peacock Path long ago. It's similar to a bowling alley. And Mr. Cravath was a crack bowler, once. He's got a trophy for bowling in his study. You doubtless know too that his old bowling balls were in the attic.

"Your problem was simple. Get Ames out on the edge of the cliff and let him have it from about 30 feet off, with a fast heavy ball. A twin, incidentally, of the one over there under the trees."

He looked at me as I hope never to be looked at again.

"You got Ames out there by stealing his watch which he probably put down somewhere after his arrival here when he undressed. You also sneaked a bowling ball out of the attic and hid it under one of these trees. The same day you did today. Then, when the coast was clear that night, you went out here to keep your appointment. Only you went early and planted the watch, outside of the chains.

"Ames came finally and stood at the chains, waiting for you. And saw his watch on the grass beyond them. He had no idea how it had gotten there. But, naturally, he stepped over to get it. When he stooped down, you simply let fly. A friend of mine in New York has established that you're a better bowler than Mr. Cravath ever was. What's more, he hasn't bowled in years. The date on his trophy is 1932."

He was a tough customer, with a mind like ice. He fired that glare on me, said "just why did you investigate me? And, comes to that, who are you to be investigating anyhow?"

"Never mind me," I said. "But I investigated you because you made a slip. Just a little one, but it put me on the track. When Sladen found Ames' watch on the rocks that night you confirmed that it was Ames' watch. You added that you'd seen him 'fiddling with it in the office the other day.'"

He started. And I shot at him. "Ames hadn't carried that watch for more than a month."

Jack Dumont's expression was puzzled, rather than anxious or frightened. "How do you know Ames Warburton hadn't carried his watch for more than a month?" he asked. "Are you making this up?"

"No," I said. "Cravath and I learned Ames wanted to know the time a few minutes after he discovered the bonds missing. A guy with a wonderful Swiss watch could have looked at it."

"We checked up. He left his watch for repairs with a jeweler named Easler who had piled up work ahead. Ames got it back about two hours before he took the train for Windover. You could not have seen it in the office. He couldn't resist this "—you had kept your mouth shut on those rocks, we'd never have known, or sent a guy to question jewellers." Cravath looked at the ground. Sladen kept the light on Dumont.

"The attempt on Mrs. Dumont wasn't premeditated," I went on. "One rainy day you followed Mr. Cravath and Mrs. Wheeler and overheard or saw something that must have been a blow to your ego. Cravath was ahead of you there too."

I'd been hired for this and I was going through with it. So I went on. "Later you saw Mrs. Dumont wobbling down this path. She was another big stumbling block in your way. Something must have exploded in your brain. As you cocked her from behind and ran her toward the cliffs."

"And why didn't I heave her over?" Dumont spat the words.

"An airplane chose that moment to fly over," Cravath said. "I remember hearing it when I was with Eve. You couldn't be sure what might be seen from the plane."

I nodded. "When you came to your senses you realized that this murder wasn't going to be clever enough, and you didn't go back to finish the job— knowing Dolly wouldn't know who hit her."

All during this, Dumont had been tensing, gathering his strength and composure. I thought he was getting ready to spring at me—and I was ready.

He fooled me. He whirled suddenly on Dave Sladen.

"Keep that light out of my eyes." His voice held only irritability. He might have been the boss, bawling out an underling at Cravath and Company.

Govt. Names Special Agent To Probe Thefts

Loss at Petawawa About $50,000 Says Minister

Ottawa, April 22 — (CP) — A special investigator has been appointed to investigate thefts at the big Petawawa, Ont., military camp and into security and accounting procedures there and at other defence establishments.

Defence Minister Claxton told the Commons yesterday he has engaged for the job George S. Currie, Montreal chartered accountant and former deputy minister of national defence. Mr. Currie is given power to make inquiries without restriction.

Mr. Claxton made the announcement as he reviewed the situation at Petawawa, 120 miles northwest of Ottawa, where a series of thefts of government material has emptied the storehouses of much civilian and military equipment.

The minister said the loss may be as much as $50,000. Investigations are still going on, he told the Commons, and everything possible will be done to get to the bottom of this situation and to take such action and adopt such remedies as may be required."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, charged that there has been "wholesale looting" at the Petawawa camp and made two attempts to adjourn regular Commons business to discuss the matter immediately.

Mr. Drew said the Farnham, Que., military training centre had been looted and has disappeared "down to and including the bulldogs."

Hundreds of tons of government material had been looted from military bases in "carload lots." There had been recurring, big outbreaks of incendiary fires which could have hidden the extent of further looting and thefts.

Ruled Out of Order

The Commons should be allowed to probe these thefts, he said.

Speaker Ross Macdonald ruled Mr. Drew's motion out of order. He said members could go into the matters fully later.

Mr. Claxton's statement was the latest development in the thefts at Petawawa. Arrested on theft and conspiracy charges for irregularities are Jack Jacobson, 34, Brockville, guard, and Sgt. Major David C. Mawhinney, 30, and Angus Joseph Boles, 37, both of Petawawa.

Pte. Jacobson: Maurice Eisen, Pembroke, Ont., Salvage Leader, and Capt. Donald Wilfred Baldock, 28, a native of Brandon, Man., and a member of the Royal Canadian Engineers.

Mr. Claxton said investigations at Petawawa came to light several months ago when it was found contracts for dismantling large amounts of scrap were being used to cover disposal of large amounts.

Material taken illegally included used steel plate, stalls, stoves, wash sinks, steel rails and some 600 length of new steel pipe. A considerable part of the material had been recovered.

There was no foundation for reports alleging irregularities and deficiencies in construction of buildings at the army camp. But other large quantities of stores found arising out of employment of engineer civilian and service personnel, and equipment and these still were under investigation, including large quantities of gravel in the camp area.

Mr. Claxton said Mr. Currie will make a full investigation of the situation both at Petawawa "and elsewhere" and will co-operate regarding the other inquiries.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 22 (CP) —Synopsis: Warm tropical air continues to flow over most of Ontario from the west. However an outbreak of cold polar air has reached northwestern areas of the province and is edging eastward. A line of showers marks the boundary of these two contrasting air masses with considerably more rain falling in the northern sections. Consequently northern Ontario will have rain today and Wednesday and the southern sections sides will be cloudy and there will be a few showers beginning tonight.

Army Forming 3 New Infantry Battalions, Regt.

Ottawa, April 22—(CP)—The army announced yesterday it is forming three new infantry battalions as a new artillery regiment, main ingredients for a brigade, for training purposes.

This will be done by bringing together for the first time the main replacement units for the 27th Brigade, now in Germany. The sub-units for the replacement units have been stationed across Canada since they were recruited a year ago under the plan to rotate the men over in Germany, single men in two years, married men in one.

Similar replacement units in Canada exist for the 25th Brigade in Korea.

Companies from the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Toronto; Victoria Rifles of Canada, Montreal; Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, Royal Winnipeg Rifles, and Regina Rifle Regiment, will form the Royal Rifle Battalion.

Companies of the Black Watch, Montreal; North Nova Scotia Highlanders, Amherst, N.S.; 48th Highlanders, Toronto; Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver; and Canadian Scottish Regiment, Victoria will form the Highland Battalion.

Companies of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Belleville; Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal, Montreal; Essex Regiment, Windsor; and 2nd Canadian Infantry Regiment, Fredericton; Algonquin Regiment, Haileybury, Ont.; and Loyal Edmonton Regiment will form the Royal Canadian Infantry Battalion.

The new artillery regiment, the 81st Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, will be formed from 205 Field Battery from Valcartier, 213 Field Battery from Winnipeg and 216 Field Battery from London, Ont.

The three infantry and rifle battalions will agrive at Valcartier and the Highland Battalion at Aldershot, N.S., by May 15 for initial training. The 81st Field Regiment will train at Wainright, Alta., beginning June 1, with its component batteries troops and light aid detachment.

POPULATION DECLINES

Ottawa, April 22 — (CP) — Canada's farm population declined by more than 330,000 in the last 10 years, the Bureau of Statistics announced yesterday. The decennial census completed last June showed a 10-per cent drop in farm population to 2,827,722, the bureau said.

HOUSE TACKLES REDISTRIBUTION, 37-MAN BOARD

Debate Occupies Most Of Day, Night Sitting

Ottawa, April 22 (CP) — The Commons, returning from a 12-day Easter recess, got right down to the controversial subject of redistribution of its seats yesterday and set up a 37-man, all-party committee to consider the matter.

The debate occupied most of the afternoon and night sitting and all parties expressed their views on the basis of a motion sponsored by Prime Minister St. Laurent. The motion recommended establishment of the committee and suggested that representation on the constitutional formula should be changed so that provinces would lose more than 15 percent of its seats at any one time.

The motion says that Saskatchewan would lose only three instead of five seats under the present representation-by-population formula based on the 1951 census.

A number of speakers thought Mr. St. Laurent's motion did not go far enough. They included Progressive Conservative leader, suggested a federal-provincial conference to obtain the views of the provinces. This was rejected by the prime minister.

The motion was approved at the night sitting and members of the committee were named immediately.

Jain in Protest Note

Earlier, Mr. St. Laurent said that red Chinese neglect or maltreatment may have caused the death at Chefoo Feb. 8 of Father Joseph Gauthier, native of Chambly county, Que. He said Canada has joined in a new note to the Peiping regime in Mr. Gauthier's behalf in prison, including seven Canadian missionaries.

Two Airwomen Wed Airmen 'On a Joke'

Toronto, April 22 (CP) — Two airwomen who married airmen last week "on a joke" following a 10-day acquaintance are being held by police.

Their airmen husbands, Roger Bonner, 20, and Robert Gordon, 20, both of Vancouver, have been charged with stealing the automobile the Labor Party which he had served for many years was still in the house.

Cripps had been unconscious for many hours before he died.

Earlier in the evening, it was learned, he came through he had died, so faint was his heartbeat. However, he rallied to live several hours.

Cripps was well known to Canadians for his outspoken support of increased Anglo-Canadian trade, and for Britain's need for heavy economic crisis in 1948-49 he made two trips to Canada and the United States.

In September, 1948, he addressed the Canadian Club of Ottawa and stressed the need of maintaining the greatest possible two-way mutual trade between Canada and the United States.

"... We are not yet self-sufficient, vitally important factor in our closest economic circle," he said.

A Bold Gamble

Cripps was back in the U.S. and Canada in 1949 for the Washington conference he announced the devaluation of the pound by 30 per cent. This was a bold gamble to sell more and cheaper goods to North America for a pound worth dollars to save Britain from financial chaos.

Falling health in his late years made him relinquish many of his ways of living. He became a vegetarian on doctors orders and gave up smoking on the doctor's.

Few men in British political history had a more dramatic than the ascetic, razor-minded lawyer who had a reputed income of £30,000 a year.

As a politician he became the party's greatest intellectual force.

Mutinous Prisoners Stage Bloody Battle After Dispute On Disposition of Guards

Jackson, Mich., April 22 (AP)— Mutinous prisoners, angry and tired, staged a bloody battle in their besieged cell block today after a dispute over what to do with 11 Southern Michigan prison guards held as hostages.

Two of the prisoners were stabbed and beaten badly in the melee which ended when the bloody bodies were tossed out of the cell block by other convicts.

The civil war among the 172 mutineers, central figures in the outbreak that began Saturday with the death of a guard, ended with the stabbing of one convict and $2,000,000 damage to the huge Southern Michigan prison, came as negotiations were under way for a truce in the prison outbreak, which has been going on for three days.

The mutineers, in tense parleys with prison officials, had indicated a desire to barter the lives of the 11 guards they held as hostages in return for promises of no-punishment for their part in the rioting and improved conditions at the prison.

Even as some 600 state police and prison guards stood watch over the fire-marked prison, squads of state police were rushed to another state institution — the Ionia reformatory — on reports of trouble among its 1,300 inmates.

First reports said the Ionia inmates began smashing windows after staging noisy demonstrations. Officials said the situation there was "very tense."

Sir Stafford Cripps, 62, U.K.'s Mr. Austerity, Dies

Zurich, Sdiserland, April 22 (CP) —Sir Stafford Cripps, 62, gifted statesman who mapped the austerity program and planned Britain's postwar volley-for economic recovery, died Monday night. The name came in a Zurich clinic, after years of physical suffering and many months of hospitalization.

The wealthy lawyer, who had fought most of his life against bad health and for others, died at 11 p.m. at a clinic here.

With him was Lady Cripps, whose devotion and care of her husband were a constant source of strength in recent months. In three days he would have been 63.

The gaunt ex-Socialist had been in a hospital bed here for four months under treatment for a spinal infection called spondylitis. The infection was discovered late in 1950 when he came to Zurich for treatment for an intestinal complaint.

For six months last year he was incased in a plaster cast. He returned to Britain last October, apparently better, but suffered a relapse late in the year and returned to the clinic on a stretcher in January.

Health Never Good

Poor health had caused the frail but powerful Labor austerity to resign as Chancellor of the Exchequer in October, 1950, when the Labor Party which he had served for many years was still in the house.

Cripps had been unconscious for many hours before he died.

Earlier in the evening, it was learned, he came through he had died, so faint was his heartbeat. However, he rallied to live several hours.

Two London Men, Wife of One, Held For Break-In

London, April 22 (CP) — Police said today two London men and the wife of one will be charged with breaking, entering in connection with the theft last night of a safe and other articles at Cairngorm, near Strathroy.

Provincial detectives identified the suspects as Lawrence William Johnson, 29; his wife Lillian 20, and Charles Cecil Johnson, no relation.

The goods, stolen from a general store at Cairngorm, were recovered after a 75-mile-an-hour chase in which police fired three shots.

The chase started after police stopped the car for questioning.

The car roared away with the police after it. Shortly after, two men abandoned the moving vehicle which still contained a woman and a baby in the back seat. The detectives car then veered and crashed into the police cruiser.

Police chased the men on foot and captured them after firing three warning shots.

Plowing, Seeding Start in Ontario Says Crop Report

Toronto, April 22 (CP)—Farmers in the southern half of Ontario started plowing and many have already begun seeding, the provincial agriculture department said today in its weekly crop report.

Northern Ontario has experienced mild weather in the last few days. "In some areas the ground is beginning to thaw and the spring grain crop is in good to excellent condition. Fall wheat and meadows have also wintered well.

The maple syrup season is over and although the sap run was short this season, the syrup taste was good.

The department reported a great deal of interest in the stock fairs throughout the province.

Takes Over Command

Ismailia, Egypt, April 22 (Reuters) — Lt.-Gen. F. W. Festing arrived here by air today from Britain to take over command of British troops in Egypt.

He succeeds Lt.-Gen. Sir George Erskine, who is due to leave for London on Thursday after more than three years in the Suez Canal Zone during which the zone saw some of its bloodiest rioting.

BOSS BELIEVES CEASE FIRE JUST 'AROUND CORNER'

Feeling it Might Be Declared Within Month

Vancouver, April 22—(CP) — Bill Boss, Canadian Press war correspondent in Korea since December, 1950, says a Korean cease-fire "seems just around the corner."

He said yesterday that both at Eighth Army headquarters in Korea and at general headquarters in Tokyo the feeling is that a cease-fire might be declared within a month.

"Last week I said the reporter who returned to Canada by air for a brief business trip", the feeling was that a month would pass before any day.

"Since then the Americans seem to have decided to get tough on air fields again."

The feeling among the majority of reporters covering the Panmunjom negotiations is that a formula was reached during last month's secret talks and that both the United Nations and red delegations are waiting for instructions based on them, he said.

Boss will receive a National Newspaper Award at a dinner in Toronto tonight.

Boss, who returned with a troop draft from Korea, Lt.-Col. Jean Drouse of Quebec, said troop morale was never better in Korea. The troops leaving on rotation were going home with a "well, it hasn't been so bad" feeling while the new battalions went through their last exercises splendidly."

Expresses Concern

He expressed concern at what he termed the west's failure to recognize that the rehabilitation of Korea meant more than removal of the battle casualties.

"Korea is lost," he said, "unless we train her youth."

Judy Garland Well Received In Los Angeles

Los Angeles, April 22 — (AP) — Judy Garland, who left a broken career in Hollywood a year ago, returned to the movie town last night and was greeted by a cheering, star-filled audience.

The show opened the Civic Light opera season with her vaudeville show, which set records at New York's Palace. The movie crowd, decked in mink and ermine, packed into the Philharmonic Auditorium for the sentimental homecoming. Miss Garland, scarcely a dry eye when Judy, in a satin gown, sailed on the rim of the stage and wistfully sang "Over the Rainbow."

When the show was over, the audience applauded wildly for Judy and presented her with about 20 large bouquets. She stepped to the footlights and murmured "This is the nicest night of my life."

Doctors Report a New Human Disease Resulting from Cat Scratches

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Cleveland, April 22 — (AP) — A new human disease, cat scratch disease, was reported today to the American College of Physicians.

Humans often get it after being scratched by house cats. The cats are perfectly healthy themselves. But the disease is caused by bacteria which are passed on to and carried on the cats' claws.

The disease, apparently is not uncommon, said Dr. Worth B. Daniels of Georgetown University School of Medicine, and Dr. Frank G. MacMurry of Washington, D. C. They reported 46 cases in 15 states and Hawaii and Canada.

A few days after being scratched, humans get sick. They get a fever, which may run to 104 degrees, and last a few days to five weeks.

Lymph nodes of glandular kernels in the armpits, neck and groin may swell to the size of golf balls or small oranges. Often they break down into abscesses, with release of pus. Some also may get weakness and tender for seven weeks to six months.

The human always recover, but may feel ill for six months.

Investigation of the cat's part in the illness chloromycetin and aureomycin may help some victims, and sulfa drugs and streptomycin don't do any good.

Daniels and MacMurry reported a skin test to detect the cat fever. They said the cat fever is sometimes mistaken for rabbit fever, infectious mononucleosis, brucellosis or gout fever. Hodgkin's disease, or glandular tuberculosis.

The way is known of testing cats to see whether they can cause the disease.

1,500 U.S. Troops In Deep Foxholes Get Severe Shock

High-Level Drop Made From Plane at 30,000 Feet

Atom Bomb Site, Nev., April 22 — (AP) — One of the most spectacular atomic bombs ever detonated jolted observers 10 miles distant today and gave 1,500 troops an experience they will never forget.

It probably was the largest bomb ever dropped on continental United States soil. The smoke blotted out the troops who were within four miles on ground zero.

The bomb burst 42 seconds after released from an air force plane flying at 30,000 feet in a typical, high-level drop.

Despite brilliant sunshine, the flash was visible 75 miles away in Las Vegas. Seven minutes later, the southern Nevada gambling capital rumbled with the concussion.

Affects Neck

The shock twisted this observer's neck one minute after the flash. The fireball lasted somewhere from four to 10 seconds.

The bomb formed a big mushroom that climbed to within hit ground zero and raised the familiar, dirty, dust column.

The heat from the blast singed observers' faces. Most wished they were in foxholes like the troops.

The mushroom went through a series of colors, yellow, violet, and then turned snow white. Finally above 35,000 feet an ice cap formed and separated from the main ball-shaped cloud.

Trucks moved in almost immediately to pick up the troops before radio-active dust could settle. Several secondary fires started, veterans observers said. Some were indicated by darker smoke appearing through the dust haze, 2 1-2 miles wide.

Smoke rockets were used to measure the intensity of the blast, but they added little to the spectacle.

Satisfying Show

Thirteen minutes later the main cloud was drifting toward observers and still contained rust and yellow shades, although predominately white.

The base dust column was twisted across the sky, blotting out the sun. Its shape was always a mile across. Instrumentation planes drones overhead, picking radiation.

Observers who were at Bikini Atoll when operation Crossroads exploded the biggest blast there in 1946.

About 15 minutes after the blast, the troops' air support, 48 seaborne planes, zoomed low across the edge of the Salt Flats to be ready for a take-off.

Their job was to jump behind the atomic smoke curtain but at a safe time after the blast.

Troops Get Shock

The troops got a severe shock. the A.E.C. told newspaper men. They were given the order to evacuate foxholes. But there could be no doubt that some of their nerves were twisted, too.

TV Presentation Of A-Explosion Disappoints Fans

Belleville TV addicts who expected an armchair view of the atomic explosion were burst on the Nevada slopes as a noon time treat were disappointed today. The A-Bomb burst from A-A-1 Bust, as far as local viewers were concerned.

Previous to the actual dropping of the A-bomb, which was described as the most powerful that bombs used in earlier tests, the announcer gave a detailed account of the preparations which had gone into the test. He spoke from a distance of 11 miles from the site and although Belleville TV fans were cheated of a close view, other cameras were rigged 40 miles from the scene of the explosion to pick up the blast which was highlighted by a flash 3-4 second 10 times brighter than the sun. Later a giant cloud mushroomed upward and then was exploded high over the target area.

Explaining that four days had been spent by news and radio men in Las Vegas awaiting as far as Belleville is concerned, the next public will be disappointed. Reception will be the city's first.

Earlier in the explosion, the announcer struck a warning tone. "And this," he said, "could happen in New York," he also compared the size of the target area to Manhattan Island.

City and District News

NORTHERN LIGHTS SEEN OVER CITY

The Northern Lights, attired in slightly less splendid colours than in the winter made a fleeting appearance over Belleville skies late last night.

The Aurora appeared in the northern sky for about 15 minutes, around 11.30 p. m. Not far behind the lights were great black clouds which eventually suffused the brilliance of the lights.

WEEKEND PROVES RATHER EXPENSIVE

A weekend in a downtown Kingston hotel proved rather expensive for Walter Capper, RCAF, Trenton. Capper told Kingston police that $120 in cash had been taken from his room during the night. He said the door was locked and an entry had been forced.

Business Leaders Criticized For Lack of Interest

Continuing a series of addresses throughout the province, on "Our Enemy, Inflation," Malcolm Robb last night addressed the Kiwanis-er-Waterloo Sales and Ad Club at the Walper House, Kitchener.

Pointing out that inflation consisted of too much money chasing too little production, he quoted Stuart Armour, distinguished economist who said: "There have been other and very important factors bearing on the situation such as floor prices, subsidies, welfare transfer payments, and a cheap money policy".

Mr. Robb said the policy of the federal government was to hand out cold cash without production, quoting as an instance that 61 million dollars to western farmers as a vote getter.

He pointed out that the farmer usually with no business training and often great inefficiency, had greatly increased production per capita in recent years, whilst industrial and business had not increased one iota since 1800 necessitating the introduction of over one billion dollars in plant improvements.

Not Leaders

He charged that a great many so-called business leaders are not leaders at all. The qualities of leadership embrace foresight, energy and the power to lead. What happens because a boy in a plant or manufacturing enterprise where the workers have known the manager or directors for 25 years and feel they must go to communists C. C. Ellison said Ross Russell, in order to "do business".

He termed the labor relations and production records of such companies for the past six years "a public disgrace and a public danger".

"If we were to inquire", he said, "we would find the officers and directors of such companies do not give leadership to those men, although they feel very little in their plants for the past 20 years. They pocket their salaries, off-times substantial, and spend their off time at golf, yachting, summer cottages or trips abroad, but they do not spend their time mingling with such people when whose support they must have if they are to be successful in their business."

The speaker pointed out that the failure to perform these duties to face the facts of life and their failure to give leadership constitute the biggest threat to the free enterprise system of this country.

Bakelite Co. Constructing Large Addition to Plant

Reflecting progress since the plant opened three years ago, excavation is now underway adjacent to the Bakelite Company (Canada), east of Belleville, for construction of a new formaldehyde plant.

When completed, 12 additional men will be added initially to the company's payroll, it was learned.

Along with the formaldehyde plant, construction of a dock is now under way and this dock will be used to receive water shipments of raw materials which enter into the production of finished bakelite.

J. D. Archer, factory manager, said the building would be completed by December 31 and will eventually produce 30,000,000 pounds of formaldehyde annually.

Formaldehyde, together with phenol is an ingredient used to produce Bakelite.

News of Trenton Ameliasburg Storekeeper Has New Wrestling Partner Whose Specialty Is Bear Hug

Trenton — (Special) — Hans Christenson, storekeeper in Ameliasburg, Prince Edward county, has a new partner in wrestling partner and one that will no doubt take a lot of beating before he's thrown for the long count.

Last September Mr. Christenson bought out Roland Parsons' interests in the carrier highway between Carrying Place and Belleville. With the purchase went a 200-pound black bear that had been in captivity since cubhood when Parsons' Burke's Falls a year earlier.

Mr. Christenson found that Teddy (that's the name of the bear) was playful and wanted to wrestle every time he went inside the cage. The feeling was mutual, because as a boy in Denmark Hans had outwrestled all comers and grew to be the pride of the sport above all others.

About the only hold Teddy knows is the bear hug, but Hans learned to break that by twisting his head.

In a demonstration before curious Ameliasburg adults and children yesterday, Hans didn't put Teddy down but he did manage to keep the bear's claws from allow him to leave the cage without further engagements.

Hans, who is in the 140-pound class, is giving about 100 pounds away to Teddy, who wintered well without hibernating for the second year and ambled weight, breaking the rules of nature.

Shell Dealers See Novel Sales Presentation

"Activators for '52", a "stirring-lined" review in nine acts — one of the most complete shows in sensational made in Canada—was shown to over 130 Shell Dealers last night at the Belleville Gardens by the Shell Oil Company of Canada Limited.

Actors in this unique sales presentation were 14 marionettes. Dancing centred on a line of 12 strings, they showed how a service station should be managed to attract new custom through good service and efficient operation. It was the first time that the first firm in Canada to use marionettes for a sales presentation to their dealers.

Designed and produced in Toronto, under the direction of C.W. Chamberlin, sales promotion and advertising manager, the show is headlined by Hal and Renee Marquette, international ice dancing champions. The Marquettes have been in show business for 24 years, and demonstrated their wide experience as they manipulated hundreds of strings to operate the host of "little people" through their paces in the nine act playlet.

Amid complete stage settings, with realistic scenery and delightful service stations, moving backdrops and water pump in detail, the puppets created an illusion of reality while dramatizing the sales story to service customers' cars.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Marquette, five other employees of Shell are required to stage the show's intricate ing and props, and over 105 feet of overhead rigging is used in operation.

Many of Canada's leading radio and theatrical figures were used to produce the script and music which is wire recorded, and to which the entire show is synchronized.

"Activators for '52" was premiered in Nanaimo, and has just ended in Okanagan Mission, B.C. Ralph, supervisor of special events for the company's advertising department in Toronto, is in charge of the show during its tour of Canada.

Another important feature of the program was a film of the $1 million-million refinery. Shell's finished refinery in Montreal last year.

Lapel pins and framed scrolls were presented to H. Colliver and C. Dimmell for 25 years service, E. Hill, 20 years, R. McColl and G. McCubbin for 10 years.

Present at the meeting from Shell's Toronto Division Office were: Mr. Kidd, Sales Division Area Manager; Mr. R. Hill, Manager Divisional Fuel Oil Dept.; Mr. C. A. Dixon, Manager Divisional Retail Dept.

Among the relatives present were Melville Marling, Olive Marling, William and Lillian Nicholas, D. Nicholas and Beryl Nicholas of Campbellford and Harold and Gladys Hanna.

Fishermen Busy

Trenton (Special)—Cost of living has taken another jolt downwards since Lake Ontario fishermen began catching smelts last week.

Current prices for the tasty palate-pleasers make the housewife's budgeting easier. Smelts fresh out of the lake are quoted at 15 cents a pound and catfish 20 cents a pound or three any size for the same price.

Many anglers' catchments on a Sunday drive and stopped at St. George Street place at Barcoven beach to take advantage of the low prices. Every buyer took the three for 20 cents bargain and when he got home found he had more than he could secured nearly a pound and a half of fish—fat enough for a good sized helping for the wife and himself.

Sister's Foot Caught in Door Of Motor Car

The two small girls sat in the late model car parked on Front Street. The larger of the two about six years of age leaned through the car window and appealed to pedestrians to "please open the car door."

Several heard the girl's request but ignored it, probably thinking their parents had placed them there with the idea of "getting out".

Finally two ladies hailed as the girl repeated her request. There was something in her voice that made them stop.

"What is wrong?" one of them inquired.

"My little sister's foot is caught in the door," the girl replied.

When closing the door, the parents had inadvertently caught a piece of the smaller girl's stocking. She was not injured.

Rotarians Hear Address by Rev. Ivan Morgan

The Reverend Ivan Morgan, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Deseronto, addressed the Rotary Club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting held in the Quinte Hotel yesterday noon. Rev. Morgan's talk dealt with "The Minister's Job."

"Most of the people in this world," said Mr. Morgan, "are good people. Often they hide a heart of gold under a rough exterior. It is the minister's job," Reverend Morgan went on to say, "to find out this heart of gold in the exterior. It is the minister's job," Reverend Morgan went on to say, "to draw out this heart of gold and encourage it to grow."

Mr. Morgan told the members of how amazed he was, when he discovered the number of people in the church volunteer for work in the church.

In the absence of the regular president, Courtland Miller, who is away in Niagara Falls attending Rotary District Conference, Ernie Gurnett acted in the capacity of president, Miller's term as out of town guests present.

The minister was introduced by Brigadier Reginald Gage of the Salvation Army and at the close of the talk Ernie Gurnett, acting chairman, thanked Mr. Morgan for his talk and presented him with a souvenir of the occasion.

British Engaged in Moving Slum Dwellers of London Into Small Country Towns

By ROBERT F. S. JONES

Hemel Hempstead, Hertford, England, April 22— (AP) — The government is pushing a plan to clear a Cockney on to this quiet little market town about 30 miles northwest of London.

The Hemeldonians — as the townsfolk call themselves — don't like it one bit.

For Hemel Hempstead, where for nearly two centuries they have been making paper and growing watercress in rush-fringed brooks, is one of a ring of eight "satellite" towns which, in 10 years' time, will have absorbed some 400,000 of London's teeming slum dwellers.

The late Labor government's New Towns Act was passed in 1946. This put teeth into a wartime plan to lift whole communities of Londoners and their factories from the middle of the capital and lay-frog them over a green belt" of open countryside into an outer ring of new towns. The cost so far more than the government anticipated in 1946. It figured £152,000,000 would see the plan through until 1962.

So far nearly £20,000,000 have been spent — and little more than preliminary work has been done in the most of the satellites.

The new Conservative government thinks it has a good one and intends to go ahead with it.

The idea of building self-contained communities in the countryside could live and work in semi-rural surroundings, came from Dr. Patrick Abercrombie, Britain's foremost town planning expert.

Abercrombie asked by Winston Churchill in 1943 to work out a plan to relieve London's congestion after the war, took his idea partly from Sir Ebenezer Howard, originator of the "Garden City" type of town intended to rid Britain of her slums.

In each case the general style is the same — new houses are grouped in "neighborhood units" on the outskirts of the existing town, with a factory belt in an outer ring.

Hemel, with a population of about 22,000, is probably the most advanced of all the satellites and expects to absorb 40,000 Londoners by 1962.

The total for all 12 satellites to date is 3,120 houses built, 8,050 under construction, and 12,826 factories working.

Morley Ward New President Of Bridge Club

A successful year of the Belleville Bridge Club was closed last evening at the Shrine Club, when the members gathered for their annual banquet and election of officers and to enjoy a game of bridge. It was one of the best gatherings held in the long history of the club and plans, who were present, voted that the years and have dropped out for reasons beyond their control, were missed. It was decided that it had been a pleasure to serve the league and that it was good to be now back at the top of the prize list. "The competition for the table prizes has been the closest in many years and interest was sustained right to the close. In the absence of the season changed the two top teams," said Mr. Walker, in appreciation of the club to the secretary treasurer, Mrs. Vanderboort, and presented by the president and on behalf of the members "Skit" was presented with a Ronson table lighter.

Members Thanked

In thanking the club for their expressions of good will, Mr. Vanderboort stated it was a work that he enjoyed but thought someone else should undertake the office for a year or two. The new executive, named by the nominating committee, was accepted by the club and Morley Ward, sales manager of Ole Sigge & Molor Products, the unanimous choice for president for the coming year. Other members of the executive are: Vice-president, Mrs. Jack Derry; secretary treasurer W. B. Vandervoort, and directors, James Trusiuch, Ross Bailey and E. G. Gurnett with the last named chairman of the entertainment for ladies night, the chairman to select the rest of his committee.

Morley Ward, in a few well chosen words, thanked the members for the honor that had been conferred on him and hoped that another successful year would be enjoyed. He thanked all for their interest in the league and suggested a short period of "bridge" be held in the Quinte Hotel yesterday noon. Rev. Morgan's talk dealt with "The Minister's Job."

"Most of the people in this world," said Mr. Morgan, "are good people. Often they hide a heart of gold under a rough exterior. It is the minister's job," Reverend Morgan went on to say, "to draw out this heart of gold in the exterior. It is the minister's job," Reverend Morgan went on to say, "to draw out this heart of gold and encourage it to grow."

Reserved Tickets For Kinsmen Show Ready for Sale

Reserved seat tickets for next week's "Hello Belleville" Kinsmen musical review to be staged for three nights at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium will go on sale tomorrow at Bill Cook's and at the same time a new ticket board will be put into service.

The new ticket board, based on the seating arrangement at the Collegiate auditorium, was presented to Bill Cook at Monday night's Kinsmen meeting.

Approximately 500 hours of painstaking work went into the construction of the ticket board which was made by George Blanton, Gordon Birrell. It is a beautifully finished cabinet made of polished mahogany. The 1100 tickets and the tickets are in sets of stained oak. The reserved seat sale of tickets at the collegiate has always been somewhat of a headache for the office staff and difficult to handle them, but with the new ticket board all possible chance of a mistake or other mix-up has been eliminated.

Ticket sale will be built to correspond with the seating arrangement with the main floor and in the balcony of the collegiate auditorium. The price for each seat is placed in its individual slot and the progress of the ticket sale can be determined at any time merely by glancing at the board.

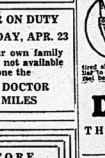
Canada Missing Out on Tourist Dollars--Calnan



Canada is missing out on tourist dollars through failure to capitalize on her historical background potential, members of the Belleville Kinsmen Club were told at their dinner meeting Monday evening.

Speaker for the evening was Mr. J. Calnan, editor of the Picton Gazette who addressed members on impressions gained as result of a recent motor trip through the middle and eastern United States. Among the points which impressed Mr. Calnan was the courtesy extended by Americans; also the way which people south of the border take advantage of their historical background which is a tourist attraction. Originality and creative genius with a willingness to put energy and money into untried fields.

In inviting Mr. Calnap said Canada, and particularly Hastings and Prince Edward counties had all it takes to develop great tourist attraction based on historical background, and pointed to early history and pointing to early historical sites and the U.E.L. pageants could be staged.

The speaker was introduced by Bill Ketcalf with appreciation being expressed by Don Thomas.

Norman Cleverley, chairman of the Hastings County Tuberculosis and Health Association advised the club members suggesting that the service club take over the T.B. Christmas Seal campaign.

Veterinarians Check Symptoms Disease in Herd

Ottawa, April 22 — (CP) — Government veterinarians are checking symptoms of foot-and-mouth disease in a herd of twelve cattle in southern Saskatchewan, Agriculture Minister Gardiner disclosed yesterday.

The herd is near Ormiston, 50 miles south of Moose Jaw and at the southern tip of the buffer zone set up in Saskatchewan to prevent the spread of the disease.

Existence of the suspected case was reported by Agriculture Minister Gardiner in an address to the Ottawa Rotary Club. He said he could give farmers no assurance when the United States market would be re-opened to Canadian cattle. It was possible that it might be done this fall.

Mr. Gardiner said he hoped to be able to report that the investigation of the Dominion herd was negative when results of the test are available in the next few days.

Mr. Gardiner dealt mainly with the common effects of foot-and-mouth disease which has been confined to southern Saskatchewan where it broke out.

Prices Down Little

He said beef prices dropped about 10 cents a pound or more in the last few months but they wouldn't "go down much further." Beef and pork prices now were supported by the government. It had paid 25 cents a pound at Toronto and Montreal and canned pork at 30 cents a pound.

He said Canada would not likely find a market for the 20,000,000 pounds of canned pork at that price but officials were in the United Kingdom to find a market that would yield "some return to the government and the taxpayer."

He urged farmers to keep as much of feeding as of the market as possible. The provinces were cooperating in the development of a national livestock marketing policy but the government was anxious to go into the beef business.

Letters Asking For Money From Chinese Decrease

Victims of a shake-down engineered by communists in the land of their ancestors since communism became a force in China a few years ago, Chinese living in Belleville reported today that letters requesting money by relatives and friends remaining in China were on the decrease during recent months.

Some Chinese living in other parts of Canada, the Belleville Oriental population received letters of the pleading type from China, the relatives complaining that unless money was sent immediately, they faced jail or their property would be confiscated. Fearing for the safety of those whom they loved, the Chinese in Canada obliged, knowing that their relatives were receiving a mere dribble of the money sent home.

"No," said one Belleville restaurant worker today, "we're not getting any letters any more. Don't know what's the matter."

A school traffic guide will be placed at the corner of Dufferin Ave., and Dundas St., it was agreed at a meeting of the city traffic committee with a special committee from the school board. The home and school association, together with the school board had asked that a guide be placed at two locations near the Queen Elizabeth school, but the traffic committee said their budget would not allow the hiring of additional men.

Co-operation Asked

In agreeing to hire one extra guide the traffic committee asked the co-operation of the school board in three things.

First of all, that for children northbound from the school to use MacDonald Ave and cross Bridge St. at MacDonald. The second request was for Bayview children to use the underpass beneath the highway, and the third was that the boys and girls driven using the Parkwood Heights bus, to cross at Dufferin and Parkwood. The board agreed to co-operate in the three requests.

It is almost certain that a part time library will be opened in one of the city schools. A three man special committee from the school board and the library board studied the matter at a recent meeting. Members of the committee expressed themselves favorably to opening of the part time.library but details as to when it will be and days on which the library will be open are not yet worked out.

Approval was given for use of the Princes Charles School for a children's music festival sponsored by the Sidney Teachers' Association. The festival will be held May 1st and May 9th.

The services of an architect will be retained to draw specifications and supervise improvements to washrooms at Queen Alexandra and Queen Victoria Schools. The amount of work to be done will be decided by the committee.

Two normal school students Miss Ruth Welbourn of Belleville, and Miss Evelyn Cameron, Moira, accepted appointments to the public school staff at a salary of $2,000. Appointments will be offered to four others, Miss Connie Reid, Colbourne, Miss Joyce Toner, Miss Sheila Wilson, Odessa, and Douglas Nichols, of Tweed.

The school board adopted the report of a special committee to cooperate in every way possible with city council to enable that body to draw up its budget in October. Subject to the approval of the minister of education, the school board will adopt a Canadian government annuity plan for its nonteaching employees, the plan going into effect at the beginning of the first quarter following the department approval.

Lenny Is Not Monster But Just Plain Mudpuppy

A name has been found for "Lenny," otherwise just plain monster, whose picture appeared in the Ontario Intelligencer last week along with one of Caddy, a king-sized sea lion from out Vancouver way.

Lenny is not a monster but is just a plain Mudpuppy, so says Mr. John E. H. Martin, 170 Dufferin Ave. The "Lenny" whose picture appeared last week was fished out of the Rouge River.

Following is Mr. Martin's note to the Ontario Intelligencer "fishing the ugly appearing monster:

Not a monster, but just plain Mudpuppy—Necturus maculosus (Rafinesque). It is common'in all our lakes, rivers, and sureams of southern Ontario, derivirg the name Mudpuppy from the gazing sound its emits when handled, which is thought to resemble the bark of a puppy-dog.

The purple ears are external gills which appear as large tufts of red filaments on each side of the head. These function in the water as the gills of fish in breathing, by absorbing oxygen from the water. The Mudpuppy, largest of our salamanders, is aquatic thoroughout its life.

Union Nationale Prepares To Fete Hon. M. L. Duplessis; Ballot Battle Said Nearing

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, April 22—(CP)— The Union Nationale — a party born from strife in Liberal party ranks and the political flair of a dynamic lawyer — goes all out Wednesday night to toast the man who has given it 12 years of power.

The man is Premier Duplessis, "Le Chef" to some 1,500 party organizers, members and rooters who will be on hand for the affair.

The celebration, a bang-up affair in a decor of fleur-de-lis, flags is actually three celebrations in one and promises to be the biggest of its kind ever seen in Quebec.

Partisans from the province's 92 electoral divisions will celebrate the premier's 52nd anniversary of political life, his birthday, and get the party's election campaign rolling.

Mr. Duplessis, a dynamic, active man with a touch of grey in his hair, was 62 last Sunday.

Next May will round out 25 years of active and sometimes headline-making political life in Quebec province, a Nationalist career that saw him rise from party ranks to the leadership of the Conservative party and finally to the head of his own Union Nationale in 1936.

Although official announcements don't come right out and say so, the main reason for the monster gathering is the forthcoming provincial elections.

When the elections will be held is the big question mark today in Quebec today. July seems to be the likeliest date but there are persistent reports they may be delayed until August or later.

Won't Announce Date

It's pretty sure bet the premier won't announce the date when he rises to applause and cheers Wednesday night to deliver his big speech of the year to party members.

In 1948, when a similar dinner was held on the eve of elections, the premier dig not announce the date.

With the biggest majority ever held by a party in the provincial legislature, the Union Nationale meets the elections in a confident mainod.

Its powerful organization now is being geared for an all-out contest against the revamped Liberal party headed by Georges La-Palme.

Despite the powerful organization, the party's sparkplug still is the premier himself, one of the best off-the-cuff speakers in Quebec and a star performer in Quebec's rural municipalities.

The Quebec electorate will see a slightly older Duplessis during the coming campaign, but one who still is equal to the occasion when he makes a point against an opponent.

The premier has apparently recovered completely from a back injury he suffered in Montreal Feb. 2. For a time, the premier's illness had a wet-towel effect on the party. However, his fast recovery has acted like an elixir.

POLICE COURT

Charges of illegal possession of narcotic: against Clinton Craig, former employee of the Bellerville General Hospital, were withdrawn in city magistrate's court today. On a charge of theft Craig was given one year's suspended sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills and was ordered to pay court costs of $21.

An out of town driver was given seven days following a guilty plea to a charge of drunk driving. There were several other LCA charges, including a second offence drunk charge, All took ti'' in jail in lieu of fines.

A fine of $25 and $19 costs was levied against a local man for keeping a common gaming house. Eight "found-in" were each fined $10 and $19 costs. A sum of $86.75 found by police on the gaming table was ordered confiscated.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

Tomorrow is the day upon which Englishmen around the world celebrate the feast day of their patron saint. The historic toast "St. George for merrie England" will be heard wherever Englishmen gather for celebrations.

There are several stories about who St. George was. According to one, he was a Greek Christian who rose to high office under the Roman emperor Diocletian but who was finally executed for opposing Diocletian's persecution of Christians. He is said once to have been sent on an imperial mission to England.

Another version is that St. George was a Cappadocian in the Roman armies who undertook the rescue of a fair fire-maiden who had been offered as a sacrifice to a fire-breathing dragon. St. George, so the story goes, slew the dragon and rescued the fire-maiden. He became a national hero eventually beatified. Although de-bunkers have claimed that the "fair maiden" was only about six years old and that the "fire-breathing dragon" was only a crocodile, we are accepting the story which includes the fire-maiden and the fire-breathing dragon, because it is far more romantic than the others.

Whatever is the truth about St. George's origin, he was accepted as a symbol of chivalry and courage in many ancient lands. Although he was recognized a century previously, he was only finally adopted by the English as their patron saint in the reign of Edward II. Since then, his popularity has increased, and the cry "St. George for merrie England" has been heard on many battlefields. More than once throughout the centuries, St. George's Day has been chosen by the English for some particularly desperate feat of arms, such as the storming of Zeebrugge during the First Great War.

England may not be so merrie now as she was in days gone by, but the English, throughout their long and eventful history, have often come to their feet before and have managed to recuperate from their wounds and recover more than they had lost. Their numerous well-wishers everywhere will unite, on the eve of this St. George's Day, in hoping that England's present difficulties will soon end.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Some of the reasons that Finance Minister Douglas Abbott was unable to announce tax reductions in his recent budget are explained in a recently-published article by Beland Honderich, the financial editor of the Toronto Daily Star.

Since the end of the war, says Mr. Honderich, Canada has spent $2,412,300,000 on aid to foreign countries. This year, he says, the Canadian government purposes spending an additional $560,000,000 on foreign aid, bringing the total for eight years to $2,772,000,000.

Thus far, Mr. Honderich says, "the bulk of Canada's foreign aid has consisted of loans or credits which are payable over a period of years, but slightly more than $600,000,000 represents outright gifts to the countries of Europe and Asia."

The biggest of the loans was $1,185,000,000 made to Britain immediately following the war. The British, Mr. Honderich points out, have begun to repay this loan.

Another $635,000,000 was advanced to countries like Belgium, China, France, Norway and Russia in the form of export credits. "All these credits are repayable," Mr. Honderich assures us.

During the immediate post-war years, says Mr. Honderich, Canada spent $95,000,000 on military relief in Europe. This money was spent in buying supplies for Canadian troops in Belgium, France, Italy and Holland and a arrangement was made with the governments of these countries under which part of this money is to be repaid.

To the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Canada has made outright grants" totalling $324,800,000. Part of this last-named sum was for purchasing military equipment and part for the maintenance of N.A.T.O. airmen in Canada.

Canada has made grants totalling $203,000,000 to the United Nations. This particular sum has been distributed among Arabs, Koreans, Pakistanis, Indians, Greeks and others.

Whether the figures quoted above cover the whole field of Canada's grants, loans and donations Mr. Honderich does not specifically say. Neither does he make any predictions about how long these grants, loans and donations are likely to continue.

We, like Mr. Honderich, are going to be prudent and refrain from doing any prophesying about where all this is going to end. That is a question which our readers will have to answer for themselves.

THE MORE

We think it much we've done each day
But with the setting sun
Too late we know along the way
That more we could have done.

The little splendors we have won
We look upon with pride
But know much more we could have done
If only we had tried.

We never reach our farthest goal
Nor all we hope for
But with the little, but the whole
Unfinished must remain.

We do our best, or so we boast,
But when our course is run
This one regret stays uppermost
That more we might have done.

At a meeting of the Board of Education the purchase of supplies was being considered when one of the members exclaimed, "What! No strops?" However, some of the older members of the Board recalled when they were literally worn out and that they had helped to wear out some of them.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

SEA PLASMA

One year ago today, friends, I was a thin, undernourished weakling of 98 pounds. Only the fact that I used to stare at sat upon the beach would giggle and point. I had that puny, lazy feeling and my hair was falling out at a truly astonishing rate. I was a mess.

Now I am a 170-pound brute with muscles that ripple and squeak. I have put on burn (we use it instead of cost) and barbers nurse and gnash their teeth when I enter their shops. I get manicures in every mail.

What made this incredible change in my physique? Was it hard-boil exercise? Was it blackstrap molasses and wheat-germ bread? Everyone is asking for my secret.

Well, shucks, it's no secret at all. I am merely a living testimonial to the rejuvenative powers of a sea-food diet. Yes, friends, I'm den on the move over! Here, from out of the sequin sea, is the answer to the world's ills, nature's own secret weapon against the immortal enemies of man.

And to think that I discovered it only by accident! It makes me tremble.

* * *

It was, in fact, a year ago that we took it on the ism from the sooty old city and headed for the briny. We stayed by the rocky shore of a magic isle.

Along there are low oysters by the thousands. Ten million clams, horse-size, and, baby, butter. Sprouted geysers through the sand to welcome us. Crabs and shrimp and lobsters. Fish of every kind in a higher cause. The ling and rock cod, the grey sole, the scrod and blue-backs, flounder, trout and perch licked their chops in bay and glen. Yes, sir, it was the book.

I liked sea food to begin with, but it was discovery, baby, discovery. The rising cost of meat caused me to turn more and more to fish. Fish are rich in vitamins. Like Mary, Mary Quite Contrary in her garden, I gathered my victuals with a basket under my arm scorching from the sun's rays.

It was some six months later that I realized suddenly what it was doing to me. I had enjoyed a breakfast of cod-fish balls, a lunch of clam chowder and a dinner of fresh cracked crab preceded by an oyster cocktail or rather generous proportions.

Just before going to bed and while preparing myself a snack of shrimp I had occasion to make a telephone call. Looking up the number in the book I was seized with a sudden whim and tore the whole nasty, in two as if it were a piece of Kleenex.

There were other indications, too. I found I had to shave three times a day. Often, in taking walks, I would find myself impressing up trees and swinging from branch to branch.

* * *

The more I thought about it, the more logical it seemed. After all, there's a vitality and energy in the ocean that makes everything on land and in the air seem downright sluggish.

The oyster, for example, while no bigger than the palm of your hand, gives birth to millions of little oysters at one sitting. Who has not seen the salmon in his flamantic struggle to the spawning ground? Or the porpoise whose mad antics communicate to him the outdistance the fastest liners just by jumping?

The vegetation of the sea, itself, is dramatic evidence of its vitality and force. Kelp grows in a mass and profusion that makes the wildest jungle growth seem a pansy garden. The seagull itself (not your garden variety but the husky, but the proud bird of the islands) is not merely the symbol of athletic life, but the most joyous.

All this, I now realized, was coming from the magic ingredients, the locked-in goodness of the sea. Sea plasma! The splendid plasma was mine.

* * *

It's astonishing, of course, that in Canada, girt by the richest fishing grounds, seafood is considered either a delicacy for gourmets or a luxury for gourmets. I reject of outright suspicion. We ship our salmon to Europe. We eat it ourselves. Tons of succulent clams that come from our own inland go to waste. Discovery, baby, discovery.

Indeed, in Vancouver itself (Vancouver, the breathless paradise of the sea-food diet, turn instead to the more prosaic fare of the meat-and-potatoes diet faddists, within a hootnil's distance of that bracing tang, turn to the cow.

The Indian, the Chinese and the Japanese, who by the way, possess the flower of the kelp into their diet, know better. They revel in knowing what a cornucopia awaits them where the water meets the land.

I tell you, if I didn't feel so incredibly good, it would worry me.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A book that has already had a lot of space in the book review columns of the British, Canadian and American newspapers is likely to get a good deal more public mention before the 11 elections are over. It is Chester Wilmot's "The Struggle for Europe."

It is a book that even the most hardened non-reader can read as effortlessly as any popular novel. Ex-service men will be fascinated by it. Wilmot, who was an Australian war correspondent, has taken six years to read all the records, Germ-ous, German, British, Italian, Russian, American, and has got hold of original operation orders, field telephone messages and so forth, both allied and enemy. And all this material he has digested into a running narrative, placing both sides of the war on every side, in other words, while we read of what was happening the night of June 5, 1944, as the invasion fleet approached Normandy, there is an equally plain, detailed account of what the Germans were doing at that very moment. Even in France, my story is incredibly swift, clear and brief. For example, the account of the Canadian breakthrough into Falaise takes only a page and a half; but the skill of the telling makes your hair stand on end as much as it did when you were there in the thick of it.

The purpose of the book is to attempt to clarify the confusion that history is sitting so pretty in Europe and Asia today, while we are sitting in America. And there is no American uproar over the book, it may be because they do not want to attract attention to it. But apart from all that it is a perfectly fascinating narrative of what happened on both sides, simultaneously, in the savage struggle we were all engaged in lately, and of which we still have a one-sided and burden-some appreciation. This book tells the whole on a single, kleenlit stage.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS

S. H. J. Writes:

For the past four years I have been taking before meals three times a day the tablets of thiamine, riboflavin, nicotinic panthenate, niacinamide, ferrous gluconate and pyridoxine which you recommended. I had a coronary thrombosis 4 years ago. I believe these tablets have been more beneficial to me than any other treatment. I have had. (Signed)

While the vitamin preparation with iron and manganese, in tablet or liquid form, is the only real heart tonic, in my opinion, men (who outnumber women at least eight to one as subjects of coronary disease) with angina pectoris or any sort of coronary lesion ought to know something about the effects of some common factors on the coronary circulation, the supply of oxygen to the heart muscle, for example, from freedom from an attack hinges.

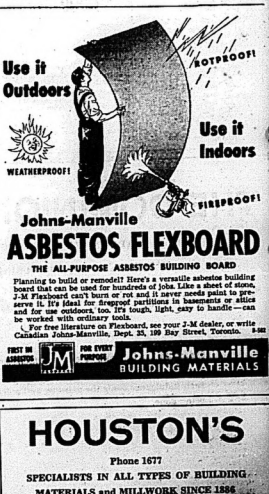
"While in bed following my coronary attack six years ago I discovered that the six injections of oxygen which I had recommended have the same effect as 1,000s grains of nitroglycerin, perhaps even better. So you might advise readers who cannot take druggists' pills to sell them nitroglycerin without prescription to practise Belly Breathing instead." (——M.D.)

Belly Breathing, my friends, folks, let us avoid excitement, annoyance, irritation and all such unpleasant emotions for the sake of our arteries. Read all that in the booklet How to Breathe (no matter whether your coronary arteries are affected or not) which is available on written request—no clippings, please—if you inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c.

Well, that's about about at the end of our tether. All I can do now is just mention the factors which tend to relax, thus to the dilatation of, open the coronary arteries and so maintain the supply of oxygen

Strength for the Day



DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LONG LIVE THE KING!

The recent death of King George VI and the accession of Princess Elizabeth to the throne of England brings to mind the very old need of men for someone or something to worship.

There has been no really practical need for a crowned ruler in Great Britain for more than a century. Yet despite the rigorous series of economy and austerity programs to which the British people have been reduced in their effort to survive since the war there has been no serious suggestion that the nation should do away with the luxury of a monarch, costing several million dollars a year. For the king, or queen, is not really a luxury but a vital part of national life and a satisfying standard around which rally the loyalty and devotion of the people belonging to the British Commonwealth all over the world.

Human beings always need something above and beyond themselves to look to if they are to make the most of their lives. The vision of something higher and better than mere self is what leads men to the noblest attainments. That is just one reason why religion is so important. No other force in our lives challenges us to rise so high above ourselves. The King of Heaven rallies the best efforts of all men everywhere.

Changing Economic Conditions Increase Problems of Children's Welfare Agencies CAS Meeting Told

Because of changing economic conditions, the problems faced by children's welfare agencies will continue to increase, R. H. Parkinson, chief supervisor of welfare services and family allowances at Ottawa, declared Monday evening.

He addressed the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society at a dinner meeting held in St. Andrew's Church. The civil servant spoke in the absence of Health Minister Paul Martin who could not attend because of parliamentary duties at Ottawa.

"More and more, today's family is faced with a tremendous burden which is sometimed called mass insecurity.' In your annual report the preventive aspects of your work were stressed. While I don't want to see your society go out of business, it would be nice if your preventive work were such that your child care department disappeared. I think we are moving in that direction."

In his address the speaker said: "Today we attempt desperately to salvage broken homes. We take children into our care and provide them with physical attention. We do humanely things that is humanly possible to restore families and children to the point where they can again live happy, rafmal, useful lives. I wonder if we should not consider shifting the focus of our efforts to a place where we meet children and families before and not after they are referred for these special services?"

Must Be Realistic

The speakey agreed it would be "foolish" to embark on a formal preventive program in an area where the standard of living is causing neglect, delinquency and health problems.

"We have to be pretty realistic and first remove the underlying causative factors," he said. "I would say that the introduction of family allowances is just one way of attacking the problem of providing a decent standard of living. Advantages such as free education, minimum wages, low cost housing, per-paid medical and hospital care are a few. Without this sort of thing it is pretty difficult for formal preventive child welfare programs to be effective. This is not moving into the so-called welfare state. It is simply looking after ourselves."

Two Main Social Ills

Forces which tend to tear down the family structure played a major role in the creation of an elaborate welfare program, he said heading list he placed divorce and separation.

"I think you will agree that it would be useless to set up rather elaborate child welfare programs if we continue to allow such social ills to continue," he said. "While the rate of incidence of these problems rises, I would hate to think of what they would be like without the efforts of groups such as this."

Continuing, he told the group that agencies have learned that a child's mental and emotional health is as important as his physical health.

"It has been established that children in many institutions are often better clothed, better fed and certainly better housed and better cared for medically than they were in whatever their own," he declared. "But because they lack emotional care, they do not develop into normal, happy children. This poses a problem for social workers who must decide whether to leave a child in a setting where he is receiving emotional care, but who is possibly being neglected physically."

The speaker was introduced by Frank S. Follwell, member of parliament for Hastings South and an expression of thanks was voiced by Lloyd Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West. Others who spoke briefly included Lee Grills, warden of Hastings County; Alderman Charles Hyde, acting mayor of Belleville, Ramsay Reid, representing Trenton, and Bert Beaumont, director of Child Welfare at the Queen's Park. J. F. Wilson, president of the Children's Aid Society here, was chairman at the dinner meeting.

Increased Interest

J. Fred Wilson in his president's address referred to the increased interest being taken in the work of the society. "This is as it should be," he said, "for if it were not for the work of the organization a great many children now being cared for by the Children's Aid would be destitute.

"It is not only the children from broken homes that are cared for by the society," he pointed out, "but children from homes where one or both parents have become ill or died. This gives them the God-given right of a chance to grow up in a respectable home and under conditions that they may become useful citizens."

Mr. Wilson went on to outline the duties and activities of the Children's Aid Society and how it is organized. A board of director acts as a liaison between the community and the staff, interpreting community needs and characteristics to the staff and in time interpreting the work of the staff to the community.

Lauds C.A.S. Staff

He paid tribute to Superintendent William Lockyer for his work with the society and also to other members of the staff who had rendered faithful service. He noted that an additional worker, Mrs. M. Littlejohn, had been added to the staff and expressed regret at the death of Miss A. Lounsberry who had served as secretary for many years. Mrs. Clarence Holmes had accepted the position of secretary for the balance of the year.

Mr. Wilson referred to the generosity of municipal councils in Belleville, Trenton and Hastings county, in awarding grants. The community chest and tag day had also assisted in raising funds for protective and prevention work felt necessary in screening full responsibilities as a Children's Aid Society.

In conclusion Mr. Wilson expressed appreciation thanks to all who had contributed in any way to the society during the past year. Solendid co-operation had been given throughout the year and the same co-operation was asked for the incoming board. "It is only with this co-operation that we can hope to accomplish the full results," he said.

38 Years of Service

Wm. C. Lockyer, C.A.S. superintendent, suggested that reports given by the social workers would indicate the scope of the group's activities.

In his address, he revealed that the total number of children in care of this community for 58 years. He paid tribute to the early staff members, all of whom, he said, "were persons of vision and understanding and to whom we owe a debt of gratitude."

"These men and women laid a solid foundation upon which has and is being built an ever-widening concept of services to children and the preservation of family life," he said. "With thankful hearts we remember the faithfulness and wisdom of those who have gone to their reward in the past year. Especially do we think of our late recording secretary, Miss Alice Lounsberry and Rev. H. O. Eastman and other directors."

Reviewing the Society's activities during the past year, the Superintendent admitted growth. "We now have nine, full-time workers, five in the field and three in the office and a superintendent. I can assure you we are a busy group," he added.

Limited Finances

The superintendent blamed "limitations of finances" for limiting the Society's scope.

"We feel that much has been accomplished but we acknowledge that more could be done if we had not for our finances," he declared.

The superintendent expressed thanks to the members of the board of management and others who assisted the Society during last year's operations. Those whose assistance was specially included the clothing committee, Mr. Bert Beaumont of the provincial department of child welfare, His Honor J. C. Anderson, Magistrate T. Y. Wills and Probation Officer D. I. MacKinnon, along with doctors and nursing groups, Belleville doctors and dentists, service clubs and county officials, the radio station and the Ontario Intelligencer.

29 Investigations

In a report covering divorces involving children under 16, Mrs. Littlejohn told the meeting that Ontario is the only Canadian province boasting a divorce service. During the past year, she said, the local society had completed 29 divorce investigations, interviewing both plaintiff and defendant separately, and later reporting to the court. She had also given recommendations which would best serve the interests of the children.

Family allowance payments to parents who were "too unstable to spend the money wisely" continued to be the worry of the society, Mrs. Littlejohn continued. During the past year, she said, 34 investigations involving 94 children were completed. She also reported that 29 cases continue to have the parents become sufficiently responsible to re-assume their own spending of family allowance funds.

Extra Clothing

Mrs. Anne Fleming, chairman of the clothing committee, reported an increase of $10 per child for clothes during the past year. Clothing costs this year totalled $8,456.56, for an average cost of $33.86 per child. She expressed her thanks to women's organizations throughout the city and district for layettes and other clothing necessities.

A change in the time was suggested by Miss Byrd Corbet, social worker, to the effect that no longer were unmarried mothers criticized for their mistake but were given guidance instead.

"Fortunately," she said, "times are changing."

In the report covering unmarried mothers, the social worker described as "fortunate" the unmarried mother who was in a position to marry her child.

Most unmarried mothers, she said, were between the ages of 16 to 18 years.

"Some of them are away from home for the first time, are lonesome and have not been taught in the right channels," she told the annual meeting.

During the year 79 new cases and three cases which were reopened, in addition to 80 cases from the previous year received the attention of the Belleville C.A.S.

Arguing that the emotional effect on the child of separation from his home and parents is detrimental to his future behavior the Society works to prevent domestic smash-ups, Mrs. Allie French described the Society's efforts to promote harmony in homes involving children.

Child Protection Vital

"Child protection is a vital factor in the Children's Aid work," she said. "Our work involves going into the homes and using every means to keep families together. We must try our utmost to keep the sound basis with children and parents a happy unit. Through our intensive protection work, the burden of municipal taxes is lessened. An analysis of the home protected and the child left in the security of his parents' only when all efforts are fruitless is the child made a ward of the Society group."

Prospective foster parents who seek to adopt children because they wish the children to help around the home or because of the financial assistance adopted child may offer are not accepted by the Society, Miss Mabel Marshall reported. Her report covered home finding for orphans.

"The essential qualities we seek are not always found in the largest and most prosperous homes," she said. "It is the average home, the home where there is love, understanding and a spirit of cooperation. . . that we seek. We are interested in people who are interested in the social activities of the community and who are affiliated with the church of their choice."

51 Adoptions

During the past year 51 adoptions were finalized Mrs. L. McLaughlin reported.

"In our adoption department we reach the ultimate satisfaction when we place a child with prospective parents who will lavish affection and understanding as essential to the well-being of the child," she said. "We have a waiting list of adoptive parents and many calls asking when the applications may be filled. We do our best but it must be remembered that all infants taken into our care are not adoptable," she concluded.

Bit of Woman's Print Dress Comes Out of the Sea

Copenhagen, April 22—(AP)—A bit of woman's flowered-print dress came out of the sea yesterday from the wreckage of a U-boat.

It aroused new speculation and deepened the mystery that probably never will be solved. Were Hitler and his mistress aboard the boat?

The submarine was sunk by R.A.F. bombs in 1945.

When the first dynamite charges blasted the hull open two weeks ago, the torpedo tubes were found filled with canned food.

This led to speculation that the boat was loaded with Nazi bigshots, maybe even Hitler and Eva Braun, on the run.

Divers said it probably will never be known who was aboard. Only fragments of human bones were found.

Given Life Term

Belgrade, April 22 — (AP) — A Yugoslav court Monday sentenced Nikita Baksov, former Soviet legation military official, to life imprisonment at hard labor on charges of spying and selling state secrets to Russia.

Three other defendants, including Bakov's wife, were given prison sentences ranging from eight to 14 years. All pleaded guilty.

Bakov, 35, a native of Russia, confessed betraying "the country which I helped to build."

Four times deported during the Second World War while fighting for Marshal Tito's Partisans, he attempted to kill himself during the trial by banging his head against a radiator.

WEDDINGS

WHITE—OSBER

Christ Church, Belleville, was the scene of a lovely spring wedding on Wednesday, April 16th, at 3.30 p.m., when the Reverend Canon J. B. Creegan, rector of the church, united in marriage Helen Hazel Osber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Osber, Front Road of Belleville, and Mr. Wilfred William Rose White son of Mr. and Mrs. Rose White son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert White, Belleville. The altar and chancel were beautifully decorated with spring flowers, arranged in vases, shepherdesses and ferns.

Mr. Ed. Graham, presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Miss Patricia Graham, of Kingston, cousin of the bride, who rendered the Lord's Prayer, before the ceremony, and during the signing of the register, "Through the Years."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, was beautifully attired in a gown of white satin taffeta and French lace fashioned with molded basque fitting sheath-like sleeves, and cuff-ing in V shape over the wrists, yoke of matching lace with stand-up collar and sweetheart neckline. The bouffant skirt featured a panel front of appliqued lace which extended to form a deep border, above the hem line. She wore a full length lace mesh Juliet cap of nylon net trimmed with matching satin with finger-tip veil of tulle illusion.

Miss Carol Shorey, of Belleville was maid of honor, and Miss Edna Gomez, sister of the bride and Miss Margaret White, also of Belleville, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. All were gowns of similar design in orchid shades of satin fashioned molded bodices, shirred skirts and nylon sequined jackets long lily-point sleeves. They carried Johanna Hill roses and wore satin sequined Juliet caps in matching orchid tint.

Mr. Brock Mallory, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom. Mr. Robert Brother, brother-in-law of bride, and Mr. John Skillicorn, both of Belleville, were ushers.

The bride's mother chose a gown of dusty rose tissue faille with navy accessories and corsage of Talisman roses for the reception, while the groom's mother chose Christ Church parish hall. She was assisted in receiving the many guests by the bridegroom's mother, who wore beige faille and lace with navy accessories and corsage of red Briarcliffe roses.

TATE—MILLER

Tall standards of snapdragons and phlox in shades of white, pink and mauve, with background of ferns, formed a lovely setting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, on Saturday, April 19th, at 3 o'clock, for the marriage of Barbara Ann Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Miller, of Belleville, to Harold Alvin Tate, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Tate, of Millbrook, Ontario. The Reverend W. G. Hornsby officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. E. H. Sheppard, rendered the wedding music, playing before the ceremony, "Wings of Song," by Mendelssohn, and during the signing of the register, "Till Walk Beside You."

For the marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white floral motif lace over white bridal satin, fashioned on princess lines with the bodice matching lace and short lace mitts. She wore a Juliet cap of matching lace and satin and with finger-tip veil of nylon net, and carried a bouquet of white with white gardenias, hyacinth bells and stocks, outlined with floral motif lace.

Miss Stanley Wiggins, of Belleville, sister of the bride was matron of honor, and Miss Mary Grace McClockie, of Toronto, bridesmaid. Both were gowned alike in periwinkle blue taffeta, fashioned with sweetheart neckline with bertha collar and long, matching mitts. Their headdresses were matching satin and the complexion veils were similar to that of the bride. They carried similar bouquets of purple violets, purple pansies and mauve sweet peas, outlined in ruffled periwinkle blue taffeta.

Mr. Jack Whitmore, of Kingston, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. Allan Bronson, of Bailieboro, Ontario, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mr. John Bird, nephew of bride's parents, of the bride.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother, who wore grey crepe with lace with black accessories and corsage of pale pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and Quebec City, the bride wore a petal grey tailored suit with white accessories and corsage of white gardenias. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Tate will reside in Toronto.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at many delightful showers given in her honor by Mrs. H. Arnott and Mrs. W. J. Mills; Miss Dorothy Bishop and Mrs. Clark James; a kitchen shower by Mrs. Gordon Cook, of Toronto, and a luncheon and cup and saucer shower by Mrs. A. H. Miller and Miss Victoria Ketcheson.

MORRIS—OGILVY

On Saturday, April 19th at 3.00 p.m., a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in Bethlehem United Church parsonage, when the Rev. A. Fowler united in marriage Dorothy Eleanor Ogilvy daughter of Mrs. Vernon Hamilton and the late Mr. Ogilvy, of Wellington, to Thomas Arthur Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morris, of Wellington.

The bride was becomingly attired in a grey gabardine suit with navy accessories and corsage of red roses. She was attended by Miss Marion Hamilton, of Wellington, who wore a blue gabardine suit with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. William Covert, of Wellington, was groomsman.

Following the reception, held at the bride's parents, a wedding cake, which was tastefully decorated with pink and white snapdragons and pink tulips, where the bride's mother, gowned in navy blue sheer with white trim, and corsage of pink carnations, received the congratulations of the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue with corsage of pink carnations, the bridegroom couple left for Toronto and points west.

Belleville Theatre Guild

At the regular meeting of the Theatre Guild last Wednesday evening, the Theatre Guild president announced that through the generosity of the Recreational Commission, all theatre guild presidents to the sending of the play "The Voice of the People" to the Dominion Drama Festival at Saint John, N.B., had been removed. The committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. R. T. Potter, had get aside a sum of $500 to assist the Guild during their visit. It was also decided for $300 of this to help finance the Saint John trip. An expenditure in excess of this would be drawn on the Guild funds.

Other items of business discussed were the financial returns of the plays prepared at the beginning of this month which showed that a sum of slightly less than one hundred dollars had been spent on lighting equipment. This new equipment when completed, should give the Guild adequate and portable facilities for all their productions. Mrs. Doyle stated that this equipment so far constructed would have cost over $500 if purchased ready made.

Short Play Presented

The principle item on the evening's program was a short play entitled "High Pressure Area" which was presented by the Guild, at a meeting of the Collegiate Home and School Association as a basis for discussion.

Mrs. Punchard who directed the play, took the part of the mother at short notice, a feat which drew well deserved applause. Jean Thompson, Ted Hall and Barbara Whelan and Doris Chipps as the other members completed a very competent cast.

Before the business meeting and the play, Robert Tanner gave an informal talk on "Television" based in part on the experiences of his wife and himself in the BBC television studios prior to World War II. Mr. Tanner rapidly traced the history of television in various countries and then outlined the state of TV in Canada at the present moment.

The next meeting of the Guild on the first Wednesday in May, is to be an invitation meeting with each member having the right to bring a guest. The meeting will include rehearsals for two short plays.

Friends Honor Recent Bride With Shower

A delightful miscellaneous shower was held recently at the home of Mrs. D. C. Moore, of Rossmore, in honor of Miss Helen Orser, prior to her marriage to William Rose White, when several friends assembled to wish her much happiness in her new home and to present her with tangible evidences of these good wishes.

Following a social get-together and a series of enjoyable games, Helen was asked to take the seat of honor underneath a canopy of colored balloons and streamers of pink and white. Just before the gifts were opened, which had been wheeled in by Master Douglas Moore, in a gaily decorated baby carriage, the balloons were pricked and showers of confetti fell upon the bride-to-be.

As the gifts were opened, the happy recipient graciously expressed her appreciation to the donors thanking them for their kindness.

Refreshments were served later by Miss Carol Shorey and Miss Catherine Fabbi.

One pair of shoes was purchased for Leslie Wheeler at a cost of $6.50. One of the victims was an elderly man who had no place to live and temporary quarters were secured for him from the YMCA at a cost of $15. He was moved to live with relatives outside the city. In addition to the above local purchases it was provided the following from our local women's work committee and others:

Fifteen yards of material for dresses; children's dresses and coats; men's socks; children's sweaters, socks and mitts; one pair of blankets for a baby.

Bedding was secured from the Red Cross stores in Belleville and distributed to the families. This consisted of five blankets, five quilts, five pairs of sheets and five pairs of pillow slips.

The above assistance was greatly appreciated by the people involved. As practically all had some clothing, the household effects they felt that, with their immediate requirements provided for that they would be able to rehabilitate themselves.

The supplies purchased locally, as detailed above, amounted to $167.77. Against this expenditure a donation of $25 was received from Rev. Dean Garvin of the Salvation Army. This has been turned over to the treasurer.

Old Nursery Rhymes Undergo Drastic Literary Purging

London — (CP) — Those rollicking nursery rhymes that parents for many generations have recited and explained to their young offspring, are undergoing a drastic literary purge.

More than 1,000 of the rhymes known to exist are being closely scrutinized and revised by revised versions where the original gives the slightest suggestion of blood and thunder, cruelty or dishonesty.

The man undertaking the task is 35-year-old Arthur Thompson, secretary of the Human Education Society, with the financial backing of an anonymous Manchester businessman.

It all started when Mr. Thompson's young daughter tossed aside her book of rhymes and sobbed bitterly when she heard of the plight of the three fairy-story mice who lost their tails to a knife-wielding farmer's wife.

Thompson and his assistants have re-edited and revised more than 300 rhymes which among many changes involved restoring the tails of the mice and of the three blind mice. Among other instances subjected to severe re form are the Knave of hearts; Tom the piper's son; and the old woman who lived in a shoe.

The rhyme that frightened Thompson's daughter was also cleansed and re-dressed as follows:

Three kind mice, three kind mice;

See how they run, see how they run;

They all ran after the farmer's wife,

She cut them some cheese with a carving knife;

Did you ever see such a thing in your life,

As three kind mice?

Reformed Rhyme

Out goes dishonesty with a reformed knave of hearts. The worst villain is not a bad fellow, for when:

The king of hearts

Called for the tarts,

And wished there were some more,

The knave of hearts

Brought in the tarts,

And each of them had four.

Away, too, goes poverty in the refurbished version of the old woman who lived in a shoe. But still retaining a talent of austerity, Thompson's rewrite says:

She had so many children

And loved them all too;

She gave them good broth

And pieces of bread,

Then kissed them all soundly

And put them to bed.

There was no need to alter the nursery rhyme ingredients of what little girls are made of, but grandma's recipe for sugar and spice in the new potion for the mixture that produced little boys in her shoe, by her own admission, is snails and puppy dogs' tails. The young men today will be made "strength and line and all that's line," when he calls on the "sugar and spice and all that's nice."

Energetic Club Hears Addresses on Boy Scout Organizations

The regular meeting of the Energetic Club was held on Friday evening with the president in charge.

The scripture was read by Tony Lepore and meditation by Jean Thompson. The devotional period closed with a hymn.

The above attendance was greatly appreciated by the people involved. As practically all had some clothing, the household effects they felt that, with their immediate requirements provided for that they would be able to rehabilitate themselves.

The supplies purchased locally, as detailed above, amounted to $167.77. Against this expenditure a donation of $25 was received from Rev. Dean Garvin of the Salvation Army. This has been turned over to the treasurer.

present, who demonstrated their meeting activities.

A contest conducted by Howard Thompson, was won by Maida Girlie and Kathleen Poste.

Refreshments were served by Maida and Kathleen Poste and their group.

The "Tattler" was read by the editor.

The group in charge was thanked by Lorraine Ingredients of Friendship Circle and Mispeh Benediction brought the meeting to a close.

She Suspects Her Husband Is Unfaithful

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the past year or so I have been suspicious that my husband is interested in another woman. His attitude and actions have made me feel this way.

We both go to business and he works the swing shift and comes in contact with a lot of people on the job. There have been times when he has come home with lipstick on his handkerchief, and I recently found out there is a woman whose husband works nights and who has been inviting my husband in for coffee and cake after midnight. Not long ago I discovered a picture of her in my husband's wallet.

I haven't said anything to my husband about how I feel, but I'm driving me crazy, and I must find out if there is anything to this. I would like to have a talk with the girl, but want your advice before I do. I don't want to hurt her husband, as I love him very much.

N. N.

Dear N. N.:

The first thought of most wives who find themselves in such a situation usually seems to be to confront the suspect in the case. So, to do any such thing is a serious mistake.

Such a move never does anything but complicate the problem, as the husband will find out what his wife has done and is angry at her. On this point, the case remains untouched by the wife's plan. On this point, therefore, I feel it is wiser to keep the whole thing a matter between husband and wife.

Tell Husband

My advice would be that you tell your husband what you have found out, and ask him exactly what the trouble is that he feels he must seek the company of another woman. In view of the picture you found, and the lipstick-stained handkerchief, he can hardly deny that he has been doing so. See if you can get him to be honest about the matter and talk it over frankly with you. Try to avoid approaching him or quarreling with him, as that will only make it more difficult to arrive at an understanding with him.

It may be, of course, that there is some way in which you have failed him which you can remedy, and by handling the matter right he may open up and tell you. On the other hand, you may not be in any way at fault, but be many going be passing through a phase of restlessness and dissatisfaction with the routine of everyday life. If so, he will need a little adjustment in your pattern of living may be indicated.

At any rate, the first step should be to find out from him, if possible, just where the two of you stand, and then to analyze the situation carefully to determine what adjustments are needed.

Self-Consciousness Is Raising Her School Days

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am very self-conscious and I think that is the reason why I've flunked the subject I really like most of all, algebra, this year. My typing teacher asked all the class the type letters and words I misspelled in front of the class, but whenever I am called on I get all upset, and am nervous that I make a mess of it. It's the same way in all my other classes, and many of my teachers tell me that if I'm going to be like that I'll flunk and get left back.

Please help me if you can.

Margie.

Dear Margie:

There is nothing harder to bear than self-consciousness, and I can understand just how much you really suffer when you are asked to stand up in front of a class and recite. Did you ever stop to think that a lot of people have felt the same way, many of them from the time they were as young as you are and right on into maturity? Shyness and self-consciousness are two of the worst afflictions anyone can have, but it really is possible to grow out of them enough so that you feel comfortable with people.

Have you ever thought of speaking to one of your teachers about how you feel? If you haven't, I think it would be a very good thing for you to do, because if the teacher really understands, I'm sure she would try to help you instead of making you worse by talking about flunking.

If you suffer from irregularity due to lack of bulk, try a bowlful of this toast cereal every night! Soon, it may bring back the youthful regularity you thought long lost. ALL-BRAN is the only type readily-digested cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. It's high in protein and iron. Not habit-forming. Food for Thought

The Season Has Opened for Picnics

By MARY MOORE

Twit me if you like—I don't care. My family and friends do —but they get a real deal on picnics, and let me cook and feed them all of the cockeyed food ideas I can dream up over the winter. Confidentially though they indulge me, for they know that I'm chained to a desk and a stove all week, and then when I'm off the leash, do I ever scamper for the wide open spaces.

Good Friday was cold but sunny so every windbreaker and sweater was donned and off we drove with the trunk full of the giant frying pan, charcoal and picnic hamper.

We went to a favorite spot which we claim as our very own and call Twin Falls. It is near the stone ruins of an old mill, and on Good Friday the stream and falls were roaring in a torrential race. Above one of the dams and spanning the whole stream there is an old steel beam, that has a high and low side about six inches wide—a foothold for each foot and that's all. To my horror I saw Pete (170 lbs.) carry Art (190 lbs.) across that beam over that roaring Niagara, then I happened to glance up casually from turning the veal-burgers. My hair is gray. You know why.

We had a wonderful day and not even one wet boot.

Out of consideration for one of Marianne's lent-observing friends we had a varied menu:

Celery hearts, fresh cocoanut (and cocoanut milk!), raw carrots and radishes.

Oranges, bananas and apples. Homemade hot cross buns.

Milk, coffee, sliced chocolate-coated Easter egg.

Our giant frying-pan with the yard-long handle was right for the veal patties. At the last moment we toasted the cut buns on the drier side of the pan—also the thick slabs of cheese for the cheeseburgers. Both kinds of "burgers" were popular but I wished I had a second round of those hard-cooked eggs. They were perfect because they were cooked in salt water. We remembered the salt too.

I took along just one pot for eggs and coffee. Pauline scooped up some water in the pot just below the falls, put the eggs in it, put on the lid and snuggled it down in the fire in a spot where they actually simmered (as those dietician people tell you to do) for 20 minutes. When the eggs were cooked and eaten, that water was dumped out, the quart milk bottle full of tap water I had brought was poured in and 5 tablespoons of pulverized coffee were added (with the shells from Marianne's eggs), the pot on and slowly brought to boiling. Art took great pleasure in "dashing" 1/4 cup water I'd held out, into the pot to settle the grounds. I'd forgotten to make better or hotter coffee. (Could I have been thinking of Art and thirsty?)

Overnight Buns (for burgers)

Soften one package granular yeast in lukewarm (not hot) water, cold and boiling water with one teaspoon sugar, stirring once or twice until it is soft and fills measuring cup. In large bowl mix ½ cup boiling water, scant ½ cup sugar, one tablespoon salt and 2 tablespoons shortening. Cool to lukewarm and beat in 2 beaten eggs and 4 cups sifted bread flour. Beat until smooth. Stir, mix in 4 more cups of sifted flour, cover with cloth and plate and keep cold overnight. In morning cut dough down, and shape into 9- or 3-inch buns, place on greased pan to rise until very light, not touching, and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. This is "refrigerator" dough, and may be kept there and cut for 3 days, if you want fresh hot rolls for dinner 3 nights running.

London Displays Smart Headgear for Spring Wear

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — Come sleet, snow or shine, a new Easter bonnet has the same appeal for women as a decorated Easter egg for a child — or so it seems in Britain.

Among designs now on display, in a fashionable Waiteau bonnet in fine honey-gold Baku straw with flimsy face veil and trimming of mimosa sprays, calculated to give a light touch to a trim black town suit — and still look delightful with flimsy summer dresses.

Natural and burnt straws in rough weaves compete with smoothly sophisticated black, navy and white designs. Most important of the pastel shades are the blues, greens and deep pinks — two colors worn by the Queen during her Canadian tour.

From Aage Thaarup, the Queen's milliner, come "teen and twenty" styles such as a shell shape in coarse, natural straw trimmed by a posy backed by wide velvet ribbon. Marguerites and roses are two of this year's favorite flowers among the larger flowers.

Thaarup's teen-age styles are mostly small and shallow. If brims exist they are brief, even on the

GOOD MANNERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other day in your column you mentioned that "the bride's parents sit in the first pew on the left of the aisle, and the groom's parents sit in the first pew on the right side of the aisle." Why is this? It is confusing to me, because I should think that the seating arrangement would be just the reverse; that the bride's parents, since they give the wedding should sit in the first pew on the right of the aisle. Our daughter is to be married soon, and we want to be absolutely clear on this point. Thank you.

The Father of the Bride".

The groom's mother and father are the guests of honor at the wedding . . . therefore they should be given the place of honor at the right of the bride's mother and father, who are the hosts of the wedding. This seating arrangement abides by the tradition that guests of honor are always seated at the right of the host and/or hostess.

This is also the reason why, at the parents' table at the wedding reception, the bride's mother (the woman guest of honor) is seated at the right of the bride's father (the host of the wedding); and the groom's father (the guest of honor) is seated at the right of the bride's mother (the hostess of the wedding).

All the Men In Wedding Party Should Wear Black Bow Ties with Tuxedos

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in the late Spring. The men in the wedding party are going to wear white dinner jackets and black tuxedo trousers. Am I right in assuming that the best man and ushers and the father of the bride wear maroon bow ties? Also, should the groom wear a maroon bow tie or should he wear a black one?

E. C. G.

A black bow tie is the only correct tie for the men in the wedding party to wear with a tuxedo suit, with either black or white jacket. All the men correctly wear black bow ties . . . the groom, best man, ushers, bride's father and groom's father. The only difference in dress-detail between the groom and the other men in the wedding party is one of boutonnieres . . . the groom wearing a boutonniere of small white flowers from his bride's bouquet.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Shy Bridegroom

Harlan, Ky., April 21 — (AP) — The bridegroom was so nervous he wanted to get married sitting down.

But Magistrate Cam Smith, who performed the ceremony, said he insisted upon the young man to take the matrimonial hurdle standing up.

"I can't do that," the young man was quoted as he fled with his wife.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Baths Have Cosmetic Value

With the housing shortage, many families live in cramped quarters and about the only place many can be strictly by herself to relax and rest is in the bathtub. She should take advantage of this state of privacy. She should rest her weary bones and forget her numerous duties for the time being. It is the mother who is constantly being called upon to find lost articles, to answer the door bell, to perform generally as the balance wheel.

Daily bathing is one of the beauty secrets. It is well understood by stage and movie lovelies, whose livelihood and prestige are dependent, among other things, on making an attractive appearance and keeping within finger touch of their youth.

A high grade bath brush is a good beauty investment.

The skin is an organ of elimination, throwing off a certain amount of moisture every day. It needs to reason that the skin will function more normally if it is kept scrupulously clean. Dead skin scales are ever present and must be removed if one is to be free from perspiration odor.

One of the best beauty buys a woman can make is a good bath brush, so that these dead cells will be completely carried away and the circulation stimulated. Good brushes are not cheap, but they last for a long time. If the bristles are poor and weak, bending when coming in contact with moisture, the brush is practically useless, does not fulfill the purpose for which it was made.

A five-minute soaking in warm water will so soften the flesh that the scales will come away quickly when the brush is used. Before setting into the bath, the face should be washed and a cream applied. The moist, steamy air will help the cream to penetrate the pores, will release any little black points that may be present.

The soap should be bland and should lather quickly. Rub it into the bristles of the brush, then scrub. Go at the job with the same energy and vigor that you go after the kitchen sink. Follow either with an alternating hot and cold shower. Hot wilts you enough, but cold while you count five. Have a brisk rubdown with a coarse towel. A few rub or two, and there is a nice finishing touch, will make you small sweet.

'Bottom-Slot' Cubs Rolling Merrily Along; Join Reds In Loop Second Spot

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GOOD SET-UP!

Baseball fans can sit back and breathe a sigh of relief. They'll be able to see their favorite pastime this summer. This was decided at a highly successful meeting of district representatives here last night from which emerged a probable six-team loop with the possibility of it stretching to a seven-team affair.

Belleville Redmen, Kingston Ponies, Peterborough, Napanee, Picton are certain starters. Trenton Flyers are practically "in", all that is necessary is the station commanding officer's approval. Batawa Shoemen were not represented, but were given until May 1st to enter.

There was plenty of enthusiasm and little discussion on most points. The Kingston and Peterborough teams, which have the longest 'hauls' were exceptionally co-operative with the central squads representatives. The big bugbear of baseball leagues and teams in this district since prices rocketed has been the high cost of transportation. This was pared to the minimum with such teams as Belleville, Napanee and Picton plus the Fly Flyers benefiting the most. It looks like a fine set-up from here.

The league rescinded its regulation of no limit to imports and moved to pare the number to five. Peterborough the only team to favor club affiliation with the OBA will probably be the biggest "importer". Picton, Napanee, will rely mainly on home-brews while Belleville of necessity must secure a catcher. Trenton Flyers will be given special privileges regarding "greetings" etc.

Jack Carson, general manager of the Belleville Redmen and Drury Denyes, "keeper of the privy purse" represented the local team while a strong delegation headed by Cy Whatley carried the Peterboro colors. Joe Ullrich, the old baseball vet, spoke for Napanee while two gentlemen, whose names were not secured represented Picton.

AN OPEN LETTER TO PEEWEE AGE BASEBALL-MINDED KIDS

Hyah fellas!

Remember Willie Fordham?

Remember the fine chap whom you all admired; who taught you several things you never knew before about baseball, and other matters?

Remember the tall handsome colored hurler, who thought you were the best bunch of fellows he had met in a long while, and who promised to come back to you some day?

Well, Willie might do that — and this year, too.

Of course nothing of a definite nature regarding Willie's return to Belleville has been decided as yet, but there is talk of bringing him back, in certain quarters.

As the most of you know, a meeting has been called by Arthur Keegan for Thursday night at the Kiwanis Centre starting at 7.30 and every man-jack of you should be there. For Willie Fordham and his return to Belleville will be one of the main points of discussion and the powers-that-be want all of you to attend.

Willie, in their department's opinion was a splendid type of fellow, but not only taught the elementary and finer points of baseball but he also taught you deportment, and gentlemanly behavior. Willie took more than a baseball interest in you. His influence extended further than that. He took a deep personal interest in each and every one of you, and none knows that better than you.

And the reasons Willie liked you are because you were adaptable; you liked his manner of teaching; you liked his personality and you liked the gentlemanly way he went about his work. He had no trouble with any of you. It just couldn't be that way.

So you'd better be around Thursday evening at the Kiwanis Centre, and you'll hear more about Willie Fordham and the possibilities of his coming back to coach you again this summer.

SOFTBALL CONFAB TONIGHT

Tonight the Belleville Commercial Softball League holds forth at the city hall with much important business on the agenda. Team entries will be accepted and Secretary Cy Barrage informs this department that the Trenton RCAF is interested in an Intermediate AA entry. All team managers are requested to be present.

As was noted yesterday the BCSL is taking special interest in the new Class "D" inaugurated by the OASA at the recent annual convention. This class has been arranged for communities of under 500 population. The league is thinking seriously of taking such class organization under its wing and will welcome any entries at tonight's session, or at any future date.

A thorough discussion of the matter will take place at this evening's confab.

JOB NEEDED!

Back to Willie Fordham again. The excellent work of this popular baseball player and coach among the youth of the city was such that certain parents of these boys are of the opinion the well-liked colored hurler should be brought back again for the summer to coach, train and organize boys of peewee age for organized baseball.

While arrangements are being discussed to finance Fordham for a period of ten weeks from July 1st, it is important that something be done for him along employment lines in the interim starting as from now.

Any employer who has an opening for this likeable chap for that period is asked to contact either Ted Schwab or Bill Hurst, county registrar.

Minner Tosses Three-Hitter In 7-1 Victory Over Pirates; Yankees' Raschi Defeats A's

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Nobody gave the Cubs a tumble in the pre-season picks. One brave soul gave them fifth place. But 23 of the 124 baseball writers stuck them in the cellar, a position they may yet merit.

In the first week of the season the Cubs didn't go down to visit their old friends quarters once. With a 4-2 record they're traipsing along in a second-place tie with Cincinnati—of all people.

Maybe the Cubs and Reds will hit their level when the boys hit their stride. In the meantime they deserve the "much improved" label.

The Brooklyn Dodger surplus, gleefully spilled on the Cubs in the last few years, is doing a big share of the job. Paul Minner, Turk Lown, Russ Ramzzotti, Toby Atwell and the rest.

Minner Winner

Minner threw a three-hitter at Pittsburgh last night for a 7-1 victory while the Cubs racked rookie Ronnie Kline and three successors. One of the hits off Minner was Jack Merson's second homer of the season.

Minner's double and Ramazzotti's single chased Kline in the second. The Cubs added the rest off Forrest Main.

Bobby Thomson found the home-run range for the first time since his dramatic pennant clincher in the 1951 playoffs as the New York Giants walloped the Phillies, 10-4. Don Mueller also homered and added a triple and single to drive in four runs in the attack on loser Howie Fox and three other Phil pitchers.

Jim Hearn, who beats the Phils like Yankee Vic Raschi beats the A's, made his lifetime record against them 12-2.

League-leading Brooklyn scheduled for a twi-night doubleheader with the Boston Braves tonight, as last Sde yesterday. So were the Braves. St. Louis Cards and Cincinnati Reds.

The Cleveland Indians with seven straight victories were not scheduled in the American. They open a series at St. Louis with the giddy Browns tonight. St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit also were not scheduled.

Raschi Beats A's

Raschi racked up the Philadelphia A's for the eighth straight time, running his lifetime record against them to 27-7 with the New York Yankees' 5-1 triumph.

Little Bobby Shantz gave only five hits, including Mickey Mantle's homer, but the boy didn't back him up. The A's left 10 on base and hit into four double plays.

Gil McDougald was the big headache for the A's. They couldn't seem to do anything right when he was up. Gus Zernial's error on a double let the tie-breaking run score in the second and set up another. Gil whiffed at a third strike in the fourth but catcher Joe Astroth let the ball get away and then threw wild. Before the A's recovered, a double by Jackie Jensen and a single by Charlie Silvera added two more runs.

Julio Moreno, fit and ready after a winter in the Cuban league, whipped the Boston Red Sox for the second time, 3-2. Moreno is the only pitcher to beat the Sox this season. Sam Mele's long fly to centre with the bases loaded in the eighth gave Washington its winning run.

Sports Roundup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
(AP Sports Editor Talbot)

New York, April 22 — (AP)— Casual readers of the sports pages tend to regard George Weiss as a modern Croesus who sits astride a gold chest in the Yankee stands and watches his world series baseball pennants as the fancy strikes him.

Actually the general manager of the world champions is a restless, soft-spoken New Englander who insists, when prodded, that the Yankees' success has been bought not by dollars but by hard work and organization.

"One of the biggest fallacies in baseball is that when one of our players wears out we simply go out and buy the best replacement possible," Weiss said.

"Did you know that between 1922 and 1946 we had only two players? We paid San Francisco $25,000 for Joe Dimaggio and about the same time we paid $25,000 for a pitcher, Rugger Ardizoia, who never developed as he hoped.

"The men we've picked up since were principally as a defensive measure. First Johnny Mize from the Giants. The Red Sox wanted him. We were in a fight with the Red Sox for the pennant so we snatched him. We got Johnny Hopp from the Pirates and John Sain from the Braves under similar circumstances.

Not Killer Deals

"But you could hardly call these killer deals. These men have helped us, but they are veterans used only for part-time service.

"During the rest of the period we pulled men up from our own organization. If you tried to analyze the success of the Yanks, you'd have to start with our scouting system, the best. Then you'd have to take out several, developed training given the players in the minors to fit them into the Yankee pattern."

Weiss, a 57-year-old native of New Haven, Conn., who couldn't make his high school team and who never played a minute of professional baseball, is credited with building the sprawling Yankee farm system, rated the best in the sport.

From New Haven sandlots, where he managed, he moved into the Yankee organization in 1932 via the eastern league and Baltimore. He began at Newark where he produced seven pennants in 12 years and kept the Yankees supplied with talent. He became general manager and vice-president of the parent club in 1948.

During his 19 years with the Yankees, the team has won 12 pennants and 11 world series. He is now working on his fourth straight championship.

GREAT MARKET

The Chicago Union stockyards have a daily capacity of 75,000 cattle, 300,000 hogs and 125,000 sheep.

Orioles Trounce Rochester 14-2; Leafs Open Wed.

(By The Associated Press)

Paul Stuffel, promising Baltimore righthander has one drawback — wildness.

Stuffel has fanned more than 1,000 men during his five seasons in the minors—including a term with Toronto Maple Leafs—and also has two no-hitters to his credit but lack of control has kept Stuffel in the International League.

The 24-year-old prospect, property of Philadelphia Phils, turned in his second victory without a defeat last night as the Orioles trounced Rochester Red Wings 14-2 in the circuit's only game.

Stuffel scattered seven hits, fanned three but walked seven. The Orioles blasted three Red Wing pitchers for 12 hits including home runs by Roy (Stormy) Weatherly and Russ Kerns.

A scheduled game between Toronto and Springfield was postponed to permit Toronto to catch a train. The league is idle today.

"Opening day" will be staged in four cities tomorrow with Syracuse at Montreal, Baltimore at Toronto, Springfield as Rochester and Buffalo at Ottawa.

Bubba Church Yet to Pitch

Philadelphia, April 22 —(AP) — Pitcher Bubba Church, who won 15 games for the second-division Philadelphia Phillies last year, hasn't appeared in a game this season.

Manager Eddie Sawyer last night denied that Church was in any kind of "doghouse" and said that the young righthander, ranked number two on the Phillies staff behind Robin Roberts at the beginning of spring training, was not yet in shape.

Church, with a 15-11 record last year, was right behind Roberts in the win column for the Philadelphians. Since during training this season he was relieved in exhibition games after losing big leads. He missed five days of training due to the illness of his mother.

COBL Will Operate This Year, To be Six or Seven-Team Loop

Six teams with the possibility or seven will form the Central Ontario Baseball League this year. This was decided at a meeting of representatives held here last night.

Definite entries are Belleville Redmen, Kingston Ponies, Peterborough Baseball Club, Picton Athletics, Napanee Athletics and Trenton Flyers. Batawa Shoemen were not represented but will be given to May 1st to enter a team.

The 1952 executive as elected last night is president Jack Devine, Belleville, vice presidents, Harry (Jay) Radley, Kingston and secretary-treasurer, Geo. H. Carver, Belleville. The directorate will consist of a representative of each entered team. Five of the six entered decided against league affiliation with the Ontario Baseball Association, Peterborough, the only team to favor it will affiliate as an individual club.

Five Imports

The former COBL ruling that import bars be lowered was changed to five per team with the deadline for imported players as of July 15th, Picton, Napanee representatives stated they would rely on "homegrown" players while Trenton RCAF Flyers were given special dispensation. Belleville stated it would be satisfied with one import, a catcher. Kingston was non-committal.

Peterborough, with OBA playdowns in mind, stated it would possibly carry four or five imports" in order to bring its team near a playing level as it expected opposing teams in playdowns would have.

The league decided to retain the name "Central Ontario Baseball League" to keep former traditions alive. It will abide by the rules, regulations and constitution that have governed it since it broke away from OBA affiliation.

Open May 24th

The league will play a forty-game schedule and will open on approximately May 24th.

General satisfaction with the new set-up was voiced by all representatives present, the compactness of the group with Kingston and Peterborough having the "longest hauls" as far as transportation goes, met with universal favor.

Brockville Memos last year's champions, dropped out of the picture this year with Smiths Falls, another last year's entry not submitting application.

Three northern New York state teams, which formerly expressed willingness to enter, and make the group a two-section circuit were not heard from.

Three teams, Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough will play under the lights. Tentative schedule will be drawn up and ratified at the next meeting of the league executive set for Monday, May 12th.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Government and civic officials topped off a great Manitoba year in winter sports 21 years ago tonight at a banquet honoring the Winnipeg team that won the Allan Cup, the Elmwood Millionaires who won the Memorial Cup, Frank Stack of Winnipeg, international speed-skating champion and R. G. Gourlay's curling rink that won the Dominion championship.

Stratford Gunning for First Allan Cup

Coach Wilson, Right, Congratulates Aitken, Centre, and Flick

The brilliant hat-trick potted by Stratford's flashy right winger, George Aitken, not only gave the Stratford Indians a 6-4 win over Pembroke Lumber Kings, but also the coveted Eastern Canada senior hockey title. Stratford, who swept the best-of-seven series four games to one, now move into the Allan Cup finals against Fort Frances Canadians, Western Canada titlists. The best-of-seven series opens in Fort William. — Central Press Canadian.

Forts, Indians Tangle Tonight In Cup Opener

Fort William, April 23—(CP)—Fort Frances Canadians tangle with Stratford Indians here tonight in the first game of the Allan Cup hockey final after taking a trimming yesterday.

But this time their opponent was a barber.

All players will be sporting brush cuts when they meet for eastern Canada senior hockey champions.

The game tonight will mark the second time the Flying Fords have entered the final. Last year they got as far as seven games with Owen Sound Mercurys.

Stratford is gunning for its first cup.

The Indians gained the finals by downing Pembroke Lumber Kings 6-4 in the best-of-seven eastern Canada series.

Four Straight, Says Pat

"We'd like to take this series in four games" said playing-coach Pat Wilson. "We're in good shape and the morale is high."

Play-for-keep Canadians will believing up to their old motto when tangling with the Indians.

"We're still playing them one at a time, no matter who the opposition," coach Joe Balzan said. "As far as we're concerned, they're just another hockey club."

Early in the season, Canadians, unsponsored, operating on a shoestring after the Allan Cup competition, were slow and ragged. With good polishing and fortified by a few players from last year's western Canada champions, they managed to gain the western final, defeating Edmonton Pats 4-1 in a best-of-seven series before the eastern test.

One outstanding factor is in their favor at least at this time tonight.

Canadians are noted for their home-ice wins, lacking last year when the final was played at Owen Sound.

This year the first two games of the final are at Fort William with the rest to be played at Fort Frances.

Battlin' Blits Set to Regain Memorial Cup for the East

Left to right: Alf Pike, Ben Lawman, Jean Proulx, Ron Murphy

Although the Guelph-Montreal Eastern Canadian hockey finals will never go down in the books as a thrilling series, victory was sweet revenge for the Guelph "Mad Hatters." Montreal Junior Canadiens knocked them out in the eastern finals two years ago before going on to Memorial Cup honors. Guelph by virtue of their four-games-to-two victory over the Habs, now bid for Memorial Cup honors against Regina Pats. With such hot snipers as Ken Laufman, Jean Prentice, Chuck Henderson and Ron Murphy on his roster, Guelph coach Alf Pike figures his Biltmores should walk off with the Memorial Cup in their first appearance in the junior class in team's history. Series will open in Guelph April 25. — Central Press Canadian.

Ottawa Boxers Take Three Bouts Olympic Trials

Toronto, April 22 (CP)—Ottawa boxers won three of the 10 bouts last night in the Ontario Olympic trials sponsored by the Toronto Star Weekly.

Gale Kerwin took a split decision over Gill Grechie of London in the 199-pound class; Clayton Kenny won a unanimous decision over Billy Tremblett of London in the 132-pound class and Pinky Mitchell won a unanimous decision over Bill Dembhuk of Niagara Falls in the 165-pound class.

The winners go to Vancouver for the Canadian Olympic trials. Other results included:

130 pounds—Peter Romano, Hamilton, unanimous decision over Jorma Aldello, Sudbury.

147 pounds — Don Wallace, Barrie, TKO over Vic Iwasiuk, Sudburg; Iwasiuk unable to come out for third round.

156-pounds — Harry Linds, Sudbury, TKO over Eddie Seroe, R.C.A.F. Aylmer, at 2:45 of the second round.

Kentucky Derby Draws 13 Starters

Superstitious Are Crossing Fingers

Louisville, Ky., April 22—(AP)—Thirteen horses were counted today as probable starters for this year's Kentucky Derby.

The historic race, 11 days away, was developing into a wide-open affair.

This uncertainly may result in a starting field of more than the "baker's dozen" when the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" call the boys to the post.

Here they are, and there'll likely be more:

The superstitious eyed that 13th figure with some misgiving. For the derby jinx, in the form of training injuries or illness, was taking its toll.

Just yesterday, Tom Fool, Primate and Jampol, three of the east's candidates, were declared out.

May Mean More

But this, somewhat paradoxically may mean more entries for the $100,000 added classic that'll be run at Churchill Downs Saturday, May 3, for the 78th time.

For when a top-flight horse, like Tom Fool, say, is withdrawn, then his stable's chances are reviewed. And, where before a nominee might have been considered doubtful, it's made a starter.

Trainer John Gaver decided Tom Fool is "too valuable" to risk simpliment for the derby after the winner of the $155,910 at a two-year-old old developed a tendon injury. Jack Whitney was second to Master Fiddle in last Saturday's Wood Memorial. Jack Dreyfus' Blue Man was purchased from Max Kahlenbaum's Jampol.

An injury in a prep event at Keeneland Saturday knocked out also resulted in Alladler of the Hardaverale Stable being withdrawn.

Keeneland's $25,000 — added Blue Grass Stakes Thursday will provide another pre-derby test. Among those expected to go in the stakes, a mile and a furlong race, contrasted to the derby's mile and a quarter, are:

Calumet Farm's Hill Gail, C. V. Whitney's Cold Command, Sam E. Wilson Jr.'s Gushing Oil, Reverie Knoll Farm's Smoke Screen and H. G. Bockman's Happy Go Lucky.

Win Pace Heats

Yonkers, N. Y., April 22—(AP) Symbol Chance and Volo Chief won the all sections of the $25,000 Eastchester pace at Yonkers Raceway last night.

Driven by Paul Vineyard, Symbol Chance defeated Stanley Dancer's Jessalind by a length in 2:07 flat to pay $12.40. In the second section Dancer's Volo Chief took the lead at the start and 2:06.4 seconds later he was in the winner's circle for a $6.50 payoff.

David Leads, Goliath Trails In Early Stages Batting Race

New York, April 22 (AP) —Figures never lie but statistical-minded fans must have wondered as they scanned the American League batting averages yesterday. And who could blame them?

What name do you think headed the list of hitters? George Kell? Ted Williams? Larry Doby? Ferris Fain? No, sir. It was none other than Gerry Coleman of the New York Yankees.

Coleman, who swatted a robust .249 and scored exactly 249 last year, was leading the pack with a torrid .556 mark.

And what name was on the bottom of the list of about 200 hitters? Some wild swinging pitcher? Or some nervous, rookie reserve infielder? Not at all. Last on the list was none other than last year's batting king, Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Coleman, who never has hit .300 in his big league career, had collected 10 hits in 18 times at bat, hitting safely in each of his first five games. Fain, who hit .344 in 1951, was batting exactly .000. The fancy-fielding first baseman had gone to bat 21 times without making a single safety.

Calls It Luck

The same question was put to Coleman and Fain but with a different approach.

"How do you account for your super hitting this spring?" Coleman was asked.

"I've been lucky," the modest Coleman replied. "I'm just hitting them where they ain't. I'm swinging the same way and I'm using the same bat. The balls are just falling in."

The question was put a little more tactfully to Fain.

"How do you account for your failure to get started?" Fain was asked.

"I've been gosh-darned unlucky" the rocky Fain growled. "I'm just hitting them where they are. I'm swinging the same way and I'm using the same bat. The balls are just going right at the fielders.

"I hit two line drives opening day against the Yankees and both were caught. I hit four line drives in Boston and all were right at somebody."

All this took place before the Yankee-Athletics game. How did Coleman and Fain fare during the game, you ask? Just as you might suspect. Coleman failed to get a hit in four times at bat. Fain collected two hits and drew two walks for a perfect day.

Recreations Win Bowling Title

Although they bowed to their city rivals by a 5-2 score, Belleville Recreations clinched the top spot in the Central Ontario Bowling League Saturday night. They lost to the Bowl-O-Dromes rocking up 3666 as against 3618 for the winners.

Meanwhile in Trenton, the Guay's team took the measure of David's Bowl-O-Dromes by a 5-2 count, rolling 3414 to the losers' 3211.

The final game of the schedule will be played Saturday night. After that the teams will go into the loop playoffs.

Lex Lennox was the high scorer with a triple of 869 and single of 374. Other good scorers were, Walter Moore, 796; Cec. Hardwick, 668; "Toots" Holway, 693; Jack Bennett, 706; R. Saylor, 741; Joe Kirkwood, 717 (322); P. Martin, 693; Joe Legault 694; Jim McKenzie 793 (308); E. Whitney, 716; C. Tyler, 812; E. Moore, 671 and H. Ormshaw, 727.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Manager Jim Paul of Edmonton Flyers reports there is a "definite feeling that before long" the Pacific Coast Hockey League will be the professional circuit next in performance to the National Hockey League. He made the statement after returning from talks with officials of Detroit Red Wings, parent club of the Flyers.

Paul said the status of several clubs of the American Hockey League now second to the NHL, is clouded because of dwindling attendance. He added that the more successful AHL cities may wind up being annexed by the NHL, with the others meeting the same fate as the defunct United States League.

Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens last night bade an official goodbye for the summer to his hockey players at a farewell dinner. He said he hoped to see them all next season and that retention of some older players at the outset of the season just closed had eventually proved wise. There was no word of any changes in the makeup of the club, which finished second in the NHL season and lost to Detroit in the Stanley Cup final.

The Canadian lawn tennis championships will be held at the Toronto Tennis Club Aug. 16-23, it was announced yesterday.

Featherweight boxing champion Sandy Saddler was inducted into the United States Army yesterday. The lanky, 22-year-old Negro will serve for two years. If precedent is followed he'll be allowed to retain his title until he leaves the army.

Australia has added 35 men and four women to the original Olympic Games—team of 35, but all may not get to Helsinki, Finland, for the summer festival. The additional will go only if their sporting bodies can raise sufficient funds for the trip—about $1,650 a head.

Ray Famechon, French holder of the European featherweight championship, successfully defended his title last night by stopping Britain's Bonnie Gallagher in the fifth round of a 15 round bout at London. It was Famechon's fourth victory over Gallagher.

Johnny Sewchuk, coach of Brantford Redmen Ontario Hockey Association team and an expert golfer, won't be able to play golf this summer because of a fall at home which injured his spine. The former defencemen for Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League has won a number of Brantford golf titles.

Big John Mize Says This Is Last Season

New York, April 22 AP)—John Mize, terror of major league pitchers nearly two decades, said yesterday that this is his last season for lugging the big willow to the plate.

"I decided to play this one out and then quit," the first baseman of New York Yankees said.

"I'm tired of all this travelling. That bat feels heavier every time I walk up there to hit. I'm tired of reading in the papers every time I see my name mentioned: 'Old man Mize. Old man Mize'."

The 225-pound slugger, traded to the Yankees by New York Giants in August, 1949, added:

"I'll be 40 by the time another season rolls around. I figure I've had it.

"I've bought into a little business down in Deland, Fla.—the liquor package business. I've also bought a 12-acre place with two fishing lakes in my back yard and some nice orange groves...

"Down in Deland (pop. 10,000) they've told me I can manage their club Class D any time I get tired up here. I may take them up on that."

Wings Dominate National League All-Star Team

Montreal, April 22 (CP) — For the second year in a second row, the National Hockey League's all-star team is dominated by members of the Stanley Cup champions Detroit Red Wings.

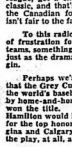
Four Detroit players were chosen for the team, picked by hockey writers and broadcasters in the six cities of the league. The other places went to members of Montreal Canadiens.

The Detroit players, who also made the team last year, are goalie Terry Sawchuk, defenceman Red Kelly, right wing Gordie Howe and left wing Ted Lindsay. The Montrealers are defenceman Doug Harvey and centre Elmer Lach.

The awards were made on the basis of five points for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third with three ballots being sent in from each city.

Chosen on the second team were goalie Jim Henry of Boston, defencemen Bill Quackenbush of Detroit and Jim Thomson of Toronto, centre Milt Schmidt of Boston and wingers Maurice Richard of Montreal and Sid Smith of Toronto.

Waterloo Tigers Start Training



Waterloo, April 22 (CP) —Seventeen players, including four new additions to last season's crew on hand yesterday when Waterloo Tigers of the intercounty Senior baseball League opened spring training.

Among the newcomers was Elsworod Brewer, formerly shortstop with Indianapolis Clowns and three times selected on the Negro American League all-star team. Erwin Flash Fox from Indianapolis did not arrive in time for the afternoon workout.

The league schedule opens May 16.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

This column is a composite — a voice crying in the wilderness, and a man engaged in the futile process of locking the stable door after the horse has departed. But wilderness or not, this voice is still in the land, and the Canadian Rugby Union itself, but we still claim the right to speak our piece on behalf of fans, east and west, because it happens to be out that under the present one-game final, the fans don't get a fair break.

We grant freely that the one-game football final in Toronto is the greatest sports show in Canada. Packing the Varsity Stadium at Toronto with its tarpaulin-covered field is better fitted than any other place in the Dominion to stage such an event. On the drama of a one-game final, and on the setting and equipment, there are no slightest arguments.

But the world's baseball series and the Stanley Cup series are reasonably dramatic events too. Yet they are not settled in one game, in a city which may be a neutral battle-ground, many miles from the home-sites of the contending teams. The folks who made possible, by their seasonal box-office contributions, the very existence of the winning clubs in the American and National baseball leagues, and in the National Hockey league, get a chance to see their beloved heroes in the final classic, and that's more than you can say, as a general rule, of the Canadian football final. And we happen to think that this isn't fair to the fans who have supported the winning teams.

To this radical observer, the one-game set-up is the height of frustration for fandom in the home cities of the winning teams, something akin to throwing the audience out of a theatre just as the dramatic finale of a gripping thriller is about to begin.

Perhaps we're wrong. We're merely offering the opinion that the fans generally could follow, in lesser fashion, the setters of the world's baseball series or Stanley Cup series, and be settled by home-and-home games, one in each of the cities whose teams won the title. We believe the fans in Ottawa, Montreal and Hamilton would like to see the team they made possible playing for the top honors. So would fans in Winnipeg, Edmonton, Regina and Calgary who under present plans, can't get a peek at the play, at all, at least not until television comes in.

While we're in a mood which is not one of sweet reasonableness, we might as well disagree, too, with the hoist to eight imported players per team, as against seven. This, we believe, furnishes double discouragement for Canadian athletes seeking a football career. Eight imports minimizes their chances of making any of the major teams, and the salaries necessary to lure American players here leave little money, comparatively, for Canadian athletes thus obscured in their own game.

We believe the C.R.U., as an economic measure to protect clubs which are spending too much money on imports as it is, should have reduced the number of imports. But, after all, we're merely a voice crying in the wilderness.

Calvert DISTILLERS LIMITED AMHERSTBURG, ONTARIO

"... saved me days, perhaps weeks, of work"

After returning from his first trip to the West, a business man wrote his bank:

"I arrived having no idea where to start in to make the connections I required. The thought occurred to me that perhaps the bank, which has been very helpful to me on numerous occasions, would give me some guidance. Mr. W. proved to be of tremendous help. He introduced me to the people I should have met and saved me days, perhaps weeks, of work."

Every chartered bank works this way. Whether you walk into your neighborhood branch or one a thousand miles away, you will find the same full range of banking service—and the same readiness to help.

THE BANKS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When your nosey friends confecture you are going to a lecture, all the neighborhood with a rumor has been rife. They have heard that you are headed for the bridge game you have dreaded, where the partner you must play with is your wife.

Don't get me wrong, gals. I am no woman-hater. Just the opposite, in fact. But I am convinced believer that husband and wife should not play as partners in bridge. And but me no buts.

At a mixed bridge party, someone wrote me, south opened with a bid of four diamonds and west doubled. When passed, east came forth with a bid of four hearts when holding this hand:

♦ 3
♣ 8 6 4 3.

South promptly doubled and what they did to that four heart bid was something awful. This started east off with one of those lectures so dear to the heart of every jabbertrap.

After learning about the ancestors on that side of the family, east started reciting rules from memory. But east had a very poor memory for rules. As usual, match was misplaced.

Among other things, west was told that a double forced partner to bid. Furthermore, a double that forced partner to bid promises protection in case partner has a weak hand.

All of which are words that may be found somewhere in the rules. But to apply to a double for takeout. And a double of a bid of four is not for takeout. It is a penalty double.

A double of any bid of more than three is for penalty whether or not partner has already bid. If partner has not yet bid, a double is for takeout only if the doubled bid is less than four.

Thus, the west double of four diamonds was to tell partner the opponent bid could be defeated. If asked partner to leave it alone. East should have passed, or passed out.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 22 — (AP)— Are you bored, listless, ill at ease? Then write a letter, advises Louis Calhern.

But don't just write your mother-in-law. Write the president of U. S. Steel or someone similar.

"It's sort of a hobby of mine," the actor explained. "I got started with it when I was touring with plays. I was bored with having nothing to do in the evenings. So I began writing letters.

"I happened to own a few shares of stock in the Standard Oil Company of California, so I wrote the firm a letter, giving a few helpful hints on how to run the oil business. Oddly enough, I got a reply in the same vein as my letter. That got me started."

He's Off

"I wrote another oil company, asking if they had ever heard of a blue-eyed Indian named Glassy Tongue. I told them this Indian came into my favorite speakeasy back in the '20s, said he had oil land in Oklahoma and was going to make a deal with Standard Oil but took such a liking to us in the speakeasy that he let us in on the deal.

"I said I hadn't seen him since.

"The company wrote back that it would keep an eye out for any blue-eyed Indian named Glassy Tongue."

For years Calhern has been penning such letters to corporations and famous personages.

"It's an impertinence on my part," he admitted, "but the results have been very amusing. Often the president will write me."

"At present, I am writing the Democratic and Republican national committees," the actor continued. "I am describing to them the qualities which the nation will demand in a presidential candidate. In each case, the inevitable choice leads to Calhern."

'He' Was a Woman

Hallesburg, Ont., April 22 — (CP) — Early Saturday police arrested a lumberjack for illegal possession of wine. Remanded to jail during the weekend, he was ordered to take a bath.

Red-faced jail officials later reported to police: the lucky lumberjack — who had worked all winter in a bush camp — wasn't a man at all.

"He" was a woman.

Famous Ballet Artist Starred In Noted Film

To open the spring season of the "Curtain at 8:30" series, the Capitol Theatre will show a widely acclaimed picture "The Tales of Hoffmann" beginning Wednesday and showing Thursday as well.

This movie has been glowingly acclaimed by newspapers in England, United States and in the larger cities of Canada. Starring the famous ballet artist Moira Shearer, the picture is based upon Jacques Offenbach's opera "The Tales of Hoffmann". Music in the picture is under the direction of Sir Thomas Beecham with Massine, Helpmann and Ludmilla Tcherina in cast. Moira Shearer was the ideal choice for the dancer who, in varying guises, plays a fateful part in the life of poet Hoffmann. The role calls for dancing and mimic but no speaking.

"The Tales of Hoffmann" will be shown only on the nights of April 23 and 24 for one performance on each of these two nights. Curtain time is scheduled for 8:30 and the price of the seats will be $1.50 per person.

EMPLOYEES ACCEPT OFFER

Hamilton, April 22 — (CP)— More than 700 employees of Canadian Westinghouse Company last night accepted a company offer of a general wage increase of 12 cents an hour.

A strike had been set for midnight at the company's three plants here.

The contract settlement, negotiated by Local 504, United Electrical Workers' Union, also provides an additional two cents for day workers.

The union originally asked for 30½ cents and the company offered five cents. A conciliation board recommended an eight-cent increase.

AT THE CAPITOL — Ballet and music tell three love stories in the beautiful Technicolor fantasy, "Tales of Hoffmann", which opens the Curtain at 8:30 Spring Series for a two-day engagement at the Capitol Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, April 23 and 24. All seats are reserved and now available at the box office.

AT THE BELLE — Cornel Wilde and Betty Hutton enact a moving romance in Cecil B. DeMille's "The Greatest Show on Earth," a Paramount picture in Technicolor, for all ages from grandmother to grandchild, showing at the Belle Theatre today, Wednesday and Thursday, continuous showings daily.

AT THE McCARTHY — Ray Milland stands at attention while Hugh Marlowe greets his girl, Helena Carter. The Warner Bros. Technicolor production opens Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Sensible caution stressed, especially in making promises, in legal issues, also where changes are necessary in business. Can be profitable day.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Sandwiched in between two very benefic days the 22nd and 24th, today can be helpful for finishing tasks, for planning, accomplishing business deals.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mercury's position now does not suggest a big day for bright ideas, promotions' stunts or very keen mental feats, but it could be made profitable for sound investments, business gains.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Be hopeful, cheerful and you will have better results in whatever your occupation or tasks done if you fret or have doubts. Earnest, consistent effort will bring some good returns.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Favorable planet rays indicate advantages to all who exercise smart management whether in business, work or at home. Showy advancement not so likely.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Similar day to Gemini. Don't worry or be impatient if study, analyzing, learning comes harder. Some days call for an extra push. Carry on!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Mixed advice to Taurus. May have to give yourself an extra urge here and there to get things going as you'd wish. There are more opportunities coming.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Important to have emotional control and cheerful disposition. Mars influences here earn against provoking contention. It can be a productive day mostly for similar issues.

November 22 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter more favorably aspected than other planets right now. This aspect can be helpful in work, business, domestic matters.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Expansion, extensive changes in methods or building not wise unless they are immediately understood and urgent. Be patient, you won't fail.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Mild influences generally now but going to benefic ones this evening and tomorrow. Plan, lay out schedule carefully. Much is up to you and how you handle duties.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You may take more initiative than usual if you have a heavy program, but you can do it. Familiar matters, money interests, domestic, occupational work among top sponsored.

YOU BORN TODAY: Studious, usually purposeful, but sometimes inclined to become dissatisfied if things do not materialize quickly or as you wish. Steadiness of effort, patience are requisites. In places heed advice of those in the know. Connect with family, too. Birthdate: Wm. Shakespeare, poet, playwright; Jas. Buchanan, 15th U.S. Pres.; Jos. Turner, Eng. painter.

HOUSE TACKLES

Deforce Minister Claxton announced in the appointment of George S. Currie, Montreal chartered accountant and part-time deputy minister of National Defence, to make a special investigation of thefts, security and accounting procedures at the Petawawa, Ont., camp "and elsewhere."

Thefts brought to light at Petawawa have resulted in the arrest of four civilians and an army captain.

Redistribution of Commons seats will become effective with the next federal election, which must be called by June 1958.

Acceptance of the prime minister's motion by the committee would mean that representation in the Commons would be increased to 265 from 262 seats. Under the proposals this is how the seats would be divided, with the existing representation in brackets:

Newfoundland seven (seven); Prince Edward Island four (four); Nova Scotia 12 (12); New Brunswick 10 (10); Quebec 75 (73); Ontario 85 (83); Manitoba 14 (16); Saskatchewan 17 (20); Alberta 17 (17); British Columbia 22 (18); Yukon-Mackenzie River two (one); Total 265 (262).

Rejects Drew's Suggestion

Mr. Drew said a federal-provincial conference should be called to obtain the province's views before the decennial redistribution is made on the basis of the 1951 census. He made a motion to this effect, but it was ruled out of order after some discussion.

Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) said the question of redistribution was one affecting independent commission and such a commission could be appointed without delay.. He also believed Prime Minister St. Laurent should consider at once whether the province's representation should be cut by more than 10 percent at one time.

Mr. St. Laurent said representation in the Commons was something for parliament alone. Replying to Mr. Drew's proposal for a federal-provincial conference on the matter, he said it was always the same when the opposition put forward such proposals — they "say there should be consultation with the provinces, but they don't say what should be done in the case of the province's says 'no'".

Mr. St. Laurent said suggestions that no province be allowed to lose more than 10 percent of its seats at any time had been considered in future. This was that Saskatchewan for instance, would have a larger representation than Alberta, while having a smaller population.

Mr. Drew tried to amend Mr. St. Laurent's motion to place the matter before a federal-provincial conference. He challenged the propriety of going ahead without such a conference, but the prime minister maintained that Commons representation was something that concerned parliament alone.

Ruled Out of Order

Mr. Drew's motion was ruled out of order by speaker Ross Macdonald.

Robert Fair (SC-Battle River) thought no province should be allowed to lose more than 10 percent of its seats and J. A. Ross (CC-Souris) and R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon) thought the 10 percent provision would be fairer to the western provinces.

Leslie Mutch (L-Winnipeg South) did not think the motion went far enough. The commission should not be bound to consider merely the 15 percent proposal.

Douglas Harkness' (PC-Calgary East) said if the old formula of representation by population was to be deserted, then a new one must be found that would prevent a province with a small population to have a larger representation than one with a large population.

Strategic Hong Kong Finds British Calm But Chinese Jittery

(Editor's note: Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the Canadian forces in Korea, has just completed a visit to Hong Kong. This story is the first of a series on the situation in that far-east British outpost.)

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Hong Kong, April 22 — (CP)—This tiny British colony is a mixture of calm and jittery.

The British side is quiet. It has an open mind about the possibilities but on the whole doesn't think "they will come." "They" of course, are the Chinese reds.

The Chinese population is jittery. Many are refugees from the communist mainland and Hong Kong is their last haven — the end of the line. They fear a communist march onto the colony, a withdrawal of British and other foreign elements, and their own abandonment to their enemies.

Large Population

There are 2,500,000 persons here, about 20,000 of them not Asiatic. The place is bulging at the seams. The pre-war population was 800,000. Public utilities, especially water supply, are inadequate. The big Japanese mill formerly owned by communist China.

The colonial government tends to discount the possibility of an outright red attack but it's alive to the influence of disruptions from within.

Last March 1 a communist riot was resolutely suppressed by the colony's administration disciplined police force. Although the communists are expected to have another go at it, believed to be persuaded that they can hope to gain nothing by such tactics.

The March 1 incident is considered by the government to have reassured the people of its ability to keep order and conversations with pro-red Chinese confirm this view.

The official line is that even if Hong Kong were attacked it could be defended, though it fell to the Japanese in 1941. However, one look at the terrain — specially after the experience of Korea — convinced me that the troops available could not carry out more than a delaying action. The garrison comprises two-thirds of a British division and a reserve battalion recruited in the colony.

Hong Kong's defences stand on water. It is dependent on rain, stored in its reservoir. Enemy action could empty or pollute the reservoir quickly.

The Army Views

Army officers say the communists will not attack "because they know Hong Kong would be rendered useless to them after-ward by bombing."

The fact is that Hong Kong's only significance for the communists is that it is a western outpost in their continent. The value of information would not be not in material or strategic gain but in denying it to the west.

Hong Kong lives on its trade with the mainland. Much of its food comes from communist China. Strangle that trade and you kill the colony.

Cynics here say United States foreign policy concerning communist China is inconsistent and at the expense of Hong Kong.

They say that is allowed to trade with the Chinese, "because the Americans concede their economy demands it." So does Hong Kong's but the colony gets no concession.

Trade with China has dried up to trickle because of the embargo. The colony has a sizable textile industry but its mills cannot import raw cotton from the United States while the American does.

Only a few Japanese trading with the Chinese communists. Before the war Japan was the world market, they are also undercutting Hong Kong manufacturers' grip in the colony by 25 per cent.

Nonetheless, by seeking out new markets in southeast Asia and the Middle East and by tightening her own industry, Hong Kong has maintained her trade at higher than-pre-war levels.

Federal Govt. May Not Support Cheese Prices

Ottawa, April 22 — (CP) Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the commons yesterday he is not in a position to say whether the federal government will support cheese prices.

Questioned by W. G. Blair (PC—Lanark), he said the question of cheese and milk has been "fairly well discussed" but that a federal-provincial conference on dairy products would be about it would over-ride that law."

The Ontario Cheese Board agreed some time ago to buy cheese on the basis of 31 cents a pound for cheddar. The federal government had a 36-cent floor price last year but it has not been renewed.

The Peacock Path

By Edwin Rutt

Startled, Dave let the torch down. Dumont made a half-pivot, right on his toes. Dumont must have been a fine one of the All-American halfback Marney Cravath.

He completed the pivot in an eyeblink, with the speed of us momentarily off guard. He pin-wheeled past Cravath.

I levelled the gun. Cravath moved like lightning, the first movement he'd made since the beginning of that stark, one-sided conversation. He knocked my arm aside.

"Let him go!" he rasped hoarsely.

Dumont went, a dark streak. He never even broke stride at the corner just took them like a hurdler. His feet seemed scarcely to touch the little fats' patch of ground onto which Ames Warburton had given to his death.

There was no hesitation; no fearful yell came back from the cold beyond.

Jack Dumont's nerve held to the end.

I brought my rented car around to the front of the house and waited. Dumont went. Then I carried my bags down, without bothering Marsha.

I admit to feeling pretty sore. But after the shock of what played on Cravath, I had it coming. Of course, I had had a job to do. But the job had not been finished by now my association with the Cravaths—Marsha and his niece Sally—had ended.

I did not expect to see either of them again.

The police investigation had been completed. The coroner's jury had been told. There would be no perjury, neither Dave nor Marsha to avoid, but it would soon pass.

After that terrible ending, Marsha Cravath had asked me to word to me. He had walked, head down and dragging, back to the house.

I'd received him into setting a smile for someone he had trusted and loved, even though his trust and love had been betrayed. But he had assumed the role of betrayer of his brother in that position he could not forgive me, even though we had been dealing with murder.

On my way down with my bags I met Dave Sladen, Jr.

"I forgot to thank you last night for being willing to play ball," I told him. "It couldn't have been very pleasant, knowing that your boss thought you were a murderer. I'd told him you were and he was expecting you to leave that half."

Dave shrugged. "I've had to do unpleasant things all my life. But I'will say I'm glad it's over, Warburton and I can't say much for some other people I know. I never wanted to see any of them murdered. If I helped you get that half-human devil, I'm glad of it."

Sally Cravath, a touch lovelier than the morning itself, stood on guard beside the car. Cravath had the car door open and was fussing with dashboard mechanisms. He backed out and immediately looked sheepishly at me. He leaned something, jingling and glittering. The chain and clasp that held the car keys.

"You're not going just yet," Cravath said.

I put the keys in my pocket. "I thought you were sore."

He shook his head. "I realize you couldn't have done anything else. I wouldn't have schemed against Jack—I'd have tried to face him down, but he'd have admitted nothing."

Sally spoke. "Uncle Marney routed me out at some ungodly hour and told me the whole thing. Uncle Jack set all people."

I said "He was an ambitious man who had the misfortune to be in close association most of his life with a better man. His ego couldn't stand being second-best any longer. A few days ago, Sally, you said something about 'Dumont for Cravath' at Yale. Seldom, I imagine 'Cravath for Dumont.' Dumont was a substitute —in sports, in business . . ."

I stopped. Had one of these two married Eve Wheeler years ago, things might be a better world now different.

They had not, however. And, apparently they had chosen a very late date to fall simultaneously in love with her. Cravath sensed the reason for my halt and interrupted.

"Jim claimed Sladen was desperate enough to make the attempt even if he saw Jack along, and I stalled Jack when he asked me to explain my theory about Ames's death."

Hastily I went on. "We could have gone after it. We had killed Ames, but grappling hooks and divers would have warned Dumont—and proved nothing. We had to trick him."

Cravath explained to Sally. "According to Jim, Dave would take a shotgun with him and go a shot at me while I was going through the motions of measuring. I didn't know what I was going to shoot with. Orth kept me in the dark about bowling ball business."

"How would Sladen know that you'd be out there?" we inquired promptly.

"Orth was to get in conversation with Dave and tell him about Mrs. Ring's part in this. Then, as I understood it, he would let slip that he heard me questioning Ring again and saying that I intended to go out there last night and try to prove some theory of my own about Ames' death. Actually, he told Dave the truth."

"But what did you tell Uncle Jack?"

"Only that I was going to take some measurements to work out this theory of mine and asked him to help me. I never dreamed but what Jack was just going to be along as an extra witness—and in case Sladen got tough."

She shook her head. "I wonder you fell for that about Sladen, Uncle Marney. If Dave had been the murderer and you took Uncle Jack with you, Dave would have seen Uncle Jack and slid shot off."

Cravath shrugged. "I raised that point but Jim insisted that Sladen was desperate enough to make the attempt. I was to shout to Jack to take the bags all the way up to the start of the path. That would have given Sladen the chance."

"I'd have thought that Uncle Jack would have wanted to know what his theory was about."

"He did," Cravath said. "But I put him off. Said I didn't want vague to talk about, on Orth's instructions." His eyes softened. "He was just anxious to get rid of me and knowing that I proposed to go out at once, he still was the important thing to him."

"Look," I said, "it was a pretty clumsy scheme. But I couldn't think of anything better."

He said it composedly. But the fault of the scales must have hurt, he had called me.

Enough, though! I thought so too. But I didn't mention the name of Harrison's findings. For instance, Dumont's association with some expensive friends in New York. The type you don't go after unless you're prepared to put a lot of dough on the line.

Cravath thought that out. But it explained why Dumont could have used 50 grand.

Not that I blamed him. Dolly, drunk and non compos, must have been a heavy millstone year after year.

I might have had to mention it, however, save for Eve Wheeler. She chose that gratifying moment to appear. In a tailored woollen and attractive, and suitable for motoring. She was a wave and started for a walk with that graceful, indolent free-swinging movement she had.

Right there Marston Cravath was subtle, that "childhood sweetheart" me," he said, and went.

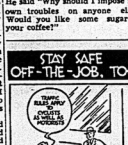
I looked at Sally, the only girl who could ever matter to me. She didn't return the look. Her gorgeous eyes followed her uncle.

"Exit," she said "what used to be the love melodies on Long Island." With that, she fluttered slim fingers after him. "Well, so long, darling."

Which got my goat. And also goaded me to speech.

"So long!" I said. "You've still got your uncle and you'll get a swell trust next. But look at me! I got plenty of nuthin.'"

She did look at me. Her best look, and brother, that is something. "Oh, I'm so glad," she said, and, suddenly, her eyes went all hazy. "I'll share them with you. That's if you're planning to be around anywhere."



Well! Just imagine how this particular private eye felt . . . just about then.

Regina — (CP) — Richard Van Patten, like many country youngsters, had his own horse to ride to school during his childhood days at Kylemore, Sask.

Today Van Patten, a sergeant in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, is still riding after more than 19 years with the force. As riding master at Regina barracks, he will train 32 mounted men for the famous R.C.M.P. musical ride which is being revised for a tour of Canada and the United States this fall.

The ride was a popular feature at fairs and other large gatherings throughout Canada and the United States before the Second World War. There were no more musical rides until the fall of 1951 when a brief performance was given at Regina barracks for Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh.

There's nothing new about musical rides to Sgt. Van Patten. He toured with the riding policemen in 1933, 1934, 1936 and 1939. He has ridden in Toronto, New York, San Francisco, St. Louis, Portland, Ottawa and other places.

The mounties' prestige is high in the U. S. Sgt. Van Patten recalled that when their train stopped over a couple of hours in Spokane, Wash., the entire riding squad was treated to a chicken banquet.

Raised by R. C. M. P.

Most of the horses to be used in the ride were raised on the force's ranch at Fort Walsh in the Cypress hills of southwestern Saskatchewan. Many are descended from steeds that toured previously.

The horse is not used as extensively by the force as in former days, says Supt. J. C. Story, who, as officer commanding Regina depot division, is in charge of the musical ride. But the animal still comes in handy.

Although R. C. M. P. highway patrols are usually undertaken by automobile, Supt. Story says a mounted man is still is tops for handling crowds.

Since the recent announcement that the mounties would revive the ride, requests have poured in from many parts of the United States and Canada.

Performances points already scheduled include San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Los Angeles. And the ride will be a major attraction each night at the Provincial Exhibition in Regina July 28 to Aug 2.

Moscow--Directed Communist Drive Slows French Production

(Editor's note: The communists count on small things to bring them nearer their big goal of world conquest. A worker's complaint in France may seem insignificant in the cold war — but the communists can turn it into a weapon. The strategy is disclosed in this article by William L. Ryan, one of a series he has written after a tour of Europe.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(AP Foreign News Analyst)

Paris — (AP) — "All roads," proclaims Moscow, "lead to communism."

Stalin can wait. While he waits, his red legions, spearheads for the conquests of the future, build carefully against the day of "world victory of communism."

"One should be able to accept every sacrifice; to use, if necessary, every article or stratagem, to adopt illegal methods, to keep silent at some times and conceal the truth; to shrink at all this in order to penetrate the trade unions and perform there the communist task, in spite of all."

So wrote Lenin years ago. This is the guiding doctrine today for the communist parties of western Europe.

No issue is too small. No advantage is too trifling.

Jean Dubois, worker in a French metal plant, grunts with displeasure. His pocket has fallen again from the pile of garments hung on a nail.

A communist cell member nearby notes the proceedings. He is schooled to be alert to any possible issue, no matter how small. There is the germ of a grievance here, and the cell will get busy in the shop.

Suddenly there is a demand for racks and coat hangers. It is stirred up to a pitch of frenzy. There is a one-day strike in protest. Somehow or other, the government becomes the villain. Before the lack of coat hangers. The Leninist doctrine that every strike must be a political gap, is in operation again. Another blow has been struck by the communists.

It is a small blow, but the effects mount up. The blows are continuing, constant. Always the regime is attacked, no matter what the grievance. Jean Dubois, worker, learns to blame his every woe on the badgered government in Paris.

In France, there is a carefully planned drive against the speed-up.

Casually disregarding the known history of the speedup in Russia and in the Soviet countries, the communists are bent upon creating a labor shortage, particularly in defence installations, that they are later to "rise exploited" in the interests of the United States.

The result is a Europe – wide anti-productivity drive. The goal is to neutralize western Europe, to reduce the United States and France and Italy neutral in the cold war of the giants.

Believes U.S. to Join in Seaway Construction

Spokesman for the advocates of U.S. participation in the construction of the St. Lawrence seaway, N. R. Danielian believes that Congress will vote in its favor. Speaking in Toronto, he said the Canadian viewpoint had not been well explained in Washington and that the Canadian decision to build the seaway alone had been taken as a bluff. When the U.S. thoroughly understands Canada is not bluffing, Mr. Danielian believes, it will become a partner in the project. — Central Press Canadian.

23 Infected Cattle To be Shot In New Disease Outbreak

Infection Source Traced State Ottawa Officials

Regina, April 23—(CP)— Another 23 animals will be shot today in Canada's program to eradicate a foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in the Regina area.

That slaughter will add to the total of nearly 1,300 animals destroyed since the announcement Feb. 25 that foot-and-mouth disease had broken out.

The outbreak, first on an infected farm five miles south of Ormiston in southern Saskatchewan 100 miles southwest of Regina by road.

The outbreak of the disease is the first in the area since March 1, 1941, when it was confirmed by federal officials, after being quarantined and under investigation for several months.

Twelve cattle and one hog are infected. Also to be shot and buried in a pit, as were the others, are 10 animals of a neighboring herd which have been in contact with the diseased livestock.

Dr. Kennedy Wells of Ottawa, in charge of the disease eradication program, said yesterday the outbreak is "not as serious as it appears on the surface."

He said the source of the infection had been traced, the area is not thickly populated by livestock and that it is not a mass spread of the disease.

He said the infection was spreading to the area, outside the original foot-and-mouth quarantine area, well inside a 50-mile buffer zone, by the purchase of a small number of beef from a premise infected by the original disease outbreak. The animals were fed uncooked scraps of meat and bones when the quarter was thawed and canned two weeks ago.

British Columbia, which, only last February discontinued its livestock import embargoes, announced yesterday it would not reimpose its bans as the result of the outbreak.

In Winnipeg, Agriculture Minister F. C. Bell said the outbreak will result in banning of shipments on cattle shipments from the west coast through the Lake Head area.

Mr. Bell said the Manitoba cabinet is still considering ending the ban on cattle from Alberta following the original outbreak.

The new outbreak might "make a change in the picture." The Manitoba embargo applies only to raw hides, wool, bones and skin.

'Strange Fate' Links Canada To Netherlands

- - - Juliana

Ottawa, April 23 —(CP) Queen Juliana of The Netherlands said today that a "deep-rooted relationship" has developed out of the "strange fate" which has linked Canada with The Netherlands.

In a CBC international service broadcast beamed to Holland, the Queen recalled how Canadians had helped liberate the Dutch during the Second World War and how they now were helping in the absorption of thousands of immigrants.

"The meeting and the combination of the two peoples carries a further tendency toward freedom, immunity from any form of compulsion, strength to carry one's own responsibility and to live a more independent life," she said.

Publishers Want Law to be Made Plain, Explicit

New York, April 23—(AP)—Asplea that Congress make "plain and explicit by law" the President's powers with respect to seizure of private property was voted today by the board of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Charles F. McCahill, A.N.P.A. president and general manager of the Cleveland News, cited in a prepared address the recent seizure of the steel industry and President Truman's remarks on the possibility of taking over news media.

McCahill welcomed delegates to the 66th annual convention of the A.N.P.A., which met in its first general session today.

At today's session, the A.N.P.A.'s federal laws committee reported that forces at work in the world "are away American freedoms" "as surely and as purposefully" as by Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia.

McCahill in his opening address said the publishers should "give every attention" to the questions in the area implicit in the "rights of the private owners, the rights of the public and the rights of privilege claimed by the federal government."

"In response to a question at his press conference only last Thursday," McCahill continued, "the President of the United States stated that depending upon circumstances at the time the president would determine whether or not it was necessary to take over the newspapers and the radio stations.

"This incident does make plain that it is the responsibility of every American citizen to make sure that the powers of the president in respect of seizure be made plain and explicit by law. This is a responsibility of the Congress and we would be unfaithful as American citizens if we did not make certain that we have in this country a government by law and not by personal wishes or whims."

LOWER TAXATION DEMANDS HEARD IN BUDGET DEBATE

Usual Non-Confidence Motions are Presented

Ottawa, April 23 —(CP) —The Commons, launching the budget debate, listened yesterday to criticism of Finance Minister Abbott's 1952-53 budget and demands for lower taxation.

In brief this is the way the main critics described the budget Finance Minister Abbott presented to the Commons April 8:

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the Canadian people would have only one word—it "stinks."

The usual non-confidence motions were moved by the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties. The Social Crediters were prevented by the rules from moving a similar motion at this time, but Mr. Low said he could find plenty of "regrets" in the budget.

The Progressive Conservative motion complained of the government because it "continued to levy excessive and unjust taxation instead of accepting the obvious tax reductions;" that it was taxing "beyond actual requirements," was "wasteful and extravagant and "stifled" to assure efficient administration in all departments of the public service.

Brigadier Bogert Takes Command 25th Brigade

Somewhere in Korea, April 23 —(CP)—Brig. M. P. Bogert has arrived at the front to take command of the 25th Canadian Brigade, succeeding Brig. John (Rocky) Rockingham, who commanded the force for a year.

Bogert, 43, native of Toronto, is being succeeded by Rockingham as director-general of military training at defence headquarters in Ottawa.

Brig. Bogert already has had a taste of command in the front line in Korea.

He was being introduced by Rockingham when heavy communist shells landed in the headquarters area. Bogert and other officers took cover. The firing ceased.

Rockingham said in a farewell speech to troops that no commander "ever had a more cooperative and competent team behind him than I have had."

Mystery of Little Bronze Bells Believed Solved by Merchant

Owen Sound, Ont. (CP) —Leonard Jackson and Owen Gregory, of Gene Dillon here has one that was Gene Dillon here has one that was found 27 years ago by Earl Gaskell, Oscar Keffer at Hansford, Ont. Miss Mamie Houle has another, picked up by Jackson in a lumber camp region near Port Arthur 38 years ago.

Interest in the bronze bells rose when George Stoffel of Ranier, Minn., said recently he had been looking for years to find the origin of the bell he picked up 27 years ago near Rainy Lake. His bell was dated 1878 and bore the inscription "Stalgieleger" on one side and "Chianteli Fondeur" on the other.

Ferguson here said the Chianteli bell had belonged to those he received from Switzerland. "We used to sell a few dozen years ago," he said. "We haven't much call for them these days."

War Confusing for Van Doos When Ambush Patrol Is Itself Ambushed

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, April 17 (delayed by censor)—CP —War gets to be confusing when ambush patrols are themselves ambushed.

It happened April 4 to the 2nd Battalion Royal 22nd Regiment, but censorship prevented earlier mention of the fact.

The Van Doos have a policy of "keeping the communists aware of who's boss in no man's land."

Consistent with it, Lt.-Col. Gaston Valle of Quebec City was commanding, dispatched a strong ambush patrol under Lieut. Reg. O'Donnell of Quebec.

Its two sections, each with a Bren gun, were commanded by Arthur Roy of Sherbrooke, Que., and J. A. Bourbeau of Sorel, Que. Bren gunners were Pte. Jean Langlois of Shawinigan Falls, Que., and Joseph B. Prince of Victoriaville, Que.

No sooner had O'Donnell's men settled down in an all-round defensive position t'en the patrol was fired on from the north.

Langlois's Bren shattered out an immediate reply and Prince fired five communists advancing onto the position.

Wounded In Shoulder

In the ensuing fight Langlois's No. 2 man, Pte. Rheal Pilon of Port Arthur, was wounded in the shoulder and unable to pass over the ammunition magazines, and a Bren stoppage was encountered.

Prince was just taking over Langlois' gun when the latter, then enemy attacked from the rear.

Already firing on a 180 degree arc, Prince then found his job impossible.

O'Donnell, himself wounded by shrapnel, radioed a message to Valle.

"We have been ambushed by a patrol of 40," he signalled, "and we've been surrounded. Can you send us reinforcements?"

Keen Revenge

Company commanders were relaying requests from their platoon commanders, mostly non-arrived lieutenants keen for a scrap.

But Valle decided against this. "The situation is not clear," he radioed back to O'Donnell. "The only thing for you is to fight it out and try to make your way home."

The young lieutenant pulled his patrol into a tighter perimeter with Prince and his Bren gun guarding the rear.

While others of the platoon shot open a route back into the battalion area, Prince defended. Prince covered the withdrawal, firing from the hip in a kneeling position. He personally accounted for 15 Chinese dead in front.

Valle, still determined to get a prisoner, dispatched another patrol under Sgt. Jean-Paul Mathillier of Dalhousie, Que.

Mathillier's ambushliier spotted one wounded Chinese the patrol saw an enemy search party making a wide detour to the north.

A bit of nimble footwork, without a shot, brought the patrol the wounded man to the Van Doo parby. But the prisoner had been too severely wounded to undergo interrogation itself was fired upon by resistance in the regimental aid post he died before dawn.

Swirling Fire-Cloud Awes Soldiers During A-Bomb Test

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Atom Bomb Site, Nev., April 23 (AP)—Just what the first men have lived, unhurt, standing under the flaming, hollow heart of the cloud that comes upward from an A-bomb.

This happened to soldiers and officers close to the giant explosion yesterday at Yucca Flat. This bomb was more powerful than anything in Japan or Bikini, and it blew over the desert a more powerful fired in the United States.

The fire-cloud followed the fireball, and swelled to miles in diameter, with its huge seething yellow gases swirling in whorls bigger than cities. Then the cloud drifted over the heads of some officers.

"It was right up inside" said one. "It was hollow, but you could not see daylight through the hol . It was lige an umbrella and whirling crossvise like a merry-go-round. The inner dome was ribbed with dark and light colors like the ribs of an umbrella."

The desert under the bomb was moist from rains Saturday and Sunday. The flash of heat lasting but two seconds, turned the area white, with alkali giving the color.

For more than two miles in all directions the bomb started fires in bushes and trees from a height 10 feet high. There was the smell of scorched earth in the ground. One temporary first-aid shack burned to the ground, but the post powerful fired in the United States.

Informality Marks First Day Of Juliana's Visit

Ottawa, April 23—(CP)—Queen Juliana of The Netherlands made a few rounds of welcome-visiting places yesterday almost like any other visitor to Ottawa, Canadians and women who hold Netherlands decorations, among them Gen. H. D. G. Crerar who commanded the First Canadian Army in the Netherlands and Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes who accepted the German surrender there in 1945.

When she paid a visit to the Red Cross blood donor clinic where she donated blood during the Second World War while the Germans held the Netherlands Queen Elizabeth, the Queen's mother, too, she found friends.

Before anyone could perform introductions Mrs. Juliana spotting Mrs. L. R. Gisborne, an old friend, called out:

Mecia Wartime Nurse

Later at the hospital where Princess Margaret, Queen's third daughter, was born, she met her wartime nurse, Gladys Moore-Smith, visited the room she occupied and saw the bassinette which held Princess Anne. There she talked with Dr. John Puddicome who delivered Princess Anne in 1941 and Dr. J. E. Plunkett, her physician.

At the Governor General's residence Rideau Hall, a garden party on a young 12-foot maple tree among trees planted by Queen Elizabeth, the Mother Queen, the late King George VI and President and Mrs. Truman.

The afternoon was occupied by a visit to a public school her children attended during their stay in Canada, Rockcliffe Park Public School. There she heard the story of how Princess Margaret Rose had attended a popular song instead of the planned poem at a parents day visit, and confessed she taught Trixie the song herself.

She had tea at The Netherlands Embassy residence, recorded a speech for national and international broadcast and was guest of honor at a private dinner given by Ambassador and Mrs. Vincent Massey, her host St Rideau Hall where she is staying.

TRUMAN STICKS TO STEEL SEIZURE UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Move to Impeach Him Falls Short in Vote

Washington, April 23 (AP)—President Truman, under heavy Senate fire and facing a move to impeach him, stuck to his guns today in the fight with Congress over his seizure of the United States steel industry.

A powerful Senate drive to force him to cancel the seizure order fell just short of the two-thirds majority vote required yesterday. But his Republican backers led by Senator William Knowland of California redoubled their cries of "dictator" and cast about for other devices.

Senator Taft, running 11 of them Democrats, voted for the move, and only 29 voted against it. Not a Republican voted 'No.) A switch of four votes would have provided the two-thirds majority to suspend Senate rules and permit action on Knowland's proposal to forbid the use of any federal funds in the seizure.

Quick Action Promised

The Senate Banking Committee ordered a new investigation into government handling of the steel dispute, which many of its members have denounced vigorously.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) scheduled steel plants, Commerce Secretary Sawyer and others reported about to take his first official move in hand to help workers in a big part of a disputed pay boost. Employers refused to grant the raise without government permission to increase steel prices first.

Ready to Give Boost

Close associates said Sawyer is about ready to take first steps to get steel workers a 12½ cents an-hour pay increase; retroactive to Jan. 1, plus "fringe" benefits worth about 5.1 cents an hour. These sources said the secretary will not, however, grant the union shop contract which wage stabilization board has ordered government permission to increase steel prices first.

Murray Called In

The Senate Labor Committee Gaston Taft, brother of Senator Taft, 19 are uncommitted and 10 Republican leader Knowland, announced yesterday he will seek the presidential nomination.

Everyone's talking story at a public hearing today.

The House of Representatives, some Republican leaders indicated privately they may be willing to override the move to impeach the president, launched by Representative Rankin (D-Miss), without even consulting them.

Rankin also reported he had picked up support for his resolution calling on the rules committee to investigate Truman's seizure action. The House "together with such recommendations as it deems proper."

OLDEST NEWSWOMAN DIES

Brougham, April 22 — (CP) — Mrs. C. C. Brown, 89, believed to be Canada's oldest woman newspaper publisher, died at her home today. She was village correspondent for the Oshawa Times-Gazette for nearly 23 years and her final story appeared in yesterday's issue of the paper. Brougham is 16 miles northwest of Oshawa in York, Ont. C. C. Thornton, lives in Woodstock.

Eisenhower Wins Whopping Vote In Pennsylvania

New York, April 23—(CP) — Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower won a whopping popularity-poll victory in the Pennsylvania primary yesterday and the result prompted demands from his backers for a declaration of the state's Republican presidential nominating votes.

But backers of Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, Eisenhower's chief opponent for the Republican nomination, called the results "meaningless" so far as the division of convention votes is concerned.

Eisenhower, completing his duties as North Atlantic commander before returning to the United States, took what might be the final count a 700,000-to-280,000 victory over Taft in the popularity race.

Harold Stassen, former Minnesota governor, on the ballot with Eisenhower, trailed in third place. It was a one-sided contest from the start, since Taft kept his name off the ballot and urged his supporters not to write it in. He said the results wouldn't affect the delegate lineup.

Pennsylvania is one of 16 states which hold primaries in election years to give voters a chance to express preference for presidential aspirants. As in most primaries, the vote is not binding on the delegates chosen to go to the national nominating conventions.

New York also held its primary yesterday but there was no accompanying popularity contest at its Pennsylvania.

Beat Down Opposition

However, Eisenhower's supporters beat down most opposition and apparently assured him of at least 60 or 65 of New York's 90 national convention presidential votes.

Most of New York's 94 Democratic convention votes will go to Averell Harriman, mutual security administrator, who announced yesterday he will seek the presidential nomination.

In the Democratic balloting, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee appeared headed for a walking off with popularity contest.

But his victory gave no guarantees of any of the 70 Democratic votes at the party convention in Chicago. The delegates will go to Chicago uninstructed.

Warnings Issued After Poison Found In York Twp. Creek

Three Head of Livestock Killed by Polluted Water

Toronto, April 23 — (CP) — Police said today that a deadly, fast-working poison polluting a tributary of Black Creek in suburban York township killed two cows and a bull and blinded a third cow on the farm of George Bower.

The three animals died after drinking creek water. The fourth was saved by medical treatment.

Authorities asked parents and teachers to warn children to keep away from the creek. They made sure signs warning against swimming in the water or drinking it were up. They also told residents to keep their dogs in the house so they will not drink the water.

Dr. Allan Ripley, the veterinarian who saved the one cow, said he is convinced the poison is chemical because bacteria would not possibly" act so fast.

The poison is definitely in the water and in a very heavy concentration," he said. "This creates an emergency in the area. One mouthful taken by a small child would probably cause fatal instantly."

Health department officials said they do not know what kind of poison the water contains nor how it got there.

Black Creek flows through a heavily populated section of York township before reaching the Humber River which empties in-to Lake Ontario on Toronto's outskirts.

Must Keep Licence Plates In Good Condition, Say Police

How about those licence plates on the family jalopy?

Are they rusted and battered up so the numbers are unreadable, or obscured and hidden by auto accessories?

If so it is contrary of the Highway Traffic Act and the police or drivers may be prosecuted under provisions of the Act.

City Police Chief Walter Probert, and Inspector A. McDougall of the Ontario Provincial Police today pointed to the fact that a great many licence plates on autos have become so rusted and battered that the numbers cannot be read while in other instances, especially on transports, they are mud-covered making it impossible to read them.

It was also pointed out that many commercial vehicles lack the names of the owner on the side as is required by the Act. Penalties are provided for both infractions.

In the case of rusted licence plates the remedy is to purchase new plates from the department of highways. This may be done at similar cost. But there is no excuse for muddy plates as they can be kept clean with but little effort.

Inspector McDougall noted that readable licence plates are every important on the highway. Every day officers of the force check for vehicles that can be identified only by their plates. If they are dirty or rusted this cannot be done.

Also clean licence plates may be the means of identifying a car or truck which has been involved in a serious accident.

Author of Play Attends Rehearsal

Robertson Davies, well known Canadian playwright and author, visited Belleville last night to attend a rehearsal of his play, "The Voice of the People" which the Theatre Guild has been invited to present in the Dominion Drama Festival at Saint John, N. B. on May 2nd. In the course of a first gruelling run through, Mr. Davies explained his conception of the various characters who made a number of suggestions regarding additional "business" and vocal inflection intended to point up their portrayal. Then he took a seat in the middle of the hall to witness a complete and uninterrupted performance of the hilarious satire on small-town Canadian life. Interviewed afterwards, Mr. Davies, who was accompanied by his attractive wife, formerly of the Old Vic Company of London, expressed his satisfaction with both the setting and direction of the play and said that he was looking forward to seeing it at Saint John. In the able hands of director Sid Rose, and with such a capable cast, he had no doubt that the Festival presentation would be a credit both to Belleville and himself.

Tractor Turns Over In Ditch Man is Pinned for Two Hours

Rawdon (Special)—Pinned under a tractor for two hours, when his old machine turned over on him in a water filled ditch, Mr. Ernest Gifford, 42, of R.R. 4, Stirling, is in Belleville General Hospital with a crushed chest and head cuts.

The accident occurred Tuesday morning as Mr. Gifford was driving a tractor to a field on the farm of Mr. Roy Sager, for whom he worked.

As he was passing over a small bridge on a concession road the tractor in some manner overturned into the ditch and he was pinned in mud and water for two hours until he was found by Clarence Chard.

There has been considerable traffic over the road and at each vehicle passed Mr. Gifford called but was unable to attract attention. Chard happened to spot the tractor as he passed the lonely back road Gifford's hair blowing in the wind. He secured assistance and freed the injured man.

Rossmore Couple Happily Married For 60 Years

Residents of Rossmore practically all their lives, Mr. and Mrs. William Belnap, are today observing the 60th anniversary of their marriage. An unfortunate accident suffered by Mrs. Belnap last June marred today's anniversary but the couple received numerous well wishes and congratulations from friends and relatives.

Last June Mrs. Belnap had the misfortune to fall in her home and break a hip. She never fully regained strength and is a patient in the Belcrest Nursing Home.

The couple who today are celebrating their diamond anniversary are well known in Rossmore. Mrs. Ida Belnap, the former Martha Hebert, was born in the village, daughter of the late Frank Hebert, one time owner of a grocery store. Mr. Belnap, better known as "Bill," was born at Point Anne but has lived at Rossmore since he was a lad. Both recall Rossmore when it was in its heyday with a population of over 1,000. They have lived for the past 30 years in the same house. Mr. Belnap is a former commercial fisherman and is a well known figure about the Belleville waterfront. He is 82, while Mrs. Belnap is 77.

They have two surviving children, a daughter, Mrs. Bernard Boulter, who lives in the next house at Rossmore, and "Pete" Belnap of Belleville. There are 12 grandchildren and as many great grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

CALVERT. In loving memory of a beloved husband and father, John Burton Calvert, who passed away April 23rd, 1947.

The day comes with regret, and the hour with sorrow,
One that I will never forget.
I miss you more than words may tell,
And with him I spent my happiest days.

Though his smile has gone forever, and his hand I cannot touch
Still I have sacred memories, of the love he gave so much.
His memory is dear,
which I'll never part.
God has him in His keeping, I have all in my heart.
—Lovingly remembered by wife and family. A23

District Visited By Heavy Rain, Electric Storm

Belleville and district had its first thunder and lightning storm of the year Tuesday evening, the electrical storm being accompanied by the downpour of rain which filled storm sewers to capacity and turned low lying areas into pools of water.

Officials at the local pump house stated that in slightly more than an hour and a half one-and-three-inches of rain fell.

During the height of the downpour gutters were running full and in downtown areas where storm sewers were inadequate the water rose to the height of running boards or parked autos.

TORONTO STOCKS

Western oils and a few secondary golds and lower - priced base metals attracted speculative interest but most turnovers were moderate. Volume for the first three hours was 1,977,000 shares.

Refining oils, textiles and miscellaneous issues led industrials lower with losses ranging to about a point. Papers, manufacturing companies, constructions and agriculturals also weakened but banks and liquors were firm.

Western oil losses ranged to about 50 cents. Calvan Consolidated, Canada Southern, Canadian Atlantic, Consolidated Cordasun, New British Dominions and Royalite were among the heaviest losers.

Base metal leaders dipped as Consolidated Smelters, East Sullivan, Golden Manitou, Labrador, Noranda, Normetal, Quemont and Steep Rock traded lower.

ONLY 65 P. C. OF QUOTA

Trenton, Belleville Firemen Are Given High Praise By Tri-Services Publication

Trenton (Special) —An article in a recent issue of the tri-services publication 'Comrades in Arms' praised the fire departments of Trenton and Belleville. The piece read: "One good turn deserves another" is the motto of the station fire section at RCAF Trenton, Ont., and the nearby fire departments of the town of Trenton and the city of Belleville.

One evening during the past winter great tongues of flame lighted up the night sky when a fire in one of the hangars at No. 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, got beyond control of the service fire section. An urgent call for help was quickly answered by the Trenton and Belleville municipal fire departments and although the hangar was totally destroyed, the fire was prevented from spreading by the quick but efficient response of the two municipal fire departments.

Several months later, the Trenton R. C. A. F. section was able to cope with positive help from neighborly help when it answered a call for assistance from the city of Belleville during a $400,000 fire raging in the heart of the business district. This fire was brought under control only after six hours of hazardous firefighting. The service fire truck and crew stayed until Fire Chief Gerald Vance felt that they were no longer required. The fire departments of the town of Trenton and other surrounding municipalities also did fine work in assisting to overcome the conflagration.

This is a fine example of civilian-service co-operation and in the words of Belleville's fire chief, Gerald Vance, "the citizens of Belleville are very appreciative of the help received from the Trenton R. C. A. F. fire section in this emergency. This section further cemented the friendly relations which have existed for many years between R. C. A. F. station Trenton and the city of Belleville."

Hospital Election

Trenton — (Special)— A new board of officers will be elected at the annual meeting of the Trenton Hospital Board in the town hall at 8.00 p.m. tonight. The hospital's financial statement will be presented and discussed.

Sewer Under Scrutiny

Trenton—(Special)—A medical expert from the department of health in Toronto will be here tomorrow for a meeting with council at 11.00 a.m. regarding the sewer at the foot of Dufferin Street. A petition signed by 00 people claiming their property would be affected by a sewer emptying into the grove went to the Board of Health, Murray township council and the Trenton council.

Woodshed Burns

Trenton—(Special)— A woodshed full of wood owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. Whitney's farm R.R. 4 yesterday. Another shed and a garage were scorched, and the house was threatened. Trenton fire department aided by a volunteer bucket brigade saved the farmhouse and the two other buildings. The blazing pile of wood in which the fire started was shoved into a hole dug by a bulldozer, eliminating further trouble.

ONLY BEARDED AIRMAN

Trenton (Special) — Former navy control officer, F. A. "Red" Skelton, now with the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton, is the only member of the flying service permitted to wear a full beard. He first grew whiskers in the navy and when he went to shave after remustering to the air force found that he was subject to a recurrent skin condition. Medical authorities decreed that "Red" would have to disappear behind the shrubbery for an indefinite period. His home is at Carrying Place.

Russians Given New Version Of Dunkerque

Moscow, April 23 — (AP) — Russian readers got the Soviet dope today on the British evacuation from Dunkerque.

Neither heroism nor skill got the British troops off the sands of France — Hitler let them get away on purpose, says the Russian navy newspaper Red Fleet. The Fuehrer issued orders to let the British troops escape, the paper contends, in hopes this would speed up an Anglo-American agreement on a joint war against the Soviet Union.

Red Fleet said further:

"The myth of the 'heroic feat' of the British fleet at Dunkerque was needed by the English falsifiers of history in order to conceal from their own people and the world public."

STREET BLOCKED

Danville, Va., April 23 — (AP) —Engine Company No. 4 roaring to a fire yesterday found the street blocked by a five-room bungalow. Before the firemen could continue a dozen professional movers had to pull the house they were relocating over to the curb. Later the alarm sounded again, another fire in the same place. Sweating movers again lugged the house to the curb.

The animal weighed 95 pounds and was 72 inches in length. — Central Press Canadian.

Groups Protests Sewer Location; Asking Change

Trenton — (Special) — A petition signed by more than 60 residents whose property would be affected by a sewer from a septic tank emptying into the bay at the grove has been received by the town treasurer, O. W. Larry. The petitioners object to their shores being polluted and suggest that the town loan the south Dufferin Estates seeking sewer service individual septic tanks until they can be properly hooked up to the proposed sewage disposal plant

The petition has been forwarded to the minister of health for Ontario.

At the regular meeting, council looked at the results of samples taken from the water in the vicinity of the septic tank in north Trenton and the sewer emptying into the bay of the grove. No one at the meeting was able to interpret the bacteriologist's findings but the medical health officer said that some of the readings indicated the samples carried bacteria.

Council at the special meeting yesterday made no comment on the petition and laid it aside with future business.

The sewer that has cost the ratepayers nearly $40,000 so far has been abandoned until council decides whether the sewage will be emptied into the bay or diverted to one of the overloaded septic tanks downtown.

Trenton Sets Tax Rate At 65 Mills

Trenton (Special) — The tax rate in Trenton for 1952 will be 65 mills and the Trenton Memorial Hospital will be getting the $5,000 grant it asked for. In addition council at a special meeting Monday night decided to issue debentures if necessary to pay for a new road grader and roller for the public works department.

At the regular council meeting Tuesday night a resolution was passed setting the tax rate at 62 mills. There was no provision made for surfacing more streets and the tentative plan now is to spend about $36,000 on roads on both sides of the river. The three mills raised will allow council with aid from the works department's budget to make the necessary improvements.

Councillors Claude Graham and Norman Banfield went on record opposing the hike in the tax rate. Mr. Graham favored the 62 mill rate and raising needed capital for road improvements by selling debentures. Mayor Couch said he could not see that it was good business to pay interest enough on debentures to pay for paving a mile of road. Finance Chairman Charles Allore backed Mayor Couch's plan. Councillors Reg. Armstrong, Ross Burtt and Cliff Gunter sided with the mayor and the chairman of finance.

Mayor Couch emphasized that spending this term was on a pay-as-you-go basis and when the money was gone the work stopped.

Danford's small son had been driving the tractor to the field with the father walking behind. After arriving at the field Danford stepped onto the tractor to help his son stop it when his toe caught in a wire and he was thrown beneath the wheels.

"BY ANY OTHER NAME"

In March, 1949, the Quebec government issued an order-in-council prohibiting the manufacture, sale or placing on sale of margarine or oleomargarine.

Recently, however, a product labelled "Monarch Spread" appeared on the shelves of food stores, at 39 cents a pound. The package says this new product is "for baking, frying, sandwiches, toast, etc."

The new product is colored yellow, like butter. After sampling it, the Quebec housewives said to each other: "It looks like margarine, it tastes like margarine, it is margarine."

Are the storekeepers defying the law in selling margarine? Not at all. It seems they have found a way of banning the sale of margarine fails to define the product. Hence, as long as margarine is not designated by its name, its sale is legal.

But the makers and sellers of "Monarch Spread" are aware that they may be living on borrowed time. The provincial statue under which the order-in-council was issued gives the government broad powers about designating the butter substitutes to which the act shall apply and the possibility of regulating the manufacture, sale, offering for sale and possession of such butter substitutes in the province."

A provincial election is said to be coming in Quebec in a few months. It is known that the National Union government of Quebec is especially friendly to the rural areas, because it is heavily supported by them. Bearing in mind the attitude of the farm vote to butter substitutes, and knowing that an election is approaching, some of the larger chain food stores are reported to have ceased selling butter substitutes in the stores which they operate in small towns.

GLASS MANUFACTURERS UNHAPPY

Not long ago, the Canadian textile industry and its employees were complaining that, because of loopholes in the tariff regulations, they were being subjected to unfair competition from behind the Iron Curtain.

Specifically, they charged that Czechoslovakia was dumping textiles on the Canadian market, while many Canadian mills were either closed or operating on a part-time basis. It will also be recalled that a British manufacturer who came to Canada to look into the dumping charge of gloves on the Canadian market discovered that the market here was flooded with gloves from Czechoslovakia.

There are terms in the Canadian tariff regulations which forbid dumping. But it seems that, before they become operative, it must be proven that the goods in question are being offered on the Canadian market at less than what is considered a fair price in the country of their origin. In the case of Czechoslovakia, it is impossible to determine what is a proper selling price for any given article in that country. Canadian customs inspectors are not even allowed into the country. Besides, there are slave labor and other complicating factors.

Since this trouble over textiles, there have been more complaints. This time, the complaints come from the glass manufacturers. The glass industry in Canada say that the tariff on glass was recently reduced from 10 to 7½ per cent, and that Czechoslovakia is apparently being treated, under the tariff regulations, as "a most favored country."

One of those to condemn that action of the Canadian authorities in reducing tariffs on glass was Lewis J. B. Forbes, vice-president of both Pilkington Bros. (Canada) Limited, and Pilkington Glass Limited, Ottawa. He move is a bit like what we are doing in the United States," said Mr. Forbes. "When I was in the United States recently, I found that they stopped this Czech and Polish glass almost altogether," and so now they are concentrating on Canada."

It may be worth pointing out that the action of the United States in "stopping this Czech and Polish glass almost altogether," was just about what might have been expected. Since long ago, and regardless of what party is in power, the Americans have protected their manufacturers from foreign competition. Some people say that this policy has been an important factor in making the United States the industrial giant that it is and in giving the American working man the world's highest standard of living.

Perhaps those who make and amend the tariff regulations of this country know what should be done better than the rest of us, but it is apparent that the glass manufacturers, like the textile firms, think otherwise.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE UPWARD TREND

More than anything else we need an abiding faith, confident that there will always be an upward trend after all the ups and ennobling. With all its troubles and anxieties, I know that the world is a better place than it was in my youth. For one thing greater consideration is being shown for the welfare of the humblest human being.

The great Thomas A. Edison's last public message was in these words: "My message to you is: Be courageous! I have lived a long time, I have seen history repeat itself again and again. I have seen many depressions in business. Always America has come out stronger and more prosperous. Be as brave as your fathers before you. Have faith! Go forward."

The trend of Edison's life was

J.S. Duncan, Massey Harris Chief, Tells How Russia Climbed On Top

(By LEWIS MILLIGAN)

How has it come about that within a few years after the close of the Second World War the world is divided into two great camps and the nations are living in dread of a third world war? The anomaly of this situation is that the two armed camps are composed of two groups of the very nations that were allied in the winning of the Second World War. Thus the dictated enemy nations look in diabolical perplexity. How then did we get into this mess? If we could find the answer to that question we might discover they way of getting out of it. The answer is written in the history of the past six years, and Mr. James S. Duncan, president of the Massey Harris Company reviewed that history in a recent address to the Farm Implement Institute in Chicago.

Mr. Duncan is not a politician, but when I have heard him speak on the radio I have wondered if he is a man of his wide personal experience and grasp of national and international affairs. He reminded with a Churchillian gift of sizing up a situation. But he has had a front place in Canadian statesmanship. As an example of his clear thinking and courageous action he was sent world situation and what led up to it, I am reproducing a portion of his address to his American audience:

"Let us examine some of the factors which are threatening world peace," Mr. Duncan said. "In my opinion, Great Britain and North America carry a great burden of the responsibility for having allowed a situation to develop which threatens not only the peace of the world, but our very existence as independent nations. We did not do it so through malice, as we all know, but through credulity; through childlike faith in the word of what others thought as we thought and through love of peace at any price.

"On the day of our victory in Europe, when the German war machine had been destroyed, we controlled the greatest armed force ever assembled under one flag, and in any other part of the world since history began. Our superiority over Russia on land, in the air, on the seas and in our factories was unmatched. We were in a position not only to stipulate the conditions of peace, but to see that the terms agreed upon were respected. But what did we do about it? We rushed into demobilization. We had no thought but to get our troops home and to get back to "business as usual." We literally flung ourselves back into civilian life. The British armed forces, which in the summer of 1945 numbered just under 5 million, were reduced to 1,500,000 men within 18 months. The British, following the same pattern, reduced their fighting forces from just over 5 million in 1945 to 1,400,000 in 1947.

"As if this was not enough," continued Mr. Duncan, "we sold much of our military equipment over the bargain counter, or we destroyed it by fire. Our training camps and frequently tore them down; we dismantled our airfields and sold the buildings. We did all these things in the belief, no doubt at all that the war we had just won at such a heavy cost was the war which was to end war. Thenceforward we were going to live happily ever after in the world of sweet reasonableness, where force and conquest would play no part, where 'my neighbor's ox' would be coveted by no person. Joseph Stalin would be numbered amused smile. He was not disarming. The incredible had happened. He had played the decisive role in defeating the enemy, had literally conquered the field, had presented Stalin with a free hunting licence. Here was a man sharing victory, the Kremlin, and not ourselves, was calling the tune, was in a position to dictate terms, once to conference trying to play ball.

That is a factual summary of recent history with which we are all familiar. But the point which so many people are apt to forget in criticizing the way in which we handled the costly rearmament program of the western democracies. There was a time, a brief year in Korea and no need for the Atlantic Pact and the Soviet government had been up to the childlike faith we placed in its professed peaceful intentions at the close of the war.

Measures Taken To Bolster Dam At Duncairn

Swift Current, Sask., April 23—(CP)— Measures continue today to bolster Duncairn dam, 20 miles upstream from Swift Current.

A large crack in the reinforced spillway has been completed. Reinforcing steel was being welded to widen and strengthen it. Water trapped between the extra dam and the spillway is being pumped out to remove all pressure.

Engineers say a type of "drilling mud" used in oil well drilling operations, will be used in flood control operations at the dam. When the clay-like substance is poured into the reservoir it will form an impervious clay covering light to stop seepage. Ten tons of the material have been ordered and some is at the dam.

The concrete spillway threatened to give way and send a wall of water down the Frederick Creek valley into this city of 7,500.

"I feel a lot better about the situation today than I felt Monday," said R. J. Thompson last night. He is director of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration, builders of the dam.

He said a temporary spillway at the dam has been built and that a construction crew is working around the clock to complete the way.

The P. F. R. A. has moved more than 50,000 cubic yards of dirt in the last few days. Some has been hauled from the reservoir and the rest was for the buffer dam.

The Duncairn reservoir last night had a freeboard of 4 1-2 feet from the top of the water level to the top of the dam.

The feeling is general here that the worst is over at the dam and that it will be only a short while before evacuated families in the settlement will be allowed to return to their homes.

SISYPHUS

According to Greek mythology, a man in Hades named Sisyphus is spending eternity in a most unpleasant way. With all his might, he pushes a huge round stone up a steep hill, straining every step. Just as he thinks he reaches the top and his heart-rending task is nearly done, Sisyphus' feet slip, the stone rolls down, and he must begin all over again.

The final effort is one which Sisyphus can never successfully make. There are many people like him. They start out with good intentions, work hard for a while, and never quite finish the job.

You can tell their moves in the new coat of paint looks nice in front, but the sides are not done yet—and never will be. The fence in the kitchen corner out of the street runs half way around the yard.

You can recognize them at work. They're just about ready to be promoted, but the special piece of work to show what they can do isn't finished yet. It wasn't last year, either.

They're always ready to sign up for community projects, and they come to the first meetings; but before the job is done, someone else has to take their place.

The Greeks regarded Sisyphus as a very unhappy man, and the Sisyphuses of today are apt to be almost as unhappy. Don't be a Sisyphus!

REFINED DIET, LEG CRAMPS AND GROWING PAINS

"Deficiency of vitamin D may be the most important dietetic deficiency in the world today." So wrote Prof. E. V. McCollum, one of the discoverers of vitamin A, which was formerly confused with vitamin D.

Milk contains nearly 15 grains of calcium in the quart. Egg yolk, cheese, skim milk, buttermilk, cream, leafy vegetables, greens, beans, peas, peanuts and nuts are the richest sources of calcium.

"The ordinary mixed diet of Americans and Europeans, at least among dwellers in cities and towns, is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element." So wrote Prof. Henry C. Sherman, author of the famous book,

Chemistry of Food and Nutrition

I quote from two top authorities just to show that you have to sit up pretty late at night to prove me dreaming.

The diet of most Americans is "grossly refined" and not nutritionally inadequate (apart from caloric values) by (1) their own whims or habits and (2) because of their childish faith in the specious assurances of irresponsible food vendors.

One common manifestation of calcium and D deficiency is the complaint known as "growing pains" in children. Almost all youthful cramps in legs or feet, sometimes in the stomach, which are usually in the night and to mature or elderly adults.

Muscle tissue is not to imply that a dose or two of calcium with or without vitamin D will dispel growing pains or nocturnal cramps.

The corrective treatment for either or both begins with calcium diet supplemented with an optimal daily ration of calcium and vitamin D.

Vitamin D steadily loses strength in contact with calcium, so the ideal way to take the two is in the form of a capule—not capsule. A capule is a capsule of calcium within another of D—so the two do not mix until the gelatin coatings are covers dissolve in stomach.

For further information send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Adult Training and Growing Pains. If you would like also information about the part played by calcium and D deficiency in many common ailments inclose 25 cents for booklet The Calcium Shortage.

It is not that they're all out of step but Johnny, but I do think that many physicians are too dumb or too set to recognize tetany or osteoporosis or rheumatsic as nutritional deficiency disease until the patient is down and out.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

NO BRACE

Daughter 8, round-shouldered, with protruding belly. What should I do to correct this? Will exercises help or will she have to wear a brace? (Mrs. T. L.)

Answer—Only special exercises will help a great deal if the child receives help from either physician or physical therapist under the physician's employ teaches — the exercises are comparable with practising piano or violin lessons. If your physician considers additional treatment necessary he may consult an orthopedic surgeon. But it would be a grave mistake to use any kind of brace to support without medical supervision.

NITROGEN

What part does nitrogen play in the chemistry of the body? (T.F.)

Answer—Foods containing such as lean meat, egg, milk, cheese, fowl, fish, beans, peas, lentils, nuts, are nitrogen compounds. The protein (nitrogenous material) in these foods is essential for growth, building repair. Four fifths of the air we breathe is nitrogen and in the gaseous form it is not-utilised by man.

Nitrogen, what of the Monoxide?

I work in a garage and I wonder what elements I might get from cagbon monoxide. Only thing I have noticed is headaches . . . (S.E.M.).

Answer—Don't think about it that way. Save if you have any complaints at all say nothing about them, except to your doctor.

Besides the pills that purify the breath, all body odors at their source; besides the tooth pastes and chewing gums, besides the bottles which claim that cleanse a room of the stench of cigars or cooking, cabbage, there will be "dog foods that you can feed a sweaty hound to render him sweet and neutral. And the latest bulletin from the chlorophyll front says cigarettes have been invented which kills its own odor.

This is all very well, so long as chlorophyll remains in the realm of personal choice. But the deeper inference of the scientific discoveries of this sort is that there is much a man's sweat is far too big for him. Let us suppose that a majority were to arise in this country who did not like smells. Here at their disposal lies the means of destroying every scene of the most gratifying aromas, from the Bay of Naples between the 5th minority. Laws could be included in the present public health statutes calling for the injection of chlorophyll into Oxford Dictionary—even into garlic, onions, turnips, cabbages, kippered herrings, asparagus, and an unpredictable list of odor-producers which are dear to the noses and palates of the majority.

While few of us would like to have our sense of smell tampered with, we are inhibited. Freedom to smell ranking with freedom of speech, what we might call the fifth freedom, none the less there is no doubt whatever that the great majority of us have very definite ideas on what is good to smell and what is not. Indeed, a scientific discovery like chlorophyll places in the hands of that majority a dangerous power.

Dance Recital by Pupils Of Barbara Diment Enjoyed

Gayly decked costumes and tiny dancing feet entertained a capacity crowd at the seventh annual dance recital by the pupils of Barbara Diment in the collegiate auditorium last night.

The show, probably one of the most colorful performances to hit Belleville in some time, got under way at 7.30 yesterday evening. At the piano was the children's teacher, Barbara Diment, assisted by Grace Calvert.

The complete show was made up of 72 features beginning with the younger children first and working up to the senior girls. Some exceptional showmanship and training was illustrated in the Chopinana (ballet). As well as training the young performers, production and direction of the night's performance were also in the hands of Miss Diment. It was obvious to even the most untrained eye, that a great deal of time and work had gone into the show, Miss Diment said that work on the recital began slightly over two month's ago. Even the tiniest children showed true showmanship.

Concert Assoc. Holds Annual Campaign Drive

Belleville Community Concert Association held their annual campaign drive on Monday in the new auditorium of Christ Church parish hall.

The dinner attended by about 80 enthusiastic workers and in the absence of the president, Miss Leona Riggs, Mrs. William Finkle, the first vice-president was in the chair.

Special guest from headquarters in New York was Mrs. Benita Shields who spoke to the assembly on the aims and objects of the association. She also gave the members some very interesting thumb-nail sketches of the newer artists appearing with Community Concert.

Mrs. H. R. Gibson, campaign manager, gave a very interesting report and it is expected by mid-week the S.R.O. sign will be hanging from the auditorium and that once again we may look forward to another year, bringing the finest in music and song to our city.

James Ward New President Of St. Andrew's Men's Club

Speaking at the final meeting of the season of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Men's Club on Tuesday evening, J. J. Trainer gave an enlightening address on South Africa. Mr. Trainer, who spent some fourteen years in South Africa at the branch office of Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company, was well qualified to give a first hand exposition of the current history evolving from that part of the world.

Mr. Trainer cleverly outlined the development of South Africa from its early European immigration of three centuries ago, coupled with the background of the natives, through its present position in world affairs. In his enlargement of his subject, Mr. Trainer went into details of industrial and political development of the country, and ably gave his audience the points of view of the natives, divided into their various tribes, and that of the Europeans who have developed gold and diamond mining industries in South Africa.

Problem Real Is Claim

From the speaker's point of view, the present political difficulties are not to be taken lightly, nor will a satisfactory settlement of those difficulties be easily attained. The problem is real, with powerful factors lending weight to both sides of the question. Mr. Trainer paid a strong tribute to the late General Smuts, in closing, by stating that in his opinion, if General Smuts were still living to offer his qualities of leadership to the settlement of the difficulties, in all probability those difficulties would now have been satisfactorily settled.

Introduction of the speaker was made by Jim Brydon and thanks on behalf of the club were expressed to Mr. Trainer by J. W. McKay.

Ladies Thanked

Dinner was arranged and served by a group of the Women's Guild under the personal direction of Mrs. F. Gelsthorpe. Theladies added to the meeting a spring-like atmosphere by suitable table decorations of cut spring flowers. Thanks to the ladies for their preparations were very suitably expressed on behalf of the club by G. Vernon Weir.

One of the highlights of the evening was a surprise visit by Rev. W. J. Walker, former minister of St. Andrew's, who was called upon by chairman Don Sterling to say a few words to the club. Mr. Walker's brief message as well received by members of the club.

At the close of the program, president, Don Sterling, called for the report of the nominating committee for the executive for the 1952-53 season. This report was read by Wilf Richardson. Following nomination, the following executive was declared for the new term; president, Jim Ward; vice-president, Rod Cameron; secretary treasurer, Allan Smith; chairman of program, Stan Price; chairman of membership and attendance, Adam Stalker; and past president, Don Sterling.

Before handing over the reins of office to the new president, past-president Sterling availed himself of the opportunity to thank individually each member of the executive for the immediate past season for the co-operation afforded him during his term of office, and then thanked the club at large for the support given to him and his executive. He then expressed his good wishes to the new president and turned over the chair to Jim Ward in that capacity.

New President Heard

President Ward addressed the club briefly, thanking the members for the honor bestowed on him and expressing his pleasure with the choice of supporting executives endorsed by the club.

Ken Hill moved a vote of thanks on behalf of the club, seconded by Wilf Richardson to the retiring president and executive for their efforts in rounding out a full program for the past year.

With adjournment of the meeting, another season of club meetings came to an end. The 1953-53 meetings will begin in the fall of this year.

This attractive young "miss" is another of the talented Canadian Legion Boys' Choir which offers its Variety Show here on Friday night. But don't be fooled by that winning smile seen above. You'll probably see the same face hovered over a baseball plate or swinging a bat tomorrow.

Kiwanis Education Subject of Talks At Luncheon

Kiwanians were given a more intimate knowledge of the working of their club at the luncheon on Tuesday, when the committee on "Kiwanis Education" under the chairmanship of Past Lieutenant-Governor, Cliff Savage, was in charge of the meeting.

Past president Everett Fairman dealt with the matter of conventions showing that it was a clearing house for all ideas of all Kiwanis clubs. The speaker stated that the Kiwanian has seen the working of Kiwanis until he has attended a convention either district or international. Mr. Fairman stated that wonderful people are met at these conventions and a broader viewpoint in welfare work is secured. He mentioned that the district convention will be held at Quebec City this coming Thanksgiving weekend.

Past Lieutenant Governor Bruce Lattimer showed to the members where the $25 in dues paid by each member goes to during the year. The speaker stated that out of the amount assessed, only $11.45 is at the disposal of the directors of the club, the remainder being used for district, international and the magazine dues. Past president Taylor Franklin covered the matter of membership in the club showing there were four classes, active, reserve, privileged and honorary and how each member attained a certain classification. He also explained what was necessary before a candidate could become a member of the club. Past president Mark Vanner dealt with the value of the Kiwanis magazine to each member of every club. The thanks of the club were ably expressed by Arthur Smith.

The president, Harold Carruthers, requested a large attendance at the dance being sponhored by the Kiwanis Auxiliary, the money raised being used to purchase the new electric stove for the Centre. A number of other announcements applicable to the club were made by Gordon Murray and the president. Phil Huddleston presided at the piano.

WEDDINGS

BADGLEY—HAGGERTY

Easter lilies, daffodils, ferns and spring flowers formed a pretty background on Saturday, April 12th at 2.30 p.m. in West Huntingdon Presbyterian Church when Margaret Elizabeth Haggerty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Haggerty, of West Huntingdon, became the bride of Irvin Howard Badgley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Badgley, of Corbyville, Ont. The ceremony, by Rev. V. Walker of Stirling, officiated.

Miss Bessie Fleming, of Ivanhoe, provided the wedding music and the soloist Mrs. Barton Haggerty, sang before the ceremony, "O Promise Me," and "Oh, Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely bridal gown of nylon tulle and lace over white slipper satin, featuring a molded bodice of lace over satin, and full skirt with matching lace insets. Her finger-tip veil of nylon tulle was held by a Juliet cap of matching lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Miss Joan McCurdy, of Foxboro, was maid of honor, gowned in nylon net over taffeta frills, while the four bridesmaids, Miss Norma Lockhart, of Corbyville, Miss Patricia Hart, of Peterborough, were blue lace over blue taffeta, and Miss Shirley Badgley, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Eleanor Varty, of Toronto, nylon net over blue taffeta. All wore dresses made on similar lines, and carried shower bouquets of daffodils and sidarcum fern.

The two little flower girls, Misses Judy Fay, of Stirling, and Betty Badgley, of Corbyville, sister of the bridegroom, were frocked in blue taffeta trimmed scalloped bodices and hems. They carried nosegays of pastel tinted sweetpeas.

Mr. Ronald Badgley, of Corbyville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Allan Wallace, of Stirling, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Reginald Badgley, of Corbyville, brother of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception was held for one hundred guests in the church parlors, where the tables were beautifully appointed with cut flowers. The bride's mother received wearing blue crepe dress with pink trim, white accessories and pink rose corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in blue faille with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to New York and Washington, D.C., the bride chose a navy crepe dress with red accessories, grey kidskin jacket and red rose corsage. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Badgley will reside in Foxboro.

Out-of-town guests were present from Port Credit, Toronto, Montreal, Havelock, Bath and Belleville.

CHOSEN LIBERAL CANDIDATE

Whitby, April 23—(CP)—John L. Rae, maternal nephew of W. L. MacKenzie King, last night was chosen Liberal candidate in the federal by-election in Ontario riding May 26.

Walter Thomson, who resigned from the seat after he became provincial leader of the Liberal party, told the Liberals won half the battle in the last provincial election by becoming the official opposition and almost eliminating the C.C.F. party in Ontario.

Mrs. S. Sweetman Addresses W.C.T.U.

The March meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was addressed by Mrs. S. Sweetman who recalled early associations in the Temperance cause and followed with a thought-provoking address on "The Hills of the New Testament."

The president welcomed all and said: "It is with thanksgiving and encouragement we note increasing concern over Canada's tremendous drink bill. People are becoming aware of the danger and menace of alcohol. Publicity is being given in the press and magazines to temperance.

An intercollegiate school of alcohol studies is to be held in the University of Toronto, in August. There is much public interest in "Alcohol Anonymous." For the first time they are arranging a series of public meetings to let their work be better known. The Health League in Canada is stressing the relationship of alcohol and health.

At the April meeting, Mrs. Spence man conducted the devotional with the thought that the accuracy of the Holy Spirit is for all life with more interest in love than toil.

Mrs. Peterick gave a message from "Alcohol and Accidents," comparing the laws in the two states, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Life Memberships Conferred

As the treasurer closed her report, Mrs. A. M. Foster was made a life member of the provincial organization; also Mrs. Farnsworth was honored by receiving one from the society. The county convention is to be held in Trenton, in May.

"The Clip Sheet" was presented in the form of a dialogue by Mrs. Sieers and Miss Myrtle Barnum on the "Alcoholic," as follows: What is the meaning of the word "alcoholic"? Is it just any man who drinks liquor?

Oh no! There are many people who never drink to excess, but the alcoholic is a man who is really not able to control his drinking. It is completely impossible for him to stop himself, even though he knows he is harming himself, physically, mentally and socially.

Why does one man become an alcoholic and another not? Science has not yet discovered the reason. Some doctors think that the body chemistry is not normal. Alcoholism is now recognized as a serious health problem.

Surely only a few drinkers become alcoholics? Magazine articles frequently state that five percent of drinkers are numb to alcoholism after 10 or 15 years habitual drinking in moderation. But the late Dr. Mayo, of the famous Rochester clinic, said that their observation would indicate a much higher percentage. There are in Canada more victims of alcoholism than of tuberculosis and cancer.

What Is Being Done

What is being done to help the alcoholic? A truly wonderful thing is Alcoholics Anonymous, an informal fellowship of men and women who have had personal experience of alcoholism. Their purpose is to get sober and help each other and to help other alcoholics stop drinking and become normal and useful people again.

Their program for recovery is based on the admission that they are powerless over alcohol and must have help of a power greater than themselves to strengthen them. About three out of four of those seeking help have recovered. If a person really wants to get rid of drink habit, he or she might well contact the nearest fellowship.

Can the reformed alcoholic take a drink again? No. Total abstinence is the necessary condition of the cure of alcoholism whether the cure has been through drugs or through the A.A. program.

Is the Ontario government doing anything for the alcoholic since so much revenue comes from the sale of alcoholic beverages? Ontario has the Alcoholism Research Foundation to find out more about the problem, effectively giving hope to the individual, the church and the world through Jesus Christ, in his three masterful addresses.

The Rev. Harold Giffin, minister of the Church, paid high tribute to the guest speaker and all those responsible for the success of the Revival Mission.

Dr. E. Crossley Hunter Thrills Audiences

Last week at the Foxboro United Church, Dr. E. Crossley Hunter of Toronto, forcefully preached to capacity crowds for three nights. The real success of the revival can only be determined with time. The three sermon topics used by the eloquent speaker were: "Jesus Christ, the Individual's Need"; "Jesus Christ, the Church's Need"; and "Jesus Christ, the World's Need".

Excellent musical assistance was given by Mrs. William Rombough, Foxboro), Bridge Street United Church choir, Belleville; the Salvation Army Band, Belleville; and St. Paul's United Church Choir, Stirling, under the direction of Mrs. Earle Baker. Organists at the new Hammond organ were Mr. Alec Gordon of Belleville, and Mr. Ken Peacock, of Foxboro.

Throughout the special services, Mr. Sullivan Grey, Belleville, was the musical supervisor. Song services were ably conducted by Loretta McDougall, of Belleville, and Mr. Ernest Tummon of Foxboro.

Dr. Hunter quickly reached the hearts of all,

Trouble at Home has This Teen-Ager Mistaken and Frightened

Not all sad letters that reach my desk from distressed human beings, most tragic of all, to my mind, are from children who are victimized by family situations and helpless to do anything about it.

Here is one from a teen-ager who is not only lonely and unhappy because her parents deny her the normal pleasures of her age, but who also carries a load of anxiety because she knows something about her mother that her father does not know.

"I'm a very unhappy girl who has just turned 16," she writes. "I have a pretty mother who goes out with other men even though my father is still living. She tells me about them like a big sister who has found her first beau. I love her very much, but at times I am very depressed by this.

"My mother is always saying she's sick and she goes to the doctor, but goes like doctor cures in two hours when I was home with her and I overheard him telling her she was perfectly all right. Only last night she told my father a lot of lies, and said the only way she feels better is when she goes out. That leaves me home minding the baby.

"Another thing is that my mother thinks I'm too young to go out with boys, and I have no friends because my mother tells them all sorry and not to bother me. After school I must rush home to my housework and to look after the two younger children. I believe my mother does not want me to grow up for fear people will tell her she's old.

"I wish I could go to see someone grown-up about all this, but it is out of the question, because my father agrees with my mother about my going out, and if they ever found out I went to someone else he would beat me or she would. I have to find a way out of this, so please try to help me. —An Advice

Food for Thought

By Mary Moore

Special-Purpose Menu

Mid-Week Dinner for Guests:

Mrs. N. wants Stuffed Ham Baked in Milk — here's part of her letter: " . . . I am wondering if you have a recipe for Sliced Ham with stuffing which is baked in milk . . . as a youngster I remember my mother serving this on special occasions, but unfortunately she has lost the recipe and I am sure there must be more to it than this for it was so very tasty . . .

I went to thank Mrs. N. for reminding me of this. After reading the letter I hunted through my files, but could not locate it until I thought of my school notebook. And sure enough there it was, hand-printed, as I had taken it down from the teacher, decades ago.

Stuffed Ham Slice Baked in Milk

Sweet Potatoes Broccoli with Drawn Butter Pear Sauce Cabbage and Parsley Slaw Orange Bavarian Coffee

Directions,

For stuffing buy ½-inch thick slice of cooked ham. For this slice you will need ¾ cup stuffing. Here is enough for 2 slices—1 cup, well-packed day-old bread crumbs, ¼ cup finely chopped apple, ¼teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon boiling water. Combine all ingredients, adding chopped raisins. Mix well, spread half of this on each slice, roll up, and tie with string. Spread in baking dish, sprinkle top of each roll with salt, pepper and brown sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon mustard, pour 1¼ cups milk around, cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1¼ hours.

Glazed Sweet Potatoes

Wash 6 medium-sized sweet potatoes and bake. Cook in boiling salted water until nearly tender. Drain, cut in lengthwise halves and place in buttered baking dish. Make a syrup of ½ cup white or brown sugar and ¼ cup water, boiled 3 minutes. Add 1 tablespoon butter. Drizzle this over all of the potatoes, and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until brown, basting them twice.

Drawn Butter Sauce

Melt 4 tablespoons butter, stir in 3 tablespoons flour, then 1½ cups hot water until thick. Add ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper and 1 or 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Good on broccoli, Brussels sprouts or baked or boiled fish.

Orange Bavarian

Grated rind and juice of ½ lemon, ½ cup orange juice, ¼ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon gelatine, 1 tablespoon cold water. Mix lemon rind and juice, orange juice, sugar and egg yolks. Stir over boiling water until thick. Add gelatine which has been soaked in cold water. Remove from heat and fold into stiffly beaten whites. Stand in pan of hot water and beat until thick enough to begin to hold shape. Turn into mould lined lined with lady fingers or strips of sponge or plain cake with sponges — then they can't be seen. Decorate with orange skins). In individual orange baskets (scraped out halves of orange skins).

Fashion Flashes

WHAT DO YOU LIKE by way of a suit? What ever it is, you'll find it. Slim suits, slim skirts with full jackets, enormous skirts with spencers — there they are!

A nice suit has a boxy jacket of wheat-colored wool, with a black velvet collar, black cuff banding and button closing band of black wool to match the pencil-slim back wool skirt.

ELEGANCE personified, that's the keynote of the smart new silk coats. Black silk, with a heavy fly, is used for a handsome greatcoat that closes with eight carved jet buttons and has wing sleeves.

INCREASED EMPHASIS is on knitted apparel, with knits appearing in evening clothes, as well as dressy daytime wear, and the usual casual or general wear things. Dresses in gossamer, lacy knits—dresses cut from shroud —are appearing at the smartest events, and, of course, our wonderful machine-loom copies will soon be available for all of us, letting each figure ready for the shapely, knitted fashions is going to be important.

BRIDES ARE ASKING for the convertible, ankle-length dress, if they do not choose to wear the traditional gown. A beauty is a bare-shoulder, ankle-length dress, accordian-pleated, in nylon net over net and taffeta. Jacket, of fine lace over net, is ball-button fastened, and has a low, rounded neckline to show the pleated, ballet top.

BRIEF BUT BEAUTIFUL coats are appearing on the Spring scene. Deep beige fleece is used for a cardigan shortie, with pockets placed in the wide, hip-hugging band.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Even in Leap Year Boys Don't Want Girls to Start the Gift-Giving.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a boy friend whom I've known very well for over a year. We've not engaged, don't even go steady together, he has never given me a present, but now I would like to give him a nice present for his birthday, which will be soon. My mother says this isn't proper, because he's never given me a present, but I think it would be all right. Who is right about this? —Doris M.

I'm sure you really know that your mother is right, Doris, or you, now? Since you've known this boy for over a year, this means he didn't make any present-bew to you at Christmastime or on your birthday or any other occasion that might call for a bit-of-a-gift — and since he didn't you'd be making a mistake to give him a present first. Send him a birthday card or note, or perhaps some amusing item from the five-and-dime, something that might have to do with a favorite sport or interest of his.

Ladies, Don't Over-dress When You Go to An Afternoon Wedding!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to a wedding soon, and would like your advice as to what to wear. The wedding is to take place at 4 o'clock, and the reception is at six-thirty. The mother of the bride and the mother of the groom are going to wear floor-length gowns. Would it be correct for me to wear a strapless, princess-style dress, ballerina-length, that has a Spencer jacket? What kind of hat, shoes, gloves and purse should I wear with this dress? The dress has self-fabric flowers at the neckline. Would these be correct, or should I wear real flowers? Ruth.

I should think that, if you wear this type of dress to a five o'clock wedding, you will be definitely over-dressed. In the first place, a five o'clock wedding is a daytime wedding . . . a wedding guest should dress appropriately for the hour of the ceremony, not for the hour of the reception . . . and the dress you have in mind to wear is, I should say, more a dinner dress or an informal evening dress.

I judge that you are to be merely a guest at the wedding? If so, then the fact that the mothers are to wear floor-length gowns has nothing to do with the type of costume you are to wear. You, a woman guest at an afternoon wedding, should wear your "best" daytime costume — one you would wear to church on Sunday, say . . . street length afternoon dress, with a coat or jacket of appropriate weight for the season, or a three-piece suit with dress, piece, or fur or cloth jacket, according to the weather. This season, many guests at an afternoon wedding wear white hats and white gloves, per pet flower hats and white or light-colored gloves.

Only the Woman Guest of Honor is Given Corsage.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a member of the committee in our organization planning to give a banquet soon. There will be a speaker's table, at which there will be several women and several men. The banquet is being given in honor of a woman from a distant state, and she will be "the speaker of the evening." We would like to know if we should provide a corsage for every woman at the speaker's table? (L. T. L.

This is not customary, generally only the woman guest of honor, the speaker, is presented with a corsage.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

By HELEN JAMIESON
Eyebrows and Lashes

Some beauty fads and whimsies offer only a temporary excitement. The oldsters tell about the henna mania, when practically every other woman wanted to be a redhead. Those who gavet hemselves home treatments became carrot-tops, or were dismayed to find themselves capped with a magneta mop. In the course of time the sister chucked the silly business. Not so long ago the platinum rage took hold of the feminine imagination. Because the treatments practically ruined the hair, causing it to break at the slightest a comb, that fad died out.

But tweezed eyebrows are something that, again. The pastime has been going on for 34 years, having got its start at the end of World War I. Even at that time women applied unguents to their brows in the hope of making the growth heavier. A silly idea, we realize now. But tweezing went to extremes. Now the pendulum swings back, not to pirate like eyebrows, but to pleasing, natural lines. If you are weeding yours down to a line of silky fuzzers that march in single file, you are not keeping up with the beauty trend. Give the poor little shafts a chance to live their own lives. Why not? They-haven't done anything to you to deserve annihilation.

Movie and stage stars have the professional attention of make-up artists who do the remodeling cleverly, form pleasing, becoming designs, taking into consideration the shape of the eyes, and the contour of the other features. But the little novice, sitting before her mirror, lacks technique. And too often she makes a sorry mess of the job. The borders of the eyebrows should be neat and clear-cut. You get that effect by removing any little shafts that have strayed from the fold. Weeding should be done on both borders. Done along the under side, the eyebrows are lifted to an unnatural extent; one carries a look of perpetual surprise.

When using the eyebrow brush, touch the bristles with brilliantine to give the growth a gloss. It is necessary to make the brows darker, a brown pencil will produce a softer, more natural effect than a black one, which usually is too great contrast to the skin, especially if it is fair and delicate.

To keep the lashes in healthy condition, bathe the eyes twice a day, first with warm water, then with cold.

EASILY MULTIPLIED

It has been estimated by rabbit breeders that one pair of rabbits theoretically could produce 281,000 offspring in a year.

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

The six-thirty from Liverpool St. was always crowded. Business girls dashed along at the last moment and threw themselves into it just as it was starting. Men from the city sat in the first-class carriages reading their evening papers; glad that their day was over. Women, up in town for a round of the shops, stowed their parcels on the racks and were happily contented to be returning to the country.

Patience Mond caught it on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. She went up in the morning on the nine o'clock, scurried into the tube to Oxford Circus, and emerged to cross the street and take the third turning on the left, then to disappear into the first house on the right, where the lift took her to the top floor.

Here she entered the Stanton Academy of Dressmaking where, with several other girls, she picked up, she stitched and learned and duly digested all that Madame Girard, and the teachers under her, had to teach her regarding the intricate business of dressmaking.

Patience was never quite sure whether she wanted to become a dressmaker. It didn't strike her as a very thrilling profession. But her Aunt Helen and her aunt Alice, after much discussion, and a visit to London to inspect the academy, had chosen it for her.

And Patience, amazed to find them agreeing that she should embark on any career at all, and that, than that of a nursery-governess, had jumped gratefully at their suggestion that she should go to the academy and go three days a week to London.

She leaned back now in her corner and opened the magazine she'd bought at the book stall. It was her favorite weekly and she was looking forward to going on with the serial. As the train pulled out of the station she settled down to enjoy herself. And then found that she couldn't. The printed words conveyed nothing to her.

She knew the reason. She wasn't giving them her undivided attention. She wasn't reading them with her eyes, but her mind was telling her that she was there sitting opposite her, his eyes upon her. She had only to look up and he'd smile and say: "Good evening."

She looked up.

"Hello," he said.

"Hello," she said.

Hitherto, though, it had been good evening. Once she'd dropped her magazine and he'd picked it up and handed it to her. He'd tried then to draw her into conversation. But she'd encouraged him. True, she wanted to. He had such a charming way with him. But no nice girl allowed herself to be picked by a young man in a train. Or anywhere else for that matter. On this point her aunts were always most insistent.

"Enjoying your magazine?"

Her head disappeared behind it.

Paul Taylor sighed. He wondered why he bothered with her. For the past month he'd been travelling in her carriage. And it took a bit of doing. The darned train was always so crowded. It meant getting to the station on time and watching for her to come along. He looked at her bent head in the funny old-fashioned round felt hat that was just like a school-girl's. What was there about her that so intrigued him? The very fact that she was so different from other girls, he supposed. Not a spot of make-up. Just a dusting of powder on her small upturned nose. Hair devoid of a perm though it'curled nicely on its own, as he saw when occasionally she took her hat off. But nothing smart about it. No upward sweep or clustering curls.

Patience turned a page. No, she wasn't going to look up at him again. Yes, she knew he was standing at her. Funny how she could feel his eyes upon her when her head was bent over her reading. She hoped the hot tell-tale color wasn't creeping up her cheeks. It was such a ridiculous habit she'd got into of blushing. How the girls at the academy laughed at her! And some of them congratulated her on how she'd see many girls blushing these days.' Listen, Patience, what sort of a home do you come from that you don't seem to know any of the answers?"

She came from a very nice home although a very strict one. She'd a shrewd suspicion it was almost unique. She wondered sometimes if there could be anywhere in the whole of England two women quite so old-fashioned as the two maiden aunts to whom she was devoted and who'd brought her up since childhood. Not that she minded. She'd an idea that she was possibly a little old-fashioned herself. She supposed it was a matter of upbringing. She wondered if a day would come when she'd see a change. When she'd be more like the other girls she met at the dressmaking academy. Learn to use make-up. To wear smart clothes. To go out with boy friends. She sighed involuntarily. It seemed so unlikely. Her aunts disapproved of make-up, they liked her to be nicely and quietly dressed, they always told her. And as for boy friends! . . . Plenty of time for them a little later on. One day someone would come, and then she'd be properly introduced. After all, he was still very young, twenty! What was that? Why, to them still she was very much of a baby!

At Broxbourne four people got out. Patience shifted in her seat. There was more room now. She laid aside her magazine.

"That's better," said. "It's not much fun, is it, when it's quite so crowded?"

"No," said Patience.

Paul wished the carriage would empty all together. Then, hang it all, he'd insist on her talking to him. But there was a parson in the opposite corner and a fussy old lady along the seat from him. He'd no wish to get the snub direct in public. Ernest Mill came next.

"Comic name for a place, isn't it?" he said as the train started again.

"Yes," said Patience.

Paul sighed. Dumb, he thought sadly, and not even beautiful. He'd give it up. It was altogether too much like hard work. There was a snappy little blonde that caught them train every night. Far better look to her to help him while away the time on the journey.

The train ambled on. She'd be getting out at the next station. He'd still got three more to go. So had the snappy blonde that was matter. In fact she, it seemed lived further down the line than he did. And then there was a jerk. The train moved forward slowly, jerked again and then stopped. The old lady sat forward and peered out the window.

"Are we in a station?"

"I don't think so," said Paul. The parson looked at his watch and said he hoped the delay would not be a long one.

"I expect we'll be off again in a minute," said Paul cheerfully. But a quarter-of-an-hour later the train was still stationary. And now heads were peering out of carriages. People were talking among themselves. Something had gone wrong. The hold-up might prove a long one. The guard came down the train. There'd been an accident, he was telling the passengers, at a level crossing a short distance further along the line. No, he could not tell how long it would be before they'd be able to go on again.

"How far to Oakley?" called Paul, knowing it was her station.

"Barely a mile."

Carriage doors opened here and there. The passengers for Oakley were clearly deciding that they might as well walk on rather than wait in the train indefinitely. It was a clear moonlit night. Patience looked at Paul. She'd to do about it. If the delay were really a long one, he supposed Aunt Alice would begin to worry as to what had happened to her. They were always in a little bit of a state until she got safely in, still—quite absurdly, of course—wondering whether it had been really wise to allow her to go off by herself three days a week to London.

"I'll walk along with you," said Paul.

Patience looked at him.

"But you don't get out at Oakley."

"That's all right. I'll hang on there and pick this train up when it comes along eventually. Or I might hitch-hike home."

Paul opened the carriage door. He'd ask her to-day now or never. He got out, jumping down onto the line.

"Come on. You'll be home in no time." He held out his arms to her. "Jump. I'll catch you, like a little girl. The big bad wolf won't eat you."

Patience drew a quick breath. He was laughing at her, of course. She wasn't sure if she liked it.

"I'm not afraid of that," she said and jumped into his waiting arms.

Paul set the girl down lightly beside him.

"From what I've observed of you," he said gravely, "I feel perfectly sure you won't walk a yard on the line with me without a proper introduction. And since there's no one here to effect it, I must do it myself. I'm Paul Taylor. I live at Old Winnings, a village you may have heard of some three miles this side of Bishop's Stortford."

"I'm Patience Mond."

"And you live at Oakley."

"No. I live at High Ditch, two miles from there."

"Splendid. How do you get to and from the station? By car I suppose."

"No. I bicycle. We've not got a car."

"We?"

"I live with my two aunts."

"Maiden aunts something tells me."

"Yes," and defiantly, "they're darlings."

"Oh yes, I'm sure they are. But a little strict in the way they bring you up."

"How do you know?"

He smiled.

"I've been watching you pretty closely since you've been travelling by this train. Anyone can see you're an extremely well-brought up young lady." He glanced at her sidelong as they now set out towards Oakley, following a straggling line of other passengers. "Now we're met, as it were, don't you think that in future we might travel down together?"

"I suppose we might," she said doubtfully.

British and Communists At Hong Kong Border Aloof and Correct

Denies Stealing Sheba Treasure

Arriving in New York, explorer and archaeologist Wendell Phillips, 31, holds up photos taken on his recent expedition in Yemen. The explorer, charged by the Yemenite government with stealing a golden statue of the Queen of Sheba, denied that his party ever, found such a statue among the unearthed ruins. — Central Press Canadian.

Special Mail Will be Laid To Artillery School

Picton— Following months of negotiations, an agreement has been reached by the town and the Federal Department of Transport in regard to the installation of a watermain to serve the Royal Canadian School of Artillery. A special main will be laid, serving part of the town en route to the station, and the pumping station will be enlarged. The town's liability has been set at $75,00 this amount to be covered by debentures, and eventually repaid by sale or water to the army station. The Federal government will assume the balance of necessary costs. Estimated expenditure is $240,000.00

For some time the town has refused to enter into a contract unless the government agreed to pay all costs over the $75,000 amount.

The six-inch iron pipe will run from the pumping station, along Spencer Street, Main Street to Paul, thence down King St. and Downs Ave., up Elizabeth and to the new reservoir. The main will provide the town with the best in water service and pressure in case of need.

Taking part in negotiations were Ralph Campney, M.P., Deputy Minister of National Defense, and a Picton native, Mayor E. J. McFarland, Utilities Commissioners H. B. Pully, H. Blakely, and representatives of the Army and Department of Transport.

Movie Producer Given 4 Months For Shooting

Santa Monica, Calif., April 23—(AP) — Movie producer Walter Wanger was convicted Tuesday of assault with a deadly weapon in shooting his wife's agent. He drew a four months' jail sentence.

Defence lawyer Jerry Giesler offered many letters from movie and religious leaders endorsing Wanger's good citizenship. After hearing these, Judge Harry Borde remarked:

"The law of the six-shooter has gone out of California long ago.

"Apparently there was some great provocation, as claimed by rumor and gossip . . . but the court's hands are tied. Provocation is not a defence."

The gray, distinguished producer who heard the decision calmly, shot Jennings Lang, 39, in the groin at dusk last Dec. 13 on a Beverly Hills parking lot.

Lang was standing beside the car of Wanger's movie star wife Joan Bennett. Wanger told police he broke up by home. But Miss Bennett, 41, insisted her and Lang's relations were strictly business.

(Editor's note: Bill Boss, Canadian Press Staff writer with the Canadian forces in Korea, has visited Hong Kong. In this story, one of a series, he described the border barriers between the British colony and red China. Mr. Boss is now in Canada.)

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Hong Kong, April 23 (CP) — It was almost 11 a.m. and the Kowloon-Canton train was about due at the frontier.

The frontier with communist China is 32 miles north of Kowloon, the mainland part of the colony of Hong Kong. The border is 17 miles long, and is guarded for 13 miles by a string of pillboxes. The other four miles are considered impassable.

Through heavy drizzle, under an umbrella, a communist postman came past the barrier to an open shed beside the track.

"They come through for the mail," said a Hong Kong police inspector, "they don't let us take it through. When the train is from the other direction, they also bring the mail to us.

"We never go into their territory."

Passengers have to leave the train, walk past the mail shed and the barrier where they are screened, and enter a communist train which awaits them on the other side.

Oriental Iron Curtain

This is the oriental iron curtain, a part of which bans trade, travel and mail pass between Hong Kong and communist China.

The matter-of-fact scene was astonishing since soldiers from the two sides kill on sight in Korea.

The Chinese police on opposite sides of the frontier scarcely exchanged glances. They have not spoken for two years. There has been no incident since the communists replaced the Nationalists on the north barrier. None is expected.

On the British side, the police control the frontier zone. Army officers entering the area must be escorted. The police want no trouble.

Shortly at 11 o'clock a Russian march thundered from a loudspeaker on the Chinese side, a communist side, then a couple of folk choruses.

"You think the train's pulling in," said the inspector. "But it's going to be about seven minutes late."

"Welcome comrades," said the red announcer. "Have your vaccination certificates ready."

The broadcast ended with communist news and a signature tune.

"We rather like that one," said the inspector. "We find ourselves tapping our feet to it.

"Then they play tunes like that we'd like to play a few back to them. I think we're missing a trick, you know."

The march was just finishing as the train pulled in.

"Now they'll catch it for disobeying instructions they haven't heard," said the inspector.

Travellers Unconcerned

None of the travellers seemed concerned about the frontier. There were rich men and peasants. Some carried their luggage, others used coolies. The forbidden area is separated from many bags.

About 500 persons cross the barrier daily in each direction. One mile eastward at Man-kam-to there's a foot crossing used by perhaps 150 daily.

Refugee movement across the frontier is not allowed. The colony is overcrowded already.

But many refugees are smuggled into the colony, either by boat or over that "impassable" bit of frontier.

The price is as high as a frontier guide thinks the traffic will bear. He generally has an agent in Hong Kong to prospect his customer's connections before he takes on the job.

Farmers Urged Not to Dump Cattle on Market

Ottawa, April 23 — (CP) — Canada's "extremely" were urged not to dump their stock on the market because a new outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease has appeared in southern Saskatchewan.

Agricultural Minister Gardiner said in the Commons that Canada will retain a floor price on beef as long as the United States market is closed to Canadian meat and livestock. Canada lost the market by U. S. government action when foot-and-mouth disease first broke out in Saskatchewan earlier this year.

Mr. Gardiner cautioned against "dumping" of cattle in fear of sharply lower prices next fall.

Meanwhile, officials planned to widen the area put under quarantine when the first outbreak of the easily-spread disease became known this spring.

Two herds near Ormiston, about 100 miles southwest of Regina, will be slaughtered and buried to prevent the disease spreading. One is infected, the other has had contact with it.

Mr. Gardiner explained the program to support beef prices. The floor price on beef was 25 cents a pound for good steers at Toronto, Montreal and Moncton, N. B., and 23.35 cents a pound at Winnipeg, 22.8 cents at Saskatoon, 22.55 cents at Edmonton and Calgary and 23.4 cents at Vancouver.

The floor will be changed next July in relation to market conditions and will be placed on a monthly basis. He hoped consumers would take advantage of lower prices to buy up some of the cattle "for which no outside market is at present available."

"With the fixing of a floor, it will be possible for the producer to market his cattle in an orderly manner with only flood or calamity reaching the market. If this is done, the producer may expect to continue to sell his cattle without undue market gluts and may look for at least relative prices higher than the floor."

Date of Holiday May be Changed By New Measure

Ottawa, April 23 (CP) —Canadian school kids may be forced to change the date of their short-term away if they don't get a holiday on the Queen's birthday.

For years Canada has celebrated Queen Victoria's birthday, May 24 as a holiday. But a change may be in the offing. There still will be a statutory holiday, but not always on May 24.

The Commons last night agreed in principle to a bill that would should celebrate Victoria Day on the Monday preceding May 24, effective in 1953.

Next year May 24, falls on a Sunday. Should the measure become effective, it would make Monday, May 25 a holiday. Everything would be fine in 1954 when May 24 falls on a Monday.

This possibility came about as a result of a bill introduced by J. L. MacDougall (Liberal-Cape Breton-Richmond). In the original form the bill would have changed the celebration of Dominion Day from July 1 to the first Monday following that day.

SOO RATIONS BLOOD

Sault Ste. Marie, April 23 — (CP)—The Red Cross yesterday started rationing blood to only the most critical cases.

Hong Kong Centre For Chinese Seeking Admission to Canada

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Hong Kong, April 23 (CP) —Between 2,500 and 3,000 Chinese emigrants leave Hong Kong each year for new homes in Canada. All are relatives "claimed" by Chinese Canadians.

There is no immigration of Chinese without family connections, although visitors' visas are available to bona fide business men and students satisfactorily sponsored.

Appointment books are filled for three weeks ahead at the Canadian immigration bureau here, where a staff of 16 interview candidates for entrance visas.

Most would-be emigrants come somehow or other from the interior of communist China. The province of Kwangtung, where most Chinese now in Canada originated, has been home for most and they speak little or no English.

They come to Hong Kong individually and in family groups —brothers with sons and daughters, brothers with their sisters. Most are allowed out by the Chinese communists, but some must smuggle themselves through.

Women going through the Canadian office are suspiciously few, and officials are constantly on the look-out for fraudulent application.

"About 90 percent of the relatives claimed are men," said one official.

Work for Family

Most are wanted in Canada as labor for their parents' enterprises —the family laundry, restaurant or shop. They are more than 18 years of age and hence do not fall within the scope of education regulations. Officials are watchful lest for one reason or another a Chinese-Canadian claim a mere man as sons that he actually has.

"We almost fall over ourselves to help when a family claims two daughters—we know they're genuine," said one Canadian official.

It's difficult to check the bona-fides of most claims. Births are not registered in China—even if they were it is doubtful whether the communist government would help. The word of the Canadian claimant generally has to be accepted.

But there is careful checking of the record of the claimant's trips to China since his arrival in Canada to make sure the ages of claimed sons or daughters coincide with the visits.

Members of family groups are interviewed separately, then the details are checked for discrepancies. Few have been discovered.

The policy of admitting relatives to Canada is snowballing. Some immigrants admitted to Canada since the bureau reopened after the war have been back already to pick up wives in Hong Kong.

Scientists Find Way to Squeeze Water Out of Beer

London, April 22 (AP) —Two British scientists have found a way to squeeze most of the water out of beer, the Brewers' Society of Great Britain announced today.

Experimentally, they have concentrated beer. Practically, they hope they have found a way to ship to the ends of the earth all that's good in beer—the hops, the tang, the zip, the alcoholic kick and even the foam.

"Way haul water around when there is a lot of it everywhere?" the scientists asked themselves about eight years ago when the problem arose of supplying British soldiers in the Far East.

So, Dr. Reginald Essery, scientist in the Institute of Brewing Research near London, and R. Lovegane of Cambridge University, set to work.

The method is to freeze beer until about three-fourths its volume is ice. Then the ice is removed. The alcohol doesn't freeze — and most of the other constituents are concentrated in the liquid.

Theoretically to reconstruct the concentrate into the original it is only necessary to add water.

Actually, carbonic acid gas to provide the "kick" and also small quantities of starch gum and bitter concentrate to impart the beery smell must be added for the "dehydrated beer" to recapture everything.

The alcoholic content is about the same as beer.

The laboratory is working on the problems of storing and transporting the concentrate.

The experiments were started to meet the needs of large forces of soldiers, but the commercial possibilities are not being neglected. Most beer sent to British soldiers in distant places is shipped in barrels—a headache for the war office.

Says Union Men Must Aid Boss Hoist Production

Montreal, April 23 (CP) —Delegates to an industrial relations conference were told today that organized labor will have to help management "take bigger pieces of the pie" commensurate with its efforts on getting a bigger slice of the existing pie.

Dr. J. R. Coleman, of the department of economics and social science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said "the union still finds its raison d'etre in the constant pressures on the employer for more, more and still more out of the present pie."

"This may not be enough for the future and unions may well wish to move into areas where they are at once agents for getting more of the national product for their members and agents for increasing the amount of the product."

Dr. Coleman spoke before the McGill University industrial relations centre, a two-day conference on industrial relations in an expanding economy.

He said that "in isolated instances in both Canada and the United States managements and labor are co-operating day in and day out to improve the productive efficiency of the firm."

Physicist Millman Admits Flying Saucers Puzzle Him; Explanations 'Unsatisfactory'

Toronto (CP) — Most reports of "flying saucers" can be explained at natural phenomena — but there still remains "a concrete group of reports that are unexplained."

This is the cautious assessment of Dr. Peter Millman, chief of the Dominion Observatory's astrophysics division at Ottawa.

"It is difficult to dismiss casually the weight of evidence that now has accumulated," he wrote in an article for the Toronto Telegram. "It is also a mistake to ridicule anyone making a sincere report."

He felt that 99 per cent of those who have reported seeing flying saucers were "perfectly honest" although they might have misinterpreted what they say, "or was a little over-enthusiastic in describing an event."

Dr. Millman said he had no "inside information" on flying saucers but for 20 years he has studied reports of objects seen in the sky during observations of meteors.

The saucers had usually been described as disc-shaped or cigar-shaped. A few observers claimed to have seen rows of lights or port holes along the sides. Nearly all reports said the objects moved rapidly and were highly manoeuvrable.

Many normal phenomena in the sky had given rise to flying saucer reports, he said. These included aircraft, balloons, meteors, planets, northern lights, reflections and mirages.

All of these can "under special circumstances appear in such an unusual way that the observer is sure he has seen a unique and inexplicable event."

After allowing for human error and eliminating sightings explainable as natural phenomena, however, "there still remains a concrete group of reports that are unexplained.

"One, two or three of these might be disregarded but there now seems to be too many peculiar cases to eliminate in this way.

"Personally, I haven't come to any definite conclusions about these objects . . . I am availing further developments with interest. There seems to be a good deal that has not yet been satisfactorily explained."

Might As Well Be In The Navy

Flood waters of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers are receding now after the highest crest in history, and after a million persons had been displaced. The high water brought misery, but had thousands of people working together to save their lives and their possessions. Spring Came as a Surprise

Spring came too quickly for this plane at Lac du Bonnet, Manitoba, about 60 miles northeast of Winnipeg. The patrol craft of the Manitoba government, which is well known throughout Ontario mining camps, broke through the ice while being hauled up for conversion from skis to pontoons. The ice, believed to have been about three feet thick, was considerably weakened by a four-day warm spell which saw temperatures of from 60 to 80 degrees. Quick action by ground crews saved the plane from being completely submerged. — Central Press Canadian.

Wall of Water Threatens Saskatchewan Town

A state of emergency exists in Swift Current, Sask, threatened by destruction by a wall of water at present held back by the Duncairn dam, shown here, 30 miles away and 230 feet higher. The spillways, circled, are in danger of giving way, letting loose a reservoir of water 16 miles long, 35 feet deep and three-quarters of a mile wide. — Central Press Canadian.

Bomber Causes Stir

STIRLING

Beautiful Singing Features St. Paul's Easter Festival

Stirling — The greatest festival of Christendom, the honoring of the Risen Lord, was marked by large congregations at St. Paul's and Carmel on Sunday.

Following the silver trumpet fanfare sounded by William Aylsworth, two angel figures with large wings (Miss Patricia Bruce and Miss June Sleeper) walked slowly down the centre aisle and announced "He is not here! He is risen". Sweet voiced they announced the glad tidings of the risen Lord, was marked by a prince, followed by white surpliced girl choristers led in the singing of the processional hymn, "Hail the Day That Sees Him Rise." The senior choir swelled with great hymn of praise which was supported by the congregation.

Dutch-Cornish Melodies

The Royal Choir sang Dutch and Cornish Easter melodies, while the senior choir interpreted Handel's "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive", followed by the recitative and aria "The Trumpet Shall Sound," sung by William Aylsworth.

Mrs. Walter Warren sang "As It Began to Dawn" and Mr. Harry Brown sang as tenor solo, "Hosanna".

About 20 members of the Royal choir lined the front of the gallery for Goldsworthy's great Easter antiphonal anthem, "Alleluia," and shared with St. Paul's choir in this type of choral work.

Northern Stores Have Wide Range In Saskatchewan

Prince Albert, Sask. (CP) — When a Saskatchewan trading store operator says he can sell anything, he isn't stretching a point. The six stores in northern Saskatchewan sell practically everything in general merchandise.

These midget department stores can outfit a housewife as well as a trapper or fisherman. The needs of northerners, limited but highly specialized, run from canoes, rifles, gill fishing nets and gasoline for outboard motors to foodstuffs, building materials and cook stoves.

Store managers say the main demand is for such staples as lard, flour, sugar, milk, tea, tobacco, matches, gasoline, baby bottles and carriages and clothing.

Novelty trinkets are popular, especially with Indian and Metis children, but their sale is tactfully discouraged as it is believed money spent in this way could be put to better use.

The government trading operates at slightly more than cost. Sales totalled $248,000 last year.

Saskatchewan Government trading, a division of the crown-owned Saskatchewan Marketing Services Corporation, grew out of the increasing services rendered by the provincial government to trappers and fishermen under its northern conservation program.

This program called for the economic handling of fish and fur resources. Marketing in fish and furs was undertaken by government agency to prevent their rapid depletion, put them on a perpetual yield basis and bring the greatest possible returns to the producers.

In doing this, the government found it necessary to make available foodstuffs and other supplies to the people of the north.

Trading stores were operated by the government at Lac La Ronge and Wollaston Lake in 1945. Three years later Saskatchewan Trading Services was incorporated and since then stores were established at Deschambault, Snake Lake, Stanley and Cumberland House.

Typical is the Cumberland House store and its manager's residence, which cost about $15,000. Electricity for lighting is generated by the store's own power plant.

The store manager has to be a jack of all trades. All the stores have two-way radio sets and the manager has to be an expert radio man. A knowledge of fur trading also is required. Once a year the store managers come to Prince Albert for a get-together, to lay plans for the coming year with head office personnel.

Typical manager is Ed. Broome of Snake Lake, bearded father of a boy and girl. His wife is a registered district nurse with a full-time schedule of her own. A young school teacher who boards with the Broomes, and an elderly trapper, are the only other white residents in the small settlement.

The Fire Season is here!

Help the Fire Rangers to prevent forest fires this year

The dreaded fire season opens slowly in March. By May the number of savage, costly forest fires grows alarmingly, carries on to a peak in August, and still continues on into November. Millions of dollars are lost each year—money lost to everyone in the Province. You can help by being careful whenever you're in a forest area ::: careful of camp fires, careful of matches and cigarettes. You can help too by helping the rangers spot fires, and reporting them promptly and carefully. Watch carefully after electrical storms—last year lightning started 160 fires in Ontario, just about half as many as those started by campers and smokers. The Fire Season is here. Help save the forests and you help yourself!

The Fire Ranger knows the dangers ... times ahead. By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

OFF TO A START!

Forgot the Belleville Commercial Softball League.

And take notice of the Belleville and District Softball Association. For that's the new name foisted upon the loop at a meeting of the league executive and team representatives held last night.

It looks like the association will swing into action on or around May 24th with nine squads facing the barrier. These could include two teams from the CNR, Northern Electric, Wooler, Trenton Flyers, Point Anne, Glen Ray Juniors, Frankford, and the Belleville Motor Cars.

Of this array the CNR squads, Belleville Motors, Glen Ray Juniors, and Northern Electric are definitely entered.

Some discussion centred over the playing field question. The CNR teams will play all their home games on the new CNRAA Recreation Field, Wooler, Frankford and RCAF wanted their home games played on their home diamonds. The other teams will play on the Alemite Field where it is hoped lighting facilities will be available.

OASA executive member Harry Knott spoke briefly on the recent OASA convention outlining rules changes with regard to use of gloves and difference in size of spikes. He also referred to the new "D" Class inaugurated at the convention which will permit communities of under 500 population to affiliate teams.

The executive meets again around the first of the month when it is expected all entries will be submitted and playing field, home games and other pre-opening wrinkles ironed out.

And while on the subject Coach Bill Spafford of the Glen Ray Juniors announced last night that the first practice of players of Junior age will be held at the Alemite Field next Monday night starting at six o'clock. All eligible players are requested to turn out.

Recalling o'er the banquet table, all the glory of his feats.

Lauding fellow kegler's conquest, minimizing not his own,

Talks of strikes and spares and headpins, (gnawing chicken to the bone).

Plays the season over tritely (Apple pie? Yep. Put it here),

Wonder's if he'll get a trophy (Me? No thanks, I'll take it clear).

Settles back to hear the speeches. ("Splendid season, boys. Well done")

"Thanks for fine co-operation". (Excerpt, address. .51)

Officials now will be elected ("Who's the president, .52"?)

Why waste time? The girl friend's waiting ("Re-elect the same darn crews").

Now, its over. Wait, the prizes. Triple, single, average, too,

What? The Bobunks win the trophy? Well, that's that.

Let's go. Skiddoo.

Banquet halls, hotels, clubrooms etc., ring to the reminiscence and camaraderie of one of the greatest sports fraternities in the world, these mild spring days. For tis the end of the regular winter bowling season and the timber-toppliers gather around the festive board to replay seasonal games and playoff series, pass out prizes, award trophies, and to wind up in an aura of good fellowship a season of successful healthy recreational activity.

We have had the pleasure of attending a number of these post-season get-togethers and the friendliness, good-natured raillery and fine spirit that pervades these Banquet-table conclaves is a fine tribute to the sport.

We have yet to attend one of these fun-packed frolics where anything but the best of feeling prevailed. Victor and vanquished, champion and cellar-dweller pooled their best natures and the result was an evening of gaiety, good food, and fine sportsmanship.

Bowling as exemplified by teams and players of this city, and there is no reason to believe it is not universal, is a distinct credit to the calendar of sport. It has many features worthy of emulation by other phases of recreation.

Speaking of the sport, we recall an amusing incident that occurred a few years ago. This department's knowledge of the game was to the extent that we through a headpin was something a gal stuck in her hair; a strike was something labor does to management and a spare was something every automobile owner should carry in the trunk.

We were covering a Corbyville Sales convention at the Hotel Quinte. The program was, after the dinner and business session, a "go in the bowling alleys".

A bit alarmed but not dismayed we waited for what might happen.

A French-Canadian member of the sales clan approached us with a smile, "B'gar, m'sieu, you look like wan dam good bowlaire, Yes!"

"Well, not bad," was the pompous reply.

"No? You have what you call dat haverage, Yes?"

Average? He had us. We took a quick guess and said, "Sure, sure, our average is 293." That we thought was a modest figure and shouldn't get us into any trouble. Then it happened.

Our French friend looked at us and gasped, "Pierre, Bill, quick you should come here, eh? Look, dis fellow, he has dat average of 295. We grab him for our team. Yes!"

But what a surprise they got, and what an impression of a newspaperman. Our score for the game was 105. A bit off color, as 15 were.

So much for the boys' knife-and-fork league sessions. We enjoy every one of them. But sometimes we wonder. What happens when the gals go into the post-season banquet act?

Byrne Tomahawks Tribe With Eight-Hit Performance; Bengals Bumped for 8th Loss

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

You might say St. Louis Browns "Byrne up" Cleveland Indians.

Tommy Byrne is the villain or hero. It depends on how you look at it.

Last August the Indians came to St. Louis with a wampum string of 13 straight wins. Along came Byrne. And then there was none. Last night the Indians brought a near-record seven-game win streak to town. Once again Mr. Byrne got out his old lefthanded tomahawk. No record. No win streak. Almost no lead.

Byrne's eight-hitter and 8-3 victory let the Browns end a half-game behind the front-running. It was enough to make a winner of 15,118 in spite of a drizzle.

Mike Garcia, one of Al Lopez' "Big Four" was named to pitch Cleveland to an eighth straight—closing in on the American League record of nine successive opening season wins. But Garcia and three successors couldn't keep the upstart Brownies under wraps.

What, Again!

Another budding streak was kept alive when Chicago dumped Detroit, 2-0, for the Tigers' eighth straight loss. Five more and the Tigers can tie their own major league record of 13 consecutive defeats at the start of the 1920 season.

Saul Rogovin, an ex-teammate, blanked the reeling Tigers with six hits while Nelson Fox touched Ted Gray for a double and two singles. Johnny Lipon's error and Fox's double off Don Kolloway's glove broke up a scoreless duel in the eighth.

The "new faces" campaign continued to pay off for Lou Boudreau's Boston Red Sox as rookie Bill Henry, a 24-year-old lefty from Shreveport, won his second straight, 10-5, over Washington. Jim Piersall, the kid shortstop, collected three hits and Dom DiMaggio had four, including a home run. Walt Dropo and Don Lenhardt also homered for the Sox and Mickey Mantle and Clyde Kluttz for the Senators.

Sain For Yanks

Johnny Sain, once a curve-ball ace in the National League, came through with a fine three-hitter for the New York Yankees to hand the Philadelphia A's their sixth straight loss, 3-1. After Elmer Valo homered in the first, Sain retired 20 in a row before he walked Ferris Fain to open the eighth.

Gil McDougald led the Yanks with a double and two singles, his first single off Morris Martin helping in two runs in the second.

Chicago Cubs continued to act like the toughest kids in the block as they hammered Pittsburgh pitching for 17 hits in a 13-2 romp. Dee Fondy was the big leader with four hits while Bob Rush rode home easily with a nine-hitter.

Brooklyn threw its southpaw punch against the Boston Braves again and Preacher Roe led-night doubleheader, 2-1 and 3-1 behind Chris Van Cuyk and Preacher Roe.

Bobby Thomson, starting to hit after a slow start, cracked out a Philly Russ Meyer with a bases loaded triple in the New York Giants' 4-1 win. Larry Jansen scattered eight hits and had a shutout until Willie Jones homered in the eighth.

Vinegar Bend Mizell, the St. Louis Cards' colorful southpaw rookie, lost his first start to Cincinnati, 5-4. Two walks and a booming triple by Joe Adcock in the first inning gave Cincy all its runs. Kenny Raffensberger strung seven Card hits along the route.

Rocky Graziano, middleweight fighter describing his historic bouts with Tony Zale: "When a Tony went to work on my body it felt like he was pouring concrete blocks at my stomach. After ever fight with him I had to go to the hospital to stop internal bleeding."

Sports Roundup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
(For Gayle Talbot)

New York, April 23 (AP) — Vagrant quotes, lost, strayed and stolen:

Casey Stengel, Yankees manager: "It's that shortstop fellow (Merty Marlon) who has given the Browns their big lift this year. He's getting old, all right, but it's been years since the Browns had a good man there. Also that Hornsby (manager Rogers Hornsby) has the boys all fired up. They could be tough."

Fred Corcoran, sports promoter: "Who do you think is going to be the highest man in sports this year—Stan Musial, Jersey Joe Walcott, Sugar Ray Robinson? No, it'll be golfer Ben Hogan. Besides his regular earnings and that bus company settlement for his accident, reported to be $25,000 a year for 10 years), Ben is picking up about $3,000 a week in exhibitions."

Chuck Dressen, Dodgers manager: "It's getting harder than ever for major league clubs to keep a good man at every position. The old guys like DiMaggio are wearing out and the armed services are grabbing the young men who ordinarily would be topflight replacements."

Gene Sarazen, former golf champion: "Don't be surprised in the next few years if all our golf tournaments have degrees. With caddy carts and other gadets replacing caddies, the best players now are coming from colleges rather than from the bag-toting kids."

Expect 20,000 To See Leafs, Birds Opener

(By The Canadian Press)

The International League's three Canadian teams and Rochester Red Wings open their hometown schedules today with upwards of 50,000 spectators expected at the four parks.

Montreal Royals and Syracuse Chiefs, pacing the circuit with four victories in six starts, meet in the Montreal opener with a turnout of 15,000 expected. Tom Lasorda (1-0) will start for the defending champion Royals, facing Bob Keegan (0-1).

A crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 will see the Toronto opener with Duke Markell (1-0) facing the visiting Baltimore Orioles. Tom Casagrande, Philadelphia Phillies' $40,000 bonus "baby" will make his 1952 debut with the Orioles.

Mike Kume (0-1) will be Ottawa Athletics' choice to give the team its first victory of the season when it meets Buffalo Bisons. Veteran Hank Borowy will pitch for Buffalo. A crowd of 6,000 is expected.

Springfield Cubs will use Vern Fear (0-1) when they open at Rochester with Fred Martin (0-0) and 12,000 to 14,000 fans.

The three Canadian openers are scheduled for 3 p.m. while Rochester starts at 2:30.

No games were played in the league yesterday.

Fans Boo Dressen When 'Pee Wee' Pulled from Game

Brooklyn, April 23 (AP) — Some 25,000 Dodger fans booed Chuck Dressen last night when the Brooklyn manager pulled Pee Wee Reese, the Dodger captain, out for a pinch hitter. It happened with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning of the first game of the double header against Boston. The booing increased when George Shuba, the pinch hitter, fanned on three pitches.

Reese was so incensed he flung the two bats he was swinging against the bat rack in full view of the fans and television audience.

Later in the clubhouse Reese was disturbed over his display of temper.

"I guess Dressen was right," he said. "I've been going lousy. Maybe I shouldn't have gotten sore. But any player who doesn't want to get up to bat in a tight spot isn't worth a darn. Besides, Chuck is the manager. He gets paid to make the decisions."

Reese paused, then added:

"You know, I'm sympathize with Dressen. I felt sorry for him the way the fans booed him."

Quebec Aces Defeat St. John Beavers To Come Within Game of Trophy

Quebec, April 23 (CP) — Quebec Aces today stand one victory away from the Alexander Trophy after winning their third straight game from Saint John Beavers 4-2 in Canada's major hockey final.

The win before a crowd of 10,741 gave the Quebec Senior Hockey League champions a 3-0 lead in games in the best-of-seven series which could possibly wind up in Thursday night's fourth game.

But playing-coach John (Peanut O'Flaherty) and the fast-skating Beavers felt his team is due to "get the breaks."

No Breaks

"We haven't had one break since the series started," he said. "The games have been pretty close so far and we're due to come through."

Veteran Murdo MacKay scored two goals, including the game-winning counter early in the third period, breaking a 2-2 deadlock.

Bob MacKay's markers — the first one came in the first period to break a 1-1 tie—resulted from perfect goal-mouth passes from Marcel Bonin with Armand Gaudreault starting the plays.

Jean Beliveau, Aces' big starry centre, scored the first goal of the game when he tipped in a rebound.

Martial Pruneau added an insurance marker early in the third period.

Saint John's goals came when Dusty Blair whipped Matt Mezich's rebound off the boards in the first period while Bill McCracken deflected Pete Langelle's shot into the corner.

Markell Slated to Replace Hetki

A logical successor to one-time Maple Leaf hurler, John Hetki who moved up this year to St. Louis Browns after topping the International league in wins and innings pitched in 1951, is Dick Markell, scheduled to pitch the Leaf's home opener against Baltimore Orioles April 23. Like Hetki, Markell, seen above, is rated as one of the hardest-working pitchers in baseball. In the last five seasons, he has pitched a total of 1,375 innings and has led three different leagues in strikeouts. Markell, who was cut from St. Louis Browns' squad this spring, pitched 21 innings in five games with the Browns last season and came up with a 1-1 record, including a win over Detroit Tigers. — Central Press Canadian.

National Anthem Fails to Stop Brawl In Hamilton-Waterloo Junior Tilt

Hamilton, April 23—(CP)—Brawling fans milled over the ice in the third period of a hockey game last night which saw Waterloo Hurricanes win a spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B finals.

The Hurricanes downed Hamilton Aerovox 6-3, winning the best-of-seven series four games to two, with one game tied. Waterloo now meets Weston Dukes for the title.

100 Fans Ice Ice

A fight broke out in the stands between teen-age supporters of Waterloo and Hamilton and spread to the ice. At one time 100 fans swarmed over the playing surface.

Officials played "God Save The Queen" over the public address system but the fighting continued. Referees threatened to call off the game unless the ice was cleared.

John Ford sparked the Hurricane attack with three goals. Laverne Schnarr, Ray Douglas and Joe Dorsch scored singletons. Hamilton's Alex Lestie potted two and Jim Brown one.

Fort Frances Takes 1st Game With 9-5 Win Over Indians

Fort William, April 23 (CP) — The Flying Forts are one-up in their 1952 march for the Allan Cup.

Last night Fort Frances Canadians trounced Stratford Indians 9-5 in the first game of the annual senior hockey classic after unleashing a tremendous scoring drive which netted six goals in a thrill-packed third period.

The teams rest today and then resume the best-of-seven series here Thursday night.

About 3,500 fans watched the Forts take a 2-1 lead over the Eastern Canada finalists, go down 4-2 at the end of the second, and then surge like a coiled spring, breaking the defensive back of the Stratford club.

Kilner Gets Four

Ed Kilner, counted four of his team's goals, three in the third period, Singles went to Mike Kopchuk, Ric Ricard and Vern O'Donnell with a double count for Walt Christiansen.

Stratford marksmen were Billy Flick, Bucko Goodfellow, Jack White, Dinny Flanagan and Mickey Roth.

Flick on relays from Flanagan and Pat Wilson put Indians ahead at 4:59 of the first period. A holding penalty to Don Heinbach cost them both Canadians' first goals.

Canadians notched the markers on close-in plays, O'Donnell from Dun Sampson and Sambo Fedoruk at 12:37 and Kilner from O'Donnell at 13:12.

Indians scored two goals in the second frame when they were short a man. Burdett tallied from close range on a pass-out from White with 53 seconds gone after Flanagan drew a slashing penalty.

Flanagan scored seventeen minutes later assisted by Flick when Billy Walsh was sent off.

Sandwiched between was a Stratford goal by White who drove a hard shot that rolled off Bill Cleaveley's arm. Christiansen counted for Fort Frances at 18:20 to end the period with Indians in front 4-3.

Explode in Third

Fort Frances exploded in the third period after Hupchuk stopped a goal mouth pass and shot from just outside the crease to tie the count 4-4.

Kilner snapped in Canadians' second goal of the period at 7:27. Sambo Fedoruk intercepted a Stratford pass, relayed to O'Donnell who flicked it to Kilner for an easy score.

Ricard smashed through for another marker at 11:35 followed by two goals by Kilner assisted by O'Donnell and Goose Gosselin at 12:25 and 13:14.

Christiansen counted his second goal at 14:51 and both assisted by Flanagan scored for Stratford at 17:31. George Aitken of Indians was thumbed from the match at 12:29 when he drew a misconduct penalty.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Manager Jim Dykes of Philadelphia Athletics, a man with a reputation for saying what he thinks, doesn't like the old-age influence on the team.

Sitting on the Athletics bench at Yankee Stadium in New York yesterday, watching his veteran infield go through its pre-game warm-up, Dykes remarked facetiously:

"Some collection of kids, eh? I've got an infield made up of raw- inexperienced youngsters. Not one past 40.

"Look at my first baseman, Ferris Fain. He's the baby of the infield and he's past 30. Eddie Joost (shortstop) is 36. Peter Suder (second baseman) will be 36 soon. Hank Majeski (third baseman) is 34 and so is Billy Hitchock, utility infielder.

"Till wager if I get in shape I can play third base in this infield myself. And I'm close to 50."

Dykes is unhappy about the Athletics' poor start. They have lost six of seven so far, 3-1 yesterday for the Yanks.

"My team has been awful," he said. "I never thought any team could be that bad . . .

"We don't hit, we don't field, we don't run and I can do is sit here and take it."

Bobby Brown, New York Yankee infielder, was ordered yesterday to take a U. S. army physical examination next Tuesday and was notified that he will be called to active duty in July if he passes. Brown, a doctor, is a lieutenant in the army medical reserve.

But the bad news for Brown was followed by good news for manager Casey Stengel. Yogi Berra, catcher and most valuable player in the American League last year, will return to action tomorrow in Boston. The heavy-hitting Berra suffered torn ligaments of the left wrist during an exhibition game April 4.

Guatemala is planning its biggest celebration ever for Doroteo Flores, first Quatemalan to win an international sports event. He won the big Boston Marathon last Saturday over a field of nearly 200 entrants. An Indian, Flores earns $27 a month as a Guatemala city employee and supports a family of eight.

Squires Athletic Club at Baltimore has decided it isn't television that is keeping attendances for them. Monday night's Swiden-Wright fight drew 187 customers and a net gain of $208, without TV. The club announced yesterday its next fight April 30 between Johnny Saxton and Bobby Lee will be coast-to-coast video.

Randolph Turpin, British and former world middleweight champion, knocked out Jacques Hairabedian, French light-heavyweight champion, in 2:01 of the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder at London's Harringay Arena last night. Turpin will fight Don Cockell, British light-heavyweight champ, June 10 for the British crown.

Mickey Harris, veteran pitcher, was picked up by Cleveland Indians yesterday from Washington Senators for the $10,000 waiver price. The 35-year-old southpaw won six and lost eight last year, mainly in relief.

Players' Dislike Of 'Red' Rolfe Affects Efforts

Cleveland, April 23—(AP)—The winless Detroit Tigers dislike their manager, Red Rolfe, with "a bitterness that can't help but affect their play," Plain Dealer sports editor Gord Cobbledick said today.

Writing in his column, "Plain Dealing," Cobbledick said this feeling is "beyond the understanding of an outsider" because, "Red Rolfe is a newspaperman's delight. He is intelligent, well-educated and a gentleman . . . If a popularity poll were taken among members of the working press, Rolfe would be a cinch to land among the top three major league pilots."

"But he hasn't won the esteem of the ball players," Cobbledick continued. "On the contrary the 'Tigers' anti-Rolfe feeling is so deep and so violent that some observers have gone so far as to predict a blow-up comparable to the 'Vitt rebellion' of the 1940 Indians."

In that year, a number of the Cleveland Indians tried to have Oscar Vitt fired.

"But it seems apparent now that the Tigers aren't going to perform well under Rolfe—not because they would shirk on the job, but only because their acute unhappiness will make it impossible for them to play winning baseball."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Whenever Jigger Glinion expresses an opinion, you find he's only "lodge" of this is nothing but a prejudice. A gripe at his decision, he counters with declaration.

You may have your own pet ideas about an immediate opening bid of four in a major or five in a minor. And I respect it if you have a good reason for it, providing your partner understands it.

But, if your handling of it is contrary to accepted rule, have you reached that attitude by a combination of reasonable facts? or on a hunch? or because you hate to be rule bound?

An immediate game bid in a major or minor has a definite set of values to show. Rule says it shows a long and strong suit with no outside sure trick in a hand that can take eight tricks.

The theory is that such a hand is short of high cards and sure tricks that would be needed for a bid of one; that the hand has no value if this particular suit is not the trump.

Such a hand does not expect to make a slam. Why? It denies any tricks outside of trumps. Furthermore, it does not even expect to make the bid unless partner can produce tricks outside of trumps.

Because such a bid is known to ask partner to pass, players of experience use it as a manouvring bid; as a gamble, a shutout, a sacrifice; sometimes with any long suit and less than eight tricks.

Take a pair of partnership hands like these:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠10 7 4	♠None
♥K Q J 10 9 2	♥8 7 6 5
♦9	♦A Q 10 8 5
♣None	♣A K 10 8 5 4

If you are dealer in south, would you open? Have you not what it takes for a bid of one or two or three. Would you open with four hearts?

Having a reason is always in season.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 23 (AP) — The film set of "Tribute to a Bad Man" a movie about Hollywood, was deserted but the portraits on the wall of what was supposed to be a movie producers' office in the 1930s recalled some interesting chapters from the past.

There were Marie Dressler, Alice Brady, Edna May Oliver, Robert Benchley, Wallace Beery, Ted Healy and Thelma Todd.

They had this in common; all had died at the top of their careers. (Miss Todd died accidentally or was murdered; it has never been fully determined.)

There were three other photos that inspired thoughts about the fleeting nature of film fame. They were pictures of John Gilbert, Renee Adoree and Karl Dane.

John Gilbert . . . there was a lover! He was married four times, and his wives included actresses Leatrice Joy, Ina Claire and Virginia Bruce. His other romances dealt with such figures as Greta Garbo, Lupe Velez and Marlene Dietrich.

Gilbert first scored as "the Count of Monte Cristo" in 1922 and his big hit was as the doughboy in "The Big Parade" in 1924. He and Garbo formed a torrid team, and he is reported to have persuaded her to lead a hermit's life.

The advent of sound doomed his career; His voice wasn't as bad as people think; his style of love-making just sounded silly when words were heard. He died of heart failure in 1936 at the age of 38.

Renee Adoree . . . came to Hollywood and soared to fame as Melisande in "The Big Parade." She loved her success and played it to the hilt, racing through two marriages and a fortune.

A lung ailment sent her to Saranac, and friends said it was caused by her inability to pass up a party. She never recovered, and died at 37 in 1935.

Karl Dane . . . he completed "The Big Parade" trio. A thick-headed carpenter, he was yanked from obscurity to play the happy soldier. He lasted for a few years as a comedian. Sound also booted Dane from the studios.

In 1934, he spread out his old contracts, clippings and photos on a table in his modest apartment. Then he sat down in a chair and sent a .32 calibre bullet through his brain.

AT THE McCARTHY — Ray Milland makes an arrest in Indian territory in this scene from "Bugles In The Afternoon," the William Cagney Production for Warner Bros. The Technicolor film opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"The Girl From San Lorenzo"

In the San Lorenzo post office, Jane Adams stops Leonard Penn from shooting the Cisco Kid in the back. Cisco is forced to shoot Penn in self-defense, and Miss Adams hurries off to catch the stage. Cisco and his pal, Pancho leave for Cactus Wells and, enroute, witness a stage holdup by two men dressed just like themselves. The men escape and when Cisco drives the stage in, he is arrested for the holdup. He escapes to Miss Adams' ranch and, to help get money for her fiance's operation, he lets her pretend to capture him and get the reward. Later, Cisco and Pancho learn that the two bandits have been hired by the stage agent, Byron Foulger, to stage phoney holdups while he keeps the express money for himself.

Successful Supper Held in Church Hall

SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville — A most successful supper was held in Shannonville church hall on Easter Monday with auspices of the W.M.S. Easter lillies and daffodils in silver containers centred each of the three long tables which weer laden with delicious food.

The waiters and kitchen workers gave their usual efficient service.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Harry Sine at the piano. Two lovely piano duets were rendered by Misses Marion and Beverley Mastin. Tommy Hinchey, accompanied on the piano by his mother, Mrs. Damon Hinchey, contributed two vocal solols. All three numbers were well received and heartily applauded.

Rev. L. W. Scott tendered thankful appreciation to all who had taken part in the program, and to all those who had worked to make the supper a successful affair.

The proceeds weer over $47.

Little Marty Kornbloom was told he wouldn't be able to walk after an attack of poliomyelitis. But his parents, in California, read about Canada's Hospital for Sick Children and of Dr. William Mustard and his work on atrophied muscles. Properties Threatened By Several Grass Fires

Bancroft—Red-hot ashes, strong north wind and tinderdry grass and bush combined in Hastings district to produce a large ground fire that now is threatening the properties of Henry Dafoe, Dr. R. Y. Harvey and Rev. W. L. Smith, on Smith Street afternoon. Although it was being fought by a large number of men and youths with shovels, as well as the local fire department, Fire Chief Cecil McAlpine had to call for added assistance from the local branch of the Department of Lands and Forests to quell the blaze.

At the time the fire broke Dr. Haryett and Rev. Mr. Smith were absent from their residences and the latter's surrounded their houses from the north, had a good start before help was summoned

This was the third grass fire for Sunday and the third run for the volunteer fire department. During the week-end the local fire department has had more than its usual quota of spring fires, with the blaze usually being placed on young boys with matches or fire-crackers.

HISTORIC PORT

Digby in Nova Scotia was named in honor of the admiral who commanded the British squadron that brought Loyalist refugees to the port in 1783.

LOWER TAXATION

Coldwell Accepts Motion

Mr. Coldwell accepted this motion and added a paragraph asking the house to vote regret at the "failure" of the government to abolish the four-per-cent floor under medical expenses deductible for income tax purposes, as asked by a unanimous vote of members March 26 last.

The motions will be voted on at the conclusion of the budget debate which may continue for a week or more.

Mr. MacDonnell said this year the government will collect taxes at the rate of $10,000 a minute. These dug deep into the pockets. Canada was drifting into the position where, as in wartime, the government dominated the economy more and more.

Referring to Mr. Abbott's forecast surplus of $50,000,000 which had climbed to $722,000,000 by last December, Mr. MacDonnell said he believed the taxpayers were rightly indignant that they were being taxed unnecessarily.

Mr. Abbott's ability to make the surplus disappear had been caught by cartoonists and "Abbott's rabbits" will remain in our minds", Mr. MacDonnell said.

Mr. Coldwell criticized Mr. Abbott for not eliminating the four-per-cent floor on medical expenses, despite Commons approval of a C.C.F. motion to that effect March 26 last.

Mr. Abbott interjected that the motion simply asked consideration be given the matter.

Mr. Coldwell said that was "quibbling". Removal of the floor would have benefited everyone who had medical expenses, while the loss of the total deductible medical expenses — $1,500 from $750 for single persons and $2,000 from $1,500 for married persons — would provide little benefit.

Changes Deceptive Claim

Changes in the personal income taxes were deceptive. The minister had given the false impression that if it had not been for the social-security tax the 1952 income tax rates would be lower. Also the budget imposed a heavier tax on those in the lower-income groups than on those in the higher income-tax levels. This was not fair.

Mr. Low said there was actually no decrease in taxation at all and those in the lower income bracket were "getting it in the neck". It was "an man's budget."

Excise tax deductions should be made conditional on the manufacturer passing the benefit to the consumer. It was now apparent this was not being done fully in many cases.

During the night sitting Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) said Canada's growing military forces were too big a job for one man. He suggested appointment of an air minister to relieve Defence Minister Claxton of the heavy responsibility of the growing R.C.A.F.

Little Benny's Note Book

There is suppose to be a new arrangement for me to get up early enough every morning to take a shower bath, like pop. He hasn't started yet, on account of one of the hardest things for me to do is to get up in the morning any sooner than absolutely necesserry, and last nite ma said, Now really, Benny, I mean really, if you're not going to be able to manage to take your shower the first thing in the morning, there's only one solution, you'll have to take it before you go to bed.

Sounding like a swell solution on account of being something to make me stay up later, and I said, G, ma, that's a grate idea.

Now I just a minute, let's get the record strate, pop said. When your mother says you're to take a shower before you go to bed, she means before your regular bedtime. In other words, the shower is not to be started at 9 o'clock, is to be finished by 9 o'clock, so you won't lose any sleep, he said, and I said, But G whizzikers, pop, I'll like sports freedom. I mean how about all that time I'd of been able to waist with nuthing special to do ? I said.

Yes, poda, the new system, starts rite now, pop said, and I said, Aw G, pop, I cant helle, I expect Fuds Simkins to call me up any minute with an important message.

I'll make the message for you, pop said. You can trust me, I used to be a private secretery. I'll take the message about he ast, and I said, Well, I'm not positively sure what it's going to be exactly about, but anyways it's important.

The shower awaits in the bathroom, your majesty, pop said.

Being the end of the argewment and the beginning of the shower bath.

Officials Start Damage Survey After Fire Disaster

Vancouver Waterfront Loss May Reach $5,000,000

Vancouver, April 24 CP)—Fire knifed through industries and installations along Vancouver's waterfront yesterday with a fury which caused damage estimated at between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

A final estimate may not be available for days, until insurance adjusters are able to prowl through destroyed or damaged warehouses, grain elevators and jetties, railway stock and loading equipment.

The destruction branded the blaze as the worst in Vancouver's history. It flared up at 1:30 p.m. PST (4:45 p.m. EST) in the heart of "grain row"—about a mile east of the downtown area—and stabbed uncontrolled for three hours.

While investigators have made no announcement, workmen said it started when a freight train shunting on the United Grain Growers Ltd. dock struck a moving generator and caused a short-circuit.

Some dock workers, flames at their heels, escaped only by putting out in small boats, but there were no civilian casualties.

Ten of the force of nearly 500 firefigh ters were temporarily overcome by smoke from the wind-driven fire or received minor injuries.

Destroys Warehouse

The fire destroyed a warehouse owned by United Grain Growers and badly damaged the adjoining warehouse of Buckerfields Ltd., which was stored with feed and grain and chemical fertilizers.

E. R. Buckerfield, president of Buckerfields Ltd., said his loss at $1,500,000. Loss to United Grain Growers was expected to be at least equal that figure.

The main United Grain Growers elevators were saved, but in some huge stocks of wheat caught fire. Concrete walls of the elevators halted the spread of the flames.

In addition, two freight cars loaded with grain were destroyed, as well as more than 150 feet of the grain-laden trestle which grain ships are loaded and moret han 200 feet of dock.

A warehouse of the Vancouver Grain Terminals Company, which were housed tons of fertilizer, hay and general cargo, received water damage.

Freighters Scorched

Superstructures of the Norwegian freighters Sandanger and Tinni were scorched by the intense heat before tugs were able to pull them to open water.

Great clouds of smoke, rising 3,000 feet or more into the air, hampered firemen as they worked in night-like darkness. A fortunate shift in the wind helped them win the battle.

Outside the fire area, brilliant sunshine swept the city as thousands of spectators rushed to the scene. By 5 p.m. the area was blocked off by police patrols.

Harbour officials were unanimous in praise of the city firefighters.

"Thank God for the fireboat," said E. J. Alton, traffic manager of Buckerfields Ltd., certainly paid for itself today. The fireboat and the fact the wind was from the west were the only reasons why damage was not greater."

By early today, the firefighting squad had been slashed to a few men, who continued to keep water on the still-smouldering scene.

LONGER TRAINING

Stockholm — (CP) — The services period in Swedish conscripts will be increased by 20 days to a total of 204 days for basic training, it was announced here. One refresher courses. Included in the term is an obligatory 6 week harvest recess for work on farms.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 24—(CP)—Synopsis: Pressures dropped to the low 30s and in some localities to the mid 20s in Ontario last night with clear skies over the eastern province. A weak disturbance seen swift of the lakes caused rain along the south shore of Lake Erie but left most Ontario in sunny weather. Sunshine is expected today and Friday, and so temperatures will begin a slow warming trend.

Regina Pats 'Rarin' to Take On Guelph Bilts

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — Western Canada's junior hockey champions, Regina Pats, arrived here today and left for the lake on the big and shifty Guelph Biltmore Stadium for the Memorial Cup and Canadian title.

The best-of-seven finals opens in Guelph tomorrow night.

Led by coach Murray Armstrong, the Pats were completely with crew cuts and white sleeves when their train pulled into Union station.

They stopped long enough to pose for photographers and then headed for a local hotel.

Armstrong spent most of the day looking around for ice surface so Pats could get a workout. Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens usually available at this time of year, was closed by ice low about until April 26.

Armstrong finally arranged to move into the Guelph arena, 35 miles from Toronto, for a practice session on the eve of the opening row.

After tomorrow's game, the series swings to the Gardens here for the remaining games. The dates: April 27, April 30, May 2 and, if necessary, May 4, 6, and 7.

Pats entered the finals by defeating Fort William Buchanans in last Saturday's game, the series 4-2. Biltmores outer Montreal Canadiens last week in their best-of-seven series.

Communists Mass On East-West Border of Berlin

Berlin, April 24—(AP)—Young communists, estimated at upwards of 10,000, massed tonight on the east-west border of downtown Berlin for what appeared to be a huge demonstrands march on West Berlin.

Thousands of blue-shirted "free German youth" the crowds were being assembled toward the end of the 'Wall' at strategic border points for an apparent march into the British, American and French sectors.

Several Germans who talked to the early gatherers said the aim seemed to be a sudden surge with banners and leaflets into the west, demanding an "peace treaty" and German unity.

West Berlin police warned their squadrons against possible trouble. Commandos have been let into the west in the past but not in the numbers expected this time.

Alberta Mice Wrest Large-Family Title from Rabbits, Do Big Damage

Edmonton, April 24—(CP)—Alberta's field mice appear to have wrested the large family-title from the old champion—the rabbit.

They're also being blamed for damage to fruit trees and small shrubs usually charged to the long-ears.

While all this is going on, the mice are keeping up with their own special damage to grain.

Hordes of the tiny mice first appeared when farmers lifted stooks of grain left in the fields over the winter. The grain was not harvested because of an early snow last fall.

The mice put in a busy winter. Some farmers report almost a total loss of grain from mice damage. Swathed grain—grain cut in rows and left lying flat and not in bundles—is said to be particularly hard hit.

"I checked several fields . . . in which some grain damage was 100 per cent," said Charles Yule, former manager of the Calgary exhibition, and stampede.

Horticulture supervisor F. D. McFarlane said in the Edmonton area are causing extensive damage to small fruit trees and shrubbery. Similar damage is reported from Calgary.

Mr. McCalla said even small evergreen trees, particularly spruce, are being damaged in American elm, and green ash were damaged at the provincial nursery at Oliver.

The mice gnawed 100 per cent of the seedlings there in the nursery, he said. The damage consists of the straight bark near the base of the trees.

He said some of the damage may have been caused by rabbits but mice are by far the worst offenders.

In Calgary, residents of a western section of the city have seen hundreds of the creatures migrating across roads despite heavy car traffic.

The infestations take place in cycles. The last in the southern part of the province was apparently in 1942.

In the north, Robert Grendon of Edmonton went for a two-day trip to the country.

MISSOURI RIVER FLOODS AIR BASE AS DIKES BREAK

Kansas City Expected To Hold Off Floods

Kansas City, April 24—(AP)—The army lost in heart breaking battle against the swirling Missouri River at Sherman air force field last night.

For 10 days troops, aided at times by civilians, fought the river, raising the dikes ahead of the surging water. Then it got the levelled off at its record crest. It looking like the worst was over.

But about fifty 2 o'clock last night the Missouri pounded a hole in a dike at the southwest corner of the field. It widened rapidly and in 48 minutes a 10½ foot wall of water, like that over the dam 500,000 field.

Only about 75 men were on the dikes at the time. All got out safely. Airplanes and other equipment had been removed days ago.

As the Missouri's crest moved on, army engineers gave assurances Kansas City can take it this time.

They said their experienced flood fighters were ready for any emergency.

The note of optimism came from Col. L. L. Lincoln as crest of 31 feet bore down on Kansas City, Kas., and Kansas City, Mo., area. That level—several feet above flood—is some 10 feet less than the dikes here built to stand.

Farry Blows

And it is far less than the devastating 36.2 crest that came roaring down the New Orleans River to spread destruction in the Missouri Valley a year ago.

Eastward on the Mississippi, the town continued to party from the blows of a record flood crest.

The little of Sabula, most of it below the river level, was the critical point as the river stage reached 23.3 feet and the dikes held. A crest or 19.6 was predicted for tonight. Officials were not too optimistic that there would not be the strain.

Downstream, about 40 blocks were flooded at Canton, Mo., and school was dismissed for the week as water crept to within two blocks.

In the south, the Shreveport and Lake Charles, La., weather bureau reported the Red River, Texas, Sulphur, Little and Sabine Rivers would exceed flood stages within 24 hours. Some evacuations and there were no indications any of the rivers would reach their levels, barring further rain.

Many little lowland communities in Louisiana felt the flood's punishment. The nearby Florida Parishes, threatening with only inches of safety margin.

Little Rock, Ark., was cleared of people earlier this week. Riverside, Mo., a hamlet on the flood plain, was evacuated earlier, too.

London, April 24 — (AP) — Yugoslavia will demand the recall of Soviet Ambassador to the Soviet Embassy in Belgrade, the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said yesterday. Tanjug said first secretary Vladimir Karmonov collected confidential data and instructed four men recently convicted in Belgrade of spying for Russia.

Trigger-Tense Prison Convicts Agree to End Mutiny After Accepting 11-Point Demand

Jackson, Mich., April 24 (AP) — Tense southern Michigan prison convicts agreed today to end their riotous five-day revolt, but several hours later were reported still battling among themselves.

A tough prisoner who bolted the convict-stronghold cell block 15 as a hostage guard was released and pointed fist-fighting and kicking among some prisoners who left inside.

Kenneth Moore, 36, also told prison officials that a verbal battle over leadership of the insurrection was still going on between the convicts' two top men—Earl Ward and Lee Lamington, Ont.-born Jack (Crazy Jack) Hyatt.

The information from inside was that eight hostage guards still were safe.

Fever in Steak Dinner

It was to get the guards out of the power of the knife-wielding rioters that Warden Ralph Watkins Williams and prison heads gave in early today to the convicts' reform demands—and drew in a steak dinner besides.

Moore dashed from the cell block with his hands in the air as the big 1,200-man prison's first 24-year-old guard James Akins, in a state of near-collapse after long days as a hostage.

Copies of morning papers carrying accounts of the disturbance were passed into the cell block early today, and it was clear few there had been no reaction from the convicts.

Actual surrender of the grim five tiered cellhouse to the 11 prison confinement holes was not expected before this afternoon.

Governor Williams gave in to the convicts' demands after he had included charges of brutality, overcrowding, racial segregation and medical care and inadequate parol procedure.

A non-profit organization was modified by Governor Williams to a pledge of no reprisals by guards or other prison personnel.

Lives of Guards Threatened

The governor's capitulation came after the convicts had threatened to of guards hung in balance against the mounting rage of the convicts barricaded in the cell block.

Fear for their lives was heightened when Jack (Crazy Jack) Hyatt emerged to take command of the rioting. The quick-tempered long-term convict from Leamington, Ont., once seized Governor Williams at knife-point as an escape shield at another prison.

The mutiny Sunday night in cell block 15, where the worst dangerous of the 5,000 men prison are serving isolation terms for defiance of prison rules.

The rebels seized 13 guards but in the next five days they let four of them go—because of age or illness or in deals for concessions from officials.

On Monday, the isolated rioting spread throughout the prison. The convicts set fire to two cellhouse buildings, ripped apart the insides of their neat cell blocks and spread smoking debris across trim lawns just turning a spring-like green. Hundreds were killed, 11 injured. Four state troopers suffered minor injuries.

Gradually the rioting was put down in one cell block after another. But yesterday block 15 was the last real bastion of rebel resistance.

Near Breaking Point

In that block, the prison's toughest convicts held knives and clubs to the throats of guards threatening to take their lives in reprisal for any attempt to storm the cell block.

Tension neared the breaking point when Hyatt stepped to the front last night, seized the telephone in the block and began hysterically shouted demands to Governor Fitzlolo.

Hyatt insisted the convicts would accept no truce unless it was surrendered by Lamington-Williams. On top of that, the rumors insisted that Hyatt was backed by a publication in the press. The agreement continued.

Earlier the newspapers carry the story, a newspaper will be presented by the inmates of 15 block. Immediately after receiving the newspaper, Lamington, Ont. Inmate will be stationed at the door to shake down for weapons. The newspaper will be used in the dining room to be served an abundant meal of turkey, ice cream and appropriate trimmings.

Truman Says His Ultimatum To Stalin In 1946 Forced Russian Troops Out of Iran

Washington, April 24 (AP)—President Truman said today his recent an ultimatum to Premier Stalin and forced Russian troops out of Iran in 1946, but the White House said that the President was being misquoted.

Roger Tubby, assistant presidential Press Secretary, called in reporters at three hours after Truman's press conference statement to give them a clarification.

Tubby said Truman did not send a note to Stalin that led to the Russian withdrawal, and that the President had been speaking in figurative language.

Tubby added:

"On March 6, 1946, a note was sent from the U.S. government to the Soviet government making our position perfectly plain with respect to the situation in Iran. This note was published on March 7. As you probably recall the Russians withdrew their troops from Iran, May, 1946."

Department Disturbed

Tubby was a press officer in the state department befo' he was attached to the White House.

There appeared to be reasons for reporters to think that the state department had been disturbed by the President's remarks.

To diplomats, the term "ultimatum" the last word, by means telling some one your position is, in effect, an "or-else-we-go-to-war" fashion.

Truman had told reporters he was ready to lay his ultimatum with American troops and ships.

The President also told a press conference that there was a time when Yugoslavia decided to take Trieste, but that he ordered the U.S. Mediterranean fleet into that area and there was no march on Trieste.

Truman spoke of these incidents in discussing Russia generally and specifically his seizure of the steel industry.

Sloppy Clothes Of Americans Annoy Tailor

Washington, April 24 (AP) —Ray Tweyffort, a Fifth Avenue tailor, says American men "have become a nation of bums and slobs because of slovenly dress."

He's upset particularly by the soft-collared shirts worn by so many officials and diplomats.

"When we took the starch out of our collars we took the starch out of our backbones," Tweyffort told a reporter after attending a business conference here.

"Manners manners and etiquette have disappeared," he declared. "Even high officials of the Army Women rush to work wearing bandanas, looking like Russian peasants. Ugh!"

Tweyffort, dressed in double-breasted suit, black homburg—and starched collar—said that the country's capitalists you should look like a capitalist, he does.

And whether a cane should be carried with his outfit, he said, no, "too stuffy."

BUDGET TERMED 'FALSE FACE' BY OPPOSITION

Debate Moves Slowly Through Second Day

Ottawa, April 24—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott's budget yesterday was given a new description—the false-face-budget.

The label was suggested by Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Eglington, as the budget debate moved slowly through the second day.

Mr. Fleming said when the 'false face' of the budget was ripped away, the Canadian people found they would pay higher taxes this year than in 1951, when taxation was the "worst in Canadian history" in peace time.

The budget should not have been presented April 8, but "on April Fool's day."

James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to the finance minister, offered the main government defence of fiscal policy in face of all criticism he aid, he would simply ask where in the world was there another country with a sounder economic position, a sounder fiscal policy, better development, or a higher level of employment than this country of Canada.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) and Hazen Argue (C.—Fort William), also spoke in the debate.

Mr. Knowles said Canadians had been "tricked" because the government had changed its direction from the Commons to eliminate the four-per-cent floor on mediation boards in railway disputes. Members had unanimously endorsed a C.C.F. resolution to that effect and he still hoped the government would change its mind.

Hints Aid for Newspapers

Mr. McIvor, a United Church minister, appealed for government action to aid the impoverished.

Mr. Sinclair said J. M. Macdonald (PC—Toronto Greenwood), the chief financial critic of the Progressive Conservative opposition, had had his facts all wrong. Monthly, a magazine devoted to Canadian affairs, had come to his critic, the budget. In the same library where he found the Alliance Journal, Mr. Macdonald wouldn't have had to look far for many responsible journals which lauded the budget.

Since the end of the war, he had reduced the national debt by $2,300,000,000, paying back three billion dollars of years of the war.

Mr. Sinclair said the government considered the C.C.F. motion suggesting elimination of the four-per-cent floor on mediation expenses for income tax purposes, but decided against it. It left the ceiling on amounts taxpayers could deduct.

People Not Fooled Claim

Mr. Fleming said the intolerable load of taxation being carried by Canadians focused attention on the budget. The people were not fooled. The general opinion was that if it was a budget for a budget was worse than the last one.

How the government could meet its deficit, he could not understand. Mr. Abbott now was talking about a deficit, he had announced budget and there was no more talk about debt reduction.

Mr. Fleming said he, for one, wanted to see it done in an orderly manner and not because of bad budgeting and over-taxation.

Needle Found In Dog's Liver

A six-year-old collie dog is back home once more in Keller's farm at Moira, 15 miles north of here, after a trip to Belleville which was highlighted by a 30-minute stop on an operating table while a two-inch needle was removed from his liver. The operation was performed by Dr. Harry Burns, Belleville veterinary surgeon.

Describing the operation as the most successful in his career, the youthful doctor related that the discovery of the needle imbedded in the dog's liver was a fluke.

"When Joe Keller brought his dog to me, he was pressed every time he took a breath," the doctor related. "It was evident that the animal was in great pain and it seemed to me that something was acting with the respiratory system. To find out, I had to operate."

While checking the dog's breathing equipment, the doctor's gloved hand passed over the animal's liver. The point of the needle had pierced the outer wall of the liver, resulting in stabbing pain every time the collie breathed.

So I just pulled out the needle and now the dog feels fine," the doctor said.

The veterinary expressed the view that the dog had swallowed something containing the needle and that the needle had eaten its way through the wall of the intestinal tract and eventually lodged in the liver.

Fire Destroys P.E. County Home Most of Contents

A Prince Edward county family with nine children lost their home and most of the household contents in a fire which broke out when fire starting in an upstairs bedroom spread to the other farm building.

The family, residing on the 100-acre farm Mr. Pennell worked with a construction company at Belleville and he was away from home at the time of the blaze. The fire department was called after the dinner hour, and is presumed to have started from an electric wiring.

Firemen said that had they been called earlier they could have undoubtedly saved the dwelling.

The Pennell family have set up temporary housekeeping in a tenant house a short distance down the road from their farm, but it is expected they will not be able to drive back on their farm for living quarters.

Burnt Cork and Melody Choristers Provide Hilarious Entertainment

Songs, jokes, skits and gay repartee by the Burnt Cork and Melody choristers of the AYPA of Christ Church, provided the most hilarious laughter which all but beat the rafters of the auditorium last evening, and bursted the sides of a capacity audience, as they listened and watched the antics of the black-faced rollickers through two acts of entertainment.

Mr. Bill Dack acted as interlocutor, and kept his retinue in perfect timing from start of "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" as the Dixie chorus blithely hopped down the aisle and up the steps to the stage in their colorful regalia and shining, black faces with Mrs. Mandy Jones taking the lead, both for make up, and contagious laughter, not to mention her fancy dance steps, executed intermptly, till the last laugh was laughed and the last act completed.

Between the two acts, the first comprising well-known songs by the chorus, lead by Mandy, selections on the piano accordion; and solos by Miss Blossom Washington and Miss Marjorie Jones sang "Summertime," "Aunt Rhody," "Ole Man River," "Somewhere" and "Smilin' Through," respectively.

Pressure Salesman

Act two was ushered in by a skit entitled "Pressure Salesman Work," by Bill Bailey and Sam Samson, which depicted the pressure salesman at work endeavoring to sell his safety razor which not only was guaranteed to peel off human skin, but could also be used to peel potatoes and dig out their eyes. Result Sam Samson became the pressure salesman of the multi-use razor but the loser of his eight hairs on his head. The jokes were both ancient and modern, but even those of ancient vintage solicited peals of laughter as well as those of today.

The cast included Max Currie, as Mr. Bones, Herb Cavalier, as Mr. Clarence; Barbara Ward as Mrs. Mandy Jones, and Mary Ward as Mrs. Clarence Chilvers. Mary Belcher, Olga Bridger, Barbara Smale, Dick Wilson, Earl Ashley and Joanne Johnson.

Among the many song numbers enjoyed were the two solos, the first comprising well-known songs by the chorus, lead by Mandy; selections on the piano accordion; and solos by Miss Blossom Washington and Miss Marjorie Jones sang "Summertime," "Aunt Rhody," "Ole Man River," "Somewhere" and "Smilin' Through," respectively.

APPROVES MEASURES

Guatemala, Guatemala, April 24 — (AP) — The Guatemalan Congress yesterday approved 27 labor and job-security measures. One law requires employers to give one month severance pay for each year of employment in dismissing workers. Another calls for management to pay sickness expenses of a worker and his family in certain circumstances.

Car Theft Charge Faces Two Youths

Two Montreal youths, William Bryan and Patrick Twitch, who appeared in county magistrate's court here last week on theft charges, now face a charge of auto theft in Oshawa.

Last week the boys were remanded until today for sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills who sentenced them to one day in jail. They were immediately given another charge and were taken to Oshawa to face the charge of auto theft.

Two days ago provincial police arrested the youths at Marysville as they were going through cars and were charged with the theft of a watch.

St. Thomas' Woman's Auxiliary Presents Colorful Daffodil Tea

Muted lights filtering through curling fringes of palest green and yellow; little green gardens of tulips, daffodils, and pussy willows grew around each pillar; baskets of daffodils and pussy willows in windows and lovely blue birds headed for an equally lovely tea table was the charming vista that met the eye yesterday afternoon at St. Thomas' parish house for the daffodil tea, sponsored by Woman's Auxiliary, held, awar

Exquisite Centrepiece

A Madeira linen cloth graced the tea table with its exquisite centre of golden daffodils, pussy willow spikes and blue corn flowers, British Columbia blue berry sprays and asparagus fern, while tall, yellow tapers in gleaming silver tri-branched candelabra complemented the symphony in yellow, and with the shining silver services, added just that extra something to make a perfect whole. The ten guests tables with their cloths of white and centrepieces of silver vases, each holding one lovely daffodil and pussy willow branch, were eye-catching.

Those who poured were Mrs. E. Wheatley and Mrs. R. Bogie, Mrs. H. Fenn and Mrs. Austin Smith; while those who served at tables and in the kitchen included: Mesdames, S. Smith, F. Benson, J. McDonald, A. H. Ketcheson, C. E. Hamilton, T. Simpson, J. Wims, D. G. Brunton, F. Leach, J. Clark, S. E. Morton, F. Clarke, A. Singer and Miss J. Watson.

Mrs. H. Cole, assisted by Mrs. E. K. Atwell, convened the tea room.

Finest Marmalades

In the double adjoining room was one of the finest exhibits of marmalades ever seen outside of a chain store. Here were ginger marmalades, orange and lemon, grapefruit and several others, all showing that delightful amber color, so nice to see, and equally nice to the taste. This was under the convenership of the Evening Auxiliary with Mrs. I. Athey and Mrs. E. Jacob in charge.

The Junior Auxiliary also had their quota under the guidance of Mrs. A. Skelcher and Mrs. J. Marshall. These consisted of cuddle animals in prints, of elephants, ponies and rabbits, all made by the little people from 5 to 10 years of age.

The candy table, convened by the Girls' Auxiliary, carried out the daffodil colors of green and yellow by means of a bucket of tiny baskets in yellow with green bands, each filled with dainty confections of divinity fudge in white and green; maple creams and chocolates. The table itself was spoked like a wheel by means of fluted green bands with superimposed bands of yellow. This was under the direction of Mrs. F. Aiken.

Good Things to Eat

The homecooking table, convened by Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. R. Tather, assisted by Mrs. F. Bromfield, was laden with all manner of good things, fresh homemade bread and buns, almost warm and giving off that appetizing aroma only to freshly home-baked bread; luscious date loaves, tiny cookies dotted with pieces of red maraschino cherries, lemon tarts, meringue tipped, apple pies, while white and chocolate cakes sprinkled with nut meats.

A gay tulip quilt, made by the teen-age girls, crowded around dolls, and large scrap books were also on display.

An exceptionally fine afternoon tea, splendidly convened, with special words of appreciation to Mrs. J. Mastine for the unusual and lovely decorative effects, and to all others whose untinted assistance made the afternoon so successful and pleasant.

British Conservatives, Laborites Becoming Increasingly Hostile

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 24—(CP)—Parliament is back in session after the Easter recess and indications are the holiday spirit won't last long.

From all accounts, the Conservative government and the Labor opposition spent the Easter interlude brushing up on the intricacies of parliamentary procedure and otherwise preparing for what some observers think may be the toughest series of sittings since the war.

The two parties, keenly feeling the rivalry that results when the contestants are so evenly matched, adjourned two weeks ago in an aggressive mood and nothing has occurred to foreshadow any easing in the pressure.

Labor Swing

Labor has naturally been hostile ever since the Conservatives came back to power in last October's general election. Recently its appetite for battle has been whetted by the results of local elections, which pointed to a sharp swing away from the government.

The socialists now claim the Conservatives have no mandate for contentious legislation. If an election were held tomorrow, they argue, Labor would be swept back into office with a clear-cut majority.

This feeling is so strong that the left-wing New Statesman and nation already is slightly panicky about a possible premature return to power.

"Labor is in grave danger," it says. "It is in danger of finding itself in office, put there by an angry electorate before it has ironed out its own divisions or decided on a program for another five years of office."

One of the most intriguing things about the present state of parliamentary pastime is that most of the excitement seems to be generated by rank-and-file members. For Labor, the ginger group appears to be headed by Geoffrey Bing, member for Hornchurch, leading a section known as the "Bing Wing" which has put every kind of obstacle in the way of government legislation.

"Grunlled" Tories?

So far, Winston Churchill's administration has succeeded in passing only one piece of legislation promised in the Queen's Speech from the Throne—the Bill to revive the wartime home guard.

On the Conservative side, similarly, the back-benchers appear to be the more active. The list of "revolts" by Conservative rank-and-file committees has been openly heard, although there is no suggestion that loyalty has been shaken.

In fact, the solidarity of the ruling party is clearly reflected in parliamentary voting figures. In the present parliament, the Conservatives have won the 82 divisions in which the opposition challenged them by an average majority of 40 votes — considerably higher than the actual Tory majority in parliament of 18.

The feeling of frustrated Tories is perhaps best described by observers who refer humorously to the well-meant "T.F.G.S."—meaning not exactly disgruntled, but far from "grunlled."

TRUMAN

He said the president has very great inherent powers to meet emergencies developing that require action.

Last Thursday, Truman was asked this question:

"Mr. President if you can seize the steel mills under your inherent powers, can you, in your opinion, also seize the newspapers or/and the radio stations?"

Truman replied that under similar circumstances, the president of the United States has to act for whatever is for the best of the country. "That's the answer to your question," he added.

In reverting to the matter today, Truman said the thought of seizing the press and radio never occurred to him.

Acted In Emergency

He went on to say he seized the steel industry because this country is in the midst of the greatest emergency it has ever had.

It was then he told his press conference:

That in 1945 he had to send an ultimatum to the head of the Soviet Union to get out of Persia (Iran).

They got out, Truman said of the Russians, because the U.S. was in a position then to meet the situation in that area.

Later, the president went on, Yugoslavia decided to take Trieste. He said he though that was 1946.

He said he not only ordered the Mediterranean fleet into that area but told General Eisenhower, to send three divisions to northern Italy.

Truman commented there was no march on Trieste.

The president was asked whether he sent a personal message to Stalin, delivered as an ultimatum, from The president said the ultimatum went through regular channels.

"Was it an ultimatum in the sense that you fixed a time limit for the Russians to move out?" a reporter asked.

The president said they had a day certain in which to get out. He said he did not recall how many days were involved.

THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1952

HE CLAIMS BROAD POWERS

American newspaper editors are said to be "shocked" the assertion, made by President Harry S. Truman in shington the other day, that he has the power to seize n press and radio in a national emergency. It will be ealed that only recently Mr. Truman placed the United ates steel-making industry under seizure because a ike was threatening, or perhaps on the pretext that a ike was threatening.

Since Mr. Truman made his assertion about having authority to seize press and radio in the presence of more than 350 members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and 150 Washington correspondents, there doesn't seem to be much doubt about what he said.

A good many of those who have commented on Mr. Truman's statement have used such expressions as "just absurd" to describe it. But others have seen in it a dangerous tendency toward totalitarianism. It is an established fact that tyrants always try to gain control of the press, and in more recent times, of the radio as well.

If what the president of the United States says and does had effect only in the United States, the rest of us might not need to care much. But what happens in the United States usually has repercussions far beyond the boundaries of this country. Any important developments there are bound to affect nearby countries, such as Canada. Besides, it is incontestable that demagogic politicians in Canada have frequently, during the last two decades, shown themselves more than willing to imitate the utterances and practices of the leaders of the Democratic party in the United States.

That the American Democrats have swung far to the left since 1932 is well known to require discussion. They have swung so far to the left, in fact, that their policies today are just about the exact opposite of those laid down by Thomas Jefferson, that Democrat who was not only the founder of the Democratic party but one of the greatest reformers, if not the chief founder, of the United States itself.

Whatever other effects Mr. Truman's remarks about seizing the press and radio may have, they are likely to bring joy to the Republicans, because they now have further proof, from Mr. Truman himself, of their own contention that the Democrats believe, as the Republicans have always charged, that the state is, or should be, supreme over the individual and his rights.

PROFESSOR LOWER DEFENDED

Some of the newspapers have been castigating Professor A. M. Lower of Queen's University for certain remarks he made during an address to members of the Ontario Humanities Association.

Dr. Lower was reported as saying that the educated man must expect to be lonely in Canada, because 99 per cent of the people around him are Philistines, narrow-minded and materialistic. He cannot expect to be rich, because his education unfits him for the crude, competitive world of commercialism. One direct quotation: "The truly educated man could not bear to spend his time trying to sell soft drinks."

Professor Lower was too inclusive when he declared that 99 per cent of Canadians were "Philistines, narrow-minded and materialistic." Surely the percentage is not that high.

But there was still at least an element of truth in Professor Lower's remarks. The man of superior intellectual attainments, (assuming that the expression of superior education" is accepted as synonymous with "superior mentality"), is likely to be lonely in the midst of almost any crowd; probably more lonely than when in one or two chosen crowds. Many of history's great men have had few close friends; more than a few have shown a fondness for a great deal of solitude.

No, Professor Lower does not deserve the criticism we almost said abuse — that has been showered upon him. He may not be entirely right, but he is not entirely wrong, either.

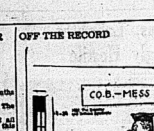
THE GRAY DAY

If never the rain came down
And never the skies were grey
Ugly and barren and brown
And lifeless the soil would stay.



If never a harsh wind blew
And never the nights were dark
The garden could never grow
The larkspur and marigold.

Grumble at times we may
And over our cares complain
But still from the troubled day
Triumph and growth we gain.

If never our faith were tried
And never were cause for tears
Then never would blossom pride
For barren would be the years.

Deceptive Facade Cloaks Stuffiness of Hong Kong Life

(Editor's Note — This is the last of four stories written by Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the Canadian forces in Korea, after a visit to Hong Kong. The story describes life in the British far-east colony.)

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Hong Kong, April 24—(CP)—On the surface Hong Kong is a colorful city. Actually, it's a dull, stuffy, stodgy place.

It's a blend of east and west, of rickshaws and taxicab, white-jacketed Amah with braided pigtail shops with mistress wearing London's latest. Its storefronts are overhung with banners of lucky red, and its neon signs always more intriguing in the Orient, are an abstract, gaudy, unintelligible medley.

At night the click-clack of the Mah Jong pieces and tang of the Orient battle with the blare of Tin Pan Alley.

That's where the color ends.

In this overgrown village of 2,500,000 there is a legitimate theatre, an opera company, a ballet group or a symphony orchestra. There isn't a concert hall or a public library. There is a literary group whose occasional productions don't touch the level of Canada's little theatre movement.

Movies feature wild-west and thriller pictures.

For Europeans, life revolves around the favorite beer, the early tall hour and the dinner party. Hong Kong people are incredibly hospitable to a few select friends among the Chinese. Officers in the garrison, here for two years, have never met a Chinese socially.

A man's evening out is bridge, or drinks at the seedier Hong Kong Club where conversation is permissible but where members frown on a potentian diabetic or not, it would be wise to have your doctor's attention:

Excessive thirst
Excessive urination
Loss of weight
Intense itching
Pain in the extremities
Excessive hunger
Slow healing of cuts and bruises.
Easy tiring.

Any one of these symptoms or changes in your condition is ample reason for seeking a health examination by your doctor.

In a Minnesota community of 12,000 population. The American Diabetes Association, with the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and the supervision of the County Medical Society, succeeded in having nearly 10,000 people screened for hidden diabetes by virtue of a door-to-door canvass made by 250 volunteers. In the Minnesota diabetes detection drive the disease was detected in at least 50 persons who didn't know they had it. The 50 persons are lucky.

Reasonable care about their diet and perhaps the use of insulin will not only keep them in the pink but stave off grave or fatal complications which might have overtaken them at any time in the days they were living before they found out about the diabetes.

Obesity, superfluous fat, slackness of flesh—never mind the weight—is a sin in any case. The taint of a potential diabetic it is a grievous sin. For him or her the best thing that could happen is a sentence to a strict 30 days diabetic diet — one prescribed by the physician just as though the patient were actually diabetic. This will bring about decided reduction without impairing the patient's general nutrition as the popular reducing diets do. It will build the patient's vile and functional efficiency in many respects. It will better the patient's expectation of life.

No, period. I said the diet should be prescribed by the physician—your physician. I warn you to have no truck with a diet prescribed for some one else or with a ready-made diet that was originally given somebody at the best advertised by a friend that isn't out to suit your personal requirements isn't worth the paper it is printed on.

QUESTION?AND ANSWERS

What Happens to the Voice?

Please explain just what happens to the voice when the tonsils are removed? (V.D.)

Answer—Many singers feel that removal of tonsils has improved their singing voice. In some instances the tonsils, sclasors or snare removes pieces of throat muscle along with the tonsil tissue, and this accounts for impairment of singing voice. Others have a voice, then twice and then again before you submit to surgical tonsillectomy. In my opinion, the new electro-coagulation treatment of infected tonsils is more sure and more effective in any case.

Take it Easy, Skinny

I am 18 ad what you call a "holy fright"—five feet five tall and weigh only 109 pounds. Doctors tells me I never sit still long enough . . . but I can't just leave. (H.H.)

Answer—Send stamped, self - addressed envelope for pamphlet How to Gain Weight. Some of the suggestions therein might be to smooth out the hollows and angles.

TODAY'S TALK

"y George MATTHEW ADAMS

SENTIMENT

I once heard Woodrow Wilson say if an address: "Ladies and gentlemen, the great defect of this life are the things of sentiment." And so they are. Sentiment softens, strengthens, gives to it a precious mellowness.

There is delight to sentiment, too. People speak about the sentiment behind an act or event, which gives to it distinction and a certain glamorous beauty. We have simple things because of the sentiment that gives to them a sacred aura. There are sterling ittings, that if traced to their source, you would learn were originated in the heart, and are akin to love.

But sentiment spreads and it is forever cropping up to reveal memories, experiences, historic associations. St. Patrick's day in New York City I was amused to see the whole line on Fifth Avenue, that separates traffic, painted green for the celebration of that day! And that was all right. There was a sentimental reason, reminding people of the noble Saint and his service to humanity.

The late George Grey Barnard, one of America's greatest sculptors, was a dear friend of mine. We often talked at his studio to the small hours of the morning. One time he went to a drawer and drew from it a little box in which he had a fashioned in bronze a fresco of the Sistine Chapel done by the great Michelangelo. Mr. Barnard who was engaged to repair this painting at one time, and is showed me the small fragment, so carefully preserved on cotton, even showing Michelangelo's thumb print, I could see in his eyes how full of sentiment his heart was for that great Master.

There is something spiritually enlivening about honest sentiment. It snuffs out worldliness from the mind, and creates an atmosphere of kindness and gentleness in one's nature, and it is surprising how truly the great things of life are the things of sentiment!

Reg Smith, president of the union local, said managers were not a factor in the walkout. He said the men were angry because company officials had not co-operated in settling grievances.

Wee War Brews In Scotland Over Exporting Unaged Scotch

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

Glasgow (AP) —Scotland is debating a burning question—is immature whiskey fit to drink?

A related question is, presuming it is not, should immature Scotch whiskey be allowed to go out into the world as a symbol of Scottish thrift, ingenuity and canniness?

he answers produce a clash of opinions that threatens to reach parliament. It is a little whisky war between two camps of distillers and blenders.

The Scotch Whisky Association, old and powerful, has lined up against the Independent Scotch Whisky Association, which is new, but which by its members produce.

Canada, the United States and Britain herself are not directly concerned in the merits of the debate. These countries have their own regulations which say that Scotch whiskey must be matured at least three years. It had become a sort of unwritten law that it must be three years old before it is fit to drink.

Then the war, when the United Kingdom began scrambling for foreign currencies. A number of exporters discovered that many other countries will buy whiskey matured at less than three years. It had become a sort of unwritten law that whiskey

Times Have Changed Along Waterfront In Past 65 Years Says 82-Year-Old Wm. Belnap

Times have changed along the local waterfront in the past 65 years, according to William "Bill" Belnap, 82-year-old Rossmore old-timer, who last week recalled busy scenes along the Bay of Quinte six or more decades ago.

A former professional fisherman who knows every nook and cranny of the bay from Trenton to Picton, Mr. Belnap well remembers the bay when it was alive with tugs and timber rafts and with the sails of commercial schooners as they plied between Belleville and ports across Lake Ontario.

Grain and coaling schooners were the most popular sight but passenger boats ran daily up and down the bay. But that was in the day before motor traffic and paved highways were known.

Remembers Old Varuna

The passenger boat "Varuna" running daily between Trenton and Picton was a well known sight as the paddle-wheeled boat way up the bay. Another passenger craft was the "Hero" which operated daily between Belleville and Kingston.

Mr. Belnap recalls the "paddle-wheel" cordwood burning ferries which ran between Belleville and Rossmore before the bay bridge was constructed.

Fare across the bay for a single "rig" and driver was 20 cents, and for 4 head, 50 cents. Additional passengers paid a nickel each both ways.

"But us kids used to get many a free trip across the bay," recalls the elderly gentleman. "When business was slack we used to get many a free ride."

The ferries ran both early and late in the season according to Mr. Belnap could break up to eight inches of ice.

Bridge Opened in 1890

The opening of the bay bridge in 1890 following its construction the year previous put an end to ferry operations across the bay.

A surprise for many readers of the Ontario Intelligencer will be that Rossmore was once a thriving village of 1,250 inhabitants. Main industry of the village was the lumber mill where most of the men worked.

Almost from the time he quit school Mr. Belnap worked at "the mill". Wages at that time and until well after he was married were $1 per day.

The sawmill broke down in 1888 and because stands of timber in the district were being depleted it never started up again.

"They took the mill down and moved it away," Mr. Belnap said. Tow Rafts to Montreal

Associated with the lumber business at Rossmore and at Belleville was the construction of big timber rafts for towing to Montreal. French timber men would arrive and for weeks would be busy assembling the big rafts of softwood timbers. Spruce on top would be beech and other hardwood lumber and timbers. Tugs would then tow the rafts out into the lake and down the St. Lawrence to Montreal.

Shipment of lumber by sailing schooner to Oswego was also "big business" at that time. As many as 16 lumber schooners used to ply up and down the bay.

On incoming trips the schooners would come loaded with coal and unloading the boats offered an opportunity of good pay for men not afraid of work. Three men gangs with a bucket operated by a horse and gin pole could unload from 200 to 300 tons per day—but not in an eight hour day.

Produce Was Cheap

Eight cents per ton was received for unloading coal and with good luck this could work out to as much as $8 per day per man.

But even with wages at $1 or so per day commodity prices were such that a lot of groceries could be purchased with a day's pay. Mr. Belnap recalls butter was 15 cents per lb and eggs eight cents a dozen.

Coal ranged from $5.50 to $6.25 per ton and hard "licker" was five cents a glass and help yourself. A gallon of liquor could be bought for 25 cents, and beer was the real McCoy with lots of hops.

But it was as a fisherman that Mr. Belnap derived his main livelihood with sunfish and bullheads the main catch. He was helping his father at fishing when he was 12 years old.

In winter they fished through the ice while in summer their boats would be piled up and down the bay between Trenton and Big Island. Seine netting of whitefish and other types was allowed in the bay at that time. "But they made it illegal," was the old fisherman related, "they said it was too destructive."

"Yes," times have changed along the bay," Mr. Belnap assured.

House Briefs

Ottawa, April 24 (CP) —E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) suggested yesterday that the number of Canadian missionaries imprisoned in China and the conditions under which they are detained may be worse than described this week by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

His suggestion that the Prime Minister might make a further statement brought from Mr. St. Laurent the reply that his information came from official and semi-official sources and that if Mr. Fulton had additional information he would be glad to look into it.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said yesterday that farmers who do not receive the floor price on hogs from packing companies should commiserate with the agriculture department.

The minister was replying to a question as to whether there was any control over packing companies to make them meet the floor price of 26 cents.

Defence Minister Claxton said yesterday two servicemen at Camp Borden show the clinical symptoms of typhoid fever but so far laboratory tests are negative.

It is not known definitely, therefore, whether they have the disease, he told the Commons.

About 45 percent of the 12,500 Canadian soldiers who have served in Korea have reported sick.

A defence department reply tabled yesterday in the Commons gave the number who have been sick as 5,585 and said this is made up of the number of admittances of non-battle casualties of the 12,500 soldiers who have been in Korea.

Of this total, 4,450 returned to their units, 909 were sent home for medical reasons and 206 still are in hospital.

"Guillotine" Motion Passed By Conservatives

London, April 24—(CP)—An all-night session of parliament ended at 6.12 a. m. today when Prime Minister Churchill's Conservatives pushed through a "guillotine" motion putting a time limit on a Labor party filibuster against proposed changes in Britain's free health services.

The motion, which will cut off the long angry debate on health services after two more days, was passed by a vote of 270 to 245. It is designed to open the way for quicker action on Conservative proposals to turn socialized steel and long-distance trucking back to private owners.

The "guilotine" motion, imposed what Conservatives called Labor "delaying tactics," was passed over seven socialist attempts to have the health services debate extended.

Labor party has been fighting for weeks to prolong discussion of the health bill in which the conservatives propose to charge for prescriptions, wigs and dental services. These services are now given free under the health plan introduced by Labor when it was in power.

More than 100 Labor amendments have been placed before the house and debate on them could have taken up the entire parliamentary session, killing the rest of the government program.

Aneurin Bevan, who engineered the free health services plan, has warned that labor will attempt to block even traditionally non-partisan appropriation bills in Korea.

The Conservatives are determined, however, to get on with their pre-election promises to denationalize steel and trucking.

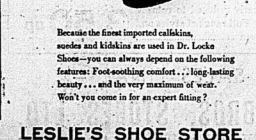
Sixty Friends Hold Farewell Party

Bancroft—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ashley was the scene of a gathering Thursday evening when about 60 friends of the family from the town line, Bancroft, and vicinity gave them a farewell party on the eve of their departure for Beachburg, Renfrew county.

Mr. Ashley and son, William, are moving immediately to establish their residence on a recently-purchased farm, a mile from the village. Mrs. Ashley, the teacher at Trout Lake public school, will remain here until the conclusion of the school term in June.

The evening was spent in visiting. A large percentage of the guests were present and former school pupils of Mrs. Ashley. For many years, Mrs. Ashley has been a member of Faraday township and Bancroft - Faraday public school boards.



Jean Bierworth read an address and the family was presented with an electric clock, iron, toaster, two-burner hot-plate and two bedroom lamps.

Speaking for the family Mrs. Ashley, the former Norris Weedmark, thanked the gathering and expressed their regrets in leaving the district where they had lived for over a quarter of a century.

Refreshments were served by a committee of friends and neighbors under the leadership of Mrs. Claude Sargisson and Mrs. Gerald Stringer.

Majority leader H. Crookshank refused to consider Labor demands that the debate be continued even a day or two beyond the two-day limit set by the "guillotine" motion.

WEDDINGS

LYTTLE—FULLER

St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, was the setting on Wednesday, April 16th, at 3.30 p.m. for a pretty wedding, when the Reverend A. S. McConnell, MBE, before a background of Easter lilies and ferns, united in marriage Marian Ione Fuller, of Trenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fuller; to John Alexander Lyttle, of Oakville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Lyttle, Oakville, formerly of Belfast, Ireland.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. Bowns at the console of the organ, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. W. Davenport, in the singing of "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, and "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of French lace in rose pattern and net over taffeta, the neckline bodice was fashioned of lace with a deep V yoke of pearl bead design and Peter Pan collar of matching lace appliqued to the nylon. The sleeves were sheath-like ending in lily-points over the wrists. The skirt was full with scalloped redingote over an underskirt of pleated nylon tulle, falling gracefully into a slight train. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Yvonne Defoest, was matron of honor, wearing powder blue nylon net over taffeta, with matching accessories. She carried a nosegay of variegated sweetpeas.

Miss June Lyttle, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, gowned in yellow nylon net over taffeta, with matching accessories, and carrying a nosegay of variegated sweetpeas. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Carma Fuller, were similar dress and net over taffeta, with matching accessories, and carried a similar bouquet to that of the other attendants.

Mr. Joe Defoest, of Trenton, assisted the bridegroom, while Mr. Lester Collar and Mr. Leslie Jackson, of Trenton, were ushers.

The reception was held at the C.P.R. Recreation Hall, where the bride's table, at which blue and French lace over crepe, with silver accessories and corsage of Talisman roses, received the many guests.

She was assisted in receiving by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue crepe with white, with accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

For the wedding trip to Waterton, N.Y., and other points in the United States, the bride chose a suit in robin's egg blue, with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Lyttle will, upon their return, reside in Oakville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Oakville and Frankford.

Superb Dancing, Fine Artistry Feature 'Tales of Hoffmann' Film

Beautiful sets, ballet, opera fused with color, music and delightful artistry gave patrons a film of unequalled brilliance in the first night presentation of "The Tales of Hoffmann" at the Capitol Theatre last night.

The superb casting of the ballerina, Moira Shearer, the histrionic artistry of Robert Helpman, Ludmilla Tcherina and Leonide Massine, backgrounded by the brilliant music of the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra under the baton of Sir Thomas Beecham, and the Sadler's Wells Chorus join in a delightful film presentation of the famous opera.

Miss Shearer's ballet dancing in the "Dragon Fly Dance" and as a marionette, not to mention the prologue and epilogue were things of beauty. Robert Helpman, Robert Rounseville, as Hoffmann sang a beautiful duet with Ann Ayers in the third tale.

Hoffmann, a young poet in love with a ballerina regales his friends with three stories in a tavern during an interim of the performance of the Stella Ballet. He tells the tales of Olympia, Giuletta and Antonia, three of his loves.

He falls in love with Olympia, a puppet, while visiting a mariage with the bridegroom, while magic spectacles which give inanimate objects life, he believes Olympia to be alive. Miss Shearer's ballet performance as a puppet is the high description. Coppelius, an eye-maker also in love with Olympia finally destroys the doll in revenge and only then does the enthralled Hoffmann realize he has been fooled.

In the Tale of Giuletta, he is enticed by a beautiful courtesan. Under the influence of a magician, Dapertutto, Giuletta ensnares his reflection and gains his soul. Hoffmann kills Schlemil in love but is about to get the key to her room. He returns to find she has departed with Dapertutto, flings the key against her mirror and regains his soul.

In the Tale of Antonia, the daughter of a half-mad conductor whose wife has been killed by a quack doctor, Hoffmann has his sweetheart die in his arms after she has fallen under the spell of the doctor.

In the tavern Hoffmann's audience is spellbound. Stella appears at the door, turns down at him but a rival who has understood the meaning of the love goes to meet her and they leave together.

"The Tales of Hoffmann" is brilliantly produced, technicolor, its lavish sets and coloring border on the bizarre at times but this does not detract from their beauty of design.

For those who like their motion picture fare in ballet-opera form "The Tales of Hoffmann" is definite must.

The film is being presented at Capitol again tonight with the 8.30 "Curtain at 8.30".

Prior to the showing manager Tommy Mascaro of the Capitol spoke briefly to the audience outlining the various film features which will appear during the months of "Curtain at 8:30".

Christ Church Evening Branch W.A. Holds Blossom Tea

Yesterday afternoon the Evening Branch W.A. of Christ church, Bridge Street, was the parish hall amid the sweet fragrance of sweetpeas and the murmur of happy voices.

Welcomed the many guests were the gracious receptionists, Mrs. J. B. Creeggan and Mrs. Everett Smith, who with warm handclasps and cheering smiles passed them on to the treasurers, Mrs. T. Wells and Mrs. W. McLaughlin, after which they wandered at leisure, selecting the delicious confections so attractively offered, or stopping to eat the dainty quartet tables.

A picture of Loveliness

The long tea table with its snowy damask linen was a picture of loveliness with its centre of orchid and pink snapdragons, pink china and yellow daffodils interspersed with tall spikes of yellow and asparagus fern, flanked by orchid candles in crystal candlesticks, and pink and silver services at either end.

Round about were the little quartet tables, each one with its white cloth centred by a crystal bowl filled with mixed delicate sweetpeas.

Those presiding at the tea table were Mrs. W. Pepper and Mrs. G. G. Wright; Mrs. F. Beeby and Mrs. Ingram, while the tea hostess and tea convener Mrs. G. Cross and Mrs. J. C. Hayes were attentive to their guests' needs.

Those who served, replenished and assisted in the kitchen included: Mesdames L. Watson, J. Cooke, J. Spencer, I. Reid, P. Burton, C. Fuzzen, N. Reid, E. Mason, M. Burleigh, F. Portlock, A. Bungay, F. O'Connor, Newman, R. Rose and C. McCaw.

Delightful Assortment

The homecooking table, under the convenership of Mrs. W. Edwards and Mrs. E. Stevens assisted by Mrs. D. Ellis with its pretty centrepiece of flowering begonia, had a delightful assortment of apple and lemon pies, date loaves, fruit loaves, rich chocolate and cocoanut cakes, cocoanut squares, tarts of lemon, taffy and raspberry, date squares, muffins, open-faced cookies, candies, cakes, pickles and salad dressing, all of which disappeared in record time, testifying to the ladies of Christ Church are adepts in the line of fancy cooking.

Much credit and appreciation goes to the convener Mrs. J. Hilliard; to the co-convener Mrs. W. Lancaster; to those responsible for the fine tea tables, Miss Frances Reid and Miss Lucille Morton; and to all who helped to make the success a reality.

SETTLES DOWN IN EXILE

Arica, Chile, April 24—(AP)—Gen. Hugo Ballivian, revolt-deposed chief of Bolivia's government, settled down in exile today in this Chilean seaport 140 miles southwest of his former capital. He arrived by plane yesterday from La Paz and said he had been a fugitive in the Chilean Embassy since the national revolutionary party over-threw his 11-month old military regime in a bloody revolt two weeks ago.

Interesting Projects Feature C.G.I.T. Work Board Spring Tea

Blue and white were the key-note colors of the dainty spring tea sponsored by the Work Board of the Canadian Girls in Training yesterday afternoon, in the assembly room of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where many friends and patrons were gathered for a pleasant hour to chat with one another and view the work of the C.G.I.T. girls.

Mrs. N. C. Cathers received, and Mrs. S. E. Vermilyea acted as treasurer beside the desk upon which stood a lovely doll fashioned by the C.G.I.T. girls in their white middles and blue skirts, who deftly assisted in serving the dainty sandwiches and tiny, toothsome cakes, and "the cup that cheers but not inebriates."

Mrs. Talbot Ketcheson and Mrs. R. E. Kilbank, were the tea room hostesses who made each one feel so welcome at home.

Lovely Tea Table

The tea table, with its lovely Scotch lace cloth was tastefully appointed. A crystal bowl and protecting crystal plate filled with sprays of Chinese red and white pussy willows, feathery asparagus fern and yellow daffodils with here and there a branch of downy pussy willows centred the table, while tall, white tapers in crystal holders added their touch of beauty.

On each little quartet table was a white cloth bearing the inevitable silver cream and sugars, and a centrepiece, either of a white taper rising from its lacey blue and white collar or a wee little C.G.I.T. doll in all her blue and white costume.

Those who presided at the tea table were: Mrs. D. McIrvin and Mrs. S. E. Larman; Mrs. J. G. Hornby and Mrs. R. A. Beverley, and those who served, assisted by the C.G.I.T. girls, included Mrs. H. L. Vercoe, Mrs. A. C. Grills, Mrs. G. L. Wamboldt and Mrs. W. Duquette. Those replenishing, Mesdames, W. Sherry, V. Weir, G. Brearley, Van Osten, Scott and Miss B. Thomson.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. R. Morden, Mrs. Kane, Mrs. J. Browning and Mrs. Peter Thomson.

Centre of Attraction

As usual the homecooking booth, convened by Mrs. R. E. Kilbank, Mrs. D. Cook and Mrs. R. E. Doxee, was a centre of attraction with its half-dozen gingham aprons, its half-dozen green topped cookies, date bread and a luscious looking, square cake with white icing bearing the legend "C.G.I.T." in red, on the white top, also tempting jars of homemade pickles.

Also on one side of the tea room ran a project-table with its various displays: the Bible Record Books in blue and white, a map of Canada designating the provinces showing the C.G.I.T. residential schools both in Manitoba and at Qu'Appelle, Sask., as well as a day school at British Columbia, with their respective work centre at Saskatchewan.

Other projects included fancy work displays: the Dionne quints' fancy having ruffs of lacey paper outlined in blue and red satin ribbon; a large map showing oriental missions, city missions, rural schools, student mission and healing mission, also models of the homes in British Guiana, and of the schools and the churches, both early and later.

There were wall plaques of Canada, every province in color, and a chart, also in color, showing just what the balanced dinner required, and a relief map of Quin-Mo-Lac, showing the C.G.I.T. girls' camp there with various buildings of dining hall and dormitories.

Appreciative thanks are tendered to Mrs. D. Kane, convener assistants and the C.G.I.T. girls for a worthwhile display of projects and for a daintily served afternoon tea.

Sister Lenore Gives Detailed Review Of C.E.A. Convention

The regular monthly meeting of St. Michael's High School Parent-Teacher Association was held on Monday evening with the president, Dr. Rose in the chair.

The principal spoke of Mc Boys' trip to Hamilton to play volley ball and thanked all who had helped make this trip possible.

The coming hard-times dance was discussed and Sister Lenore called on Sister Lenore to tell something of the Easter week convention in Toronto.

Composition of P-T Assoc.

Sister Lenore said the Catholic Education Association, which held the convention at the Royal York hotel, was made up of Parent-Teacher Associations, Catholic Teacher Associations and Catholic Trustees' Association. A general meeting was held Tuesday morning, April 15th, which was addressed by Hon. Leslie Frost, Premier, Mayor Lamport and Dr. Dunlop, Minister of Education.

Dr. Ross called on Sister Jovita who had been a delegate from this association to the C.E.A. convention in Toronto. Sister Jovita gave a detailed and interesting account. She said the first speaker was Dr. George N. Shuster, President of Hunter College, New York, who spoke on "Education in the Atomic Time". Speaking of the first great Christian educators was St. Augustine, who had much to admire from pagan writers, especially from Cicero, and impressed by the literature of a Christian educational system. Other great educators were, St. Bonaventure and St. Ignatius.

Second Speaker

The second distinguished speaker was Hon. W. J. Dunlop, minister of education for Ontario, who said he wanted young people to know the value of democracy and the virtue of patriotism.

Another speaker of special interest was Father John C. Ryan, director of religious education for the archdiocese of Detroit, who spoke of the three agents—home, church and state and stated the co-operation of all three was essential for proper education of children.

Mr. H. O'Neill, as second delegate to the convention, gave a short talk on his impressions and presented the charter for St. Michael's organization.

Mrs. B. E. Burley, who had attended the convention as district representative, also gave an interesting report on some of her activities.

Many Blind Workers Help In Industry

Montreal, (CP) — Lindsay G. Williamson, national director of employment for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, believes the C.N.I.B. has something to offer industry and he has been proving his point for the last 12 years to manufacturing firms across Canada.

"Canada is leading in this field at the present time," he says, adding that the C.N.I.B. has trained several American placement officers who returned to the United States and are using the methods of vocational training and industrial placement practised in Canada.

Mr. Williamson travels 18,000 miles a year across Canada, visiting the six divisions of the institute. He has been totally blind since the age of 18 when he was injured in a farm accident in Saskatchewan.

His biggest job, he says, is selling the idea that the blind can be of some value to industry. At present there are 480 sightless persons employed in industry across Canada, 90 of them in the province of Quebec.

Included are such jobs as power drill press operators, belt and nut threaders and machine operators as well as assembly line jobs.

Any blind person who is willing to work, regardless of race or religion, is trained in the CNIB's occupational shops under the guidance of a placement officer. His aptitudes are tested and if he is found satisfactory employment a job will be found for him.

Mr. Williamson emphasizes however, that many of the jobs suitable for blind people put them in competition with women who can see. The institute makes periodic follow-ups to make sure the person fits into the job.

"We never leave an employee on the job if he is found unsatisfactory either by the employer or the C.N.I.B.," says the director.

Daisity Shower Honors Recent Bride

A social evening that took the form of a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Brewer, was held recently in the Lonsdale hall at Lonsdale.

The evening was spent in round and square dancing until the 'wee sma' hours' of the morning.

After refreshments were served the bride and groom received their friends and neighbors for their merry and lovely good wishes.

About 125 guests were present. The bride, the former Miss Ruby Irene Kinnear and her husband are residing in Harrowsmith.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Failing in Love by Mail is Hazardous

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in Korea, and have been corresponding with a young lady whom I have never met. The way we happened to start writing to each other was because her brother, who is also out here, and a buddy of mine. We've been writing very often for the past eight months, and lately she has been throwing a little love into each letter. I can't blame her for that, because I've been doing the same.

What I'd like to know is, could it be possible for us to fall in love with each other through the mail? L.A.K.

Dear L.A.K.: It has been done—falling in love through the mails —especially under such circumstances as yours, where a girl back home writes affectionate letters to a lonely boy on a battle front. But it's pretty hazardous, just because of those special circumstances.

What I mean of course, is that when a boy is far away from home, and gets letters are the biggest thing in his life, especially when they coming from a girl who makes him feel that he means something to her. Similarly, when a girl puts a lot of time and thought into writing letters to a boy who is off fighting for his country, she gets a warm feeling for him, especially when he tells her how much her letters do mean. Add to that, the fact that she naturally looks upon him as a hero, and you have the makings of a romance.

But it isn't safe for either the boy or the girl to take such a romance too seriously. Before assuming that you are really in love, you should wait till you get back home and see a good deal of each other under the conditions of normal everyday living. That's the only way two people can really get to know each other in the sort of way they should before making a decision to marry. If you want my advice, it is that you shouldn't commit yourself to anything until you have had a chance to do this.

A Mother Dislikes Her Daughter's Fiance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a daughter of 18 who has been engaged for over a year to a boy 19.

He has been coming to the house for nearly two years, and whenever he comes, he will not talk either to me or any other person in the house. If we are in the living room when he comes, he walks out into the kitchen, and if we are in the kitchen, he stays in the living room.

I've spoken to my daughter about this and she says that he wants us to talk to him first. I think this is wrong. We love our daughter very much, and we want to see her happy, but this boy seems to be trying to separate her from her family. He is very jealous, and does not let her go out, not with me. I would like you to tell me what to do.—W.M.

Dear I.'M.: Have you and the rest of the family always been friendly with this young man and tried to make him feel at home when he comes into the house? Or do you think it could be possible that you have resented him a little? And could have had your attitude and so got a chip on his shoulder?

In any event I think it would be a fine thing if you would just decide to start all over again and exert a real effort to make the boy feel that he is welcome in your home. I admit he doesn't sound as though he had very good manners, and it certainly is not right for him to try and keep your daughter from normal family relationships. It is possible these things are signs that he is not the best possible person for your daughter to marry and bring into the family.

However, the best way to find all this out is for you to take a different attitude yourself and do everything you can to bring out the best in him. I suggest that as soon as he comes in the house, you and the others greet him in a warm and friendly manner and act as though you really like him. Keep this up regularly and see if it doesn't win him over as time goes on. Be willing to give him all the chances you can, and things may work out more happily than you now think.

Life was never such FUN before!

Now she's caught alight, invited everyone, and everything's right! Your complexion is clear, you're free from that pale, listless, moody dirl, and you can be happy, carefree, popular. If you always do what he says, and make sure to take Dr. Williams Pink Pills. See if within a few weeks you don't feel healthier, make you a new person. With more bounding energy, sparkling eyes, clear skin. Isn't that better? Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today!

Food for Thought

Sugarless Orange Marmalade

After eight weeks of experiments trying to improve my formula for sugarless marmalade for diabetic patients I think I have an acceptable one. This does not compete with marmalade made with sugar but if I know you easy diabetics you will welcome it.

Most of the eight weeks' work was given over to trying "sorbitol" as a sweetener for marmalade, for it makes the best textured product, but not the best flavored, and it is available only in 1 gallon quantities at 24 cents per pound. A gallon contains approximately 15 pounds. If folks who read this are interested in buying this amount to make their own marmalade and jam, they should write to me and I will tell them where it may be bought. Please enclose stamped self-addressed envelope. Many of the manufacturers of sweetened products for diabetic patients employ some of this product. Sorbitol is roughly similar to clear sugar syrup in appearance and texture. It imparts a sweet flavor that is slightly harsh though. The use of sorbitol in diabetic food must be carefully supervised by a doctor. Because of the difficulty of obtaining sorbitol and the caution that is necessary in using it, I settled on the following:

Sugarless Orange Marmalade

Three large navel oranges are washed, then cut in halves crosswise, squeezed on an orange squeezer to remove the juice, which is reserved in a covered container. The inside skin and white pulp are scraped from the inside of the skins with a strong spoon. The rinds are sliced as wafer thin as possible with a sharp knife. To the scraped-out pulp in a bowl add 1 cup cold water, and let this soak overnight covered. To the sliced rinds in a bowl add 1 cup cold water and let stand overnight covered. Store the covered orange juice in refrigerator overnight.

In the morning drain the water from the white pulp into the rinds, pressing it firmly through sieve. Discard white pith. Simmer rinds in water, covered, for 1 hour. To the squeezed-out orange juice add 1 1-2 tablespoons best quality gelatine and let it soak while rinds are cooking.

When rinds have cooked 1 hour add to them the orange juice containing the gelatine and 2 tablespoons pure glycerin, 10 or 12 sucaryl tablets and 1-4 cup water. Stir over low heat until sucaryl tablets are dissolved and mixture boils all over for 1 minute. Remove from heat and pour into sterile small glasses and seal at once with hot new paraffin, as for jelly. Process in boiling water when first is cold. Screw on clean lids.

If do not think that you should take the chance of expecting this to keep at room temperature, for it is chancy business trying for a perfect seal with paraffin, but I know it will keep for at least a month when stored in the refrigerator.

So since you have gone to all of that trouble I advise you to keep it refrigerated. I hope you all like it. The reducers can go to town on this too.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Parents Shouldn't Leave When Beau Comes to Television-Visit

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a girl invites a young man to spend the evening watching television in her home, should her family be expected to go to another room and leave the couple alone? Personally, I think that if the young man is the right kind of person, he will not resent the family's being present. What is your opinion, Mrs. Bleeckman?

2. And 'another "date" question. When a young man comes to Sunday night supper, should I help put the finishing touches on the meal, or should I watch television with him until the meal is ready? My mother tells me that it isn't necessary for me to help with the meal when I have a visitor. But this doesn't seem right to me.

S.

1. I agree completely with you. A manly man, a mannerly man, a young man who is as you so well say, "the right kind of person," would deeply resent having the hosts-of-the-home think that he would expect them to leave their entertainment...so that you and he could enjoy the television and each other's company alone. It would be a stupid guest indeed, mighty discourteous, who would have this point of view about hospitality, television-hospitality!

2. You have a wonderful mother, most thoughtful, but, I judge, more than a bit too self-effacing. I suggest you get very busy before the young man arrival, do everything that can possibly be done beforehand, and then... when you know the time has come for last-minute help to your mother ... say, prettily, "Bob, please excuse me...I'll leave you to watch this program while I give mother a hand."

A Special Relationship Calls For Special Tact

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In your column a short time ago you said that the bride's father's second wife generally sits four or five rows back of the bride's mother. I am not this is right in most cases, but in my particular case I doubt if this would be true. I am the bride's mother's sister, as well as the bride's father's second wife. But as I was such a close relative to start with I don't see where being married to her father has changed this. Please let me know who is right . . .

Reader

I am not sure just what your question is. Is it that you would like to sit farther front, that is, nearer the first pew in which the bride's mother, your sister, will be seated? Personally I should think that it would be easier for all concerned if you sit in, say, the fourth pew from the front, your husband to join you there after he has finished his part in the ceremony. But if you feel strongly about some other seating-arrangement, I suggest that you ask your husband and/or the bride-to-be to talk this over with the bride's mother, and, if she consents, these arrangements may be made. The point is, of course, that you should be as tactful and understanding as possible, so to cause no unpleasantness to those most closely and preciously concerned with the wedding. Make that bride-to-be feel your gentle co-operation.

River Valley W.M.A. Celebrates 20 Years of Missionary Work

On Friday last the River Valley W.M.A. held their 20th anniversary of organized missionary work at the school house which was tastefully decorated with spring flowers, potted plants, yellow and white streamers.

Mrs. Spafford brought greetings from the conference and wished the auxiliary many more anniversaries. Going back over the years of W.M.S. work she spoke briefly on the present, stating that the W.M.S. was the steward of the time. The W.M.S. financially is million dollar business. By the end of 1952 the auxiliary will have contributed 4 million dollars to W.M.S. Looking ahead more and more work will be necessary.

Four things specially needed are, to train here young people to go overseas to teach people how to teach their own people; young men and women to be technically trained; scholarships for young people to come here to receive training and go back to their own countries to help educate their own people; campaign for a new training which is under way now to meet the demands of more and more missionaries to foreign lands.

Candlelighting Ceremony

Birthday cake and candle ceremony, Jesus said, "I am the Light of the World." So down through the ages the candle has been used as a symbol of His love and sacrifice. The flame spreads light in dark places but in so doing the candle like the body is used up in the sacrifice.

1st candle, Mrs. Percy Utman, "I light this candle in memory of those who paved the way and have now laid down the torch or have gone to the great beyond."

2nd candle, Mrs. Alex Bush, "I light this candle for our present members who have caught up the spirit of the work and are carrying it on."

3rd candle, Mrs. Mary Vandervoort, I light this candle for those who are not members but who have been co-workers and associate helpers with us."

4th candle, Mrs. Roy Irven. "This candle is lighted for all those who will take up the torch and carry on in the future."

Twenty small candles were on the cake. Mrs. Ralph Utman, "each candle represents a year. As I light these candles one by one let us think of the 20 years of W.M.S. work carried on year by year."

Mrs. Ernest Munro of Stirling made the wish:

"I wish you health, I wish you wealth,

I wish you golden store,

I wish you Heaven after earth

How can I wish you more."

Then blew out all the candles.

Mrs. John Sager Sr., put the knife in the cake and while the cake was being cut all sang "Happy Birthday".

A precious thank-you extended to each and everyone who took part to make this our twentieth anniversary a real success, was expressed by Mrs. Ernest Carr.

Bountiful refreshments including the birthday cake were served by all the members and a social hour enjoyed.

Antique Dealers Hold Show

London (CP) — Works of art, with an estimated total value of $4,000,000 will be exhibited for sale at the Antique Dealers' Fair and Exhibition to be held here June 11-16. Ninety dealers with exhibits and collectors and connoisseurs from all over the world are expected to attend.

Although many will be rich and rare objects which perhaps only museums, art galleries or wealthy connoisseurs may be able to buy, there will also be a large display of antiques well within the reach of a more modest purse. All articles, except loan exhibits, are for sale.

Each item may have been made before the year 1830. Every exhibit is examined by experts drawn from special panels to ensure that it is of the period it is represented to be. This fact, together with the co-operation of the dealers in accepting the judgment of experts, has given the public confidence in the integrity of the fair.

The objects on display will range from furniture, gold, silver, Sheffield plate, glass, snuff boxes, miniatures, enamels, porcelains and pottery (British, continental and oriental), pewter, jades, tapestries, fabrics, clocks, manuscripts, jewels, carpets, items of architecture, books, pictures, prints, maps, needlework, brass and bronzes, to curiosities, and Greek, Roman, Egyptian and Chinese antiquities.

HOT SALES TALK

London — (CP) — A salesman threw his own hat into a corner of a customer's office here, poured some gasoline over it and set it ablaze. Without a pause in his sales talk, he then produced a fire extinguisher and put out the flames. He got his order.

Fine Summer Fabrics Cheer U.K. Girls After Long Winter

London (CP) — The first of this summer cottons sprouted shyly in Britain's shop windows like the first buds of spring.

Winter - wearied office girls, gloomily contemplating chill weather reports, gazed wistfully at such floral-printed poplins as an almon-green design with clover-pink scroll printing, its smooth, flared skirt flouncing over a hooped petticoat. With short cap sleeves and wide shirt collar, it is one of many dresses priced just under £5.

An exciting navy poplin with huge white spots has deep plunge neckline, its decollete shoulderline finished by top pugged sleeves. Similar designs with billowing skirts and drafty necklines make winter-jaded workers long for the days they can wear such dresses on warm beaches.

Also with warmer weather appeal is a "summer dust" design in fine printed cambric. This has a backless halter neckline with cute little shoulder bows and loose cape-bolero. The full, gathered skirt is tied by a narrow, bow-fronted belt.

Cotton "carefrees" that do not dirty easily include tartan dresses with swirling skirts and huge pockets with fringed cuffs. The casual shirt tops have deep, three-quarter raglan sleeves.

Brilliant Colors

There's nothing wishy-washy about this year's tub frocks. Colors and contrasts are as brilliant as a surrealist painting. Take, for instance, the gypsy effect of a black jersey blouse with yellow organdie collar and winged, three-quarter cuffs, worn with a yellow and black-checked cotton skirt and hooped petticoats.

Gaudy, harlequin-printed cotton skirts combined with black, halter-necked bodices make dashing summer dance frocks. For beach wear, the skirts are worn with low-necked blouses of their own material.

In direct contrast is the sleep sophistication of dully-gleaming shantungs with slim lines and neat buttoning. Worn with elegant accessories and combined with duster coats of rustling silk, printed in such designs as roses, camellias, poppies and clover heads, these make smart ensembles.

And for the truly elegant, there are darkly-distinguished prints such as the black silk brocade with big crimson leaves, styled in figure-hugging lines with high neck, and long, narrow sleeves. Finished by a black faille cummerbund jutting into a wide sash over one hip, this dress has the look and price of a Bond Street salon.

EXPERT MARKSMEN

Oslo — (CP) — More than 500 marksmen from 19 countries have already entered the world shooting championship meet to be held here July 10-17. Teams and individuals will compete with sport rifles, pistols and automatics, at stationary and moving targets.

Justice Says Parents Often Bad Examples

Winnipeg (CP) — A Winnipeg judge says there are too many homes in which parents, while preaching little sermons on what is right and wrong," nevertheless set examples which tend to make liars and thieves out of the children.

Judge Emerson J. Heaney says boys and girls always watch the example set by adults. "How many parents have crossed the international border and not declared everything to the customs?" he asked.

"How many have filed income tax returns and cut corners? or used old street-car transfers instead of putting a dime in the box?"

These may be commonplace things, but children watch every move, he said. "As children are trained, so they will act."

Judge Heaney cites as an example the mother who tells her daughter "let's keep this a secret from your father," when she does something which her husband will not approve.

"That mother is training her daughter to deceive her future husband," the judge says.

Young people are liable to recognize the insincerity of adults. "It is not what you say, but what you do that counts. What you do makes so much noise that young people can't hear what you say.

"If you don't go to church, can you expect your children to go?"

Mrs. Harry Sills Addresses W. I.

The April meeting of the Carmel W.I. met at the home of Mrs. George Moorman with 12 members, three visitors and six children present.

Mrs. Earle Dafoe, president, presided over the business. Annual reports of the standing committees were given which showed a successful year.

Guest Speaker

The president, Mrs. Earl Dafoe, introduced the guest speaker Mrs. Harry Sills of Roslin, president of East Hastings district. Mrs. Sills gave an interesting paper on the "Aims of the Women's Institute" and also demonstrated how to make a satin cushion.

A vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. Sills for her fine address and the cushion demonstration.

At this point the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Seldon Homan, who was in charge of the grandmothers' day program. She opened this part by a poem. Several of the members displayed articles they had received from their grandmothers such as dishes, pictures and purses which proved most interesting.

A reading was given by Mrs. Milton Ross and two prizes were given by Mrs. John Patterson for having the most grandchildren and to Mrs. Charles Brintnell for winning the most points in a contest.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Seldon Homan took a picture of the grandmothers and grandchildren.

FRANKFORD

Canadian Legion To Present Variety Concert

The Frankford branch of the Canadian Legion is presenting something new in the way of entertainment, which promises to be of excellent calibre. On Saturday evening May 3, at 8 p.m., the Legion will present a variety concert featuring the McLaughlin Troop of Toronto, with the Merry Macs, stars of stage and night club in the Queen City.

Star of the show is Miss Morag McLaughlan, singer, dancer and xylophone expert. Miss McLaughlan is rated as one of Toronto's top entertainers.

The McLaughlan Troop has given benefit concerts for all of the Toronto hospitals, as well as out of town hospitals. Recently, they performed before 600 patients at Malton Hospital. It is hoped that a large audience will be on hand to welcome this troop, as they present a class of entertainment much superior to that usually seen in smaller centres.

In addition to these performers, a five piece orchestra will render the latest dance selections.

Travel Derby

Entry blanks for the Legion "Barrel Derby" will be going on sale next week and can be obtained from most of the Legion members in town. The object of the contest is to estimate the time it will take a barrel to travel from the Frankford bridge to the No. 5 dam, after it is launched from the centre of the bridge at 2.00 p.m. on May 24th and estimate correctly what spillway it will go over at the dam. The 13 spillways of No. 5 dam will be numbered from 1 to 13, from the west bank of the river to the East bank. Cash prizes will be given to the one closest to the correct time, and naming the correct spillway.

Word has been received from Peterborough, that the Salvation Army Orchestra and chorus will definitely be on hand to present their concert in the community hall on May 30, under the sponsorship of the Frankford United Church choir.

Magistrate Will Not Punish Child's Parents

London, April 24 (AP) —A London magistrate, commenting that buxom movie star Jane Russell "must be a very, very nice woman," refrained today from punishing parents who let Miss Russell have their baby son.

Sir Lawrence Dunne, chief London magistrate, was told the movie star is adopting the boy, 2-month-old Tommy Kavanagh. She took him back to Hollywood with her last November after a visit to England. The court's action appeared to clear the way for adoption.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kavanagh, pleaded guilty to a charge of "unlawfully permitting the care and possession of an infant to be transferred."

They were discharged conditionally for 12 months, which means the case can be renewed in the next year if the court learns the child is not being properly cared for.

"I have had the opportunity of seeing some of the letters written by Miss Russell to the child's parents," Sir Laurence remarked, "and if they are any reflection of (as Russell), then she must be a very, very nice woman."

The case was widely publicized he said, and prosecution was necessary to make plain to all Britons that it is against the law to give custody of a British child to an alien abroad.

The parents previously explained that Miss Russell fell in love with the baby at first sight and they let her have him because their small London flat was so crowded. The Kavanagh's have two other children.

AT THE CAPITOL — Robert Rounseville, leading opera star, who has the important male lead and stars as Hoffmann in Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger's Technicolor screen version of Offenbach's opera, "The Tales of Hoffmann," begins at the Capitol Theatre tonight for the last time. All seats are reserved and now available at the box office. Phone 378.

AT THE BELLE — Emmett Kelly, internationally famed clown, is among the highlets of circus headliners seen in Cecil B. DeMille's big-top Technicolor spectacle, "The Greatest Show on Earth," closing a record 10-day engagement. Everyone loves the circus — here it is in all its glory and splendor.

Pope Makes New Peace Appeal to World

Vatican City, April 4 (Reuters)— The Pope today made a new peace appeal to the world, condemning "the rulers of peoples who make of this a state of things which gives rise to war."

His appeal was directed particularly to women. He urged them to combine in a world-wide effort to maintain peace.

"If all women passed from that innate sentiment which makes them abhor war to concrete action designed to prevent it, it would be impossible for the total of such forces not to achieve its aim," he said.

The Pope was speaking to representatives of Roman Catholic Women's organizations from 11 countries at an audience in his Vatican palace.

He asked whether the world's rulers had ever reflected, with the hearts of sons, on the tragedies caused especially to women by the losses and horrors of war.

"Although the duty of each one of you as a citizen demands readiness to sacrifice yourself for your country, if it is unjustly attacked or if its vital rights are threatened, nevertheless you are by nature more disposed to make a contribution toward creating those conditions, inside and outside your country, which assure tranquility."

RAWDON

Lodges Attend Special Services At St. Paul's United Church

Rawdon— A large number of Rawdon folk, members of Stirling Lodge No. 229 IOOF and Stirling ladies Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 311, with their families and friends were in attendance on Sunday morning at St. Paul's United Church when the edifice was filled to capacity with worshippers.

Special programs were prepared by the IOOF containing the full service of worship.

The pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker commended the order for their distinctly Christian humanitarian ministries and for its effort to promote peace and goodwill among men through the triple links of friendship, love and truth.

Stirling citizens' band, under the leadership of Mr. Maurice Bell, led the members of the IOOF from their lodge room to the church and after the service the group marched up Church Street and down Front Street. About 80 members were on parade and they were guarded by members of Canton Lodge No. 8, Belleville and visiting brethren from Toronto and Kingston. This group numbered around 20.

At the church entrance about 70 Rebekah members had gathered and this included a few guests from Kingston, Brighton and Belleville.

Mr. Ernest Carlisle and Mrs. Percy Ulman led the members to their respective seats which had been reserved for this special service. Two large silk flags were carried to the altar rail and placed beside a large memorial basket of snapdragon and lilies in memory of Mrs. Harry Philp, the gift of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott.

Fine Music

Mrs. A. E. Baker gave an organ prelude. The junior choir sat in the balcony and rendered effective singing.

The senior choir contributed a hymn, and a male quartet, Messrs Harry Brown, Jack Bush, Grant Richardson and R. A. Patterson sang "Lead Kindly Light."

The processional hymns were followed by the reading of the gospel lesson by Noble Grand Everett Kitcheson.

Good Message

Rev. A. E. Baker gave a worthwhile message on the theme "As He Journeyed" as found in St. Luke 10:38. He graphically pictured the many daily opportunities that arise in the lives of all as they travel along life's highway and he pointed out the great necessity of taking advantage of those opportunities as they appear.

He commended the lodges on their special endeavors to be good Samaritans to folks in the surrounding district who were in need of assistance.

The service closed with a hymn of consecration. The day was ideal and large numbers attended from all the surrounding communities.

Two RCAF Squadrons Based At Greenwood, N.S. Ordered For Arctic Duty In July

Ottawa, April 24—(CP)— Men of two R.C.A.F. squadrons who recently basked in the Florida sun have been ordered within the Arctic Circle for another job.

Two Maritime squadrons, based at Greenwood, N.S., will fly north to Cornwallis Island in July to share in the task of supplying the joint Canadian-United States weather stations located in Canada's Arctic Archipelago.

Their job, along with American air force planes, will be to make ice observations for the three American naval vessels which will carry the food and other equipment for five stations on Canadian soil and a sixth, an American - Danish station in Greenland.

The two squadrons, flying four-engined Lancasters, are commanded by Wing Cmdrs. D. E. Galloway of Montreal and W. J. Plesance of Calgary. They are the squadrons which recently moved to Key West, Fla., for a big American sea-air exercise in the Caribbean.

For their next big job they will operate from Resolute Bay, Cornwallis Island, 1,700 miles due north of Winnipeg.

Provide Weather Data

The five weather stations have been supplied annually by ship. They are engaged in providing weather data for forecasting and in making other scientific studies.

The three U.S. naval vessels will be commanded by Capt. J. W. Callahan, U.S.N. with an augmented staff of Canadian and U.S. officials and observers. They will be anchored in the navy and the otter Nespelen will complete the surface expedition.

The project marks the fifth consecutive year navy ships have provided logistic support for the chain of stations since they were established in 1947.

The task group will depart from Boston for Halifax to load the bulk of Canadian supplies in early July. They ships will then proceed to Resolute Bay. The Arctic area in which the ships will be operating is normally ice-locked nine to 11 months of each year.

The weather stations are jointly operated by the meteorological service of the Canadian Department of Transport and the United States weather bureau. Each station has a Canadian officer in charge and is manned by an equal number of personnel from each government.

Duplessis Did Not Announce Date of Election

Quebec, April 24—(CP)—Premier Duplessis last night guaranteed his government would never "raise the white flag of abdication" in its demands for a larger share of taxation revenues.

The premier's hour-long address to nearly 1,500 supporters climaxed a banquet organized to celebrate his 62nd birthday and the 325th anniversary of his entrance into political life.

Mr. Duplessis who spoke briefly in English after delivering his main speech in French, did not indicate the date of the provincial elections expected some time this summer. The government's term ends in 1953.

He reviewed his government's record, including construction of schools, hospitals, roads and bridges, hydro-electric developments, mining developments, rural electrification and pensions to the aged, needy mothers and the blind.

He compared these developments with what he termed the "inactivity" of Liberal regimes prior to 1936, when he first was swept into power.

He then asked, without specifically referring to elections, if the choice is difficult between the Union Nationale and the "descendants" of former Liberal regimes.

Queen Juliana Leaves to Visit Dutch Settlers

Ottawa, April 24 ..... (CP) ..... Queen Juliana of The Netherlands took off by R. C. A. F. plane at 8.30 a. m. EST today to visit Dutch immigrants and settlers at western Ontario points.

Though the exact destination was secret, it was believed the first stop will be somewhere near Hamilton, Ont. The twin-engined North Star was piloted by Flt.-Lt. Leslie Hussey, 28, of Ottawa who piloted Queen Elizabeth on her Canadian tour last fall.

With the queen was W. Van Tets, royal chamberlain; Miss M. A. Tellegen, director of the queen's cabinet; Jonkheer C. R. P. Roell, lady in waiting; and Ambassador A. H. J. Lovink, of The Netherlands.

A separate plane carried a group of Dutch newspaper men and a Canadian Press correspondent.

The more formal part of her trip ended last night, with a dinner party in honor of the governor-general.

In two hectic days, she squeezed in visits to the Red Cross and the Civic Hospital, the agricultural laboratories, the Mines Bureau and attended luncheons and dinners by Canadian officials.

Travels Incognito

Today she travelled "incognito." No further formal programs will be held for the remainder of the queen's stay in Canada. She leaves for The Hague by plane Sunday. Her husband, Prince Bernhard, now in New York, will come up to accompany her home.

Immigrants from Holland have formed an integral part of Canada's population expansion. Some 50,000 have been absorbed since the end of the Second World War. Last year Canada took about 20,000. She expects to take another 40,000 in 1953.

Nine Reds Killed In Biggest Fight Of Past Few Days

Seoul, Korea, April 24 (AP) — Nine reds were killed in the biggest fight reported today on Korean battlefronts.

Warm sunny weather brought a burst of blossoms along the quiet front. Most troops took it easy but some had to battle occasional light communist patrols of probing attacks.

Air force, navy and marine planes gauged up on communist rail lines Wednesday, cutting tracks at 299 points.

The Far East air forces said its planes flew 1,045 sorties and accounted for 196 of the rail cuts. It described damage done to North Korean railways as "terrific."

Although the ground front was quiet, U.S.- warships continued their bombardment of coastal positions in eastern Korea.

In a radio broadcast yesterday beamed to Holland, the queen said The Netherlands still regards Dutch immigrants as members of the Dutch family.

They were "goodwill ambassadors" and the link they provided with Canadian growth helped the two countries in their common roles to promote "freedom, immunity from any kind of compulsion, strength to carry one's own responsibility and to be unmoved in times of great distress"

Ottawa, April 24 — (CP) — Queen Juliana of the Netherlands left Ottawa secretly today to make a surprise two-day visit to Dutch immigrants and settlers at various Ontario points.

All details of the visit were closely guarded. Aides said the queen wanted the visit to be kept as informal as possible. She wanted to see the new Canadians under actual living conditions. She wanted no flags, no display of ceremony or officialdom.

Steel Owners Renew Court Battle to Recover Mills Seized By The Government

By NORMAN WALKER

Washington, April 24 — (AP)— Private owners of the steel industry went back to the courts today seeking an order to force government surrender of their mills.

The action came on the heels of an order by economic stabilizer Roger Putnam raising steel prices about $3 a ton — only a fourth of what the industry claimed it needed to pay for government - suggested pay boosts.

Lawyers for leading steel firms pressed for a preliminary injunction from Judge David A. Pine to end government seizure ordered by President Truman 16 days ago.

Justice department counsel were prepared to oppose the plea. They had successfully staved off earlier industry efforts in the courts.

The industry felt its case was strengthened, however, by the fact that the government had since plainly stated it will override industry objections and impose a pay boost for the 650,000 members of Philip Murray's United Steelworkers of America (C. I. O.).

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce, declaring Truman violated three separate articles of the constitution in seizing the steel plants, said the president may be "commander - in - chief," but this means command of the armed forces — "not the command of the people of the United States."

"If that were not true," said the chamber in testimony prepared for a Senate judiciary sub-committee, "then the president could become a dictator overnight and every American, from the cradle to the grave, could be made to goose-step."

Truman Taking Time

The Truman administration was taking its time about ordering pay increases in the seized industry. The latest word was that they won't come until next week.

Putnam insisted that working out the pay boost was a time-consuming job. Neither he nor Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, government boss of the seized industry, would give a hint as to how much the expected pay boost will be.

Some quarters suggested Truman may be delaying the pay-raising action in hope the furor in Congress over his seizure order may die down or that the industry and union may reach a contract agreement on their own. Neither seemed likely.

Congress was seething with argument over the seizure. The Senate had three investigations going on the steel situation by its judiciary, banking and labor committees. And the House prepared to vote today on a Republican proposal for a probe of the wage stabilization board, with particular emphasis on its handling of the steel case.

The W. S. , proposed a 26-cent-an-hour "package" for steelworkers, including a three-step pay boost of 17½ cents, and "fringes" such as improved holidays and vacations worth an added 8½ cents, plus the union shop — compulsory union membership.

The prevailing opinion was that the government eventually will order these recommendations into effect, with the possible exception of the union shop.

P.U.C. Concerned Over Sale Of Lots to Outsider

Campbellford — James Benor, chairman of the P.U.C., addressed the Campbellford town council at a special joint meeting of the council and the Public Utilities Commission here last week.

Mr. Benor said that the commission was much concerned over the town selling two lots that the commission have been using to store poles and other equipment. He said the commission had tried to purchase the lots in 1950 and that the council would not sell. The town recently entered into a deal with the Brewer's Warehousing Company, and the brewery interests intend to construct a brewer's warehouse on the property.

The lot in question are situated on the northwest corner of Market Street and Dossee Ave. and have been used for many years to store P.U.C. equipment. The P.U.C. chairman said he did not know of the deal until after it had been entered into, and for that reason did not bring the matter up before. The commission owns one lot and has an option on an adjoining lot on the southwest corner of Market and Dossee and said they would be willing to trade the lots with the town as the first lots were more suitable for their purpose.

The chairman divulged that the P.U.C. intends in the relatively near future to build a hydro substation on the lots. The local power house is working at capacity most of the time and even now has not sufficient power for the needs of the town, and must purchase power from the hydro. There is not sufficient water to operate a third generator at the power house, and the commission can build a hydro sub-station a lot cheaper than they can install a new generator. According to their figures a new generating would cost about $400,000. Not Good Idea

Councillor George H. Free took the stand that he did not consider it a good idea to erect a sub-station in the centre of the town, and suggested the outskirts as a better location. The P.U.C. representatives had various arguments against locating the proposed substation on the outskirts, the main one being that the centre of the town would be handier for distribution and that they could tie in with other high tension lines already in existence in the area.

Mayor W. A. Kingston said that he believed it was the general feeling of council that if the two lots in question were necessary to the commission, the council would certainly co-operate to the fullest extent by trying to make other arrangements with the Brewer's Warehousing Company.

The group decided to leave the matter in the hands of joint committee made up of the property committee of the council and manager P. G. Dunyea and Commissioner A. J. Meyers of the P.U.C. The committee will arrange a meeting with the brewery interests and see what they can work out. They will then bring in a report at a special meeting to be called later by the mayor.

A grass fire in Seymour township on the outskirts of this town was quickly extinguished by the Campbellford firemen on Friday afternoon. The fire jumped a fence and threatened to get out of hand until the arrival of firemen.

Unlawful Possession

A local resident was sentenced to 30 days in jail on Thursday when he appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter on a charge of having liquor while on the interdicted list.

Clayton Alley was given the alternative of a $100 fine but was unable to pay this, and was taken to Cobourg by Chief George H. Hardy.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Baxter said that this type of offence was all too prevalent, and that the illegal consumption of liquor had to be stopped. He reminded Alley that he had appeared before him and had been convicted on other occasions.

RAWDON

Rawdon — The Easter meeting of Mount Pleasant - Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held recently, one week later, at the home of Mrs. Albert Bager, radio beam station. There were 11 members, two visitors and three children in attendance.

Mrs. John Holmes presided and gave an "Easter Thought" as call to worship; all sang "We Sing the Praise of Him Who Died," and read responsively - "Christ our Passover."

The next meeting will be held on May 14th, at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Weaver with Mrs. Burton Sharpe to preside over the program.

Due to the illness of Mrs. Frank Smith, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Roy Thrasher was asked to carry on her duties. Miss Ruth Linn gathered the offering and Mrs. Blake Sharpe dedicated it to Missions.

Thank Offering

It was announced that about $40 had been remitted for first quarter. The thankoffering on Easter Sunday was almost $30.

An invitation was read from Carmel W.A. to attend a Sunday church service on June 1st, to commemorate their 40th. anniversary. A letter was read from Mrs. Wilson tendering her resignation as co-president.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher presided over the program which she had arranged.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen synopsized two chapters of "From Lake to Northern Lights", dealing with evangelistic ministries in downtown areas of the large cities, in mining communities and other growing sections where large industries have been set up.

Home Mission Workers

The home mission workers try to impart a Christian influence, the hungry are fed, the needy clad, the homeless befriended and the gospel preached. Scores of people are assisted each year through food, shelter and clothing. All this is reflected in the words of the Master: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

All over Canada the Woman's Missionary Society is paying for trained workers to carry on the gospel ministries to these unfortunate people.

The second part dealt with immigration and the problem of moulding future Canadians. The aim of the United Church is to assist these people who have come to dwell here; to welcome them in the church and to apply to them the words of St. Paul: "Ye are no more strangers and foreigners but fellow citizens."

The French settlers came in 1666, followed by the United Empire Loyalists, then in 1830 over 200,000 persons came to Upper Canada. Following that, five million immigrants settled in western Canada.

The report of Belleville Presbyterial was given by Mrs. Roy Thrasher, Mrs. Frank Jeffs, Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mrs. Milford Wrightman.

Mrs. Thrasher then conducted an Easter Meditation using hymns on that theme. Mrs. Wrightman read the Bible lesson. Mrs. Burton Sharpe read an impressive poem, "He Giveth the Victory." Mrs. Holmes gave a few thoughts on "Take Up the Cross and Follow Me."

Special articles were read by Miss Ruth Linn, Mrs. Albert Sager and Mrs. Gordon Linn. Several ladies, including Mrs. George Jones and Mrs. Sager, responses.

The pastor, Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, closed the Easter service.

Read what Mrs. David Graham, of 1850 Gladstone Avenue, Windsor, Ontario, says:

"The first time my husband tasted my cooking at home, he said: 'You can cook, too!' Of course we all laughed, until my Mother got a little serious and explained that she had taught me to do all my baking with FIVE ROSES ALL PURPOSE FLOUR. Both my Mother, Mrs. A. MacDougal and her Mother always used FIVE ROSES.

"In my own 19 years of housekeeping FIVE ROSES FLOUR has been my true aid in all baking—dependable and excellent quality —always."

Trigger Point of Atom Bomb

Latest atomic explosion by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission was the most powerful ever detonated on this continent. Hundreds of observers witnessed the explosion, this time an air burst and detonated at 3,000 feet, and soldiers and observers moved into the explosion area immediately after the burst. This is the control point for the Nevada proving grounds where a flick of a switch triggers the bomb. — Central Press Canadian.

Persistence Needed to Eradicate Wild Mustard

Common mustard, sometimes called charlock or berrick, is one of the worst weeds in Ontario, because of the competition it offers to grain crops, states J. W. MacRae, fieldman for the crops branch Ontario Department of Agriculture. This prolific, strong-growing plant is found in all cultivated land and robs grain of moisture and soil fertility, and thus reduces grain yields by a considerable amount.

Mr. MacRae says that common mustard has reduced grain yields by as much as 10 bushels per acre. It is a common impurity in feed grains, and if found in sufficient quantity it may make the feed unpalatable to livestock. This weed is classed as a primary noxious and if it is present in seed, the grade will be lowered.

Big Seed Producer

Common wild mustard is an annual with fibrous roots and upright stock, from one to three feet high, from which branches the upper part of the weed. It is generally recognized by its showy, yellow flowers which are at least a third of an inch across. The plant blooms from June through to September, producing seed pods up to two inches in length. This seed is black and about one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter, and somewhat resembles turnip or rape seed.

Mr. MacRae points out that two things make this weed difficult to control. One is that each plant produces about 15,000 seeds so that with any heavy infestation of mustard the ground becomes polluted with the seed. The other side of this is that the seed has great vitality, and will remain dormant in the ground for a great many years, after which it will germinate when brought to the surface, and produce strong healthy plants.

Persistence Needed

He states that eradication of mustard calls for a great deal of persistence once the ground has been polluted. Where only a few plants are present, hand pulling is the best method of eradication. Good after-harvest cultivation and special care before seeding will bring the seeds to the surface, where they will germinate. The young plants can then be easily destroyed.

Mr. MacRae adds that chemical control has been found very effective. Three to five ounces of 2-4,D per acre will take care of any mustard found growing in the grain crops, not seeded down to alfalfa or clover. The best time to use this method is when the plant is in the three to five leaf stage. Dr. MacRae recommends the use of Dinitro compounds when the field has been seeded down to alfalfa and clover. More water is required for applying these latter chemicals, and the directions given in the "Guide to Chemical Weed Control" should be followed closely.

However, he warns that this weed cannot be cleared up in a year, either with chemicals or cultivation, and a regular program over a period of several years is necessary to control common mustard in polluted fields.

P.-C. Clubs Hear Noted Speakers

The regular April meeting of the Women's Progressive-Conservative Club was withdrawn to enable the Belleville women to attend a rally in Trenton, sponsored by the Trenton Women's Conservative Club. A good representation of members went by bus and several cars, and were most cordially received by Mrs. Strong, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. Struson and others.

Corsages of roses were presented to the distinguished guest speakers, Miss Hilda Hesson, of Winnipeg, national director of the Dominion of Canada, by Mrs. Strong, president of Trenton Women's Club, and to Mrs. R. B. Downing, of Toronto, organizer for Ontario, by Mrs. M. Tugnett, president of the Belleville Club. Guest Speakers

Mrs. Strong presided for a short business session. Mrs. M. B. Wesse, of Belleville, introduced Mrs. Downing, and referred to her recent visit to this city, and to the outstanding work done during the recent by-election and to the excellent team work of these two distinguished speakers.

Mrs. Downing held her listeners undivided attention with her enthusiastic and interesting round-up of national problems and in closing introduced Miss Hilda Hesson.

The financial director told of her various experiences across Canada, and her unfaltering faith in the women of Canada, of her pride in her party and belief that loyalty, justice and freedom are best portrayed by the policies the club has adopted and is supporting.

Miss Hesson also referred to a little circular, "The News Letter," of which she is editor, and which reaches over 10,000 women across Canada every month.

Miss Dawson graciously tendered thanks to the speakers.

Mrs. M. Tugnett brought greetings and thanks on behalf of the Belleville Club. Mrs. E. Sandercock also added her appreciation and that of her husband, Mr. R. Sandercock, M.P.P., popular member for West Hastings.

Mrs. Kinnear, honorary president of the Belleville Club, also thanked the speakers for coming and assured them that interest and enthusiasm were awakened by their inspiring addresses.

After the singing of the National Anthem, refreshments were served and an opportunity given to meet the visiting speakers.

Mrs. Dawson contributed a piano solo, and community singing added to the social hour.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was going over her bank balleets with a serious expression, saying to pop, Really, William, I meen really, I dont see how a big institution like a bank with a hundred adding machines at its beck and call, has any excuse to make a mistake of 90 dollers in my favor.

In your favor, yee gods, pop said. I cant imagine a bank getting quite as carefree as that, he said, and ma said, It would just be a good object lesson to them if I set back and let them take the loss, but naturelly my conscience and my principals would not let me do a thing like that, even in a worthy cause.

Naturelly for, my dear, your hands are tied, pop said, and ma said, I just wonder what would happen if the shoe was on the opposite foot? I meen suppose I went into that bank and laid down 90 dollers and then absent mindedly walked out again without leeving my name, do you suppose the bank would move heaven and earth to prove the money didn't belong to them? she said.

I doubt they'd even call a special me ting of the board of directers, pop said. Would you mind if I take an impersonel glance at your check book? he said, and ma said, Here it is, the figures are all there, rite on the stubs in black and white.

And she handed it to him, and pop said, They're in black and white, all rite, but one of them is in the wrong column. You deducted a hundred dollers instead of 10, so the 90 dollers is yours with a clear conscience and the highest principals, he said.

Being the happy medium for me.

WORTH A TRY!

A story in the current edition of the Hockey News states that there is a possibility that the Chicago Black Hawks may use the Pembroke arena for their training grounds next September.

The story says that Bill Tobin, Black Hawk boss man paid a visit to Pembroke recently to "look over the Memorial Centre".

In an interview with the press, Tobin said that his visit was "purely exploratory" to look over the situation and obtain information on which a decision as to next year's training season can be made.

He made no secret, the story says, of the fact that he had been favorably impressed with what he saw and was enthusiastic with his praise of the Memorial Centre.

We do not know what kind of a Memorial Centre Pembroke has, but apparently it is a good one. Be that as it may, Mr. Tobin has a hockey tie-up with Belleville. We do not know the requirements of a National Hockey League team for its training grind, but shouldn't some effort be made to bring the Hawks here?

We may be stepping on dangerous ground, but in ignorance there is no harm in suggesting that the Hawks boss be given an invitation to bring his club here, if facilities are suitable.

"PLAY BALL!"

With the grass schootin', and the dew worms poking inquisitive snouts through the earth these springish days, Manager Jack Shaw of the Belleville Red-men Baseball Club has issued the first call to duty to potential members of the 1952 edition of the team.

A "look-em-over" session will be held in Exhibition Park on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock and all players desirous of trying out are urged to attend the get-together. All bars are down. Positions are wide open. Show enough ability and you've got a spot.

All classes, creeds and colors are welcome. Bring along the glove, and let's get started. Opening date is only a month or so away and that's little enough time to whip a team into shape.

Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds at two o'clock. Be there.

FINE TRIBUTE!

At the annual meeting of the Ottawa Valley Baseball Association held in the Recreation Centre, Renfrew, during the week, Harry M. Moore, formerly of Desormeaux and Trenton, was elected president for the third successive year. The delegates in a standing vote of confidence asked Mr. Moore to continue in office as a reward for his untiring efforts to make the OVBA one of the best associations east of Toronto. Last year for the first time the association went all out to get the minor ball players going and by he end of the season no less than 24 teams (370 registered players) took part in play-offs from bantams to intermediate (senior).

Feller, Cain Toss One-Hitter In Thrilling Hurling Duel; Red Sox Turn Back Yanks 3-1

(By The Canadian Press)

Things used to be pleasanter in St. Louis.

Time was when visiting American League ball clubs could enjoy a leisurely visit to Sportsman's Park, fattening their batting averages and making all their pitchers look like Bob Feller.

But in two days the revitalized Browns ended Cleveland's seven game winning streak, hammered the Indians from first into third place, took over the top spot themselves and hung a defeat on Feller himself when the Tribe's ace was pitching his very best brand of ball.

Following the heels of a splendid eight-hitter by Tommy Byrne Tuesday, Bob Cain unfurled a one-hit masterpiece last night.

Cain had to pitch the best game of his life in order to win for Feller was magnificent, too, pitching a one-hitter himself. The lone Brownie safety, a triple by leadoff batter Bobby Young, proved Feller's undoing.

Fumble Wins Game

Marty Marion followed Young's first inning triple with a grounder to Al Rosen. When the third baseman bobbled, Marion scored the only run of the game.

The Browns now have won seven games against a lone defeat, not including an unfinished game with the Chicago White Sox in which St. Louis trailed, 10-2 at the end of the seven innings. They own a won and lost percentage of .875 to the second place Boston Red Sox .500 percentage for an 8-2 record. Cleveland dropped to third with a 7-3 record.

It marked the first time since October 2, 1944 that any Brownie team ever occupied first place. The Browns won their only pennant that year. They finished in last place in 1951 with only 52 victories and 102 losses.

The only hit permitted by Cain was a harmless single by Lake Easter in the fifth inning. The 27-year-old lefthander from Calhan, Kansas, walked three but was aided by three double plays. He struck out seven.

Second Time in History

It was the second time in major league history that each pitcher limited the opposition to one hit. On July 4, 1908, Addie Joss (three-hitter) Brown of Chicago and Lefty Leifield (or Pittsburgh permitted only one hit each as the Cubs defeated the Pirates, 1-0.

It was the first one-hitter by Cain but the 11th for Feller and the only one-hitter he ever lost. Ironically, Cain was Feller's victim when Bob pitched his third no-hitter last year against Detroit.

Boston's youth-infested Red Sox, behind the five-hit pitching of 37-year-old Ellis Kinder, defeated the New York Yankees, 2-1.

New York Giants outslugged Boston Braves, 9-5, in the only National League game. Home runs by Alvin Dark, Don Mueller, Wes Westrum and relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm featured the Giant victory.

Scheduled games between St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, Detroit and Chicago and Washington and the Philadelphia Athletics were postponed. Pittsburgh and Chicago Cubs were idle.

Detroit Tigers Give Manager Confidence Vote

Chicago, April 24—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers are sharpening their laws to climb out of the American League basement after giving manager Red Rolfe a vote of confidence and shouldering all of the blame for a disastrous eight-game losing streak.

The Bengals hope to get their first taste of victory of the season tonight in St. Louis against the indomitable Browns who have nudged into the league lead.

That may be a tough job for the tail-enders who have lost their first eight games. But yesterday's published report by a Cleveland sports columnist that there was an anti-Rolfe feeling" among the players bordering on rebellion has kicked up their fur.

Before yesterday's game with the White Sox at Comiskey Park was postponed by inclement weather, the players called a secret meeting and gave Rolfe a unanimous vote of confidence.

Back Up Rolfe

"We wanted Red to know we are back of him 100 per cent," said spokesman Freddie Hutchinson. "We want to refute the claim about dissension. Such a story comes at a bad time. It is absolutely untrue. The fact that we haven't won a game is our fault, not the manager's."

Rolfe has been recognized as one of the most intelligent and stable men in baseball. He is a disciple of Joe McCarthy under whom he played and later coached with the New York Yankees.

Like McCarthy, Rolfe has a certain aloofness. It is said that his station engenders respect from players similarly where his players are concerned.

Observers say that if there is any "feeling" among the Tigers, this attitude may have had something to do with it.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, April 24 (CP) —Almost the best bet in the sports future book for the coming year is that the U.S. tennis leaders will ask Walter (Cap) Pate, the Wall Street lawyer, to please give up his bridge for a couple of months and lead the somewhat shattered American Davis Cup forces against the Australians.

The next best bet is that the lively little barrister, though now over 70 and out of harness since he captained the victorious U.S. team at Melbourne in 1946, will consent to give it another whirl if he is asked just right. Reason we know is we asked him.

First answer we got was: "No, I just couldn't do it again. It's too far, and the strain laid me up for a week after the last one."

There followed a considerable conversation about the problems facing the U.S. Cup committee, including the selection of a captain. Pate conceded they were fierce. We then asked, if he would be willing to go to Adelaide next winter as second in command, a sort of Captain Emeritus.

"Absolutely not," Pate snapped. "If I go I'll have to be in complete command and I'll insist that we get over there at least six weeks before the challenge round so we are thoroughly acclimated. I wouldn't go under any other conditions."

In other words, the canny old strategist who brought the big cup back from Britain in 1937—with a bit of help from Don Budge—and who repeated nine years later at Melbourne is not going to seek the job, but he will be reluctantly available when they insist it is his duty.

Cuban "Import" May Bolster Leafs - - - Come 1972

When Red Berrett, Maple Leaf hurler and noted team comedian, announced that he had adopted a young Cuban orphan, his teammates chortled. Thinking his story was another practical joke. But when Red was seen at Maple Leaf ball park giving a chunky little two-year-old some batting pointers, even his most sceptical brethren were convinced. Red and his wife adopted young Charles while the former was playing baseball in Cuba. — Central Press Canadian.

Stevens Two Homers Lead Toronto To Win Over Birds Before 19,433

(By The Associated Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs apparently have come up with the "boy" of the year in Ed Stevens, 27-year-old smooth-fielding first baseman.

Stevens, who formerly played with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, was purchased from Indianapolis shortly before the season's start.

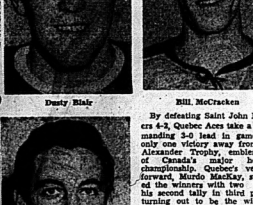
The hard-hitting veteran had bothered the past few years with a back ailment and although he claimed he was completely recovered, Indianapolis decided to let him go.

Stevens has been pounding the ball for the Leafs with some of his "former" punch. He drove in five runs yesterday on a pair of circuit clouts to lead the Leafs to an 8-7 victory over Baltimore Orioles.

It was opening day in Toronto and 19,433 fans packed the park. The Leafs sewed it up with six runs in the second inning. Stevens featured the rally with a grand-slam homer.

Montreal Royals ushered in their home season before 15,079 fans by defeating Syracuse Chiefs 7-5. Tom Saverda, with help from Mal Malette, gained credit for his second victory over the Chiefs. The victory enabled the highly-regarded Royals to break their tie with Syracuse for the league lead.

Buffalo Bisons took over second place, a half game behind the Royals, by defeating Ottawa Athletics 8-3 before an opening day crowd of 3,675 fans in the capital.



Hank Borowy, former major league star, limited the Athletics to nine hits in posting his second straight victory. The loss was Ottawa's sixth straight of a winless campaign.

Rochester Red Wings treated 13,872 opening day fans to a 3-2 triumph over Springfield Cubs. Fred Martin checked the Cubs on nine hits and singled home Lou Ortiz with one out in the ninth to win his own game.

By defeating Saint John Beavers 6-3, Quebec Aces take a commanding 4-0 lead in semi-finals — only one victory away from the Alexander Trophy, emblematic of Canada's major hockey championship. Quebec's veteran forward, Murdo MacKay, sparked the winners with two goals, his second tally in third period turning out to be the winning marker. Big centre, Jean Beliveau and linemate Martial Pruneau scored the other Quebec goals, while Dusty Blair and Bill McCracken tallied for Saint John. Forts, Stratford Square Off For Second Game

Fort William, April 24 (CP)— Fort Frances Canadians and Stratford Indians meet here tonight in the second game of the Allan Cup hockey final after a day of rest which included civic luncheon and a trip to the golf links.

Most of the Canadians were out yesterday trying their hands at putting after both teams were guests of the city at the luncheon.

Canadians tonight will be gunning for a repeat performance of the opening game Tuesday, when they ran rough-shod over the eastern Canada senior champions to defeat them 9-5.

After tonight's encounter the best-of-seven series shifts to Fort Frances where Canadians will be playing on home ice for the first time in an Allan Cup quest.

Last year, the Forts lost out to Owen Sound in the final with all games at Owen Sound. This is the first time for Stratford in the Allan Cup final.

The big one-game edge Canadians now hold in the series came after a scoring spree in the third period of the opener. They hammered in six goals after trailing 4-3 at the end of the second.

Stunned by Canadians' sudden reversal of form, Indians retired to their dressing room and closed the door as they tried to figure out what happened.

Radio Stations 'Black Out' Baseball Games

London, Ont., April 24—(CP)— The Kitchener and Waterloo clubs of the senior intercounty baseball league will be "blacked out" by all radio stations within league territory it was decided at a meeting of the stations involved.

The meeting was called to discuss the demands of the two clubs for a fee of $25 a game for the right to carry play-by-play reports of the games from the home parks to the towns concerned.

The five radio stations agreed unanimously to refuse the demand. This also means that no away-from-home games played by these clubs will be broadcast as the radio stations work on a reciprocal basis.

It was the opinion of those representing radio stations CKRC, Kitchener; CFCO, Chatham; CKPC, Brantford, CHLO, St. Thomas and CFPL, London, that if they agreed to such a fee for the Kitchener-Waterloo parks, it would be only reasonable to put similar fees to the other parks," said Murray Brown, manager of CFPL, spokesman for the group.

The radio executives opposed this in principle because it had been generally accepted that the broadcasting of the inter-county games benefitted the league equally as much as the radio stations.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

For the first time in 13 years a National League umpire has been found guilty of making a mistake.

Umpire Douglas (Scotty) Robertson was fined an undisclosed amount last night by Warren C. Giles of Cincinnati, league president, for a run-in with manager Eddie Stanky of St. Louis Cardinals. Stanky got away with a $50 fine.

Giles saw Tuesday night's game in which Cincinnati defeated the Cards 2-0. In words which left no question as to his opinion of the matter, he said:

"For pushing manager Stanky, umpire Robb has been disciplined and fined an amount which, in my judgment, is commensurate with the act."

Shortstop Solly Hemus, who started the trouble by tossing his bat away after being called out on strikes, was fined $25. Stanky rushed out of the dugout to the defense in a vigorous series of words with the umpire. It was then the pushing took place.

Connie Mack, the grand old man of baseball, was at Ottawa yesterday for the home opener of his Athletics of the International League. He was presented with a bouquet by a pretty girl but the Ottawa team failed to present him with a win. They lost 6-3 to Buffalo.

Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football union have signed halfback Ulysses Curtis to his third contract with the team. The Pennsylvania-born Negro was named to The Canadian Press all-star teams in 1950 and 1951.

Fred Saigh, owner of St. Louis Cardinals, said yesterday he will let baseball's top officials decide whether he should relinquish control of the club pending settlement of income tax evasion charges against him. He said he is confident he will be cleared. Saigh faces five counts, charging he evaded $49,620 in taxes from 1946 through 1949.

The Maine Boxing Commission announced at Augusta last night that Rocky Marciano, who laced Joe Louis in the heavyweight upset of last year, has been suspended for 60 days for "deception" during a Maine exhibition tour. The suspension is effective on the heavyweight title contender in all states except New York.

St. Louis Browns, doormats of the American League for many seasons, have the turnstiles clicking in their current battle for first place. Attendance is running 300 percent higher than last year. The Browns defeated Cleveland Indians 1-0 last night to take over the lead.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, who will ride Count Flame in the Kentucky Derby, rode four winners at Jamaica race track, New York, yesterday.

Persevering Frank Stranahan is hunting again for the "grand slam" of golf, the quartet of major championships which only the fabulous Bobby Jones was able to package in a single season. Stranahan is entered in the British Amateur and the British Open as well as the U.S. Amateur and the U.S. Open.

Kingston Rinks Will Visit City For Friendly Game

The curling season instituted at the inaugural meeting has been a unqualified success. With some 60 members registered all five sheets have been in use practically every available hour. The beginners or prospective curlers are also progressing rapidly and while those who have curled for years gone by are getting a real kick out of being on the ice again. The galleries have been large and it is the wish of the committee that more people attend during the evening curling. Spectators are most welcome and any information sought will be gladly given.

It is the intention of the club to call a meeting immediately after the curling season is over, and which will end on Wednesday night next, for the purpose of providing ways and means to have a curling club building with artificial ice ready for next winter's curling. Several suggestions have been made and these will all be discussed, A strong committee will be formed and every means of financing will be explored.

To keep the ball in trim and see how they will perform against outside opposition the Kingston club has accepted an invitation to come up for a friendly game. Four or five rinks will be in on Friday night and from the membership of the local club rinks will be chosen that will give the easterners a real tussle. The public is invited to come over and watch the games because this will be the highlight of the season. The Bancroft club has been a real friend to the local organization in supplying ropes, brooms and equipment at no cost, while members of their organization took time out of a busy life to come up and mark out the ice. Their services has been much appreciated by the local club.

The thanks of the club also go out to Mr. Bowman in charge of the arena and his staff for the excellent ice provided.

Off With The Old, On With The New; Finish Hockey; Organize for Softball

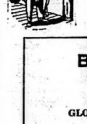
Bancroft — (Special)— Minor hockey business for the past season was finished and minor softball preparations for the coming spring and summer were made when the North Hastings Minor Hockey Association met in Apsley on Monday night. The same executive functions for both summer and winter sports.

Arrangements were made for engraving the two trophies for the current winners, Apsley Aces won the Wiggins Garage trophy for the bantam championship and Coe Hill-Apsley Combines took the Bancroft Lions Club trophy for the midget championship. Clarence McCormack of Apsley was authorized to purchase crests for the two winning teams. John Bleecker of Bancroft and Harold Crosby of Coe Hill were to have the trophies ready for presentation.

During the meeting the two Apsley representatives, William Houle and Clarence McCormack, announced that a hockey banquet for both teams was being held in their village on Saturday night and that the trophies and crests were being presented.

As there were 21 teams in the public schools softball league it was decided to run four separate sections in order to cut transportation costs. With daylight saving practically all games will be twilight contests.

Apsley, Glen Alda, Coe Hill and Ormsby form the south group with Bert Giles as convener. Two teams from Bancroft public school, Faraday and L'Amable form the central group, with Morton Graham as convener. Jim Schram convenes the north group of Maynooth, Lake St. Peter, Birds Creek and Maple Leaf-McAlpine and Jack Hutton convenes the east group of Hermon, Carlow, Fort Stewart and McArthur's Mills-Little Ireland.



All teams are to play home and home games, with the top two teams playing two out of three for the right to enter the playdowns. In the first round South will play East and North will play Central, two out of three. The finals for the Rollins Trophy will be on the same basis. If weather conditions permit the league will start during the week of April 28th-May 2nd as the league has to be completed by the 24th of June.

President Kenneth A. Forscare, Coe Hill, was in charge of the meeting.

His mind is closed so tight, I cannot pry it loose. My goodness, could it be that I am adamant and mulish, fall to see the other fellow's side?

If you have an open mind, you and I can agree about an opening game bid. By an opening bid I mean an opening bid of four in a major suit or five in a minor suit.

Rule says that such an opening shows an eight trick hand with a long suit and no outside trick. Some players, however, employ it cleverly as a shutout or sacrifice with less tricks.

Maybe you like it used strictly according to rule. Maybe you prefer it as a stunt trier. Either or both goes with me in a bridge game. So, name your own terms Here is why.

All sensible players recognize it as a request for partner to pass. So, you are not fooling me by such a bid. I simply pass and the responsibility is yours for any purpose you intended.

If my wishes were considered, however, I prefer that such an opening be avoided if you are first or second hand. That is, such a bid may have a better purpose if used third or fourth hand. Why?

If you are so weak in outside strength, someone else may open. If you are first or second hand, partner may open and your hand is then good for a number of possible sacrifice.

♠ 10 7 6
♥ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5
♦ 4
♣ None

If you are dealer with this hand it may be advisable for you to pass. If dealer has passed and you are second hand with these tickets, it may be advisable to pass.

But, if the first two or three players have passed, this hand could open with four hearts. It may turn out well in that spot.

You could probably talk me out of some of this.

1100 MOTORISTS SUMMONED

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — Eleven hundred Toronto motorists have been summoned for not having 1952 licence stickers on their windshields, police said yesterday. Of the 1,100, 800 have paid their $10 fine.

Officials at Queen's Park said they did not feel the 1,100 persons summoned so far were all persons who had not renewed their licences. They said they had received many complaints that the stickers fell off windshields.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 25, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—If you've been rushing hard all week, slow down some to check over what you accomplished. Can you make improvements? Did you miss opportunities? Prepare for a good weekend.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—As we all should today, try to finish tasks to have a freer hand for next week. Don't worry or stew about things. Often we accomplish more on days like this.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Self-restraint urged. You will need clear head and steady purpose if you would have this day on credit side. Have order in routine, conferences, clearing up odds-an'-ends.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Tendency to feel down or discourage easily? Don't heed that or any other such hankering. Give yourself a pep talk just for sure, and be more cheerful than usual.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Moderate indications best for activities with which you are familiar. Routine need not be troublesome. Financial interests have fresh boost.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Mercury and other planets here stress self-restraint. Do not worry; have reasonable tempo and be temperate in all things. Try to get in some restful diversion.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Personal affairs, new tasks may irritate unless you are on guard, show closer interest and desire to help keep things going smoother. You can go ahead.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Maybe some obstacles to impede progress, cause you to slow up. Take them philosophically. Sometimes such days reveal opportunities for our best qualities.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Same sort of restrictions today as for Scorpio. But good management of your affairs, sensible co-operation with family and associates will bring happy results.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—May do better now than many because of your patience and steady persistence; also your knack for understanding and tolerating human frailities.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your Uranus position advises against unwarranted changes in any well planned or successful living, business or other undertaking. Follow through efficient program.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—If careful not to neglect any confidential or important matter and are equally cautious handling chemicals, drugs, explosives, etc., you should have no trouble today.

YOU BORN TODAY are steady dependable, kind and highly efficient, talented especially for mechanics, farming, gardening, nursing. Skill for decorating, managing groups, building, extensive planning. Taureans often have great ideas, for oratory, singing, make able judges, physicians, public speakers, teachers, scientists. Birthdate: Guglielmo Marconi, Ital. physicist, inventor of wireless telegraphy.

Eisenhower Leads Popularity Polls

In a pose which most persons consider typical of his air of friendliness, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is photographed in Paris where a threat has prevented him from visiting all NATO countries before returning to the U.S. Popularity polls in the U.S. show him to be favored over Taft to win the Republican nomination for president. — Central Press Canadian.

While Queen Juliana becomes re-acquainted with Ottawa, her husband, Prince Bernhard was travelling through the U.S. But even while having a haircut he could not escape photographers. Here, in San Francisco, he gets the full tonsorial treatment. He will join Juliana in Ottawa later in the week. — Central Press Canadian.

gray suit and fluffy little white blouse.

Not that she'd spent an unusually long time before starting in getting ready.

She looked out of the window as the train steamed into the platform. She saw him immediately and felt her heart racing wildly. And knew a sudden shyness as she stepped from the train. It was quite ridiculous considering her age that this was the very first time she'd met a young man for tea and the pictures!

Paul, watching her come toward him, wondered what she'd think if she were to know how anxiously he had been waiting for her train. Fearful lest she might not to be on it. He took her hands and smiled down at her.

"Gosh, I'm glad you managed to make it."

"It was the purest chance. Aunt Helen wanted her library book changed."

"God bless Aunt Helen," he said reverently. Then, "Listen, what shall we do first? Get that library book out of the way?"

"I think it would be wiser."

There was nothing available on her aunt's list, so Patience had to choose a book for her. She decided on one she thought her aunt might enjoy, and the girl at the desk said it was a "very pleasant little story."

"Sounds awful," said Paul.

Patience smiled.

"Aunt Helen will like it all right. Mind you, Aunt Alice reads thrillers."

"The devil she does! I'd like to meet Aunt Alice."

"She's really the gay one of the two. At least I always feel she'd like to be, only of course she's never had much chance. Aunt Helen is a much stronger character She's older than Aunt Alice."

"I see. Aunt Alice is just two of them?"

"That's all. There was another sister. My mother. She was very much younger. She died when I was seven."

"Poor little mouse!" he said softly. "You can't remember her, I suppose?"

"Oh yes, I can. Only not very clearly. But she was absolutely lovely. And always very gay and full of fun."

"Like you could be if only the opportunity offered. Look, let's have an early tea and go to the flicks after." He led her into a tea shop as he spoke and over to a little table in a far corner. And when the waitress had taken their order: "Tell me more about yourself, and your maiden aunt, and your mother who so lovely and so gay."

Patience drew off her gloves and laid them beside her bag on the table.

"It's really because of my mother that my aunts have brought me up so strictly. She ran away when she was 20 and married an artist." Her eyes hardened. "My grandparents cut her off completely."

"My goodness!"

"My father deserted my mother. She died in the South of France. Someone wrote to the family lawyer. By that time my grandparents had both died. My aunts went down to Cannes at once. You see, they knew my mother had had twins—she sent them a little photograph by Christmas without a word. Just a photograph of herself and her babies."

He stared at her.

"Good Lord, there aren't two of you?"

She shook her head.

"No," she said wistfully. "I often wish there were. My aunts arrived expecting to find me and my sister, and found I was there by myself. There was some French woman looking after me."

"But she didn't know what had become of your sister?"

"Only that there wasn't anyone who could tell my aunts anything. They did all they could to trace her. Without any luck. In the end they came back to England bringing me with them."

"And you've been with them ever since."

"Yes," her voice warmed with affection. "They've been absolutely wonderful to me!"

He looked at her and saw that she meant it. There was a candid simplicity in her hazel eyes. She was, he felt, an utterly little world and was unaware that it was bounded by high walls.

"Don't you ever feel you want to be really gay? Go to a wild party? Dance all night with some young man—me, for instance —and dance till the small hours."

She frowned.

"I don't think I'd like a wild party. And I did once dance till the small hours."

"Once! But you're twenty years old! Listen, will you come to a dance with me one night? They have them here at the Town Hall every Saturday. I'll drive you back after. I'll borrow my father's car."

She looked at him and though she longed to say she would—that there was nothing she'd like better —she knew it was impossible. Her aunts would never allow it.

"Truly, I can't, though I would like to."

He decided that it was a subject to which he could return later. Some other Saturday afternoon perhaps. Because somehow or other he was going to see to it that this meeting was repeated. But for the time being—

He glanced at his watch.

"The big film starts in a quarter-of-an-hour. If you drink down that cup of tea right away we'll just about make it."

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

"You couldn't I suppose, meet me, say one Saturday afternoon, in Stortford for tea and the pictures?"

Her eyes widened. For a fleeting moment she wondered if it would be possible. She'd know instantly that it was out of the question.

"I don't see how I could."

"Why not?"

"—I'm always rather busy on Saturday afternoons."

"Doing what?" he asked with interest.

"The brasses for the church, and the flowers. My aunt Alice sees to them each week and I always help her."

He looked at her curiously, thinking how lovely her voice was now that at last he'd got her to talk to him. Thinking that she must be unique. There couldn't be another girl like her in the whole of England. A girl who was always busy on Saturday afternoons helping a maiden aunt clean the church brasses!

"Don't you ever have any fun?" She laughed softly.

"Oh yes. Lots."

"What sort?"

"Well, in the summer there are tennis parties. And sometimes we go on picnics."

"And in the winter—"

"The winters are rather quiet, I'll admit. But, of course, now I go to London three times a week life's much more exciting."

"It must be a riot," he said dryly. "Tell me, what do you do in London?"

"I go to the Stanton Dressmaking Academy in Great Falkland St."

"Do you like that?"

"Very much. At least I think so."

"You don't sound terribly sure."

"Well, the point is, I'm not absolutely certain I want to be a dressmaker."

"I can understand that. But why go in that case?"

"Aunt Helen and Aunt Alice thought it would be a very suitable career for me."

"And do you always do what Aunt Helen and Aunt Alice want you to do?"

She smiled.

"D'you know, I believe I do."

"It's absolutely certain you do. And I'm absolutely certain that it's because you stopped doing it." He took her arm as they walked along and held it more tightly as she instinctively made to draw away from him. "What a funny little mouse of a girl it is!"

"Mouse!"

"That's been my name for you since the first evening I saw you. A darling little mouse, not the sort you shriek at and jump on a chair. A little soft brown mouse with soft white hands—oh, don't wriggle like that. I insist on holding your hand. And you like having it held."

"I don't."

He let it go instantly. Patience's heart was racing wildly.

"At least I don't think I do," she said tremulously.

He laughed and drew her arm through his again.

"On Saturday," he said, "you'll catch the two-thirty from Oakley and I'll be at Stortford to meet you on the station. You'll think of some nice little fairy tale for Aunts Helen and Alice—or you'll do what would be far more sensible, tell them you've met a nice young man on the train and you're going to tea and to the cinema with him. What about it?"

She shook her head.

"I couldn't. Truly I couldn't."

"But you'll have to break out some day."

Would she? Funny that until this moment she'd never even considered it.

"How old are you?"

"Twenty."

"Ye Gods! I've got a sister of 20. She has so many boy friends she's lose count of them."

"And you—you have so many girl friends!"

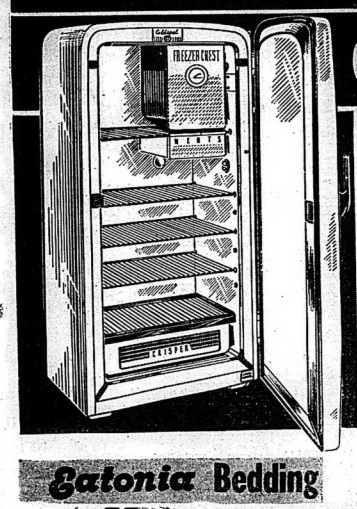
"You bet. But none who really matters. None I want to see in church as I want to see you on Saturday."

They were nearly at Oakley now. She could see the lights of the station. Soon she'd be on her bicycle and it would be over. Because of course she couldn't meet him as he suggested. And if she didn't he wouldn't bother with her any more. He'd give her up as far too dull and far too straitlaced for him. There'd be no further thrill about the train journey home. No more point in wondering breathlessly whether possibly she'd see him.

All the same what he wanted was out of the question.

"I'd like to," she said regretfully. "But I'm afraid it really is quite impossible."

Nevertheless she was on the two-thirty the following Saturday. She'd just not intended to be. But it wasn't of her own choosing. Beneath her arm was her aunt Helen's library book. Each week Newman, the library in Stortford, called to deliver a new one. But this week they'd had a breakdown with the van. Aunt Helen at breakfast had said that it was very annoying. For a week she'd have nothing to read. Unless—she'd looked at Patience. "Patience dear, I suppose you wouldn't mind going into Stortford for me this afternoon, and change my library book?"



Patience decided it must be fate. Only twice before had Aunt Helen asked her to go to Stortford. She'd hoped her voice hadn't sounded too eager as she'd said that of course she'd go only too willingly. And that her aunts hadn't noticed that she'd set off wearing her new

30 U.S. Seamen Killed In Blast In Gun Turret

Worst Naval Disaster Of The War In Korea

Tokyo, April 26 (Saturday) (AP) —Thirty American seamen were killed in an explosion in a gun turret of the cruiser St. Paul off Korea Monday. The navy, making the announcement today called it the worst naval disaster of the Korean war.

The navy said a "gun-powder fire of undetermined origin" set off the explosion in an anti-aircraft gun turret. A board is investigating.

The St. Paul is commanded by Capt. Roy A. Gano of Falls Church, Va. She is the flagship of Rear-Admiral Earl E. Stone, commander of the cruiser division one.

The St. Paul was firing on communists positions on the Korean east coast. It continued firing after the blast and still is in Korean waters. Communists shore guns were not firing at the American warship.

The blast rocked the heavy cruiser. The navy said 30 of the 37 men were killed by asphyxiation due to burning gases. There were no injuries. All victims were in the turret.

The worst previous naval disaster of this war was June 21 when the U.S. destroyer Walke sank in a mine off Wonsan. Twenty-six were killed and 40 wounded.

Steel Industry In Quest of Order To Prevent Boosts

Washington, April 25—(AP)—The steel industry, fighting what it calls President Truman's "wholly illegal and wholly unconstitutional" seizure order, returns to federal court today in quest of an order forbidding any government-imposed wage boost for steelworkers.

But action centred on the federal district court where Judge David A. Pine awaited answers from government lawyers to questions he asked yesterday.

Pine again and again questioned the chief government lawyer's assertion that President Truman had ample authority under the constitution to seize the U.S. 3 steel corporation. The jurist appeared visibly unconvinced by the answers he got.

Finally, showing signs of impatience, he told Assistant Attorney-General Holmes Baldridge to search the record for a single case in which a federal court had found a presidential seizure order legal which had not been based upon a specific law passed by Congress.

Baldridge asked the court's delay to give him more time to prepare his arguments.

But Pine denied the request, saying the case "requires almost immediate action. The parties are entitled to very prompt action."

Along with their request for a temporary injunction, all but one of the six companies making the suit have asked Pine to go another step and rule the seizure itself illegal.

Technically, a temporary injunction would forbid commerce secretary Charles Sawyer from taking any steps under the seizure order. The government already is working on a wage boost for 650,000 steelworkers.

23 More Infected Animals Shot In Southern Sask.

Regina April 25—(CP)— R.C. M.P. killed more than 23 infected animals in the federal-directed program to rid southern Saskatchewan of foot-and-mouth disease.

The animals, 12 cattle and a hog from an infected premises and 10 cattle from a neighboring farm, were shot late yesterday. Then they were buried deep under layers of soil in a pit on the infected farm.

Confirmation was announced Tuesday that foot-and-mouth disease had been found on the farm, five miles south of Ormiston. Ormiston is 100 miles southwest of Regina by road and outside the original foot-and-mouth quarantine area but inside an additional buffer zone.

The outbreak was discovered Friday, then kept under observation and quarantine until the herd was killed.

Officials moved fast. Digging equipment for the grave, one of eight dug in the area, was assembled Feb. 25 that foot-and-mouth disease had broken out, was rushed from Regina. But the slaughter was held up when the equipment bogged down on muddy roads.

The outbreak is the first in the Regina area since March 8.

Since the original outbreak, nearly 1,300 animals have been destroyed. They have come from 25 infected premises and eight contact premises.

Guards Say Crazy Jack Hyatt Threatened Killing During Jail Riot

Jackson, Mich., April 25—(CP)—Jack (Crazy Jack) Hyatt, the Leamington, Ont.-born convict who was one of the leaders in the southern Michigan prison riot among 500 guards he would kill as many of them as he could, testified yesterday the rioters' embattled cell block a guard said today.

The guard, Joseph Dzal, said in an interview that Hyatt was in charge of the floor in cellblock No. 13 where the rioters felt Hyatt and other prison workers as hostages.

"They call him 'Crazy Jack,'" Dzal said. "But you'll never get me to believe he's crazy. He's a leader and he handled those other guys with him like someone who had commanded men all his life.

"Through all the time we were there, we felt safe with him. I'd have to go out and stop a fight or put down some disturbance among the other prisoners. He handled everything in a very routine manner and in such ways had the situation under control.

". . . Hyatt's favorite pastime seemed to be sharpening his knives . . . the sound wasn't one that let me do much sleeping. He told us, too, that if an attempt were made to storm No. 13, he (Hyatt) would be sure to be shot.

"Every chance I got, he said, 'I'm going to take as many of you along with me as I can.'"

Queen of The Netherlands Journeys to Eastern Ont. To Visit Dutch Settlers

Hamilton, April 25—(CP)—In brilliant spring sunshine, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands took off today to visit Dutch settlers on dairy farms in southern Ontario.

The royal plane left nearby Mount Hope airport, at which the Queen arrived yesterday for a whirlwind tour of the buildings of Dutch immigrants in this district, at 8:50 a.m. EST. The twin-engined R.C.A.F. Dakota was scheduled to land at Kingston at 9:45 a.m.

The day's program called for the Queen to travel by automobile from Kingston to reach dairy farms near Brockville by 10, for her to have lunch at a Dutch inn at Prescott at 1:30 and to set out at 2:30 to visit Dutch farms in the Ottawa district. She planned to finish her journey by car, arriving in Ottawa about 5:30.

The Queen's plane was accompanied by another Dakota carrying newspaper men. The planes were piloted by Flt. Lt. Leslie Hussey and Flt. Lt. W. L. Watson, both of Ottawa.

Will Not Visit Welfe Island

It was reported yesterday that the Queen would visit Dutch settlers at Wolfe Island, near Kingston. But Commissioner A. H. Lovink of The Netherlands said later that point would not be visited.

The day's itinerary was announced only a few minutes before the Queen's plane took off. But there was no official secrecy yesterday, when no announcement was made of where the Queen was headed when she left Ottawa.

The Queen said she hoped to survey her countrymen who have found new homes in Canada. She hoped the immigrants she planned to visit would make no preparations to receive her but would continue at their jobs when she made her appearance.

This was the same kind of mystery that surrounded the Queen's take-off from Ottawa yesterday.

No One Certain

No one was certain just where the planes were headed. The Queen expressed a desire that the destination be kept secret in order that immigrants she planned to visit would make no preparations, but continue at their jobs when she made her appearance.

The Queen visited many of the 300 farmers, cannery workers and nurserymen she visited were caught by surprise. Others had been informed beforehand that the Queen was coming and turned out in their Sunday finery.

Many Dutch immigrants were repeated throughout the day as the Queen shook hands with each of her visitors, questioning them on living conditions and how well they liked Canada.

She told reporters later she is delighted. "The people are happy here. They have a good living. I am so happy for them."

The Queen is expected to arrive back in Ottawa tonight to continue her "incognito" stay until Sunday when she returns to The Netherlands by a Dutch ship.

Prince Bernhard, her husband, lives in New York, but will make a trip to Ottawa to accompany the Queen on her homeward journey.

Strychnine Given Airwoman Came from Unlabelled Bottle Says Toronto Newspaper

Toronto, April 25 — (CP)— Dr. Smirle Lawson, Ontario's chief coroner, said today he will subpoena 30 witnesses to testify at an inquest May 8 into the poison death a week ago of LAW. Lottie Machura, 27, formerly of Alonza, Man.

The girl died after being treated at the suburban Weston supply depot of which she was secretary and three hours after she was admitted to Sunnybrook veterans hospital.

The Toronto Star says today in a newspage story that investigation has shown that strychnine given LAW. Machura by mistake came from an unlabelled bottle in the depot's dispensary. It was reported that there were other bottles in the dispensary without labels on the shelves.

Witnesses, some from the defence department's R.C.A.F. staff, are called to the hearing. Some of the latter will be questioned as to why an investigation by the R.C.A.F. authorities in Toronto.

Dr. C. S. Dunning, coroner of North York township, who held the death as accidental, saying he had not called an inquest because there were no signs of foul play. An autopsy of the deceased corporals showed strychnine.

Meanwhile from his home in northern Manitoba, Cpl. Stanley Machura of the RCAF, said in a telephone interview:

"I was told how my sister had died but I asked for an autopsy. I wanted it in writing. I believe there was negligence and I will probably take legal action."

Dr. Lawson said:

"We will question everybody—doctors, nurses, everybody connected with the case," he said, "and the truth will come out."

Gets Radio Back

Ottawa, April 25—(CP)—Keith Wigney had a $140 custom-built radio stolen from his car yesterday.

He called police, then inserted a "wanted" ad in an Ottawa newspaper for a "custom-built radio."

He didn't have long to wait for results. A man called offering that type of radio he wanted. Investigation disclosed it was the very set stolen. On a theft charge is Joseph Smith, 23, of no fixed address.

Doctor Outlines Duties of Nurses In Civil Defence

Toronto, April 25 (CP) — Nurses would have to learn many of the normal duties of doctors in the event of disaster, Dr. K.C. Charron, chief of the CPC hospital, said last night.

Speaking at a civil defence session of the annual meeting of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, the doctor said the civil defence health planning group of Ottawa and the civil defence program must be extremely flexible and must fit in with other community services.

Thousands of nurses across Canada will benefit, Dr. Charron added, as already had been trained in first aid and made required in case of atomic attack.

"The way nurses have got behind the civil defence plans and supported it is inspiring and encouraging," he said.

Evelyn A. Pepper, nursing consultant, Dr. Charron's Ottawa group said:

"Unless we are prepared for the worst, we have no right to hope for the best. Many people are under the delusion that if the country were attacked, our tri-services would protect us, when actually we civilians would be responsible for our own protection."

Another illusion was that Canada was safe because she was immune to national disruption for geographical reasons.

"But in the advance of science our geographic defences have disappeared. Modern weapons have been reduced to a matter of minutes."

Miss Pepper said preparedness is the only hope of reducing casualties and, perhaps, of averting attack.

SCALDED TO DEATH

Montreal, April 25 — (CP) — Gilles Gauthier, 2, was scalded to death yesterday when he fell in a tub of boiling water in a basement at the army barracks at Jacques Cartier, just across the river from Montreal.

The boy was living with his parents in the barracks until they returned into a housing development after the Second World War

GORDON ADDYMAN CHARGED WITH MURDERING WIFE

Laying of Charge Follows Man's Evidence

Windsor, Ont., April 25 (CP)— Gordon Addyman, 36, was in police cells today charged with the slaying of his wife.

Laying of the murder charge followed Addyman's testimony yesterday that the death April 12 of his wife Mildred, 33. She was shot through the heart with a gun Addyman was holding discharged.

Following an investigation, police said they would not file criminal. Crown Attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald said today since the investigation police had received additional information. The inquest had been held after Addyman's testimony on record.

The accused man was the sole witness called. After Addyman testified for an hour, the Crown Attorney quizzed Addyman for half an hour, then the jury and announced the murder charge.

Addyman said he was showing Mrs. Addyman the revolver when it discharged. She was sitting in a chair directly in line with the muzzle. Addyman said he thought he had it slipped from under his thumb.

"I was horrified when I saw what my wife and his wife about another woman," Addyman said in testimony.

During his testimony, the accused man's voice broke and he sobbed several times.

"I remember hearing the crack of the gun . . . I knew she was hit then and I knew there wasn't anything bad . . . but there was something about her eyes that told me . . . it was bad.

There are four Addyman daughters, the eldest aged 15.

Pennies Only In Box of Gold

Burbage, Shropshire, England, April 25 (Reuters)—For years it was believed that a box of gold was buried in 1887 under an oak tree here. The tree was uprooted yesterday. For nine hours, men dug. Five feet down they found a box. Opening it, they found a three-penny piece, a penny, a half-penny and a farthing.

PAY-IN-ADVANCE

Niagara Falls, April 25 (CP)— A pay-in-advance plan for hospital patients was adopted last night by the Greater Niagara Hospital Board.

It also decided that persons entering for elective operations and who ask for public ward facilities may be asked whatever accommodation they are given when public beds are not available.

Both moves were aimed at improving the hospital's financial situation.

BUSH FIRE SET

Sudbury, April 25—(CP)— A fourth bush fire was set by mischievous boys yesterday. They just wanted an excuse for playing hookey.

The fire, which got out control for six hours before about 20 men, aided by a bulldozer, gained control of the flames. About 100 acres of young bushland was burned.

Pin-up Girl, Who Jumped from Bright Lights to Pages of Peerage, Dies

Chiddingfold, Surrey, England, April 25 (Reuters)—Cerita Mildmay, 73, pin-up girl of the naughty 90s who jumped from the bright lights of London's theatre world to the pages of Debrett's Peerage, died in a hospital here today.

In private life the twice-married Miss Millar was Gertrude, Countess of Dudley. The Earl of Dudley died in 1932, leaving her a fortune of £400,000. Her first husband, Lionel Monckton, music critic and composer, died in 1924.

Her life read like a story-book romance. Born in 1879, the daughter of a mill worker, she first appeared on the stage at the age of 12. Within two years she was at the Gaiety Theatre in London, one of the most famous music halls of all time.

She rose to stardom almost overnight, appearing in shows on both sides of the Atlantic and breaking the hearts of the free-spending Romeos of the early 1900s.

During her first marriage, a love-sick German baron committed suicide in the drawing room of her London home.

After appearing in such shows as "The Orchid," "The Spring Chicken," and "The New Aladdin" she travelled to New York in 1908 to star in "The Girls of Gottenburg."

She left the stage in 1918, after marrying Monckton, who wrote most of her songs.

In recent years she lived quietly in this Surrey village, making infrequent trips to London to see the new shows.

Turpentine Found Behind Dwelling Following Fire

Long Branch is Scene Of Bizarre Tragedy

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — Adelbert Verrault, 31, today was charged with arson in connection with a fire yesterday in a suburban Long Branch home in which 11-months-old Michael Lafontaine was burned to death in his crib.

Police accuse Verrault, a carpenter, of setting the fire for $500 to help a woman friend collect $4,500 insurance money on the cottage occupied by the baby and his young parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lafontaine.

The baby died as flames swept the frame cottage which police say owner Adele Wall, 29, had been unable to sell because of its location to the west of Lake Ontario.

The arrest of Verrault less than 24 hours after the fire followed investigation by Long Branch police and an inspector of the Ontario Fire Marshal's department. Questioning of five men and two women, were questioned.

Two Women

Investigators quoted the woman as saying she and Verrault consulted each other a few hours before the fire as to what they should do about the house. She said it had been in danger of being washed away by the waves, in case of another severe storm, and might also be condemned as unfit for habitation.

Police say the woman told them she and Verrault had lived together but separated last year when Verrault moved away to take up residence with her niece, Miss Wallace.

Signs Statement

After talking to Miss Wall, the investigators began questioning Verrault, for hours he remained silent, shrugging his shoulders. Finally, they said, he signed a statement.

As a result, police charged him with setting the fire—for the sum of $500, offered by Adele Wall—a few minutes after he returned to Long Branch after driving Miss Wall to her home in Toronto.

The woman told reporters she had no knowledge of the fire and had not been in a car at the scene. She said she could not understand why the police had arrested Verrault, a man whom she said did not know well.

Mrs. Lafontaine said Miss Wall offered to sell her and her husband the cottage for $1,500 with $500 cash down.

William Bolton, a neighbor of the Lafontaines, told the investigators he had seen a car outside the cottage drive away from the Lafontaine cottage about 2.15 a.m. yesterday, five minutes before 22-year-old Mrs. Lafontaine was awakened by smoke.

A can of turpentine which had been in a storage shed was found on a sun deck at the back of the house, police said. Lafontaine said he had not used the turpentine for a long time.

Question Owner

Police declined to question the owner of the house.

Wage Payments Due Workers To be Paid

Windsor, April 25—(CP)— Retroactive wage payments totalling almost $1,400,000 will be included in this week's Ford of Canada pay cheques, company officials announced today.

The payments represented wage increase adjustments retroactive to June 1, 1951, included in a collective bargaining agreement reached last Feb. 19. The agreement ended 11 months of contract negotiations which affected the two Ford plant strikes.

Size of the payment a worker would receive would depend on the time he had worked last summer, officials said. A man who had worked steadily since June 1 would receive about $150 before taxes, $123 after.

They found Verrault listed as the owner. From him they learned he had signed away his share of the cottage to Adele Wall.

Further checking revealed that a $4,500 insurance policy had been taken out on the property at the time a $1,000 mortgage was obtained. Miss Wall said she used the mortgage money to pay the result for his share of the property.

SOMEBODY HAS YEN FOR GARBAGE PAILS

Somebody in the city has a yen for garbage pails that can be picked up without cost.

At least that must be the feeling of Miss M. Blaisd, 6 McAmmary Street, who today reported the disappearance of a new garbage pail purchased only this week. She put it out with her garbage last night and today it was gone.

It's getting to be an old story for Miss Blaisd. This is the fourth garbage pail in the past six months that she has had stolen.

Question of One-Way Traffic On Front St. Referred Back To Inspector Hayes for Report

The city council recommendation that one-way traffic be considered on Front Street as a means of alleviating the present congested traffic condition, came up for lengthy discussion at this week's committees meeting of the Traffic and Light Committee.

Following discussion the matter was referred to Inspector J. C. Hayes of the city police department, who will endeavor to secure a list of all centres in Canada and the United States comparable in the size of Belleville where one-way traffic has been tried on main streets. This will be sought in an effort to secure first hand information on the success of such a move.

Following receipt of the list the matter of one-way traffic will again be discussed by the committee.

Installation of a master control for the synchronization of traffic lights at the three main intersections of the city will be made within three weeks, it was reported to the committee by Inspector Hayes. The master control was approved by council some months ago and will relieve traffic congestion in the downtown area during peak periods.

Can Proceed on Sewer

Motorists travelling north on Front Street at the Upper Bridge will be able to proceed north on Station Street against the red light, when the green arrow at the traffic light at this point is put into operation.

The committee decided the green arrow would be put into operation on a trial basis following erection of a sign, below the light noting that traffic would be permitted to proceed straight ahead with the green arrow and against the red light.

But signs at the Canadian Bank of Commerce and in front of Zellers will be eliminated, the bus company to be so advised.

Must Get Permission

At a committee meeting of the public works committee it was recommended that the erection of fences or planting of hedges on the city limits, be subject to permit first obtaining a permit from city council, the city engineering department to report on each application.

Another recommendation passed by the committee called for the installation of a traffic light at the Wills Brothers for installation of a gasoline tank and pump at their marine terminal on South Front Street. The installation would be subject to the approval of the city engineer and fire chief.

DAYLIGHT TIME STARTS SUNDAY AT MIDNIGHT

Belleville residents will lose an hour's sleep when they go to bed on Saturday night. Mayor Hale has advised that daylight saving time will begin at 12.01 a. m. Sunday. At that time the City Clock will be put ahead one hour and remain that way until September 28th.

The third and final picture was an Indian legend. It was intended to explain the white ring around the neck of the loon.

The four door prizes were won by H. Payne, Arden Gill, Vic Morris, and Gordon Nelson. Prizes were two spools of 18-pound test fishing line and two lures. The feature prize of the evening was a set of 32 spoons imported from Norway and Sweden. This prize went to Ronald Smith of Second Street.

Spring Farm Work Underway In Quinte Area

Spring work is now well underway by farmers in the Bay of Quinte district, it was reported by the Ontario Department of Agriculture in their weekly crop report.

The report indicates that seeding has commenced in the number of locations in Hastings County, while in Prince Edward considerable plowing and canning peas have been seeded. There is a brisk demand for legume crops, and a lot of land in seed cleaning and treating is greater than usual.

A few farmers are reported to be taking advantage of the slump in feed prices to purchase one or two foundation females at the prevailing reduced prices.

Hay and pastures are beginning to show favourable growth in Prince Edward County many orchard owners are busy removing trees of unpopular varieties.

Bridge Street United Church Will Spend $32,000 To Renovate Sunday School

Expenditures totalling $32,000 were authorized by the Official Board of the Bridge United Church last night, whentenders were opened for the renovation of the church-ren's Sunday School quarters. The first part of the contract was awarded to the Fred Zigle Company Limited, one of three firms competing for the job, whose tender of $24,900 was lowest. Successful sub-contractors were Clarence Hyde and Son, Limited, plumbers, whose bid of $3,600 for plumbing installations was accepted and W. H. Oliphant, Belleville electrical contractor, for $11,998 for electrical installations.

Other expenditures, including the fee of W. A. Watson, architect, bring the total cost to $32,000.

Although there is an estimated $8,-000, Charles Hyde, building committee chairman, expressed the view that subscriptions covering this amount would be subscribed within a few days so that construction could commence next week.

Overcrowding Reason

Overcrowding in the Sunday School was given as the reason for the renovation program. It was pointed out that 450 children are now crowded into nine class rooms but when the building program has been completed, 19 class rooms will be made available. The new building is designed so that all the rooms may be opened at one time, permitting the seating of 250 persons in an auditorium. The auditorium will be completed with stage, dressing rooms and a motion picture projector.

Also included in the building will be a kitchen equipped with the latest cooking facilities.

At last night's meeting, the official boards followed the recommendations submitted by the building committee. Members of the building committee included, besides Chairman Charles Hyde, St. Clair Hurlbut, Jesse Fox, William Blatherwick, John Hodgson, Dorland Houston, Taylor Franklin, Mrs. Harley Wray and the minister, Rev. Duncan McTavish.

Coal Dust Cause Of Runs in Nylons

Ottawa, April 25 — (CP) — H. C. Meserau, Montreal synthetic textile expert, said yesterday he knows why those Toronto girls developed runs in their nylon stockings earlier this week. It's all the fault of coal dust and the humidity, he told the Engineering Institute of Canada. In humid weather, soot coal particles in the air can form a weak solution of sulphuric acid which will destroy nylon.

Belleville Firm Builds Giant Conveyor for Mine Near Nfld.

When iron ore commences its journey from two miles below the Atlantic Ocean off Bell Island, near Newfoundland's northeast coast, to the steel mills of Sydney in the United States, its first ride will be made on conveyors designed and built in Belleville by Belleville workmen. When completed, the conveyor system will rate with the world's largest and is designed to carry 1,800 tons of ore hourly from the base of the mine shaft to the "dock head" where the ore will be crushed and trucked to waiting ships.

Described as one of the largest contracts his firm has held, G. A. Freeman, manager of Stephenson-Adamson Manufacturing Company here, expects the installation which commenced last November will be completed by October.

"It was a rush job but we did it" the manager said, adding that the installation, a contract which required 18 years ago but the go-ahead was not issued until last March. The mine, known as the Dominion Wabana Ore mine, is owned by the Dominion Steel and Coal Company at Sydney.

To carry the ore from the mine to the deckhead, a series of conveyor belts will be installed along the route, carrying ore from two mines under the ocean. Later, it is expected, a 2,000 ton conveyor system will replace 22-ton trucks now in use at the mines to the loading docks.

Proud of his firm's record, Mr. Freeman paid tribute to the staff and gave a special tip of his hat to A. E. May, the company's chief engineer, and A. D. Janitsch, project engineer, and Van Vechigen, superintendent of erection, is now in Bell Island supervising the work of those are installing the conveyors.

Geo. S. White Says Govt. Should Support Prices

Ottawa, April 25 (CP)— The federal government should support cheese prices to stave off an "emergency" in the dairy industry, G. S. White (PC-Hastings-Peterborough) said yesterday in the Commons.

Speaking in the budget debate, Mr. White said dairymen will not accept any attempt by Agriculture Minister Gardiner to "evade the issue or pass off responsibility to any provincial government."

He was referring to statements made in the House earlier this week by Mr. Gardiner, who said the government would not over-ride provincial action taken on cheese in Ontario, the largest producer of cheese.

Mr. White said a serious situation has arisen in the dairy industry because of the loss of the United Kingdom cheese market and the current United States embargo on import of Canadian dairy cattle as the result of foot-and-mouth disease.

The dairy industry was a cornerstone of the Canadian economy, and immediate steps were needed to save it. The outlook for producers was "grim."

Mr. White said the situation now amounts to a national emergency. It affected hundreds of thousands of persons and it could result in widespread unemployments.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — Prices climbed slowly today in early afternoon stock market dealings.

Western oils opened strongly to snap a three - day decline and pushed irregularly higher as the session progressed. Industrials and golds turned upward by noon but most advances were small. Gold showed little trend.

Utilities and banks led industrials upward with a scattered list of fractional advances. Papers, agricultures, refining oils and retail stores also drew firm support. Foods weakened while manufacturing companies slipped sharply.

Western oil gains ranged up about 25 cents. Calgary and Edmonton, Federated Petroleum, Model Oil, Royalite, Sapphire, Western Leaseholds and Pan Western were among the strongest gainers.

Base metals were mixed. Coldstream Copper, Fenimore Iron, International Nickel, Labrador, Quebec Copper and Waite Amulet strengthened while East Sullivan and New Calumet weakened.

Senior golds were firm as Dome, Giant Yellowknife and Kerr Addison added fractions. Secondary issues slipped.

Mother, Two Tots Found On Water's Edge by Milkman; Trio Wearing Wet Clothes

Trenton, —(Special)—Mystery shrouds the discovery of a woman and her two children at the water's edge on the Bay of Quinte south of the Bayview restaurant yesterday. All were wearing wet clothing and had apparently been in the water.

On his early morning route, milkman Beverley Graham heard cries for help coming from the direction of the shore. On investigation, he found Mrs. Madeline Cooper standing in the water and her daughter Melody, 4, and Elizabeth, three months, sitting on the shore. The mother and children seemed to be suffering from shock, the milkman told police later.

Graham piled Mrs. Cooper with her two children in the milk truck and rushed them to the Trenton Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Cooper had been in a shocked condition since admittance hospital authorities reported. Police expect to be able to question her today.

At the residence where the Coopers share a house with a Belleville school teacher, Mrs. Ivah Ruckstuhl, there were no lights burning in the Cooper part last night. Mrs. Ruckstuhl spoke highly of the Cooper family and respected them as good tenants. She said she noticed that Mrs. Cooper had been acting different since she had her baby in January. She mentioned that Mr. Cooper, who works in Toronto, came home every weekend.

Roy Cooper and his wife and two children have their home at 78 Heber Street on the east end of the town.

Dr. A.E. Berry To Solve Grief Over Sewer

Trenton—(Special)— Dr. A. E. Berry, chief of the sanitary engineering department of the provincial board of health, assured those for and against a sewer installation on south Dufferin Street that the department would do everything in its power to work out a solution that would benefit all parties concerned.

Earlier this year a project was started to install a sewer to service some 20 residents in the south Dufferin area. The sewer was to empty into a septic tank which would empty into the bay at the grove.

Some sixty cottagers and permanent residents with property on the bayshore in the town and Murray township formed a petition opposing the sewer, claiming that the overflow from the septic tank would pollute their shore.

At the meeting yesterday morning Dr. Berry was assured that the south Dufferin residents be serviced by a pumping station forcing the raw sewage up to Shuter Street and into a septic tank at the Armories.

In the meantime, the project, which cost the town $1,000 so far lies idle, while the householders in the district look for some immediate action from both the council and the board of health.

Trenton Pilot Dies as Avenger Crashes in N.S.

Trenton — (Special)— Lieut. William John Spencer, 28, of Trenton, pilot with the Fleet Air Arm was killed Thursday when his Avenger aircraft, apparently developing engine trouble, crashed at the Shearwater base near Halifax.

The torpedo bomber aircraft being piloted by Lieut. Spencer crashed about a half mile from the base near a lake and immediately burst into flame.

Pilots who watched the takeoff said it appeared the Avenger experienced engine trouble shortly after clearing the runway and that the pilot attempted to return to the base.

Lieut. Spencer, a married man with two small children, was born in Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. George Spencer. His father has been principal of Trenton High School since 1922 and is officer commanding of the Trenton Air Cadet Corps.

He attended public and high school at Trenton and was a graduate of the Royal Rhodes Naval Academy at Victoria, B.C. He served in the R.C.N. during the last war and following hostilities transferred to the Fleet Air Arm.

In 1946 he was married in England to Marion Weaver, daughter of Mrs. Weaver and the late W. W. Weaver of Trenton.

He is survived by his wife and two children, Christopher 3, and Phillip, 1, who live in Dartmouth, N.S., and one brother Barry Spencer, flying officer with the RCAF during the war and now working as an engineer in Buffalo, N.Y.

ARE THEY REALLY GOING?

British Columbia's Doukhobors, it seems, are thinking about moving to South America, possibly because of having finally realized that British Columbia would like to be rid of them. Their emigration plans have advanced sufficiently so that they have collected $87,000 with which their leader, one Stefan Sorokin, is to purchase land on which they are to make their new home.

The Vancouver Sun is much in favor of seeing the last of the Doukhobors. That newspaper even advocates that the federal and provincial governments should make a contribution to what might be termed their departure gratuity to the extent of paying the steamship tickets to fund. It further suggests giving them one-way tickets to Patagonia. (Patagonia is the farthest-south part of South America.)

Whether the Doukhobors are really going to South America and whether the government of any of the South American countries will admit them when they arrive remain to be seen. But one of the thing we are certain, and that is this: as soon as word reaches South America that the Doukhobors are pondering emigration to that way, there will be all American politicians making speeches which will run something like this (in translation):

"Let us admit these splendid new citizens who have been persecuted by the Fascist (or Communist) government of Canada. They will increase our labor force. They will help us develop our natural resources. They will bring us new skills and new techniques. They will add to our cultural heritage." And so on, ad infinitum, ad nauseam.

WHERE SHOES ARE PLENTIFUL

Frank Lennard, who represents the constituency of Wentworth, told his colleagues in the House of Commons a few days ago that a contract to provide shoes for Canada's armed forces had cost $15,292,241 in ten months.

Mr. Lennard continued that 15,000,000 pairs of shoes are in Canada's armed forces. "Yet that contract, even at $15 a pair, would produce 1,000,000 pairs of shoes, or more than ten pair for each man," he said.

Hon. Brooke Claxton, the minister of national defence, has said, so far as we know, given an explanation of why our soldiers, sailors and airmen need so many shoes. But we have no doubt that he will soon offer one which will satisfy every taxpayer and even silence the critical Mr. Lennard.

HASTINGS SECOND CHEESE PRODUCER

Prescott led the counties of Ontario in the production of cheddar cheese during 1951, it is shown by the latest issue of the Ontario department of agriculture's dairy report.

Prescott produced 5,622,161 pounds of cheddar cheese during the year. Hastings was in second place, with 5,286,513 pounds. Glengarry was in third place, with 5,065,125 pounds.

Prescott led in the production of creamery butter, with 5,276,030 pounds. Grey was second, with 5,079,583 pounds and Perth third, with 4,903,196 pounds. Hastings was far down in the list, with only 2,156,186 pounds.

O'LEARY TO BE HONORED

Among the five men upon whom St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S., plans to confer honorary degrees at a special ceremony next month is M. Grattan O'Leary, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal.

Mr. O'Leary is a recognized authority on Canadian affairs. He has represented Canada at a number of important world conferences. He is one of ten Canadian journalists since Confederation to be placed in the Hall of Fame in the Parliament Buildings. He has often been described as Canada's greatest editorial writer.

St. Francis Xavier University deserves to be congratulated for having chosen to honor Mr. O'Leary.

EXTREME CASE

A British Columbia minister's refusal to marry a couple because the groom is a bartender was an extreme case of the intolerance so often displayed by church members against others who in the opinion of these self-appointed judges are sinners and not entitled to share in the rites of the church. Even if the B.C. clergyman is right in his contention that serving liquor is a sin — and if it is there are a great many sinners among church members — it is contrary to the teachings of the Master, whose example in coming to earth was to save sinners. And intolerance itself is a sin. — (St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

JUST FOLKS

THE SLOW GOLFER

He argues on the starting tee
A "mulligan" from all directing
And if his comrades won't agree
Time goes while they remain disputing.
Two fairways may be open wide;
Two greens ahead may be forsaken,
But many things he must decide
Before his second shot is taken.

He stands for minutes near his ball
To ponder o'er the needed distance.
Which club to use? He tries them all
His finger tests the wind's resistance.

Upon the green he kneels to see
The line. A waste of moments this is.
He's putting for an eight or nine.
At last he strokes the ball and misses.

Since he's the one who keeps the score
He lingers on the green to do it
Some one took five who chanced a four
And there they stay while they review it.
Of golfers he's the selfish kind
That all who follow him are hating.
For every one he looks behind
To see the faster players waiting.

RIGHT AND LEFT HANDS

Newspapers all over the land recently carried the story of how Mr. George Robert White, president during his lifetime of the Cutlicura Corporation of Malden, Massachusetts, had endowed charities which, unbeknown to the general public, had been operating for thirty years. On his deathbed Mr. White had called together the officers and trustees of his corporation and told them that each of every five dollars in net profits of their business must henceforth be given to humanitarian causes. This mention was to be made of this fund until thirty years after his death. This fund has paid out more than $30,000,000 to institutions in the vicinity of Boston.

The signing of the deed of the corporation gave out this statement: "The more rewarded by the more we give away, the more we become a prosperous company, prospered."

Two magnificent spiritual truths stand out all over this story. The first is that the late Mr. White took seriously and literally the Biblical injunction that he was not to let his right hand know what his left hand was doing. The second truth, revealed by these circumstances is that the more we give away, the more will we seem to prosper. The late Mr. White demonstrated the fact that God loves a cheerful giver.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

PLAIN TRUTH

One of this department's operatives reports that the attempt to revive of a stage presentation in the State Theatre last week badly advertised as "The Show Show We've Ever Had". And so he says, it was.

I find this most refreshing news and commend it to advertising men everywhere. The fraternity is ever on the prowl for a new formula and it may just possibly be that the State Theatre has stumbled on a rich find. For many of a better name we might call it Honest Advertising.

It has often occurred to me, scanning the theatre ads, that the agency men have reached the extreme point of the adjective and hyperbole and I have wondered idly what the next move would be.

Since such words as "sensational", "thrilling", "knock-out", "colossal," "brilliant" and "shocking" have been worn threadbare, wildly abused in the interest of any enfeebling turkey, the advertising men have stricken dumb when a picture come along with any real merit. The result, if I may say so, leaves much to be desired.

It would seem an excellent idea for all theatre ads to be run for a short to restore the adjective to its rightful place in society. Even now, I suspect, potential customers who yawn at the thought of a Martin and Lewis film label as "one long scream" might be tempted to look to see if it were advertised, say, as "a mildly amusing way to spend a couple of hours."

The case of radio commercials is another matter entirely. Ever watched my wife in the midst of a commercial for a "new" soap which is said to be below a scream and suggesting miracles of biblical proportions. She does not appear to bear.

One day soon, advertisement will be heard in lavel, sincere, sotto voice tones, promising merely that the product is as good as any other soap and a little bit cheaper. . . or that it doesn't matter whether the news over a back fence. Fellow might sell a lot of soap that way.

Big Deal

Speaking of advertising, one of the shops in our village, anxious that the public be aware of merchant is as up-on-his-toes as his city counterpart, has entered the big deal tradition.

The store is offering $100 for a lock of hair until proved wrong, on a carton of genuine 40 or 60 watt lamp bulbs. The special price for this sale is $100.00 for the lamps, less $100 for your hair. You pay only 50 cents.

They are also offering $50 for a hunk of used bubble gum on a like special, $25 for the height of a $50.75, your trade-in is $50, you pay only $25.75.

There are dozens of other bargains, the store says in its local paper advertisement, "which we cannot mention because of the famous name brands involved."

Beauty Trade

Another aspect of the advertising business was brought to my attention recently in a report on the billion-dollar "beauty business."

Some of the figures here are downright staggering. For instance, cosmetics in the United States are said to run the tune of $600,000,000 a year, hand lotions have a sale of $21,000,000 and lipstick sales amount to $28,000,000.

This is almost entirely because of advertising which plays upon the female's urge to be beautiful and her belief that it can easily be done from bottles or tubes.

If you have wondered, as I have, why the ads for lotions for these products this report will clear up a lot of questions.

For one thing, the cost of advertising is several hundred times that of the manufacture of the product itself. The lipstick that sells for a dollar actually costs a shilling under two cents to manufacture, an average face powder or rouge about the same, in actual fact, three cents. (The beauty business is helped by its liberal advertising, yet only 85th in American industries.)

The Canadian Medical Association, among others, is sharply critical of the claims made that cosmetics will remove wrinkles, make the skin more clear, a complexion more lovely or give a younger appearance to an aging "problem skin."

"The end result," the report says, "regardless of the product or the sales approach, is the same — useless outlay of considerable sums of money by persons who still believe in the development of 'miracle' compounds."

I have shown this report to several women who, with one exception, they've taken a so-what attitude.

"If they don't work I don't want to know it," one gal summed it up. "They may not make me beautiful, but, baby, they're great for morale."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CONVICTIONS

I believe we all like people of definite convictions, whether we agree with them or not. That is the wonderful right of living in Canada.

But in a free country we also have the right to change those convictions at any time, without consulting any one.

People with convictions are worth knowing and emulating. They are usually the leaders. In all things we like to meet such people, and they inspire us to higher thinking and to glad to them so long as they seem just and right.

I have never forgotten what a teacher told me in the early years in High School. She said that anyone had the right to think as he pleased, and to believe that he was right, provided wrong. People with convictions are admired and honored. They are never mere followers. Words may sometimes be throttled or misused, but not thoughts. The latter are the freest thing we possess.

We can always tell a great Par- please- great Pa- by the way he conferred death to a of his subjects. Robert's right to life, liberty and freedom. What a precious thing it is to have convictions and to live in a country where those convictions can be expressed and freely exercised without interference!

It is interesting to note how a herd of cows will follow the one with a bell on. Years ago, Emerson said: "Come along." Yet human beings often follow without any such voice, and without any reason, adopt the convictions of those about them. The way we have in free speech, free thinking and free convictions! Why should we ever surrender any one of them?

Convictions are beliefs guarded by faith and courage. They are what separate us from the animal and merely physical, exalting us to God's selectives. They are the glory of humanity. The great of this earth have always been men and women of convictions.

Personal Health Talks

THE LIVER HAS A DOZEN FUNCTIONS

Some of the functions of the liver are (1) formation of urea and uric acid, (2) detoxication, (3) secretion of bile, (4) production of fibrinogen, which is necessary for normal clotting of blood, (5) storage or iron and copper (6) production of heparin, which prevents formation of clots—this substance, obtained from beef liver, is used nowadays in the treatment of thrombosis. The liver has several other functions which are principally of scientific interest.

The liver secretes from one to two pints of bile daily. The bile is an orange-red liquid, turning to greenish-brown on exposure to air. It contains the salts, sodium glycocholate and sodium taurocholate, which play a part in the emulsification and digestion of fats in the intestine; bile pigments, derived from the hemoglobin (coloring matter) of red blood corpuscles which have reached old is service and their fate—destruction in the liver and elsewhere; cholesterol, a fatlike substance which is of special interest because it is present in cysts and in small amounts in gallstones.

Some popular notions about the bi' or gall are purely imaginary. There is no foundation in fact for the notion that "biliousness" as a illness of indigestion is a cause of hangover, headache, perhaps dizziness, some yellowing of skin and whites of eyelids and covering of eyeballs and a vague general malaise or mental depression, with a furred tort. One must not be misled by patent medicine ads. Purgatives or pills last long enough to permit a dose or two of the drug to act—salts, pills, stomach sedative or coal-tar sense deadener to "work."

It is quite in order that this popular notion of biliousness persist. It was popular with doctors in the good old horse and buggy days. An authoritative textbook of therapeutics published in 1914 has more than 14 medicinal remedies and three remedial measures, more than medicinal for "biliousness."

Give any normal or healthy person an emetic and it is likely that if vomiting continues after the stomach is emptied, more or less bile will appear. Likewise, in any circumstance where stimulation is required bile will be ejected. The only inference one may draw from this common occurrence is that peristalsis is reversed—the normal onward peristaltic movements of the food tube have been temporarily arrested and then reversed. Thus more or has bile, normally present in the duodenum, that portion of the intestine just below or beyond the stomach, is carried back into the stomach. This happens in a great many cases of severe headache, from any cause. Nothing like it in the material vomited, the untrained observer readily assumes. The trouble is due to "bilious attack" or "bile on the stomach."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Xanthoma on Eyelid

Other than operation, what methods may remove xanthoma from eyelids? (Mrs. G. H.)

Answer—Xanthoma means simply yellow deposits of cells in the skin, usually on or about the eyelid. Sometimes there is unusual polar high frequency fulguration in several sittings at weekly intervals, under local anesthesia, gives the best results.

Pressure Cooker

Does cooking under 15 pounds steam pressure lessen the vitamin content of food? (Miss E. W.)

Answer—Yes, but if not overcooked the food, and the small quantity of water is still retained, more of the vitamins than food cooked in open vessels.

Lemon for Canker Sore

Putting a piece of lemon on a canker sore for 2 minutes does heal the sore in a few hours. (Mrs. M. E.)

Answer—Thank you. Perhaps readers who try it will report their findings in the future. Also the sore once only with mild (2 per cent) cocaine solution, providing toothbrush for several days, and gently rinsing mouth with hot water or warm water or bicarb soda solution 'after eating, will more or hasten healing.

Trustees Stuck With 25,000-Lb. Jigsaw Puzzle

Peoria, Ill., April 25 (AP) — Trustees of the Donmeyer Memorial Temple are stuck with a 25,000-pound jigsaw puzzle. It has 12 pieces—most of them weighing between 300 and 600 pounds each.

Property assemblers, the marble and bronze pieces would make an elaborate stage more than 12 feet high. But the trustees have only a vague idea what it would look like. Both the sculptor and Mrs. Elsie Marion Donmeyer, who ordered it more than 35 years ago, are dead.

Peoria sculptor Frederick E. Triebel made the statue for a $15,000 fee. He later upped his fee $10,000, Mrs. Donmeyer wouldn't pay.

Triebel sued and won. Then he disassembled the statue in 1938 to transport it from his studio and stored it in 22 big cases in a warehouse.

Under terms of Mrs. Donmeyer's will, the statue must be assembled and displayed in the temple.

Mrs. J. E. Boyd Again Heads Catholic Women's League

The annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in St. Michael's High School Tuesday evening. The president, Mrs. J. J. Hogg, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. R. G. Amos, Belleville District Commissioner of Girl Guides, who gave a most interesting and complete outline of Guide work, its history and aims. The league is sponsoring the new group to be formed shortly at St. Michael's Academy and Mrs. Cecil Young is in charge of organizing. Three members are asked to keep in mind May 10th, "Cookie Day"; May 18th, nearest Sunday to Empire day, the church parade to St. Andrew's Church and St. Michael's Church and May 29th Local Guide Association let's at St. Thomas parish house.

Various conveners' reports followed. Membership is now 501. The league awarded scholarships, cash prizes, installed new equipment in St. Michael's High School to the extent of $511.53. Also the annual graduation dance and afternoon tea was sponsored and financed by the group. The Army and Navy scholarships to veterans' sons and daughters were received by St. Michael's High School students.

In affiliation with Benevolent Society of St. Michael's parish extensive charitable work was done. Milk is supplied daily to undernourished school children, hampers of food and clothing are sent to needy families, children are outfitted for First Holy Communion and Confirmation. Catholic Inmates in county and city gaols and nursing home are remembered with gifts and small comforts. Transients are helped continually through the year.

Made Many Calls

Hospital visitors have made 307 calls on Catholic patients during the year. Mrs. M. Davidson will be visitor until May 12th. V.O.N. report revealed of the 4,700 visits made by V.O.N. Nurses 2,900 were free. V.O.N. are continuing to give school health services in St. Michael's and Holy Rosary school under the local Department of Health, with Dr. Bruels M.O.H. and Miss Genick, supervisor.

The Blue Cross convener, Mrs. Geo. Wilson, advised that premiums are due in May and asked that all those in the league group of 4,700 visits made by V.O.N. Saturday; April 26th is the Feast of Our Lady of Good Counsel, and all league members are urged to attend Mass that morning.

Several boxes of clothing have been sent to western missions and used stamps collected and forwarded to headquarters. Several of our members have assisted in Red Cross work during the campaign and some have helped with sewing during the year.

There have been 800 square inches of publicity during the term, the Ontario Intelligencer being the most generous. Canadian League have printed accounts of all our activities regularly and we do thank them. An interesting scrapbook has been filled with these accounts.

The donations have been many and generous; they include gifts to clergy at Christmas, Our Ladies' Ministerial, Sisters of Service, Stella Maris, Radio League of St. Michael's, Sacred Heart program, Red Cross, V.O.N., St. John Ambulance. This term the league formed over to the Parish Building Fund, bonds amounting to $2,621.50 cash $484.00 and a further $309.60 are spent on parish maintenance which made a grand total of $3,211.85.

Many Projects

The projects have included bridge and euchre marathon, three afternoon teas and bake sales, rummage sale, bazaar, Register campaign, talent money. All have been most successful and the league finances have been secure at all times. Ladies' Society B.L.F.E. Celebrates 5th Anniversary With Spring Tea

An attractive afternoon tea was held yesterday at the YMCA under the auspices of the Ladies' Society of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers on the occasion of their 5th anniversary.

Mrs. C. E. Burley, president of the society, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Day convener of the tea, welcomed the guests into the prettily decorated tea room, gay with apple blossom sprays, and pastel-tinted hoops of green, pink and mauve.

Charming Tea Table

The tea table was charmingly arranged with its white cloth, centred with a cut glass and silver bowl of dancing pink snapdragons, yellow daffodils, intermingled with sprays of British Columbia huckleberry and asparagus fern. Tall pale green tapers in silver candelabra and silver services completed the appointment. Each guest table was centred by a glass globe containing a miniature bridal carnation.

The tea room hostess was Mrs. J. Gallagher, and the treasurers: Mrs. E. Nolan and Mrs. J. Watson.

Those who presided at the silver services were Mrs. J. W. Dougherty, Mrs. W. M. Adams, Mrs. W. Smith, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and Mrs. S. F. White, vice-president of the Ladies Society of the Brotherhood of Local Firemen and Engineers.

Those who served the dainty refreshments included Mrs. J. Van Alien, Mrs. W. Short, Mrs. W. G. Fairborn and Mrs. C. G. Mattbey, while Mrs. J. G. Laney, Mrs. H. P. Thompson, Mrs. J. A. McCormick, Mrs. J. Kingston and Mrs. L. Brisbin replenished and arranged the attractive trays.

Fine Confectionery

The homecooking table, convened by Mrs. J. Milligan, assisted by Mrs. F. Short, Mrs. N. Fitzgerald and Mrs. G. W. Spring was most temptingly arranged with festoons of pale green, pink and mauve over snowy white damask. Here were artistically arranged samples of the confectioner's art including apple, raspberry and blueberry pies; lovely layer cakes with mounds of boiled icing in pink and white, as well as delicious cakes and dozens of mouth-watering cookies, brownie, taffy tarts, fruit bread, custard peaches and cups of candies, maple creams, chocolates and fudges.

The novelty table had for sale hot plate pads of white crochet over silver mats, centred with big red roses, wall plaques, lovely organdie tie-back of floral design in pink and blue; plastic aprons, organdy aprons edged with lace and many other large, heavy duty aprons just the thing for the housecleaning season. Mrs. H. S. Dewey and Mrs. H. Trypnell were in charge of this display.

On a table by itself reposed a large white cake, topped with the legend, "Quinte Belle 200", and a red carnation, the emblem of the society. This was in charge of Mrs. R. L. Turner, and would go to the lucky holder of the winning ticket, who proved to be Mrs. F. Short, Moira Street East. Here, too, were two pretty pictures of petite-point dogs, one a black 'Scottie' and the other an Irish setter, made by Mrs. Wesley Dougherty, one of the oldest members of the society. Flowers were in charge of Mrs. A. Bishop and Mrs. D. Brown, and went to Mrs. A. C. Summers, North James Street.

Lucky Winners

The $5 voucher for dry-cleaning in charge of Mrs. H. Fisher was won by Mrs. J. Ross of Godes Street, and the door prize, the lovely floral centrepiece, was won by Mrs. W. Day, Bridge Street East.

Appreciative thanks are tendered to the convener of the tea, Mrs. R. H. Day, to her co-conveners, Mrs. William Spring and Mrs. H. Trypnell and to all others who assisted in providing and arranging such an enjoyable and successful event.

NOTE:—

(1) Arrangements can invariably be made with the Mortgage Company to obtain an extra amount, often as high as $200.00 when the Thor Sink is installed, because it is a permanent fixture in the house.

(2) The builder has added space, eliminating the necessity of having a utility room.

(3) Where Septic Tanks are used in new build ing projects, we have found that many builders have saved the cost of purchasing and installing a special pump to be used for laundry tub drain water. The Thor Automagic Sink of course, eliminates this extra material and labor as it combines washing-machine and kitchen sink in one streamlined cabinet.

(4) The Builder offers the prospective buyer of his house the most up-to-date method of home laundry which adds 'glamor' to the kitchen.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Thoughts on Weddings . . . From An Aisle Seat

I think that when the bride's mother is divorced, it is very wise for her, considering, to invite one or two particularly devoted and understanding relatives or intimate friends to sit with her in the front pew. Then she won't seem so alone. Those whom she invites should be ushered to their seats at least ten minutes before the processional is scheduled to begin. . . then the bride's mother is escorted to the end seat in the pew, by the head usher. The bride's mother . . . It is most important for those planning the wedding procedure, to remember . . . it's at last person to be seated before the processional starts up the aisle.

Enter the Junior Bridesmaid into today's bridal party! The bride's favorite girl friend, young sister, or godchild or niece or cousin, is very often today's happy and mighty proud "member of the wedding." Formerly this young lady . . . of the in-between age, say from a tall ten or eleven to fourteen or fifteen years of age" was given no part in the bridal party. She was too old to be a flower girl, too young to be a bridesmaid. But in today's wedding she is often given the wondrous joy of being a "junior bridesmaid" . . . and, in the processional, generally walks after the ushers and preceding the senior bridesmaids. In the family there may be another girl of about this age (and height) . . . then the plan may be for the proud-and-pretty pair to walk together.

Lovely combination I saw recently at a small wedding: the only attendant, the bride's sister, wore a charming dress of palest pink organdy, and carried a small old-fashioned bouquet of deep-pink camellias. And on her pretty curls, a pink-sequined Juliet cap.

There's a poetic new shade being worn by bridesmaids . . . a misty . . . subtle shade called "moonstone blue." Lovely!

It seems to me that, this year, more brides are carrying white roses than for many years past. Those pure-white flowers are very bridelike. They are beautiful alone, and also combine charmingly and effectively with many other types and forms of white flowers—gardenias, for example, and lilies-of-the-valley and white lilacs.

Even last year it was not considered necessary to report that, at a formal wedding, the bridal attendants were "long" dresses. It was taken for granted that the attendants at a formal wedding wore long dresses. But today . . . often the attendants' dresses are ankle-length, ballerina-length, that it is specifically mentioned when their "dresses are "long".

"Nosegay" . . . It's an endearing word. And what sort and color of ring nose-says the lovely little flower girls are carrying in today's wedding-es? Approximately small . . . usually fashioned of delicately-pink . . . sweetheart roses, often rows of small flowers circled about one larger flower or a tight group of smaller flowers, such as pink Sprayish blossom; or pink sweetheart roses circled about two or three miniature white carnations.

ORDERS REDUCTION

Vienna, April 25 (AP) — The Czechoslovak communist cabinet has ordered a nation-wide reduction in the use of electric power, the Prague newspaper Rude Pravo said yesterday. In Vienna, western observers believe the order was caused by failures of the Czech coal industry to reach its production quotas.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION: As I find your suggestions an dreipes most suggestions and recipes if you would have any for a mother and daughter banquet. We are a small group of 14 members and usually prepare most of the food ourselves. We would like to be able to keep the price of tickets down but realize a nominal profit. . . Mrs. C. J. B.

ANSWER: Since there are 14 members I will assure that there will be at least 30—maybe 35—at the banquet. The way to keep meat and ticket costs down and to make a profit is to make everything yourself, as you say. Potatoes are expensive and fresh pork is cheap, so this gives us a good reason for a complete change from the usual church banquet menu.

Pork Curry:

(these amounts will serve 24; make 1½ times this recipe if you expect 36 guests). Roll in seasoned flour, brown in hot fat 5 lbs. fresh lean pork cut in ¾ inch cubes. Then add 16 cups boiling water, 2½ tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 6 cups diced celery, 6 cups diced onions. Simmer 1 hour or until meat is tender. Mix together 1 cup flour and 2 to 6 teaspoons curry (amount of curry powder depends on your judgment). 1 cup cold water. Stir this into the curry until thick. Simmer 10 minutes.

Fluffy Rice:

(Double boiler method is best for such a large amount.) One cup rice—and this way serves 3 people. In large institution-size top of doubleboiler put 4 cups long-grain rice, 4 teaspoons salt, 7 cups boiling water, and if desired 2 tablespoons butter. Cover, and cook over boiling water for about 25 minutes. Turn off heat, remove lid, let rice stand a few minutes to dry and fluff. Put lid back on if not to be served at once. Make double this amount for 24 people.

Blane Mange:

Heat 6 cups milk in top of large double boiler. Mix together in bowl ¾ cup cornstarch, 6 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, (when stir into the hot milk until thick, cover and cook 30 minutes, stirring 3 times. Remove from heat, add 1½ teaspoonsful vanilla. Cool a little and apportion into 12 stemmed glasses. Make double this amount for 24 people.

Fruit Topping:

Canned apricots, canned pineapple, sliced maraschina cherries, chopped oranges or canned mandarin oranges, mixed together.

Date and Oatmeal Squares:

(These will be popular—so make double or triple this amount.) One and one-half lbs dates, 1½ cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 2½ cups rolled oats, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 cup shortening. Add boiling water to dates, cook slowly until thick, cool and add vanilla. Mix and sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and baking soda. Put the rolled oats through the meat chopper and add them and the brown sugar. Cut in the shortening. Spread half of this mixture on a 12-inch buttered pan, spread date mixture over, cover with remainder of flour mixture, pressing it down with palms. Bake 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. To prevent crumbling top may be brushed with a mixture of 1 beaten egg and 2 tablespoons water.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's Selfish and Spoiled, But He Wants Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently my fiancee called our engagement off, saying that I didn't hold her interest and therefore she didn't love me.

As I see it, the big mistake I have made is that I have always done everything she asked me to do and she always had everything her own way. I took her wherever she wanted to go, regardless of the cost, . . went to night clubs, the theatre, the movies, bowling, visiting friends and relatives—anything she wanted.

She's very nervous and spoiled, and doesn't have any patience whatsoever. But I love her very much, and can't forget her as she has asked. I haven't been out with her for two weeks now, and haven't gone out with anyone else. She goes out every night with another fellow, though, I know, because I have seen them together. I think of her all day long, and I haven't eaten or slept regularly since we broke up.

Please advise me what to do as I am becoming a wreck over this. B.

Dear B.:

If your girl was spoiled to begin with, you certainly have done all you could to make her more so, haven't you? Personally, I would feel that you were well off without such a selfish little thing for a wife, but there's no accounting for tastes.

Since you lost her in spite of doing so much for her, it stands to reason that you're not going to get her back by more of the same. And if you did, it wouldn't be long before you'd break up again, because she wouldn't be any different. Perhaps she'd be more likely to get a new interest in you if you ignored her for awhile, and made no move to try and get her back. If she's used to having her own way all the time she might be intrigued by not getting it, for a change. Frankly, you sound more like a teen-age girl, with your talk of not being able to eat or sleep, than like a young man old enough to be engaged. My suggestion would be that you brace up and start liking some other girls out and see what happens. If your ex-fiancee gets the idea that there are girls who appreciate the kind of good times you give them, even though she doesn't, it may make her stop and think. Anyhow, you have nothing to lose by such tactics, and it's your best chance of making her sit up and take notice.

Fashion Flashes

DON'T GO AWAY, if you want to travel light, without one of those permanently pleated nylon sheer prints. - Sleeveless, with a soft, high, rounded neckline, such a dress always looks well, no matter the time or the place. We like one in white, with a silky finish, spattered all over with red and blue polka dots. Launders like a dream, packs ditto, and is a budget job!

NEW TREATMENTS in necklines give a new feel to evening dresses. Very new is the decolletage made up, of a folded bertha for the back and sleeves that meet in jutting points in front. This line, of course, is used with very soft fabrics, such as silk sheers.

GOING BIG for Spring are the so-called "small furs," from little jackets and capes down to small skin arrangements. Squirrel dyed a rich, creamy beige, is something new, and we saw it beautifully worked into a rounded bolero with a cutaway front and full-topped sleeves worked in circular fashion.

COMING IN for early Summer, if the stylists have their way, is the pretty, more feminine hat. Certainly those we have seen have real appeal, when there isn't too much trimming of the flowery type. Rough straw braid is used for a hat with a brim that features soft wide ripples that can flatter or shadow. The deepest part of the dip is emphasized by two large pink silk and velvet roses.

Britain to Start First Commercial Jet Service May 2

London, April 25 — (Reuters) — The speed of air travel will be stepped up by hundreds of miles an hour next month when British see the world's first regular passenger service by jet airliner.

Rocketing Comets of the British Overseas Airways Corporation will begin flights May 2 from London to Johannesburg, South Africa, which will cut many hours off the present travel time by conventional aircraft.

The 36-passenger Dehavilland Comets, which cruise at just under 500 miles an hour at 5 heights between 35,000 and 40,000 feet, will take 23 hours and 40 minutes including five stops on the way, to do the trip between the two cities, 6,724 miles apart.

This compared with about 22 hours by conventional airliners. Actual flying time of the Comets will be 18 hours, 40 minutes, compared with about 27 hours at present.

The Comet service will operate on the South Africa "springbock" route — down the east coast of Africa through Khartoum, in the Sudan.

During May there will be one Comet flight a week in each direction, leaving London on Fridays and Johannesburg Mondays This will be increased to three a week in June, subject to delivery of Comets to the airline.

Built by the Dehavilland Aircraft Company, the planes are powered by four "ghost" jet engine similar to those used in many fast fighter aircraft.

Commonwealth Network

The London-South Africa route will be the first leg in a Comet Commonwealth network. It is planned to introduce Comets on the London - Singapore service, via Pakistan and India, later this year.

A more powerfully - engined version fitted with Rolls - Royce Avon jets will subsequently be used to extend the service from London to Australia and New Zealand. The type of Comet should be capable of covering the 11,000 miles between London and Australia in about two days.

Somewhat faster than the ghost — engined version, it can do a non-stop flight of 3,250 miles with full load. In about two years' time, it is likely to be operating on the North Atlantic and other routes.

Although a British airline will be the first in the world to operate a passenger jetliner service, other airways operations throughout the world will soon be using Comets. They include Canadian Pacific Airways, Commonwealth Pacific Airlines, Air France, and Union Maritime De Transport de France.

B.O.A.C. is to have the first 20 Dehavilland Comets, nine powered with "ghosts" and 11 with Rolls-Royce Avon jets.

Holloway Church Women Present Sacred Drama

Foxboro—Last Sunday evening at the Foxboro United Church a capacity congregation enjoyed the Sacred drama "Eyes of Faith" presented by the Holloway Church women. It was scriptural, unique, and extremely well-played, giving to those present a deep and spiritual message.

Mrs. H. W. Giffin directed the play and Mrs. Don Rose furnished the musical setting. Mr. Reg. Workman skillfully supervised the lighting effects throughout the service and Mr. Ken Peacock was the organist for the special occasion.

ASKS INVESTIGATION

Washington, April 25 — (AP) — Senator Blair Moody (Dem., Mich.) yesterday asked for a Senate investigation of government censorship and President Truman's controversial security order on public information. Moody, a Washington newspaper man until he was appointed Senator last year, introduced a resolution proposing appointment by the government operations committee of an advisory council of five to seven Washington newspaper and radio correspondents.

FEWER PEOPLE

The Dominion of Pakistan has a population of 75,000,000, compared to 361,000,000 for the Republic of India.

Beavers Blank Quebec Aces For First Win

Quebec, April 25 (CP) — Saint John Beavers, their backs to the wall last night in a do-or-die bid to remain in Alexander Trophy play, came up with a system for beating Quebec Aces: fast skating, smooth passing and leech-like back checking.

The combination paid off when the shirttime major hockey league champions rocked the Quebecers and 10,391 fans with a 6-0 whitewashing that spoiled Aces' chances of sweeping the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

With Quebec leading 3-1 in games Beavers coach Johnny O'Flaherty would make no prediction about the fifth game here Saturday night. One at a Time

"We'll play them one at a time," he said.

Beavers' scoring spree, paced by Johnny Uniacke with two goals, caught the Quebec defence napping in the first period, and Aces never threatened seriously after. Saint John went ahead 3-0.

The other markers went to Matt Mosich, Ken Watson, Tom Smelle and Dusty Blair.

Goalie Hal Gordon, bolstered by a hard-checking defence, played a large part in his team's victory with an excellent performance. He made 19 stops, compared with 24 by Jack Gelineau for Quebec.

Gordon made sparkling saves when two of Quebec's highest scorers Jean Belliveau and Jackie Leclar, twice coasted right in on him.

BUILD RINK ANEW

Eston, Sask., (CP) — Town council has decided to rebuild the skating and curling rink that was destroyed by fire in May, 1951. The cost of the new building is estimated at $50,000.

21 New Seats May be Created In Ont. House

Toronto, April 25 — (CP)— Twenty-one new seats may be created in the forthcoming redistribution of representation in the Ontario legislature, the Globe and Mail says today.

The redistribution —first in 20 years—is expected to be carried out before the next general election, added the newspaper story.

Toronto "might pick up five" of the 21 new seats. Ottawa should gain three seats.

Other cities which the newspaper says may receive more representation include, with present representation in brackets is: Hamilton, 5 (3); Windsor, 3 (1); St. Catharines, Kingston, Oshawa Sudbury and Kitchener, now all represented by partially rural ridings, now have sufficient population to demand separate seats, the story says.

CABINET RESIGNS

Quito, Ecuador, April 25 (AP) — Ecuador's cabinet resigned yesterday in an apparent move to help President Galo Plaza Lasso form a fusion of Liberal groups beore the June 1 presidential election. PROTEST POLICY

Tel Aviv, April 25 (Reuters) — Three thousand workers formed a two-mile demonstration in Tel Aviv's main street today in protest against the government's economic policy. Sunday School Lesson:

Sin's Siamese Twins

By ROY L. SMITH

From time to time it happens that a birth is reported in which two babies are joined in such a way that they cannot be separated without causing the death of both individuals. The famous pair, of a couple of generations ago, were about on the stage of the nation's theatres, entertaining the people with their weird, but separable, act.

In the religious history of mankind it has been demonstrated that idolatry and immortality are a pair of Siamese twins which have never been separated successfully. Wherever you have idolatry you always have immortality.

One Good Among Many

The ancient populated every field and cranny with gods. To be sure of a good crop on a particular piece of land, something had to be done to win the favor of the diminutive godlet who controlled the forces of fruition. The flocks were to multiply — then the good of fertility had to be bribed in some way.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 27: "Supreme Loyalty to God." Exodus 20:1-6; Luke 14:16-20 25-27; 16:13-15.

The doctrine of "only one God" was a late arrival in the religious thinking of the world, as it indeed it has yet fully arrived. Many moderns are trying to serve two masters, or even more, and making a mess out of life as a consequence.

The very first of the Ten Commandments declared for the supremacy of Jehovah. It was not that Moses declared there were no other gods; but that the Hebrews were to have no other. Their God might be only one among many, but for his people there was to be no other. Even Moses had not thought his way through to the idea of monotheism.

Gods and Morals

Among the neighbors of the Hebrews there was an extensive "fertility cult" by which the people were taught that the sex motive lay at the base of life, and that the sex act was regarded by the idols as a religious act. The result was widespread sex excesses with a vast resultant debauchery.

Among others of the Hebrews' neighbors gods were worshipped who demanded almost incredible barbarities from their devotees. Moloch, for example, required the sacrifice of a certain number of new born babies at certain regular intervals. Infanticide had the sanction of religion in the one case as just bad in the other.

The Psychologists Have a Word

In many respects there is not a great deal of difference between religionist and the psychologist. To some psychologists they only use different vocabulary.

The man who [illegible] about a condition of [illegible] and the psychologist speaks of an interested personality. Both have the same idea in mind.

The only individual who is able to live life at its best is that one who is able to focus it consciously in focus, with one great ideal or purpose always at the center.

This was exactly what Moses prescribed as a measure designed to save the Hebrews from the disintegration which was sure to result from idolatry.

The world's greatest Battlefield is divided loyalties, split nervous styles, inner tensions, inhibitions, and a long list of mental maladies are directly traceable to modern idolatry—the desire to "palatial", a multiple focus for life.

Directs Investigation

George S. Currie, Montreal chartered accountant and former deputy minister of national defence, has been appointed special investigator to inquire into thefts, security and accounting procedures at Petawawa, Ont., army camp. He was appointed and given special powers by Defence Minister Claxton following arrest of five persons. Mr. Currie will also investigate reports of irregularities at other army posts. — (CP Photo.)

Canadian Actress Pictured in Book Of Lovely Women

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 25 (CP) — There's a book coming out soon called "Beautiful Women of Our Time" and of the 48 portrayed one is a Canadian.

She's Olga Landiak, a 26-year-old actress who used to be a farm girl near Fort William, Ont.

Artist Nicholas Egon, noted for his head-and-shoulders portrait drawings, was commissioned 18 months ago to seek the world's most beautiful women and put them on paper. He interviewed 1,000, drew about 100 and then chose 48 for his book.

The girls are not necessarily conventional beauties and few are well known. Among them are Sharmini Chelvam of Ceylon, chosen for a "heart-shaped face of unusual lines," and journalist Rosemary Howe of London, picked for her "natural and unaffected charm."

Miss Landiak met artist Egon socially. One look at her strong, tense features and he decided to put her in the book, published by Putnams, which goes to press next month.

Brown-haired Olga, with surprisingly light blue eyes and easy carriage, came to Britain in 1948 on the first scholarship granted by the London, Ont., Little Theatre group. As a member of the group she won the Nella Jeffries trophy for the best actress of the 1948 Dominion Drama Festival at Ottawa, playing the title role in George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan."

Tough Going

Miss Landiak came to London for two years of study at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, nursing dreams of future top billing. But she found her five-foot-eight height and extremely deep voice made the going difficult.

After eight months with a touring company in 1950 playing in Jean-Paul Sartre's "Men With Out Shadows" and a small part in the film "The Secret People" Miss Landiak wore her shoes out visiting producers for auditions that never came to anything and going the rounds of the agents.

But Olga is of Ukrainian origin and has the tenacity often associated with the race. When funds got low, she took a job as secretary to a British member of parliament and continued her acting career in the evenings.

Now she works days at the town house of the M.P. in a select London square, and spends her nights at a theatre club in suburban Ealing, rehearsing the female lead in a new play called "Edge of the World." When the play opens, she's going to do her best to see there are important people in the audience.

"I've had so many disappointments," she said in an interview, "but I'm determined to keep trying."

She is both pleased and relieved at being in Egon's book. "When I look in the mirror I can't believe it," she says with a laugh. She would have preferred to be, in a later book on famous women including such British actresses as Celia Johnson, Gladys Cooper and Valerie Hobson.

MOTOR CITY

Detroit, the motor-car capital of the world, began as trading post in 1701.

DESERVED HONOR

Hamilton, April 24 (CP) — Sixty-three bus and street car drivers of the Hamilton Street Railway who received awards last night for accident-free driving deserved the honor. Even a paint scratch on a fender is considered an accident.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BRASS RINGES

Tomorrow the brass of two Collegiate sports organizations to into convention halls at conclave with provincial delegations. Last year's activities will be gone over and unless our guess is wrong a lot of dirt will be wrung out of the linen before the new wash is hung out for the 1952 grime.

In Toronto the Ontario Hockey Association holds forth at the Royal York, while at the Queensway Hotel in St. Catharines the Ontario Baseball Association will convene.

The OBA which "shot what it used to be" when the revered Bill Snyder was alive, will likely be the target for plenty of criticism from the "sticks" as friend Merrazzas is apt to call the habitats of the little people of the hinterlands, with playoffs as the main "gripe".

Something a little less than confusion reigned in widely-divergent points in the province last year come playoff time, and at least four provincial titles yet remain "in the air".

The intermediate "A" championship playoffs bordered on the ridiculous. Batawa and Bowmanville alternately won the title on consecutive nights due to failure of the OBA to properly organize the affair. The ultra indecision was reached when after celebrating the winning of the title, presenting awards at a triumphant banquet, the Bowmanville Roses were ordered to play "for the title" the day following. Batawa was kicked out and reinstated as fast as they could hang up their spikes and mitts, and then retrieve them.

Fiction experienced another sorry sequence of events in the Intermediate 'B' series with Lindsay, Shallow Lake won a "shallow" title without playing a championship game. Gananoque refused to travel half way to the Arctic Circle, and if our memory serves us correctly a Kitchener team ended up in the same sort of circumstances.

We do not expect anything momentous to happen at the baseball gathering. The Toronto Baseball League has dropped out for a year. The Lakeshore League is astride the affiliation fence. The COBL decided to remain aloof for another year.

The powerful Intercounty League, an out-and-out professional organization, which practically controls the OBA, the Niagara District League and the Western Ontario loop will be heavily represented.

One of the main items on the agenda will be the appointment of a secretary.

Meanwhile there could be a few fireworks erupt at the Ontario Hockey Association meet in Toronto. We have been informed that the senior "B" group of this district will provide some of the "fireworks" following some of the events of the past season. Fred Rutland of Peterborough has been unanimously appointed to the vice-presidency of the organization, and Lorne Cook of Kingston will again offer his name as a member of the executive.

Bill Cook and Dick Beare will represent the Belleville Hockey Association at the convention. At the moment we do not know of any representatives of the senior "B" organization who will be present.

If what Dame Rumor has to say is true, that the senior team will operate separately next winter, then it behooves somebody to be present. The way the OHA kicked around some of the printed rules last season will likely be given an airing as will protests and various suspensions. As a member of the group, the senior Hawks should have representation.

DIT CLAPPER HERE

Dit Clapper, well-known National Hockey League star, and ex-member, and coach of the Boston Bruins will be in town tonight. He will be introduced by Frank Grandaime and probably say a few words to the audience. Dit played with the Bruins for 12 seasons, coached them for three and was named on NHL all-star teams at least three times. At present he is a director of the Boston Bruins organization.

Hurls No-Hit-No-Run for 12 Innings Then, Three Hits In 13th, Game Lost

San Francisco, April 25—(AP)—Elmer Singleton pitched no-hit, no-run ball for 12 innings last night and stood on the threshold of baseball's hall of fame. Then—bang—three successive singles in the 13th turned glory into a 1-0 nightmare defeat for the 31-year-old San Francisco right-hander.

For six innings of the Pacific Coast League game, Singleton was flawless.

He walked two men in the seventh. A sacrifice moved them along. But Elmer, who couldn't win for Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League last season engineered one of his seven strikeouts of the night and made the next man ground out.

He walked a man in the 10th, but that man was erased in a double play.

Meanwhile Sacramento's Jess Flores, once with the Philadelphia Athletics, was turning back the Seals.

In the 13th, second-sacker Eddie Bockman singled—the first hit off Elmer. Quickly Al White and Johnny Ostrowski followed with singles off the tiring Elmer and Bockman scored.

Kiddie Corps Paves The Path To Victory In Eleventh Heat; Braves Beat Giants In Tenth

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Those beautiful Browns are not the only surprising team in the American League. How about those upstart Boston Red Sox?

Lou Boudreau's youthful soccers have been knocking the stuffings out of the opposition right from the start, but it has been the tremendous surge of the once-lowly St. Louis Browns that has drawn all the attention.

It took a Brownie postponement to cast the spotlight on the comeback of Boston. The Red Sox hurled a "move over" challenge at the Browns yesterday by whipping the world champion New York Yankees 3-2 to sweep their two-game series.

Actually in Front

It took the Red Sox 11 innings to do it but in the end they had their third consecutive victory stored away for the early season record to nine triumphs and only two losses. That actually put them a half game in front of the Browns. St. Louis, however, remained in first place percentage-wise. The Browns showed a 7-1 .875 mark to Boston's 9-3 .818.

In the day's only other activity, the Boston Braves overcame a 3-0 deficit to score twice in the eighth and three more in the 10th to defeat New York Giants 6-3 at the Polo Grounds.

Rain and cold weather cancelled all other games in themajor leagues.

It was the Red Sox kiddie corps that paved the way for Boston's victory. Two successive bases on balls by relief pitcher Bob Kuzava provided the winning run but it was a single by freshman Sammy White that set up the tally. The rookie catcher, who had homered for Boston's first run in the fifth, advanced to second on Don DiMaggio's one-bagger and moved all the way around when Kuzava walked Jimmy Piersall and Billy Goodman.

Rookie pitcher Ivan Delock, who relieved starter Maurice McDermott in the 11th, earned his first major league victory.

A bases-loaded double by rookie Ed Mathews in the 10th inning broke up a 3-3 tie and enabled the Braves to snap a three-game losing streak. Lew Burdette, who relieved starter Warren Spahn in the seventh, was credited with his second victory. Dave Koslo was the loser.

Starter Max Lanier of the Giants had a shutout until the eighth when Earl Torgeson homered with two out. A single by Sid Gordon, a walk to Will Marshall,—a relief pitch and Walker Cooper's single tied the score at 3-3 and brought in Koslo.

Toronto Leafs' Sid Smith Wins Lady Byng Trophy

(By The Canadian Press)

Sir Smith, Toronto Maple Leafs left winger, is the 1951-52 winner of the Lady Byng trophy in the National Hockey League.

The trophy goes to "the player adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the season."

The announcement was made last night from league headquarters in Montreal. The voting was by a panel of 18 sports writers and broadcasters, three from each N.H.L. city, and points were awarded on the basis of five for first choice, three for second and one for third.

Smith had 57 points, including nine first choices, of a possible 90. Second place went to Len Red Kelly, Detroit defencemen, with 27 points. He won the trophy last year.

Bill Mosienko of Chicago, Black Hawks and Don Raleigh of New York Rangers tied for third with 23 points each.

In addition to the trophy, Smith gets $1,000 from the league. During the season in which he scored 27 goals and 30 assists, he incurred three minor penalties.

Seagram TELLS THE WORLD
"For clean taste... look to Canada"

"Say 'Canada' and you think of zestful northern air; swift-running streams; rich, rolling farmlands. It seems only natural, then, that there should be an especially clean taste to so many of the good things from this favoured land."

Stratford Indians Roar Back, Trim Forts 3-0 to Even Series

Fort William, April 25 (CP) — It's strictly war whoops in the camp of Stratford Indians after they squared their Allan Cup hockey final with Fort Frances Canadians here last night.

Stratford whipped the fair cot of Fort Frances Border Cities hockey representatives, both defensively and 3-0 after losing the first game 5-0 in the opening game Tuesday. Fort Frances trimmed Indians 9-4.

The two teams move to Fort Frances Saturday at Fort Frances where the Fort will be playing on home ice for the first time in two Allan Cup breaks. It's the first year for Stratford in it's senior final.

Indians played it cagey, benming Canadians in their own end most of the game but scoring at a goal-a-period pace.

Winger Bruce Burdett paced Indians with a goal in each of the second and third periods. Lou Jankowski added smartly in the first.

Indians Whoop In Net

Play opened tight in the first period, then gradually warmed up. The Fort Frances net as Stratford pressed for the equalizing victory. Bill Cleaveley, Fort Frances goalie made brilliant saves before White put the first Stratford marker.

Alex Kurcebe of Canadians set up the second Stratford goal when he missed a pass, leaving a clear lane for White who let go a shot that Burdett, Canadians' closest effort came when Walt Christiansen just skimmed a point shot taking a pass from Don Sampson.

Burdett's goal was the third time in the series Stratford has scored while shorthanded. Don Heinbuch who got on a tripping penalty when Kurcebe fumbled.

Canadians started a desperate offensive in the third period which Indians matched shot-for-shot. Both goalies performed brilliantly.

Burdett finally took the starch out of Fort Frances when he scored his second marker assisted by White and George Allison.

Before the final bell, Bruce Dale in the Stratford net had to weather a hard shot by Bobby Johnson and two more by Goose Gosselin. Billy Hay, Jack Hamilton and Cleaveley busy at the other end.

About 1,200 saw the game. The gardens here can hold more than twice that number.

1st Horse to Carry Canadian Colors Will Start In Famous Epsom Derby

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 25—(CP)— A chestnut colt with a sluggish heartbeat and a fancy way of stepped will be the Canadian thing to shout for next month in Britain's greatest flat race, the Epsom Derby.

If it's "weather clear, track fast" on derby day May 28, a precedent will be set—by what is believed to be the first Canadian-owned horse to start in the epic race for three-year-olds, which annually draws nearly 1,000,000 spectators to the historic Epsom Downs.

The horse which will carry Canadian colors, barring accidents or heavy going, is Indian Hemp, purchased last year by Canadian publisher Max Bell from British owner Sir Humphrey de Trafford.

Bell, publisher of the Calgary Albertan, declined to name the price, but Hemp is known to have cost considerably more than $15,000 in securing the services of Nasrullah, winner of two of his seven races as a juvenile.

Likes Hemp

Nasrullah's progeny have a reputation for waywardness, but he has produced some outstanding stayers including Hemp, which finished third for the Ags Khan in the 1949 derby and has won greater triumphs in the United States.

Bell picked Indian Hemp because he likes his breeding, his nicked-around leg action, a veterinary who examined the colt said Hemp's lungs "like Hunter over at about 26 to the minute compared with 40 in a normal horse." In turf circles, that's considered a sure sign of stamina.

"I think Indian Hemp will stay the course, and if we get the right kind of going the others will know they've been in a horse race," said Bell, who hopes to get down a lucky three at 40 to 1 or better. Indian Hemp now is listed at 20-1 to 1.

Current favorite at 14 to 1 is Agitator, but there'll be many changes in the odds as round in the next few weeks sort the stayers from the sprinters. Right now it's a wide open.

Bell bid for Indian Hemp last year but the price wasn't right. Last week, on a visit to Britain, he got in touch with Sir Humphrey and offered to match an American offer for the horse, with a few extra inducements.

Indian Hemp will race in Britain until the fall, when he will go to North America and be retired in a partnership comprising Bell, jockey Johnny Longden, formerly of Taber, Alta., and two Calgary associates, Wilder Ripley and Frank MacIahon.

As far as can be learned today, no Canadian-owned horse has run in the derby in its 172-year history. Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born publisher, bred a horse named Miracle but sold him to Lord Rosebery before the horse ran third in the 1932 derby won by April the Fifth.

Brooklyn Switch Doesn't Scare Giant's Maglie

By WILL GRIMSLEY

New York, April 25 (AP)— "I don't care what they do. Let 'em pull the whole team out. Let 'em stand on their heads. They'll still look the same to me—just a bunch of ballplayers."

It was this show of confidence that Sal Maglie, New York Giants' swarthy righthander, greeted the news that Brooklyn may pull a revised lineup on him tonight in an effort to break his spell over the Dodgers.

"I think the Dodgers are the toughest club in the league, they have the heaviest hitting lineup," Maglie added, "but I love 'em. I'd rather pitch against 'em than any other club."

Salvatore's affection for his bitterest and most formidable enemy may be explained by his pitching record against the Dodgers—10 victories and three defeats.

He also has pitched 9-0 on two hits last Sunday, breaking a five-game Dodgers winning streak and a three game Giant slein of losers. He tries for No. 11—No. 2 of the season—this afternoon at Polo Grounds.

Brooklyn manager Chuck Dressen announced yesterday he may use George Shuba in place of Carl Furillo and replace Roy Campanella with Al Walker in the game, thus sending two lefthanded hitters against the Giant ace.

"I'll do one thing," Maglie said "Brooklyn would be making a big mistake if they bench Campanella for any reason but the toughest man they've got at the plate, I don't care who's pitching."

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Bill Quackenbush, great defenseman of the Detroit Red Wings, was named winner of the Lady Byng trophy by the National Hockey League three years ago today. Quackenbush played a full 60-game schedule without incurring a penalty to win the ward for the player "combining gentlemanly conduct with a high standard of playing ability. He was the first defenceman to win the trophy since it was inaugurated in 1925.

Fat and Fortyish, Fabulous Bobo Happy As a Clam Over New Chance

By WILL GRIMSLEY

New York, (AP)—Fat and 43 fabulous Bobo Newsom is happy as a damp-eared rookie over his new chance in the majors.

"You can tell the world this is a new Newsom," the portly righthander said as he leaned against the Washington dugout at Yankee Stadium.

"No more popoffs. No more breaking training.

"Old Bobo is dead serious now. Proud to be up here again. There's only one place to play ball, that's the major leagues. Old Bo's going to make the most of this time."

Bounced from club to club and league to league and finally shuffled to the minors, Newsom's baseball days appeared numbered until he popped up again this spring as relief pitcher for the Senators. It's his fifth time with the Washington club.

Grateful and Ready

"I'm grateful and I'm ready," he said. "Whatever Bucky (Bucky Harris, Washington manager) wants me to do, I'll do it. If he wants me to pitch batting or just to relieve, okay.

"I figure my old wing hasn't lost much. I figure I've lost only about 12 percent of my speed and picked up about 90 percent on brains and savvy. I'm probably as good a pitcher as I ever was."

Only one other pitcher active in baseball has won more major league games than Bobo. That is Cleveland's Bob Feller, who has win 231. Bobo's total is 205.

"I pitched more than 300 innings for Birmingham (in the Southern Association) last year," Newsom added. "I won 17 games and two in the playoff. That doesn't sound like old Bo is through, does it?

"I've picked up a knuckler which helps some but the main thing is I've held my control. I can throw any pitch I've got on a 3-2 count as well as on a 1-0 count.

"And I haven't gone stiff like a lot of the other fellows. Chuck Dressen (Brooklyn manager) was telling me the other night how loose and limber I was out there on the mound.

"The old boss is not ready for pasture yet."

Newsom said he weighed 240 during the winter but got down to 215 through rigid training and golf at his home in Hartsville, South Carolina.

"I'm going to keep in shape, too," he said. "Put that down in your book."

Ottawa Loses Seven Straight; Montreal Wins

(By The Associated Press)

The International League, even with the season barely a week old today was beginning to take on a familiar pattern, Montreal at the top and Ottawa at the bottom.

The favored Royals kept a half game in front of Buffalo by whipping Syracuse Chiefs 6-5 yesterday while the Bisons were edging the winless Ottawa outfit 5-4.

Bob Keegan, the Chief's starter, was tapped for all 11 Montreal hits and all six of their runs. Bill Stoutz relieved him in the seventh.

The Bisons had a tough time keeping the Ottawa pennant intact. They clidn't score the winning run until the eighth inning when they tallied on a walk, a wild pitch and a single.

Paul Foytack went eight innings for the Bisons and got credit for the victory. Jean-Pierre Roy buried the entire game for Ottawa.

St. Catharines played a tight game in the first period and held the Toilers to one goal, by Ken Stenlund.

Biltmores, Pats Clash Tonight In Cup Opener

Guelph, Ont., April 25 (CP)—In defiance of the spring-like weather Regina Pats and Guelph Biltmores clash here tonight in the opening game of their best-of-seven Memorial Cup finals. A capacity crowd of more than 4,000 is expected to jam Memorial Gardens for the clash.

The western Canada junior champions, one of the strongest teams to come east for many years, arrived yesterday. After a short workout at the arena, they settled down for at least a four-game stay in this section of the country.

The clubs will move to Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens following the opener. The second game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon with the third next Wednesday night.

Regina coach Murray Armstrong former National Hockey League player, had no qualms about opening the series on his eastern champions, home ice. "We have no fears," he said. "All we want to do is get on with the series."

$20,000 FIRE LOSS

Elmvale, April 25 (CP) —Fire last night gutted two stores in the business district of this village 15 miles northwest of Barrie and damaged a third.

The fire caused $20,000 damage, mostly from smoke and water.

Rev. Wm. Wilson, an Anglican minister, was injured when he fell 20 feet while helping a tenant remove her furniture from an apartment over the stores. Percy Black, a volunteer fireman, was overcome by smoke.

Popular Willie Fordham Will Coach Minor Classes, Baseball Association

Willie Fordham, popular colored hurler, who gained tremendous popularity here last year while coaching minor baseball teams, will be back again this year. Fordham will act as coach-in-chief of the Belleville Baseball Association minor division.

This was decided at a meeting of the peewee division held at Kiwanis Centre last night with general chairman Frank Grandaise in charge.

Employment Needed

Plans were discussed to finance Fordham's stay here. He will take over his coaching duties at full time starting July 1st for ten weeks. At the moment arrangements are under way to secure temporary employment for the popular Willie as from now until July 1st.

Any employer having such a situation is asked to contact Frank Grandaise at Northern Electric, country registrar Bill Hurst, or Ted Schwab.

The meeting was highly successful inasmuch as 109 boys of peewee age were in attendance. They saw the new "Calendar of Sports" film, a technical job which featured Canadian sport.

Six clubs were organized in the peewee division. In other classes 7 minor baseball four teams will comprise the bantam league; four in midget, two in juvenile and one junior squad.

Bob Shackleton, of the minor divisions; are peewee, Art Keegan; bantam, Walter Bent; midget, George Digby; and juvenile and junior, "Cuffer" Noakes.

Incidentally coaches and managers are urgently needed and any one desirous of helping out along these lines are asked to contact Frank Grandaise.

Present at the meeting were Malcolm Robb, BBA president; Ted Schwab, Tom Lewis, Vic Picknell, "Cuffer" Noakes, Art Keegan, George Digby, Walter Bent, Bob Woods, Charles Ford, Earl Vandervoort and Bud Royle.

Stone months ago I handed out a tip as to how one might antique an old picture frame. This must have aroused considerable interest for the matter has come up from time to time. It is a pleasure to repeat the formula.

TO ANTIQUE A PICTURE FRAME

Old picture frames, heavily ornamented with deep carvings are liked for the purpose. In applying the glaze don't try to "paint" it in as it is evenly, then wipe off immediately by working from the centre towards the edge, or removing it from the high points of the carvings. A light coat of varnish gives the finishing touch.

BEDROOM SCREEN

We have a new neighbour on our street. He turns out to be quite handy with tools. His first job after moving in was to construct a fine bedroom screen for his wife. Perhaps the most effective he made was the one pictured below. It is quite simple and can be utilized scrap wood from packing cases. It is a question which is most attractive.

BIRD FEEDING STATION

A naturalist friend has constructed a bird feeding station from an old piano seat, the top being of glass to permit full view of the birds. An old tin can might serve the purpose. He endeavoured to impress upon his visitors that the closed and should always face the prevailing wind so as to prevented the feed from being blown away.

STRETCHER FOR SOCKS

Necessity is the mother of invention, so my friend George turned a coat-hanger into a stretcher for socks. To make it more attractive he gave it a coat of enamel by simply dipping it in the can and then hanging it up to dry.

Molson's

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Milker

A player without much respect for the pips is someone who never makes bids without skips. He shuts out his partner's advice by his jumps and brazenly bustles his own suit as trumps.

The chronic hop-skip-and-jumper is a menace to his pair. On the other hand, while the never-jumper may not be so much of a drag, he contributes to the delinquency of major information.

In its proper place, a jump bid is informative and effective. So, when the pasteboards call for it, a jump should not be avoided. And a guide tells you the meaning of each type of jump.

Take the partnership pair shown here:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠ 10 7 6	♠ None
♥ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6	♥ 3 2
♦ A Q 10 8 5	♦ K 10 8 6 4
♣ None	♣ None

South lucks what it takes for an opening of one or two or three. He might open with a shut-out of four hearts. But he should refrain from an immediate game opening if first or second hand. Say he passes.

North opens with a bid of one club, longest of his two suits. With less than seven cards in a suit it is not an opening of one less than game. With less than nine tricks it is not an opening of two.

There are players who prefer to open such a hand with two clubs. If they like to take chances with a hand like that, there could not be much argument against it. And, what's the use.

When north opens with one club, south knows they have the sure trick for the one-jump. His response is a double-jump to three hearts.

In this manner does he tell partner of a powerful heart suit. Also that they should not stop bidding short of hearts, at least.

Splice that onto your communication system.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 25 — (AP)—The happiest couple in Hollywood today — Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz.

Because they wanted to work together, the redhead and the Latin gave up their movie and band careers to put on their own television show. In five months, their program has risen to the point where it is now No. 1 in the Nielsen ratings which estimate the pair is watched by 40,000,000 people every Monday night.

"People said we were crazy," gloated Arnaz.

"It was supposed to be career suicide," admitted Lucille.

She considers her shift into TV no sacrifice.

"So what if I burned my bridges behind me!" she asked. "At least I was trying something new. I wasn't content to go on doing the same old thing."

Asked if she didn't regret leaving glamour behind to become a slapstick artist, she said: "I could not be happier. That glamor routine was driving me nuts. For 13 years, I was a slave to the make-up department."

Far from ruining her chances in films, Lucille said the TV show has brought her more movie offers than she has ever had before. She may make a movie during her summer layoff from TV, but so far she hasn't found a script she likes.

The "I Love Lucy" show is the pioneer in a method of making TV shows that is winning the approval of many Hollywood stars. The show is filmed by three movie cameras before an audience. Thus Lucille and Desi have the advantage of cutting the film and still having the stimulus of an audience reaction.

Such stars as Ginger Rogers, June Allyson, Dick Powell, Burns and Allen, Eve Arden, Rosalind Russell and J. Carroll Naish have visited the show to observe how it's done. Burns and Allen are switching from a live show to the Ball-Arnaz system next season.

"All of the stars are amazed when I tell them how easy it is," Lucille said. "We work an eight-hour day for four days a week, make-up and fix our hair for 3. The rest of the time is our own, hours a week, instead of 50 hours. And we only have to slap on the in the movies."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Could be one of your best days with a little extra push. Be your practical self and carry out your plans. Don't be overanxious or crowd your day. Leave out non-essentials.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Use your natural gifts to move ahead in business or personal affairs. Many unexpected benefits in domestic or home affairs if you are amenable, co-operative.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Bountiful opportunities for the ardent pursuit of a worthy plan or proposition. Realize there are many others aiming for same goals as you. Be keen, good-natured and you can succeed.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Planetary aspects show benefits rare most of day. Fine for personal, romantic and social affairs, especially concerning family, if right attitude is applied.

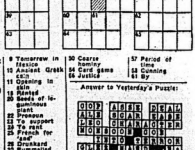
July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Execute all affairs in businesslike manner, don't waste valuable time with unimportant matters. Avoid being too firm when you have the upper hand; it hurts others, seldom helps you.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Put forward your very best effort. Favorable indications on whole for wise investments, real estate transactions, mining, construction, the military. Be alert.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Not everything auspicious. Be rightly concerned with urgent personal and home affairs. Promote worthy friendships. Don't take little things too seriously. Plan leisure hours sanely.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No day to take things in lackadaisical manner. Don't relax at wrong time. Some circumstances may seem against your wishes, but keep thinking, and keep cheerful.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Not all friendly. not all unfriendly. Could be turned into gainful day—it has many possibilities. Be not bound by antiquated ways, others' whims. Use your own judgment.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Excellent rays all round. Let your inventive imagination, plus sufficient practicality, do a real job. Explore new ground, wake up dormant talent. There are times for doing.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Not too easy a period but, with a little patience and real effort, you can accomplish. Professional and artistic pursuits, financial investments, public affairs sponsored.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Really interesting, challenging day that requires finesse, smart handling. Results will nav well. Some unusual opportunities for water ones.

YOU BORN TODAY are the practical type, conservative, but energetic and persistent. You have executive ability, are unalterably honest and faithful to your obligations, family. Like the good things in life and will work hard to attain them. Even temperaments, unless provoked, when you can become very angry. Can be gifted by Pottery; watch that. Birthdate: Firene Delacroix, noted Fr. painter.

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

Patience said, a little anxiously, as they entered the cinema: "You won't let me lose my train back, will you? It goes at 8.30."

"I'll want to, but it you insist—" "I do."

He held her hand in the pictures. He longed to kiss her goodby on the platform, but decided against it. Maybe next Saturday, or the after—

"We'll do this again!"

"If I can."

"You could surely tell Aunt Helen that you quite like coming to change her library book."

"Yes. I might do that."

"And in the meantime—I'll look out for you on the train on Monday."

"I'll be there."

She was leaning out of the window now. She rather wished he'd kiss her goodby. And felt a little shocked at herself for wishing it.

"Get home safely. Don't speak to any strange men, remember."

She laughed gaily.

"I shouldn't be likely to."

"I was a strange man! Still, I had hard work to make you speak to me."

"Ah, but you didn't seem at all strange. I'd seen you so often travelling down in the same carriage."

"Oh! So you had noticed me?"

"Well of course."

"Mouse, you're adorable! Gosh, that's made you go quite pink!"

The guard blew his whistle. She leaned out of the window impulsively, holding out her hand to him.

"Goodby, and thank you."

He ran along the train as it began to move slowly down the platform.

"Mouse!" he called.

"Well!"

"I suppose you know I'm in love with you?"

She gasped. She didn't know what to say to him. She just stood there at the window watching him, waving to him as at last he stopped running, her heart thumping madly. Then she sank down in the seat wondering if she were dreaming. She sat very still, her hands folded in her lap, trying to quiet down a little. Was this the way her mother had felt when first she had met her father? Well, she, her daughter, knew what had happened. She'd run away—cut off completely by her family. Been deserted by her lover and left to die of a broken heart. Shouldn't that be a warning to her?

Oh, if only her mother had lived so that she, Patience, could have grown up with her to guide her!

"Helen, you don't think she's got a temperature? I really do think the dear child looks quite feverish."

Patience moved towards the door. She said she was perfectly well. No, of course there was nothing wrong with her.

"I thing perhaps a hot drink and an early night might be a good idea," said her Aunt Alice, who was never in bed a moment later than 10 whatever might happen.

Patience slid from the room and prayed that she came down again they would question her no further. But she'd stay upstairs for a little while. She wanted to be alone. To go over it all again. To savor the wonder of it all. The joy. To turn over in her mind how she could possibly manage to meet him in Stortford again next Saturday.

It was another Saturday evening a month later. Miss Helen and Miss Alice sat on either side of the fireplace and Miss Alice's eyes went constantly to the clock. The hands pointed to half-past seven. She wondered if her sister had noticed it. She rather bored on Sunday. But at eight o'clock she decided she'd better draw attention to it.

"It's getting late, isn't it, Helen?"

Miss Helen put down her book.

"To tell you the truth, Alice, I've no idea what the time is. This book is so enthralling."

"It's just struck eight."

"Eight! But Patience isn't in!"

"I know." Miss Alice looked at her sister anxiously. "I suppose she must have missed the train."

Miss Helen said shortly that this was obviously what had happened. And then that it was really very naughty of her.

"I suppose we can all of us miss trains," said Alice placatingly. "What's worrying me is that there isn't another one she can catch till that very late one that reaches Oakley at 11 o'clock."

"I must say I don't like her being out so late. In fact I'm really very angry about it."

After supper, Miss Alice suggested a little game of cribbage to Miss Helen.

They were still playing when Patience, fearful as to her reception, crept quietly into the house getting on to midnight. She saw the light beneath the sitting room door and knew they were waiting up for her. She put her hand to her hair and gave it a nervous little pat. She wondered anxiously what they'd say to her. And what she'd say to them. It was all going to be so terribly difficult. Never before had she lied to them. And yet—now could she tell them the truth?

She opened the door. She saw their two dear faces, Aunt Alice's full of relief, Aunt Helen's stern and angry.

Shown in custody of Sgt. Roy Collins, Verrault, a carpenter, is accused of setting the fire for $500 to help a woman friend, Mrs. Adele Wall, collect $4,500 insurance money on the cottage occupied by the baby and his young parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lafontaine. Mrs. Wall, owner of the cottage, is held as material witness. —(CP Photo.)

FARMERS GETTING MOST ATTENTION IN BUDGET DEBATE

Members Have Variety Of Remedies for Ills

Ottawa, April 26 (CP) — Farmers are getting most of the attention as the free-swinging budget debate rambles over a wide field in the Commons.

Members from many parts of the country had a variety of remedies for the ills of agriculture in yesterday's session that closed out the parliamentary week.

They ranged through floor prices, stepped-up trade with the United Kingdom and development of wider home markets."

George C. Nowlan (PC-Annapolis-Kings) national president of the Progressive Conservatives, and Earl Cruickshank (PC-Middlesex) urged heavier purchases from Britain—particularly cheese, especially for British buying of Canadian foods.

They suggested money obtained by Britain from Canada should be earmarked for such things as bacon, cheese, tobacco, fish, apples and other primary products.

But the Progressive Conservative speakers also urged the development of the Canadian economy generally. Mr. Nowlan declaring it is necessary to "populate the Dominion" if Canada's trade pattern.

Mr. Nowlan suggested, too, that it might be necessary eventually to take reprisals against the United States which has recently put restrictions on import of Canadian cheese and "dumping" of some agricultural products.

Suggest Retaliatory Action

Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) also urged retaliatory action against the U.S. on its cheese move, and he proposed that the quantity of cheese to Britain in exchange for farm implements.

At several other members' lectures in the last few days, he urged a floor price under farm products and a guaranteed market.

Mr. Argue contended also that the operation of current floor prices under cattle and eggs is not satisfactory. Many producers therefore were not getting the floor prices.

The cheese floor was supported by Dr. W. G. Hall (Red Deer-Mackenzie), who said the dairy industry has been hit hard by the drought and in addition to loss of the U.K. cheese market—particularly in the form of food-and-mouth disease, competition from New Zealand and Australia is getting keener.

Two Liberals took exception to the idea of a floor price guarantee for cheese. G. M. Ferrie (Muskoka-Ontario) said the cheese industry, after deciding to accept responsibility of federal bulk selling, had priced itself out of the market. "Now it found it made a mistake and wants oil help."

FOUND NO FEAR

Madison, Wis., Apr. 26 — (AP) — Architect Frank Lloyd Wright said in an interview yesterday "Fear of Russia is an American invention, not shared by the rest of the world." Wright just returned from Paris where an exhibit of his drawings is on display. He added: "I found no fear of Russia in Europe. Not even Communists. Communism got mean the same to a European as it does to us."

Record of Van Doos In Korea Imperishable As Second Batt. Begins Plans to Return Home

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea — (CP)—(By Mail)—The allotted 12 months in Korea is drawing to a close for the 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, elements of the 1st Battalion have arrived to begin its replacement.

The new occupants of Quebec's storied citadel, commanded by Lt.-Col. Gaston Valle of Quebec, already have begun their Canadian take-over. An advance party commanded by Maj. Bert Lacasse of Montreal left Korea in March to prepare the way.

When the Quebec's Van Doos finally muster in their new stamping grounds, Korea and all they have experienced here will be thousands of miles away. But their record in Korea is imperishable and they are famous here for their fabulous "never-give-away" stand of last November.

To the warriors of French Canada belongs the glory of fighting possibly the last major action of the Korean war. Their five-day stand, last Nov. 23-27, determined the course of the war, the peace sector, especially the possession of Hill 210 and Hill 355, at last count, dominating vital roads.

Compared to the Nov. 22-27 battle communist commanders and an officer who had fought with the regiment in Korea.

The thing about the Van Dods' fighting—as indeed with the whole of Canadian action in Korea—is that while it never involved a big war, it was a fateful test. It did reveal that the battalion was ready for it should it ever have happened.

Wherever the Chinese cared to strike, the men on the spot were trained and able to cope with them.

Established Defence Positions

In September and October they participated in "Operation Commando," which advanced the U.N. line 12,000 yards to its roughly its present line, and then proceeded to establish defence positions.

The Van Doos had just completed these when they were called at short notice to relieve the beleaguered Leicestshire Regiment.

Within 24 hours the Chinese launched the first of a series of attacks that was to extend through five days.

Then there was a hot clash in mid-December when a platoon position commanded by Lieut. J.A. Paradis of Quebec City was assailed by 140 Chinese.

Since then the Van Doos have maintained the initiative in sectors assigned to them. Their patrolling has been aggressive, and it is perhaps the Chinese that wherever the Van Doos are they control no man's land.

There was a change of commanding officers just before Christmas. Lt.-Col. Jean Allard, DSO, Officer of Montreal, who had raised, trained and led the battalion up to then, was relieved by Lt.-Col. Gaston Valle of Quebec City, former company commanders and an

The battalion's record in Korea is a splendid one. It has won a Distinguished Unit Citation from the United States Army, and the nation is able to defend itself.

"I hope that day will not be so far distant," he said. "The United States certainly does not want to prolong needlessly the stationing of its troops anywhere abroad."

The Japanese government considered there probably will be friction between Japanese police and soldiers. And he said he recognized that "countermists and other subversive groups will attempt deliberately to aggravate these difficulties."

Other Developments

As the hour of Japan's independence approached, there were these other developments:

Occupation authorities returned 250 Japanese owners more than 850 plants seized for possible reparations payments.

Four Canadian Airmen Lose Lives In Bomber Crash

Lancaster Coming Into Airport Overshoots Strip

Summerside, P.E.I., April 26 — (CP) — Air death in the Maritimes reached 12 in little more than a week yesterday when an R.C.A.F. bomber crashed at the Air Force base here, killing four of its crew.

Only a flimsy fence averted an even greater disaster.

The flaming, twisted wreck of the four-engined Lancaster, skidding along the ground toward the station's post depot, was stopped by a fence and stopped 50 feet from the tanks. Additional thousands of gallons of high octane gasoline stood nearby in several railway cars. They were shunted away as some of the remaining eight occupants clambered from the broken plane.

Five were seriously injured and three suffered minor injuries. A member of the Summerside fire crew received slight injuries while engaged in rescue work.

Names of the dead and injured were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

On Routine Approach

Eyewitnesses said the plane made a routine approach to the runway from the direction of a 600-mile flight to Goose Bay, Labrador. As it prepared to touch down it apparently overshot the strip and started to plough its way into a small mound and crashed to the ground.

Two Navy Avengers were lost off Southwestern Nova Scotia last week when they apparently collided in mid-air and carried seven men into the Atlantic. Another Naval pilot died Thursday shortly after his Avenger took off from the Shearwater air base near Dartmouth, N.S. His craft crashed and burned about a mile from the field.

Yesterday's tragic accident occurred a few minutes before the fence limit here. Claxton's plane was due to leave for Charlottetown.

On a routine visit to the base, the minister thought it was a practice drill when he heard the siren wail. But when the crash truck and ambulance screamed by to the crash scene, the minister left his party and followed.

Visited Survivors

He later visited survivors in the station hospital.

Mr. Claxton was visibly shaken last night as he addressed the Charlottetown Board of Trade. "I regret as much as you," he said, "any sacrifice sympathy to the relatives or those who lost their lives."

The Lancaster left from Goose Bay flight on a fuel consumption test. It was piloted by an RCAF reserve supply mission beginning this weekend.

Wife of Killer Seeking Means To Get Him Freed

Vancouver, April 26 — (CP)— Shirley McBeth, 20-year-old common-law wife of mad killer Melville Wilkie, will seek to have him freed from an Ontario hospital for the criminally insane.

She has opened here home here as headquarters for signing of a petition, sponsored by a group called the "Friends of Melville Wilkie."

The petition asks that the case be reopened and that Wilkie be given a sanity test.

He was recaptured March 27 and returned to the hospital at Penetanguishene, Ont., from where he escaped July 19, 1950.

Wilkie, 42, was committed to the mental hospital after the murder of his wife and child at Owen Sound in 1933.

Lord Mancroft Heads Off Action By Apologizing

London, April 26—(Reuters)—Conservative peer Lord Mancroft yesterday apologized for making a "grave reflection on the dignity of the House of Commons" and headed off a move to take action against him.

But most Labor members of parliament were still chafing at the sharp retort that, unlike members of the lower house, he is not paid for "farking around in the division lobbies at night with Bessie and the rest of the girls." Mancroft belongs to the Labor party's 210-pound Mrs. Bessie Braddock and other women members was heatedly brought up yesterday by Socialists. Barrister Mancroft also quoted Mancroft's remark from a speech delivered to the Conservative party's Primrose League.

Mrs. Castle asked that members be able to protect themselves from "the gross vulgarity of a monument like this."

Mancroft, in a letter to the house, said his remark had been only "a flippant aside."

"I very much hope the house will accept my unhesitated apology and I withdraw my remarks unreservedly."

JAPAN RETURNS TO NATIONHOOD STATUS MONDAY

American Forces May Soon be Withdrawn

Tokyo, April 26 (AP) —Emperor Hirohito and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the fading Allied occupation, exchanged brief formal courtesy calls today as the hour neared for Japan's transition to a sovereign state.

Observers said it was unlikely the two would meet officially again after the seven-year Allied occupation ends at 10:30 p.m. Monday (8.30 a.m. EST).

Ridgway, famed in the last seven years the Emperor has slipped quietly out of his palace for an "informal" visit to Allied headquarters.

But this morning Hirohito appeared as a full-fledged Monarch. His glittering black sedan complete with imperial crest—a huge 16-petal chrysanthemum—rolled out of the front gate of the palace behind an escort of police motorcycles. The Emperor was accompanied by five court officials. Ridgway had the courtesy call this afternoon.

Farewell Radio Address

Earlier, in a farewell radio address to the Japanese people, Ridgway said American troops will be withdrawn from Japan only when the nation is able to defend itself.

"I hope that day will not be so far distant," he said. "The United States certainly does not want to prolong needlessly the stationing of its troops anywhere abroad."

The Japanese government considered there probably will be friction between Japanese police and soldiers. And he said he recognized that "communists and other subversive groups will attempt deliberately to aggravate these difficulties."

Other Developments

As the hour of Japan's independence approached, there were these other developments:

Occupation authorities returned 250 Japanese owners more than 850 plants seized for possible reparations payments.

U.N. Command Is Reported Planning New and Possibly Bold Move to Break Stalemate

Munsan, Korea, April 26 (AP) — The United Nations command today was reported planning a new and possibly bold move to break the Korean truce talk stalemate as the communists agreed to a full-dress meeting of armistice delegations Monday.

There was no indication what the allies will propose when the five-man delegations of admiral and general meet at 11 a.m. Sunday (9 p.m. EST Saturday). It will be the first plenary session since Feb. 19.

The U. N. called for the session Friday after the reds broke off secret talks on how to exchange prisoners of war.

The communists said today they would attend the full-dress meeting. It asked a meeting of the command wanted to discuss. They were told the subject would be the "armistice agreement."

The top officials will face three major stumbling blocks to a Korean truce: (1) The reds' demand for a ban on airfield construction during an armistice and (2) communist nomination of Russia as a neutral inspector.

The communists went to the plenary session 30 minutes before their scheduled time, with no plans for supervising a truce held a brief and fruitless meeting.

They made no headway during the six-minute session toward breaking the stalemate and avoiding deadlocks.

Prisoner-exchange talks were recessed indefinitely Friday after the Allies said fewer than 70,000 of about 132,000 prisoners of war and civilian internees want to return to communist-held territory.

The communists apparently refused to believe the some 96,000 said they would go home only if forced to do so.

The red Peiping radio declared Saturday "the demand of the Korean and Chinese prisoners to return home is unshakeable."

The broadcast charged that two recent riots on Koje Island were "massacres" designed to "stamp out the irrefutable principles of the Chinese and Korean prisoners to return home."

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 26 (CP)—Synopsis: Clear weather favors all of North America today except the coastal regions and northwestern Ontario. A band of rain stretches along the Atlantic seaboard from Florida right up to Cape Breton Island. By contrast, Ontario's region of poor weather is much smaller, extending in a narrow strip through the localities just south of Lake Superior.

The fine weather in Ontario is expected to continue Sunday with steadily rising temperatures.

'Mortar Mice' Used to Cheat Toronto Woman

Toronto, April 26 — (CP) — A fine of "mortar mice" and $85-a-gallon paint which cost a 65-year-old spinster $2,775 for one month was told in court yesterday.

Raymond Hibbert, 38, Hugh Gilmore, 39, and Jaffey Fleming, 39, are convicted of fraud and remanded until May 2 to permit them to make restitution.

Maud Binkley testified that the three represented themselves to her as contractors. She said Gilmore told her "mortar mice" had crept into the walls and chimney of her house.

Gilmore and Fleming began work in the basement. At one time Gilmore said he heard a mouse coming up the cold air register.

"He told everyone to stand back," said Miss Binkley. "Then he brought a mouse out of the register identified it as a 'mortar mouse' — I still don't know if it was a live or rubber mouse."

For a special chemical paint "which repels mortar mice" Miss Binkley paid $85 a gallon.

New Sub That Can Go Faster Under Water Than On Surface Unveiled

Washington, April 26 (AP) —Instead of horizontally, makes it possible to house the power plant in substantially less space than in other submarines.

Although she has a superstructure like the Guppy class and the latest submarines, the conning tower no longer exists as a tower.

Instead, there is a hatch to scramble up a ladder to reach the bridge, which is flush with the deck faces, and leap down when it is ready to dive.

The enlarged and submerged command post, including the periscopes, is located on the main deck. Hard by that nerve centre are diving controls, all in a compact area.

Besides, all this means the Trigger can execute a diving manoeuvre in considerably less time and a little faster than other submersibles.

The Trigger displaces 1,600 tons, shorter than the approximate 200 feet of other fleet submarines, the Trigger displaces 1,600 tons, about the same as the others, accountable in part to greater width. She also carried about the same complement of men and officers.

Better and roomier crew accommodations are provided. The men have individual sheeted sft. have bunks, fitted with new sponge rubber mattresses, for 32 men.

Family Refuses To Have Daughter Given Blood

Odessa, Tex., April 26 (AP) — A young woman died near death here today while her father and brothers stood at her hospital room door to prevent anyone giving her a blood transfusion which doctors say she needs.

Grace Marie Olliff, 20, oil company stenographer, was critically injured in a two-car collision Sunday night. She has been unconscious since.

Olliff's father, William Olliff, 55-year-old veteran of World War I infantry camp, and her two brothers, John 27 and Ben 23, said they have refused to let anyone else to give the woman a blood transfusion principally "because it would be a violation of the scriptures of the Bible to tamper with blood."

25 Boards Talk Single Pay Scale For Teachers

Toronto, April 26 (CP)—Representatives of 25 school boards in the Toronto District last night decided against the principle of setting up a single salary scale for teachers in the whole area.

The Provincial District Council School Trustees' Association appointed a committee to look into the idea.

Agreement on a common schedule would mean that each board would negotiate with a group representing all the boards and the schedule arrived at would operate in the whole area.

Mrs. Donald Male of Toronto told that as long as salary differences exist, teachers will be inclined to go to the area they are paid most, resulting in overstaffing in some districts between various boards.

PERSONAL GIFT MADE

Sioux City, April 26—(AP)—A "personal gift of love" from the Dutch people through Queen Juliana was presented to victims of the Missouri Valley flood here yesterday by Dr. J. B. V. M. Van de Mortel, Consul-General of the Netherlands. The gift consisted of 282 canned hams, 264 tins of beef, 264 cans and chocolate, 2,800 candy bars and 880 boxes of cocoa, all products of the Netherlands.

Eight Allied Planes Knocked Down in Week

Seoul, April 26—(AP)—Communist ground-fire knocked down eight Allied planes during the week ended today, the most far east air forces said today.

That number included the toll of red MIG-15 jets shot down in air combat by United States Air Force fighters during the same period. One Sabre jet was lost in the dog-fighting.

In its weekly summary the Korea-based air force said Allied planes failed to return for unknown causes. One downed plane was an Australian. The rest were American.

The red toll was put at eight MIG-15s destroyed, two probably destroyed and eight damaged.

U. N. planes also destroyed one MIG-15 and damaged five, and damaged two Yaks in strafing attacks on each other's airfields in North Korea.

Both types are Russian built.

The U. S. Eighth Army, in its weekly accounting, said it had inflicted 1,832 casualties on red ground troops last week. That figure, lowest in recent weeks, included 679 killed, 912 wounded and 241 missing in action.

In Washington the army said red casualties for the Korean war totalled 1,069,969 April 18. That was an increase of 19,513 in the week. Reports of aerial clashes were reported along the 155-mile battle front today. Fighting was heavy west-northwest of Yonchon where Communist infantrymen have been flighting spasmodically for several days.

Allied air and marine planes attacked red front lines all across the front.

B-29 Superforts dropped 10 tons of bombs on a rail bridge between Huichon and Kunu Friday night. B-26 light bombers attacked Yonan and Haeju and claimed 46 trucks destroyed.

Humane Society Finds Use For Old Fire Plugs

Toronto, April 26 (CP) — Where do old fire plugs go? Why, to the Humane Society, of course.

Here's where they're going in Toronto. The Humane Society here has taken over the city's used fire hydrants and installed them — minus any water connections — in its all-door dog kennels.

An official said the plugs are designed to calm canine nerves which may be upset by the unfamiliar journey to the kennels.

Queen Juliana Rests in Ottawa After Visiting Dutch-Canadians

Ottawa, April 26 (CP) —Queen Juliana of The Netherlands today rested at the home of Canadian friends after a strenuous, two-day visit to Dutch immigrants in Ontario.

The names of hey host and hostess in suburban Rockcliffe were kept secret.

No activities were planned for the Queen today. She may pay visits in the Ottawa area to some of the friends made during the Queen's wartime stay in Canada. A shopping trip also may be undertaken.

Sunday, Prince Bernhard, her husband, will fly here from New York to rejoin his wife. He recently remained after a three-week tour of the United States with the Queen.

The royal party will leave by plane for The Netherlands shortly afterwards. Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Governor-General of Canada and the Queen's host for the first three days of her stay here, will bid them goodbye at nearby Uplands airport.

The Queen gave an interview here last night after completing the tour of Dutch settlements. She said the Dutch must be prepared to be "good neighbors" in building a new life in Canada.

Must Have Backbone

"Immigration is decidedly not for people who have no backbone. Please don't consider this as meant for discouragement, but I want only to emigrate,"

She spoke with pride through the initial problems—and that is what each of the immigrants to whom I spoke told me—there is certainly a future for the Dutch in Canada."

Housing conditions were one thing the Queen could not help with, finding living temporarily in summer cottages on the eastern outskirts of Ottawa.

"The housing conditions as I found them often were sad ideal, but this is part of the initial pioneering stages," the Queen said later.

She said Dutch farm hands were "lucky people" to live on the farm of H. C. Jefferies on the edge of Rockcliffe, Ont., where she stopped Thursday. Their working conditions were excellent.

SOFTBALL EXECUTIVE TO HOLD MEETING

Due to a number of important matters coming to the attention of the president of City and District softball Association there will be a meeting of the executive and club representatives at the City Hall on Tuesday night. It is the wish of the president, Don Lee, that all members make it a point to be on hand as the starting of the season is not far distant.

It has been stated that the juniors would practice on Sunday at the Avenue Field but such is not the case. Ald. Don McNevin, who is sponsoring the junior club this year with Bill Spafford as coach, will not allow his team to practice on the Sabbath at anytime and the workout will be held on Monday evening at the same field as previously announced. A smart aggregation is being collected by Coach Spafford and the team hopes to make a fine showing in the Junior "A" playdowns in the Province.

It Pays to Look Before Opening Left Car Door

It always pays to look behind before you open the left hand car door—especially if the car is parked along a busy thoroughfare.

That is what the salesman for a local motor sales firm discovered yesterday when his neglect amounted to damage totalling about $250 to two vehicles.

Arnold Martin, 20 Cedar St., was driving a demonstrator car on Pinnacle Street and was opening the left door when a passing car driven by Rene Beaupre, Trenton, caught the opening door as it passed. No one was injured.

Friendly Curling Match Played With Kingston

Before a large gallery at the Memorial Arena on Friday night a friendly curling match between five rinks from Kingston and the Quinte Curling Club was staged and curling again became a major sport in this city.

Through the efforts of a number of enthusiasts the holding of this popular pastime curling has been instituted at the Arena for the past ten days and last night was the culmination of their endeavors. The Kingston club has been especially kind to this newformed club in the city and the games last night were reminders of the many hot battles these two cities have engaged in in years gone by. The score was 34-34 but it mattered little. Everyone was there to have a good time and had it.

Kingston sent up their best rinks and the Belleville curlers were not disgraced in their showing. The Belleville rinks have been curling steadily all winter, while the local broom wielders are just getting into their stride. At the conclusion of the matches, although the process seemed slow at the end of five ends for intermission, party gathered in the west canteen to enjoy a social half hour.

There old days were talked over and everyone spoke of the fine entertainment provided by the local club for the enjoyment of the visitors. William C. Gault, president of the club, welcomed the visitors, while H. Edgar, Incoming president, briefly referred to the curling events to be held here.

Mayor Greene also spoke and congratulated the Quinte Club for the action taken in trying to revive curling in Belleville. Other speakers were Claude D. Tice, Secretary Don McMahon, J. A. McFee, Warden Allan, of Kingston, and Harold Pearn, who told of the early days of curling in this province.

Yugoslavia-First Impressions

(Article 66)

Did you ever visit a country of whose language you understood not one word? If so, you'll understand exactly the position in which I found myself when I crossed the border from Austria into Yugoslavia. It all happened so fast that I hardly had time to become accustomed to it. At one station they spoke German, at the next they didn't. However, it was not as bad as one might imagine, for quite a few people in the north of the country either spoke or understood German. Along the coast Italian comes in handy and it was only in the central and southern parts of the country that I experienced any real difficulties.

It was actually quite easy to know whether a person spoke any other language or not. If he didn't, a puzzled smile would come over his face when I addressed him. If he did, he would immediately address me in the language he could speak so that in this way I found out everything I wanted sooner or later.

Had Difficulty

Sometimes it was later. When I first arrived I wanted to use the washroom but for the life of me I couldn't make anybody understand me that I would know which of the two doors to use. I tried pantomime, pointing first to the two doors, then to myself, trying to look as puzzled as possible, but no one seemed to quite understand. The situation got quite desperate, but just when my patience was almost exhausted a man came along who entered the one door, so I followed in time in following him.

I think the Yugoslavs are the most curious people in the world. They want to know everything there is to know about a person. Just so there would be no misunderstanding as to where I came from I wore a small Canada badge on my coat which helped immensely. Every time I made a trip in the train someone would invariably address me. I would reply that I didn't understand and show the small badge. What a sensation that created! Of course he would tell the whole coach that here was a Canadian and in a minute or two every eye would be fixed on me. I had to get used to it. There was nothing else I could do. A rather heated discussion would usually follow in which I could hear the words "kanadeesh" and "inglesh" often repeated. There would usually be some one in the coach who could speak one of the languages I could, so that we would get into a discussion and he would repeat all my answers for the benefit of the others.

At the next time I had been prepared to do a bit of propaganda. I had several books on Canada with numerous pictures in them. These I passed around in the train. Of course everybody's curiosity got the best of him and soon never to make the mistake of refusing. It just isn't done. In Yugoslavia Belgrade is styled as the university dormitory and the students, just as curious as the rest, outdid themselves in making me feel at home. As soon as I was in Belgrade I found out where I was from, he said "Kanada, aah, wunderbar," and from then on I ate better than the rest of the students. He just wouldn't take no for an answer.

In Yugoslavia there are more traffic policemen and less traffic than in any place I know. The cars are certainly conspicuous by their absence. Every once in a while a car will approach an intersection. The policeman will come to life and go through a series of motions to signal to the driver what he is to do and then calmly lapse into a trance until the next car makes its approach. In Belgrade the rule is that the driver thinks once if he wishes to go straight ahead, twice if he is going to turn to the right and three times if to the left. As a result the air is filled with the continual honking of horns.

You would think that with so little traffic the people would take to walking in the streets. Well, that is exactly what they do. Especially in the smaller cities. Between six and eight in the evening everyone seems to go for a walk along certain streets which have been set aside for this purpose and so the whole street is swarming with people who are walking arm in arm, up and down.

Real Peasant Type

If you ever want to see the real peasant type just as you have seen them in numerous pictures, just come here for 80 per cent of the total population comes from the country and dresses exactly as in the pictures. Old men with old, patched clothes, the women with kerchiefs, bare feet and long skirts. You have also heard that they consume large quantities of garlic. I can assure you now that this is very, very true. Quite a few times I happened to be side me on the train and let me say gaulic, that of those fumes right in the face. I did the only thing possible, I too, bought some garlic, took it with me on the train, and the next time a peasant with garlic breath sat beside me, I ate a good portion of it right in his face, apparently let him have both barrels. I certainly held my own that way.

My chief reason for coming here, of course, was to study the system of communism being put into effect by Marshal Tito and his government. Certainly no one knows more about me in any way and were very glad to answer the questions I wanted. I asked, for I, too, had become very curious during my stay here. I visited homes, factories, farms and took every bit of literature I could get my hands on. I feel the results I got were so interesting that I shall devote several articles to discussing communism. Certainly it is important to know what we are combatting so as to know just how to go about it.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

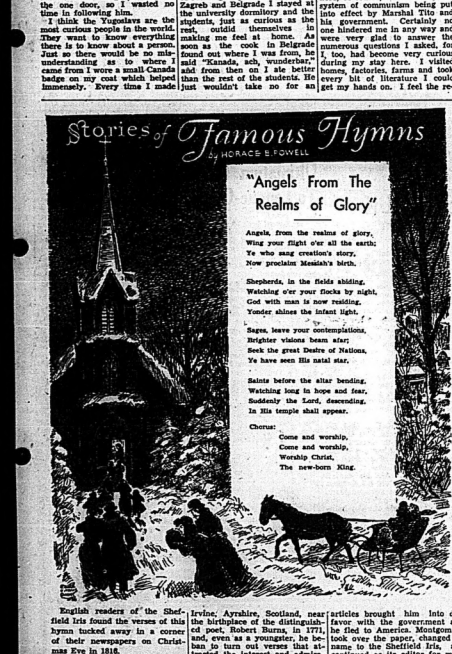
HIDDEN GOLD

No warbler is a more common Canadian summer resident than the yellow warbler, found across Dominion from south to tree line. Yet, unless you are smart enough to be on the watch before the leaves grow large, it will be a case of hidden gold, as far as you are concerned. Rarely is one seen before it is heard, but their little voices come from many of the trees that line the streets of our cities, towns, and villages. Beyond cultivation, they frequent willows and alders along streams and ponds; in the far north and the western grasslands they make their homes in any little woody plants that they are able to find.

Despite the fact that these warblers have come all the way from the tropics, their spring date of arrival here is wonderfully constant. It is in the time for us to be on the alert. Because they are several types of the yellow warbler's song, the novice may find considerable thinking that more than one species is present. And so it is necessary to learn the characteristic, high-pitched, yellow warbler voice rather than its exact notes. The song is composed of a series of sweet, clear "cheerwee's," with thoroughly familiar with the yellow warbler's may make quite a bit difficult to get to know the songs of its many relatives.

With a good view, it is possible to tell the sexes apart. He has many little reddish flecks on his breast; she has none, or merely a few. They are just five inches long, and, though no relation to canaries and with much daintier bills, their general appearance is such that many people know them as "wild canaries."

According to scientists, birds have no intelligence; but certainly the yellow warbler has "something that makes superior. Cowbirds are notorious for depositing their eggs in the nests of other birds, thus shifting the responsibility of bringing up their children. Most foster parents take on the duties as a matter of course, even though it is, almost invariably, at the expense of their own families; but yellow warblers are seldom imposed on. They nearly always manage to wriggle out of the situation. A favorite way is to build a new nest directly on top of the old home, completely covering all eggs. Then the mother bird lays another batch, hoping for no future interference.



Glass in Ship Bottoms Aids Special Studies

London — (CP) — Glass-panelled compartments are being fitted into the hulls of a number of British warships to aid naval scientists with their under - water investigations.

The experiment, involving continuous observations and specialized camera work, is primarily concentrated on the effects of water flowing past a ship's hull. Research workers are hopeful their studies will lead to changes in propeller designs and greater driving thrust.

The first ship to be fitted for this special work is the 1,500-ton frigate Helmsdale. Two glass panels were fitted in the frigate's hull over one of the propellers. A team from the Royal Naval scientific service then took turns crouching in the small compartment, observing and photographing the action of the propeller as the ship engaged in exercises.

Through the observation pane's the scientists are also studying the effects of aeration, the action of sea water on various elements of metal and other ocean phenomena. Divers are periodically lowered below the hull to clean the panels.

English readers of the Sheffield hymn the verse of this hymn tucked away in a corner of their newspapers on Christmas Eve in 1816.

James Montgomery, editor of the paper, was also the author of the poem which, in that first appearance, bore the title "The Nativity." It was years later that the poem became a hymn but once it was so used its popularity became tremendous. Even in this twentieth century it is a favorite Christmas hymn in the churches of the world.

In the roster of famous hymnists are many men and women whose fame rests on a very few songs, sometimes on a single great hymn. But Montgomery wrote nearly 400 hymn-poems during his lifetime and it is for these, rather than for his secular writings, that he is remembered today. He was born at Irvine, Ayrshire, Scotland, near the birthplace of the distinguished poet, Robert Burns, in 1771, and, even as a youngster, he began to turn out verses that attracted the interest and admiration of his family and friends.

His father was a Moravian minister and it had been decided that James, too, should devote his life to the church. But when his parents went to the West Indies as missionaries and died soon after arriving there, the lad who was to give the world such glorious hymns as "Forth to the Soul's Sincere Desire," "Hail To The Lord's Anointed," "Jerusalem, My Happy Home," "For ever With The Lord," and "In The Hour Of Trial," he had to give up his schooling. For a while he clerked in a store and later, he became associated with Robert Gales, then serving as editor of the Sheffield Register. Some of Gales' newspaper articles brought him into disfavor with the government and he fled to America. Montgomery took over the paper, changed its name to the Sheffield Iris, and continued as its editor for more than 30 years.

In his hymn on prayer, generally considered his best, Montgomery wrote:

"Prayer is the Christian's vital breath,
The Christian's native air,
His watchword at the gates of death:
He enters Heaven with prayer."

And when the beloved poet himself slipped away to Heaven one April night in 1854, he was just that way. He fell asleep after finishing his customary prayers, and awakened on the other side.

BIG OPERATORS

Some references were made in these columns a short time ago to the du Pont family of Delaware. The du Ponts were described as probably the world's richest family. In addition to being by far the world's largest makers of explosives, the du Ponts either own outright or control numerous allied industries.

The annual meeting of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company incorporated was held the other day at Wilmington, Delaware. At that meeting, it was disclosed that du Pont de Nemours had, during the first quarter of the current year, sold goods valued at $383,000,000. Also, the firm spent $135,000,000 on new plant and equipment during last year, and purposes spending about the same amount this year. Earnings before taxes were up, but profits after taxes were down.

The foregoing figures suggest something of the size of the holdings of the chief du Pont company and the scope of the family's operations.

It has been the du Ponts and other industrialists like them that have made the United States the richest and most powerful country in the world, and given the American working man the highest standard of living, not only in the world, but in the world's history.

Canada could do with a few dozen, or a few hundred, families like the du Ponts.

A CONTINUING CAMPAIGN

At one time this country exported a very considerable amount of its harvested forest resources in the form of raw wood to be processed abroad into pulp and paper products. As long as we had limitless forests of our own, the practice of exporting pulp logs into finished or semi-finished products, such exports were good business.

Although that day is long past a few people remain who believe in taking an immediate profit from our forests despite the long term gain in conserving forestland to supply our own pulp and paper mills. The campaign to keep Crown forestlands for our own use apparently must be continued. The federal government's figures of 1951 exports show that $68,000,000 worth of raw logs were taken out of the country that year. This is twice the value of such exports in 1950, and more than for some years. Fortunately not all of this exported raw wood was taken off Crown lands, or the situation would be scandalous.

But it must be reiterated that Crown lands are public property, and the public gains more by retaining our forests for our own use even if the trees that are being cut and shipped to the U.S. as pulp logs today may not be needed by Canadian mills this year or next. We will need them; and in the near future. . .

THEY'RE ACTIVE, ENERGETIC PEOPLE

They are lively, colorful and entertaining folk whom the government's immigration department maintains at Ajax Labor Hostel. Last Saturday night, Joseph Zoldi, described as a 28-year-old displaced person," leaped to his feet in the presence of a large number of persons at the Hungarian Hall in Oshawa, and, according to the Oshawa Times-Gazette, shouted: "I'm not afraid of myself." Mr. Zoldi then produced a knife and drove it into his chest, also according to the Oshawa Times-Gazette. This demonstration was staged at midnight, perhaps for dramatic effect. In the evening, at the same establishment, a German displaced person named William Muller was severely injured when struck on the head by a beer bottle. Both Mr. Zoldi and Mr. Muller were taken to the Oshawa hospital.

We are not going to make any comment on these two Oshawa occurrences, because we believe they speak for themselves; we might even go so far as to say that they shout for themselves.

THEY BOTH DISLIKE HIM

At a big Liberal rally in Montreal the other day, held in anticipation of the approaching provincial election in Quebec, one of the speakers, Jean Marie Nadeau, charged that the Duplessis government was "releasing tons of Fascist-type propaganda." Mr. Nadeau also said the Duplessis-led National Union government "has established a virtual dictatorship in Quebec."

Not long ago, the Communists of Canada had some sort of convention at which, unless our memory is at fault, they branded Hon. Maurice Duplessis their "No. 1 enemy in Canada." They also accused him of heading a "dictatorial, fascist-type government."

Is this another example of some minds thinking alike? Or does it merely mean that the Liberals dislike Mr. Duplessis because he defeats them so severely, while the Communists dislike him because he padlocks them?

HEAVEN AND HELL

C. S. Lewis in one of his books begins his chapter on "Hell" with a verse from the writings of de la Mare. The heading of the poem is "Napoleon."

"What is the world, O soldiers?
It is I.
I, this incessant snow,
This northern night.
Soldiers, this solitude
Through which we go
Is I."

Hell is the result of a chronic attitude of one's self. Everything in the Bible indicates that both heaven and hell begin on earth and are only consummated in the world to come. Millions of people live "in the whole" of earthly lives in hell—the hell of a selfish fixation upon their own interests and desires, with no regard for the interests and desires of others.

The Christian gospel meets the idea of hell with the offer of heaven. For heaven is precisely the opposite of hell. Hell means chronic self-centredness with zero interests; heaven means the outflow of life into the lives of others and the upreach of life to God. Heaven begins on earth just as hell does. Only those will reach heaven who have entered into the heavenly existence long before they die.

NEVER SAY DIE

Yet another magazine is devoting some of its pages to the true confessions of an ex-Communist, ex-writer who runs short of ideas and money needs merely look up Ex-Chesterfields or Ex-Ivory Chips, write a righteous piece about how dandy he feels and wait for his cheque.

This looks like easy dough to your correspondent, a chain smoker of some renown, and explains why I am preparing articles based on a long and losing career with the cigarette. I am going to title it: "How I Conquered the Giving-up-Cigarettes Habit."

I'll be a victim of the Giving-Up Cigarettes Habit for nigh on 20 years and I'll be a Confirmed Giving up cigarettes—on an average of twice a month. Every time my will power for ever, cut me off from my friends and loved ones as a result of my habit I just generally revealed the beast in me.

* * *

Not only that, but I have dragged several friends other poor souls with me in these excursions. Each time I quit smoking I've leaped to my typewriter to tell anyone who will listen that I feel much better, that the weed is the chaser of all evil, and that I am a man to be envied and not one who refuses to be dominated by "a puny little habit." Then I weaken and say to it," as one such writer puts it.

"Oh! Shame!—this always encourages a few citizens to go on the wagon with you, and perhaps may still be suffering the tortures of the cigarette-less by long after I have crawled back into the lady's arms.

Famous writers I rarely rush into print with the news that I am back puffing myself to death.

* * *

I conquered the Giving-Up-Cigarettes Habit for good by the stirring analysis of what the habit was doing to me.

Why was it, I asked myself, that as soon as I announced that I was quitting cigarettes, "forever" my wife started packing her bags to go home to mama, the children ran whimpering to their rooms and even the dog would sneak off to the woodshed? Why, indeed?

Well, it might have been because the moment I abandon the golden leaf something starts gnawing at my vitals, spending a cruel replaces my glorious smile. I begin lopping off the heads of per word.

dalsies with my cane, bark at old ladies who cross my path and just generally behave in disgusting fashion.

I would give up cigarettes periodically for a number of reasons. For health reasons, to make one, But did I ever feel healthier! Oh, I kept saying I did, of course. But all I ever felt really was different and pretty dizzy in the morning.

Or I would give up the Lady for economy reasons, having figured up my staggering day-to-day investment in Imperial Tobacco. I never seemed to save anything during my abstinence. This was because I have to replace cigarettes with chocolates and various costly distractions to keep my mind from cracking under the strain.

I suppose I slept better because, as I found out, the pronouncements of experts, specialists and authorities on such a question as this.

Having acknowledged that the hypothetical "cold" had been identified, the Common Cold Foundation winks the off eye and tells some of the interesting research being done by an answered and—

1. Is it caused by a virus? Researchers disagree on this theory. (Doctors, too.)
2. Does sudden chilling make normal individuals susceptible?
3. Why do outbreaks of colds follow sudden weather changes? (This reminds me of the orchestra leader who stopped the music, stepped forward and demanded "Who called the piccolo player a nut!" A chuckle from the audience replied "Who called the nut a piccolo player?"

The Common Cold Foundation purposes to pursue studies in many parts of the world, including the Arctic and the tropics and to help other organizations do complete work already under way.

The announcement by the Foundation's plans conspicuously ignores the conclusion reached by the Medical Research Council after many years of study. Including the environmental unfavorable subjects, that exposure to cold, wet feet, dampness and drafts has nothing whatever to do with ailments which unleash-dis doctors and laymen call "colds."

Well, naturally! An exposition of that sort would look silly if

NO, NO, NOT AGAIN!

Each blessed winter now for years an examination has set on into the wild blue yonder in quest of the cause of "the common cold."

This winter it began to look as though we might be spared for once, but just as we came within sight of spring, the middle of March, the latest "War on the Common Cold" was started by the newly organized Common Cold Foundation.

The executive director of this expedition admits it is impossible even to identify any particular ailment or indisposition as a common cold.

That's what I contend—but, darn it, who am I to elevate an eyebrow at the pronouncements of experts, specialists and authorities on such a question as this?

the findings of a previous expedition were accepted as fair or reasonable.

Even though no one has identified "the common cold," the doctors have had a try at it. I, myself, what a "cold" is—and so you do.

Truman's Offhand Remark About Ultimatum to Stalin Leads To Tongue-Clicking In Some Quarters

Washington, April 25 (AP) — Pres. dent Truman's offhand assertion that he forced the Russians out of Iran by a personal ultimatum to Premier Stalin led to some unhappy tongue-clucking in high official circles today.

A press office "clarification" of Truman's extemporaneous statement at a press conference yesterday produced more confusion, not occasioned by this and other offhand remarks that have raised eyebrows around the world.

British newspapers splashed the Truman statement in banner headlines as "sensation at Truman talk," and "thunders by Mr. Truman."

In diplomatic language an "ultimatum" is regarded as a step just short of war. Roger Tubby, assistant presidential press secretary to President Truman and in charge of the department, told reporters afterward that Truman had used the word in a "non-technical, layman sense."

The note in question, he said was not one from the president to Stalin, but a note from the government to the Russian government on March 5, 1946, published the next day, stating U.S. opposition to Russia's continued occupation of Iran.

"As you probably recall," Tubby said, "the Russians withdrew their troops from Iran in May, 1946."

Truman cited the Iran matter in outlining some of the actions of other presidents have taken to meet national emergencies, in the course of which the seizure of the steel industry to prevent a strike.

Not First Time

It wasn't the first time the White House press office had been moved to clarify presidential remarks.

Newspaper men recalled the firing of Harry Hopkins as secretary of commerce on Sept. 20, 1946, following his speech attacking "the man-in-the-Kremlin-Russia" policy.

Truman told reporters he had approved Wallace's attacking the speech. Six days later the president fired Wallace.

Truman's Nov. 30, 1950, press conference remarks on use of the atomic bomb created world-wide concern.

Then he said the U.S. would fight on in Korea with every means at its disposal—including the atomic bomb, if necessary.

The White House explained later that use of the atom bomb had not been authorized and that Truman's comment did "not represent any change in the situation."

Prisoners Write Their Own Terms

Governor Mennen Williams has agreed to the terms offered by the 172 rebellious convicts of the state prison at Jackson, Mich. Terms included no reprisal against the leaders of the riot which forced "steak dinner" when the penitentiary mess hall was closed down and barricaded. This scene shows the prison jailor shop wrecked by the rioting convicts who did $1,000,000 damage to the prison. — Central Press Canadian.

Shalom From Israel

By Leo H. Marcus

PASSOVER AT EIN TSURIM
(Article 2)

Ein Tsurim, Israel — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — At the outset of this article I would like to quote a statement made by David Ben Gurion, now prime minister of Israel, while addressing the Anglo-American Commission for Palestine in 1946. The Anglo-American Commission was set up for the purpose of establishing a Jewish state in Palestine.

"Three hundred years ago a ship called the Mayflower sailed to the New World. This was a great event in English and American history. But I am anxious to know if there is one English man who knows exactly when this ship sailed and how many Americans know this, or even know how many were on the ship and what sort of bread they ate at their departure?

"Over 3,000 years before the Mayflower's voyage, the Jews left Egypt and every Jew the world over, even in America and Soviet Russia, knows exactly on what day they left — on the 15th of Nissan and everyone of them knows exactly what sort of bread the Jews ate — matza; and to this day, Jews throughout the world eat matza on the 15th of Nissan in America, in Russia and other countries.

They relate the departure from Egypt and the troubles that have overtaken the Jewish people from the day they went into exile. They end this recital with two sentences: "Now we are here, next year in Jerusalem, in Zion, in the Land of Israel." "Now we are slaves, next year we shall be free."

Such is the nature of the Jewish people.

Spring comes early in Israel and with spring comes the holiday of the Passover which in Hebrew is called Pesach." This is the time when world Jewry recalls the exodus from Egypt, the wandering of the Israelites in the desert of Sinai, the giving of the law to Moses, the crossing of the Red Sea, and the tribes of Israel did not have time for the bread they baked which they called matza, to rise.

Each year on the 15th of Nissan, a month in the Jewish calendar, the Jewish people begin to celebrate the festival of the Passover. During this week they eat unleavened bread and on the first evening of the Passover a special banquet called the "seder" is held and on that evening the story of the exodus from Egypt is read. This Passover I attended the seder held at the settlement of Ein Tsurim — (the well of the rock). At this seder they stood up to read the story which was held at Ein Tsurim during Passover 1948.

In this I will try to compare the seder of 1948 with the one which I was able to attend this year.

Gush Etzion — To the south of Bethlehem four settlements were located. The settlements were known as Gush Etzion — The Etzion Block and Ein Tsurim, then only one and a half years old was one of the four. The area around the Etzion Block was one of the most heavily Arab-populated sections of the country and about 100,000 Arabs lived there.

Partition Decided

On November 29, 1946, the United Nations decided to partition Palestine into Jewish and Arab states. At once as the Arabs around Etzion heard of the decision they began to attack the four settlements of the district. Thus began a period of intermittent but desperate fighting during which time the 300 members of Gush Etzion made a heroic stand.

The Arab "irregulars" were under the leadership of an Arab militarist — Husseini, cousin to the former grand mufti of Jerusalem, who gave assistance to Hitler in World War II, and who even today is the chief trouble-maker in the Arab world. Etzion was cut off from Jerusalem in the north and supplies had to be parachuted to the four settlements.

After five months of fighting came the holiday of the Passover and with the first day of the holiday came the news that the port of Haifa had been captured by the Israel defence army. At Ein Tsurim there was still some glimmer of hope and on the first night of Passover, the festival of freedom, they held the traditional seder festival. The festival was not a joyous one because each member of the settlement knew that at any moment the Arabs might renew their attack. The seder ended with the prayer "Next year in liberated and re-built Jerusalem."

The last day of the Passover brought new and strengthened Arab attacks.

More Arabs Come

Early in May the armies of the Trans Jordan Arab Legion entered the struggle against the Etzion Block. The settlers had little ammunition to fight with and on the 14th of May, 1948, the day of Israel's declaration of Independence, the survivors of the mortal struggle were forced to surrender to the Arab Legion. Of the original 300 members of Gush Etzion, 134 had been killed and those that remained went into captivity for a period of nine months. Ein Tsurim was taken over by the Arab Legion and even today is held by the Trans Jordan.

Ein Tsurim — Two and a half years ago, the settlers of Ein Tsurim decided to build a new settlement. This settlement is located near the kibbutz of the Negeu and they again named it Ein Tsurim. The new settlement is being built rapidly and is becoming prosperous. On this Passover a seder was again held.

It was a joyous celebration, especially since it was held in the new dining hall which had just been opened on the first night of the Passover. At the seder they again recited the exodus from Egypt but they also spoke of another story, the story of the seder which they were present at in 1948 and the 154 defenders who fell at Gush Etzion. For them Passover was truly holiday of freedom, the enemy had been defeated, Israel was first in existence and once again they were able to lead free lives of the new Ein Tsurim.

Back for Third Term in Korea

"I'm a bear for punishment and how it love for sounds of battle," was the comment of Private Bert Clinton of Montreal, as he boarded ship recently for his third trip to Korea since the start of the Korean war. Private Initial's trip was as a member of the Royal Canadian Regiment with the advance party of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade in the fall of 1950. He returned to Fort Lewis, Wash., and sailed with the brigade last April. Serving in the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, he was detailed as a personal rifleman for Brigadier J. M. Rockingham, brigade commander, during the latter's Korean tour with the P.P.C.L.I. he signed with the Royal 22nd Regiment. A paratrooper during World War II, Clinton was born in Argentina of French and Spanish parents. — Central Press Canadian.

H-S. Association Holds 'Fathers' Night'

Marmora—Taking the form of "Fathers' Night" with male members discharging the duties of principal officers, Marmora Stone and School Association held its April meeting on Thursday evening in the public school.

Roy Frost, husband of the president, occupied the chair and the usual preliminaries were carried out. Leighton McGinnis, acting as recording secretary for the occasion, read the minutes of the March meeting, which were approved. J. Trombley was deputized to give the treasurer's report which showed a favorable balance on hand.

Mrs. M. Kourt as delegate to the 33rd annual convention held in Toronto last week, gave an interesting report of the sessions. James Sproul for the nominating committee, called for the yearly return of the nomination forms, which had been given to members. Guest Speaker

Donald Marett then introduced the guest speaker of the evening, C. J. Nelson of Tweed, who has taken over the duties of Inspector of Public Schools in the district, during the illness of Arthur Leggett. He was ably assisted by A. W. McGuire through illness.

In an impressive address the teacher touched upon the relationship between the children and that of home to school.

"Children," he said, "should not be subjected to pressure — the thing that parents would rebel against for themselves. They should accept their child as she or he is.

"Parents should not discuss the teacher in front of their children. Questions put to them by children should be answered carefully, and ultimately if the answer cannot be given right away. Otherwise the children will seek their answers elsewhere.

"Children should stand on their own feet and make their own decisions as far as they are able to. The children's life should not be meddled with too much. They need parental encouragement. If parents would help them with homework, they should first of all find out the way that homework should be done. They should urge their children to seek and put good books in their way."

He concluded by saying, "Protect your children from yourself till you can and we-ta-it that you do not become your children's worst enemies."

Thanks to the speaker was tendered by W. J. Cottrell.

The attendance of parents and grandparents was taken by principal E. C. Prentice, with Mrs. F. M. Rowland and Mrs. Bateman.

Canon J. M. Brownlie sang an old time ballad, "When You Come Home, Dear", with Mrs. R. Frost as accompanist.

After the meeting, closed the men served refreshments

Story of Twenty Years

By Mrs. John Sager Sr.

Years ago, even before this River Valley school house was built, Sunday services were held twice a month in the afternoon and Sunday school every Sunday, as this was one of the appointments of the Stirling Methodist Church.

Some of the early and faithful superintendents were, Ralph Bird, Thomas J. Smith, John Sager, Mr. W. Hessman, Mr. Manley Lidster, Mr. Edgar Bradshaw, Mr. Wylock and others. Miss Hester Rosebush who came to teach school in 1919, helped on Sunday with the Sunday School. A union S.S. was carried on successfully for a number of years.

Carmel asked for, and got, service every Sunday afternoon and the minister had week night preaching at River Valley. The attendance dwindled and during the pastorate of Rev. A. J. Terrill, the appointment was cancelled. For a number of years there were no religious services in the valley and the people attended their own churches in Stirling.

In the fall of 1931 a group of Stirling W.M.S. members held a meeting one evening in the school house to stimulate missionary interest. Mrs. Percy Thompson, Mrs. C. Macklin, Mrs. Walt. Miss Alice Hume, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Martin, Rev. and Mrs. Rowland were among them. They didn't ask for a W.M.S. but the program gave us food for thought.

Branch Started

A short time later, Jan., 1932, a meeting was held at Sagers and the River Valley Study Group, a branch of the Stirling WMS came into being. This was a product of Mrs. Ray Bush's brain and she was chosen the first president with Miss Dorothy Donohoe the first secretary with eleven members. Each member had an office. The collections for the first year amounted to $12.26.

At the second meeting held at Mrs. Hanna's in February, Rev. Rowland was the guest installation service and I remember him telling Mrs. Bush that her little boys would be proud that their mother was the first president.

Mrs. Lansing guided us through the first year giving up her own W.M.S. in Stirling to help us and gave several outstanding topics of interest.

Mrs. Lindenfield, a life Member of Stirling W.M.S., who moved to the Valley neighborhood, was president for four years, secretary for two years and vice president for 1 year; even though a member of Marsh Hill Church, she still helped us.

Meetings Held in Homes

The meetings were held in the homes except the open meetings held at Easter in the local church in the evening. Our Anglican neighbors were always welcome and helpful, even offering their homes for meetings. Rev. Brazil came to Mr. Bird's home and showed the slides when his machine didn't work on us.

Our programs at first were somewhat stereotyped, including prayers and hymns, a chapter of the Study Book (such as "Prayer" "Stewardship" "Fundamentals"). Mrs. Roy Bush took charge of the Bible study for a number of years. She also took up "The Life of Christ". Mrs. Lindenfield presented among other topics "Great Women of the Bible."

Later we studied Sunday School lessons from the quarterlies secured for us by Mrs. Alex Bush with each member taking her turn in preparing and teaching the lesson.

The members of our group have worked harmoniously together, each doing her part to the best of her ability. From the beginning the children have helped with songs and recitations and as they grew older prepared the whole program for meetings held in their vacations and now are either members or associate members.

Kindly Used

The Stirling W.M.S. has used us most kindly, inviting us to their homes or to the church parlors or parsonage, for one meeting a year and at which we furnished the program and they returned the visit and did the same. The ministers and their wives have attended many of the meetings and then we were sure of good prayers and good lectures.

Nearly all have subscribed to the Missionary Monthly and World Friends. We had one male subscriber.

The use of mite boxes was first suggested by Mrs. Kazz and first used in 1943 and since that time have added $155.01 to the treasury.

The flower fund was started in March 1945, and it is collected at each meeting to help defray expenses of cards and boxes for the sick, birthday cards and Christmas boxes for the older people and 93 years in the neighborhood.

The Baby Band started in 1951 with 13 members. Mrs. Ernest Carr appointed as band leader. Mite boxes were given out and $2.93 so far collected.

For 17 years the R.V.S.C. has been a dependent of Stirling W. M.S. with no allocation and in that time have contributed $626.35 to the work.

It was suggested that we should be able now to stand on our own feet and in 1949 we became R.V. W.M.A. and have given since to the worthy cause $180 and acted on Rev. A. E. Baker's advice to keep a balance on hand in case of a lean year, as it was in the beginning. We have become missionary minded but still have a lot to learn and to do.

"Christ has no hands but our hands.
To work for him each day;
He has no feet but our feet
To lead men in the way;
No tongue but our tongues
To tell how He died;
He has no help but our help
To bring men to His side."

Ontario School for The Deaf Presents Superb Phantasy 'Aladdin and His Lamp'

Those four magic words, "Once upon a time" seem to possess a magic spell that instantly captivated and held holding the undivided attention, as when first spoken by a mother a long ago in India by the Sultana Shahrzad, who first told the story of the wonderful magic lamp to her husband, the Sultan Shahriyar, for at last time, they saved her life. Last night at the Ontario School for the Deaf, the same eager expectancy was observed upon the faces of the adult audience as upon those of younger years in the unfolding of this well known tale, scene by scene, by the pupils of the school under direction Mr. R. Alec Dyer. Aladdin, the ladies' choir of Bridge Street United Church, dim. assisted by Margaret Burgoyne as soloist.

Story in Phantasy

The story, as arranged and written by Mr. Gordon, presented in Phantasy, was based on the tale laid in China instead of in India, but maintained its lovely oriental atmosphere both in its presentation and in the gorgeous and lovely costumes worn by the cast, which costumes, as stated, by the superintendent, Mr. W. T. Morrison, in his brief introductory remarks, had been made by the girls of the school under the supervision of Miss M. Ketcheson. Those not aware of this kindly fact were loosed.

The story which consisted of nine scenes, had to do with a poor widow and her only son, Aladdin, their struggle for existence; of Aladdin's meeting with a magician named Pekin, who poses as his wealthy uncle, but who, in reality, is an evil man seeking to use Aladdin for his own ends; that is, to secure the magic lamp which is hidden in cave beneath a huge rock. To do so, he presents Aladdin with a ring which, when rubbed will bring to his aid, Zynee, head slave of the ring, who with her assistant, aid Aladdin in getting the lamp which Aladdin decides to keep for himself. The evil magician becomes angry and closes the huge rock entrance to the cave, but Aladdin is released by the genie of the lamp. Wins the Princess

Aladdin becomes wealthy; his mother is well cared for, new furniture is bought, and Aladdin with his new found wealth with his poorer neighbors, aid in their relief. He rises in the Sultan's only daughter, Princess Prtit-Ming, who has just turned seventeen and falls in love with him and, Aladdin and his lovely princess live happily ever after with the good wishes of their friends, the Sultan and his court. May your house be always full of rice, and may your shadows never grow less.

All the scenes were exceptionally fine, especially the last garden scenes with the Sultan and the Sultana, his wife, in their splendid robes of oriental embroidery; the fan dance and the Chinese lantern dance which were daintily and lovely as the Princess Pekin and the Sultana. The final scene where the young people receive the blessing of the Sultana and Sultan touching.

There was also a little bit of humor inserted in one garden scene where the grand vizier has the Sultan and his wife entertained by pantomime, and by the strong man' who supposedly lifts a weight of 500 pounds and holds it aloft by one hand, lowering it with the same way; he then lifts his helper, a wee, little fellow, heroically by one hand, who later picks up the weight weighing the scurries off the stage, to the laughter of the audience and the smiles of the Sultan and his Sultana.

Slides showing the amount of hearing or lack of hearing possessed by the various members of the cast, were thrown on the wall, as well as the dialogues of the actors, in order that the scenes might be followed more closely, which was not completely necessary, as the acting was so well done, this might have been dispensed with.

The Cast

The cast is as follows: Aladdin, (a 16 year old boy), Robert Reid; Widow, Aladdin's mother, Ethel Garrett; Trikiman, (the wicked magician), David Elliott; Genadec, (Sultan of Iching-Mo), Charles Denomme; Sultana (Grandee's wife), Jean Laidlaw; Genie, (slave of the lamp), Peter Klym; Tyree (head slave of the ring), Marshall Wick; Ad-Viser (Grandee's adviser) Billy Hardkirk; Prtit-Thing, (Grandee's daughter), Mary Chong; Chang, (plaything of Aladdin) Harold Bradley; Kiddee (playmate of Aladdin), Robert Hill; Lin (playmate of Aladdin), Gordon Hanna; Wee (playmate of Aladdin) Gerald Hill; Lin (playmate of Aladdin), Gordon Hanna; Wee (playmate of Aladdin) Gerald Hill; Liffian McDermond; Mendi Shu — Secretary, Michael Martin; Windi (fan maker), Hollis Mackey; Slave, Lorrie Martin, Brian Meany, Bryon Parliament, Jackie Wales and Kenneth Yates.

Dancing girls: Peggy De La Fraenia, Claudetta Grasdie, Josephine Lazarevich, Jeanette Masel, Lillian Ormond; Ione Mull, Marianna Rodrigues; Joan Thrawl; trumpeters, Alan Ogden and Lewis Logan; governesses, Doreen Brown and Charles Hesselgrave; strong man, Billy Hemphill, his assistant, Eldon Clarke, Stage manager, Joe Williams; Mrs. Millicent Chandler, prefrenier, James Baskerville, Peter Dellow and Ian Williams.

Fine Overture

Preceding the play, an exceptionally find rendition of an overture by the Rhythm band was much enjoyed.

Much appreciation is tendered to Mr. R. Alec Dyer, to the ladies of Bridge Street choir; to the soloist, Mrs. W. Bonnell and to the fine cast, stage hands and those in charge of costumes, properties, hair styles, visual aids, and all who assisted in another fine production to go down in the annals of the Ontario School for the Deaf.

And so Aladdin and his magic lamp lives on, as all things do that are wrought by love.

Budding B.C.I. Artists Display Sketches at McCarthy Theatre

Judging from the interesting collectio nof water-color and oil sketches displayed in the lounge of the McCarthy theatre, art is to become a forgotten subject at the local Collegiate, and much encouragement is due to the undoubtedly new love of nature is finding expression in color and line.

Among those on view meriting special mention for their appreciation of coloring and subject matter was one of a woodland scene, which also attracts, the reflections of autumn tints in deep, dark water, while at the lower left corner, a blazing tree-let contrasted pleasingly with the dark foliage. There was a feeling of quiet restfulness and lasting appeal which drew one to it again and again.

Accurate Drawing

Another sketch, very lovely in its green, rich shades of red glimpsed through tangled boles of blended trees and grasses and pussies, showed a sense of balance and accurate drawing. A charming bit of color.

"Far Vistas"—for want of a better name, were seen through the gnarled and nearly topless branches of an apple tree, divided into two sections showing the distant hills in light tintinds, and drawing the eye to till near at hand the dark bluish green was most intense. The drawing was exquisitely and carefully done. An interesting and pleasing piece of work.

Other Sketches

Other sketches included "Birches," a nice piece of coloring; "Sunset on the Hills," "Lighthouse," on a distant peak, with the sea near by; "Log Cabin," showed ruggedness of conception, and detail, good perspective, and sense of color. A mountain tarn, unusual, done in greens, blues, was also attractive, as was "The Falls," which, though lacking in vibration, showed nature appreciation, and good coloring. The sketch showing a deep blue sea background, with rocks and jagged rocky mountains, showed strength, but somewhat weak on perspective.

Beside the color sketches, there were some fine pen and ink drawings, of animals and scenery, as well as wall plaques of fruit in color, and burnished plaques in brass.

In an alcove off the lounge, a few paintings of the city's artists were shown, including oils by Mary Mouck Phillips Faulkner, and Brian Heiser and water color by Charles B Bone.

Appreciative thanks are tendered Mr. W. T. Prowett, manager of the McCarthy theatre for the kindness in allotting space to Belleville's budding artists.
